It is further ordered, That the respondents herein, or any of them, their officers, representatives, agents and employees, acting separately or in concert, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale and distribution of "cordage products" in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from entering into or continuing in operation any contract, agreement, or understanding with customers which provides that "cordage products" are not to be advertised, offered for sale or sold by such customers at prices other than those specified or fixed by the respective respondents, acting separately or in concert.

It is further ordered, That nothing contained herein shall be construed to prohibit (a) any seller from independently entering into an agreement with a purchaser as to the price to be charged such purchaser, the terms or conditions of sale, trade discounts, weights, grades, standards or specifications for "cordage products," price differentials, and freight charges or allowances, independently determined and offered by either such seller or buyer and independently accepted by either such seller or buyer in any bona fide transaction, or (b) any prospective seller from making, or any prospective purchaser from receiving, an offer of sale in contemplation of a bona fide transaction between such prospective seller and prospective purchaser; provided that such agreement or offer of sale is not for the purpose nor has the effect of restraining trade.

It is further ordered, That nothing contained herein shall be construed to prohibit any of the respondents from entering into such contracts or agreements relating to the maintenance of resale prices as are permitted under the provisions of the Miller-Tydings Act.

It is further ordered, That nothing contained herein shall be construed to affect the duty, authority, or power of the Commission to reopen this proceeding, as provided for by law, and to alter, modify or set aside, in whole or in part, any provision of this order whenever, in the opinion of the Commission, conditions of fact or of law have so changed as to require such action or if the public interest shall so require.

By "Decision of the Commission and order to File Report of Compliance", Docket 5339, March 26, 1951, which announced and decreed fruition of said initial decision, report of compliance with the order was required as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Samson Cordage Works, Puritan Cordage Mills, Shuford Mills, Incorporated, Cleveland Mill & Power Company, Southern Mills Corporation, Rockford Manufacturing Company, Wm. E. Hooper & Sons Company of Baltimore City, Paul B. Halstead, and Bascom B. Blackwelder shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: March 26, 1951.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 6, Amendment 9]

CPR 6—FATS AND OILS

REDEFINITION OF "OIL-BEARING RAW MATERIALS AND ANIMAL WASTE FAT"

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 2 (16 F. R. 738) this Amendment 9 to Ceiling Price Regulation 6 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The purpose of this amendment is to clarify the term "oil-bearing raw materials and animal waste fat" as defined in section 16 (d) of CPR 6 and to correct a typographical error in CPR 6.

The new definition of the term "oil-bearing raw materials and animal waste fat" makes it clear that reference is made to all sales of those materials which are principally used in the rendering of inedible tallow and greases. The fact that these products may have other uses of secondary importance, or the fact that an individual seller may have sold the bulk or all of his supply of these products to users other than renderers is immaterial.

This clarification is particularly required with reference to "bones", cited in the previous definition as a specific example of one of these products. This term is now expanded to read "bones, other than packer steamed dry bones, prairie bones or dry imported bones." Such bones find their primary outlet in the rendering industry; packer steamed dry bones, prairie bones or dry imported bones, however, are not used in the rendering industry.

Finally, a typographical error in the previous definition is corrected to make it clear that the terms "clear, rough or mixed" modify the term "cooked grease."

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 16 (d) is amended to read as follows:

(d) The term "oil-bearing raw materials and waste animal fat" means those materials whose principal use is in the rendering of inedible tallow and greases. It includes, but is not limited to, butcher shop fats; suet and trimmings; breast fats or rattles; offal; bones, except packer steamed dry bones, prairie bones or dry imported bones; cooked grease, clear, rough or mixed; and interceptor or trap grease.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective June 16, 1951.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

Chapter VI—National Production Authority, Department of Commerce

[CMP Regulation 1, Direction 1]

CMP REG. 1—BASIC RULES OF THE CONTROLLED MATERIALS PLAN

DIR. 1—PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING MINIMUM QUANTITIES OF MATERIALS BY PRODUCERS OF CLASS B PRODUCTS

This direction under CMP Regulation No. 1 is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this direction, consultation with industry representatives has been rendered impracticable due to the need for immediate action and because the direction affects many different industries.

SECTION 1. What this direction does. This direction constitutes a determination by the National Production Authority that producers of certain class B products shall not be required to submit applications on Form CMP-4B if their total requirements of controlled materials do not exceed a certain maximum. It also establishes a procedure whereby such producers may place authorized controlled material orders for such materials without obtaining an allotment. Such producers shall be subject to all CMP regulations and orders.

SEC. 2. Persons affected by this direction. A producer of a class B product which is listed in the "Official CMP Class B Product List" and which is not identified by an asterisk is not required to submit an application on Form CMP-4B with respect to such product for any calendar quarter in which his total requirements of each kind of controlled material for the production of that product and all other products in the same product class do not exceed the amounts specified below:

Carbon steel (including wrought iron)	5 tons.
Alloy steel (except stainless steel)	½ ton.
Stainless steel	none.
Copper and copper-base alloy brass mill products, copper wire mill products, copper and copper-base alloy foundry products and powder	500 pounds.
Aluminum	500 pounds.

The term "product class" as used herein means a Product Class Code as shown in the "Official CMP Class B Product List."

SEC. 3. Use of allotment symbol to obtain controlled materials. Any producer of class B products who is not required to file a Form CMP-4B by reason of this direction is authorized to use the allotment symbol SU on delivery orders for controlled materials within the limits set forth in section 2 of this direction. An order so designated, when certified as provided in section 5 of this direction, shall constitute an authorized controlled material order. The quantity of such class B products which may be produced with controlled materials obtained with the use of the allotment symbol SU plus controlled materials properly contained in inventory shall constitute an authorized production schedule for the purpose of all CMP regulations.

SEC. 4. Use of rating to obtain production materials other than controlled materials. Any producer of class B products who is not required to file a Form CMP-4B by reason of this direction is authorized to use the rating DO-SU on delivery orders for production materials as defined in CMP Regulation No. 3 in accordance with the provisions of that regulation.

SEC. 5. Certification. Every delivery order placed under the provisions hereof shall contain, in the case of an order for controlled materials, the certification required by section 19 of CMP Regulation No. 1, or, in the case of an order for production materials other than controlled materials, the certification required by section 6 of CMP Regulation No. 3.

DIR. 2—ASSIGNMENT TO CONTROLLED MATERIALS PRODUCERS OF RATING AUTHORITY TO OBTAIN PRODUCTION MATERIALS OTHER THAN CONTROLLED MATERIALS

This direction under CMP Regulation No. 1 is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this direction, consultation with industry representatives has been rendered impracticable due to the need for immediate action and because the direction affects many different industries.

SECTION 1. Assignment of rating authority. Any producer of controlled materials who requires production materials as defined in section 21 of CMP Regulation No. 1 (other than controlled materials) for use in the production of controlled materials is hereby authorized to use the rating DO-PM to obtain such production materials for delivery after June 30, 1951. Such rating shall be used and the delivery order shall be certified as provided in CMP Regulation No. 3.

[NPA Order M-1, as Amended June 8, 1951]

M-1—IRON AND STEEL

This order, M-1, as amended, is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to authority granted by section 101 of the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the issuance of this order and certain amendments thereto, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. In the issuance of certain other amendments, consultation with industry representatives was rendered impracticable, due to the necessity for immediate action.

NPA Order M-1, as last amended May 18, 1951, is hereby amended in the following respects:

Paragraph (a) of section 17 of the order is hereby amended by deleting the requirement for a report from steel producers on Form NPAF-13 and substituting therefor the requirement for a report on Form NPAF-100. The order is further amended by changing certain of the product limitation percentages contained in part C of table I, by changing certain of the footnotes set out at the end of table I, and by adding the words "wheels and axles" to line 11 of table II under the heading Carbon and low-alloy steel, so that the identified line will read "Rails, wheels, and axles."

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 20 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61.

SECTION 1. What this order does. This order applies particularly to producers of iron and steel and provides rules for placing, accepting, and scheduling rated orders for iron and steel. Its purpose is to provide equitable distribution of rated orders among all iron and steel producers of the particular products in order to make possible maximum production and to reduce to a minimum disruption of normal distribution. It makes provision for required acceptance of rated orders based on a percentage of previous shipments, and provides for allotment and maximum inventories. It supplements NPA Regs. 1 and 2, but only those provisions of Regs. 1 and 2 which are inconsistent with this order are superseded, and all other provisions of those regulations continue to apply to the iron and steel industry.

SEC. 2. Forms of iron and steel products to which this order applies. The iron and steel products to which this order applies are set out in Table I at the end of this order. Table I also sets out the lead time (days) and product limitation for acceptance of rated orders. This order also applies to all second quality materials and shearings and material sorted or salvaged from steel scrap and sold for other than remelting purposes.

SEC. 3. Required shipment dates. A rated order for iron or steel in any of the forms listed in Part A of Table I must specify shipment on a particular date or in a particular month, which, in no case, may be earlier than required by the person placing the order. The producer of iron or steel must schedule the order for shipment within the requested month as close to the requested shipment date as is practicable considering the need for maximum production.

SEC. 4. Rejection of rated orders (lead time). A producer of iron or steel in a form listed in Part A of Table I need not accept a rated order which is received by him less than the number of days (lead time) set forth in Part B of Table I prior to the first day of the month in which shipment is requested, unless specifically directed to accept such order by the National Production Authority.

SEC. 5. Product limitation for acceptance of rated orders. Unless specifically directed by NPA, no iron or steel producer shall be required to accept rated orders for shipment from any one producing unit regardless of location in any one month in excess of the percentages set forth in Part C of Table I, of his average monthly shipments of the products listed in said part, as made by him during the period from January 1, 1950, through August 31, 1950. Where no percentage limitation is set forth as to any product, it is expected that the amount of such product to be called for by rated orders will be relatively small.

SEC. 6. Conditions for acceptance of rated orders. Unless otherwise specifically directed by the National Production Authority, and subject to the provisions of NPA Reg. 2, each iron or steel producer shall be required to accept rated orders calling for shipment in any one month from any one of his producing units regardless of location, of products listed in Part A of Table I up to the amount of the percentages listed in Part C of Table I of his average monthly shipments of such products from that producing unit during the period from January 1, 1950, to August 31, 1950. Where no percentage is listed in Part C, in regard to any iron or steel product, each iron or steel producer shall be required to accept all rated orders served upon him, subject to the provisions of NPA Reg. 2, unless otherwise specifically directed by the National Production Authority.

SEC. 7. Changes in lead time. (a) If an iron or steel producer would have an open space on his production schedule created by the difference between the lead time of forty-five days as established by this order as originally issued or as subsequently amended, and a longer lead time as established by section 4 of this order, he shall continue to accept rated orders to fill such open space on his production schedule, on the basis of a lead time of forty-five days, before he applies the newly established longer lead time. In filling such open space on his production schedule, as above referred to, an iron or steel producer shall be governed by the product limitation percentage appearing in Part C of Table I.

Example: Under the previously established lead time of 45 days, a steel producer would, up to December 17, 1950, accept DO rated orders for shipment in February 1951. Where a lead time has been increased to 120 days, he would, up to January 31, 1951, accept DO rated orders for shipment in June 1951. In the application of this example, the steel producer would continue to accept DO rated orders for shipment in March and April 1951, on a 45-day lead time until he had arrived in any one month at the product limitation percentage of that product as set forth in Part C, of Table I. Thereafter, he would conform to the new lead time of 120 days for shipment in the succeeding months.

(b) In the example in paragraph (a) of this section, if the product limitation percentage under Part C of Table I as to that particular iron or steel product has been increased from 5 percent to 10 percent, the iron or steel producer should accept DO rated orders up to the amount of the new product limitation percentage figure, commencing with shipments for the month of March 1951, and should continue at that new figure thereafter.

SEC. 8. Allotments for further conversion. A steel producer who buys from another steel producer a steel product listed under the heading "Steel Mill Products" in part A of Table I (herein called "steel mill products"), and by further processing converts, for resale, the purchased steel into another steel mill product is engaged in further conversion. For the purpose of this section, the steel producer who sells a steel mill product for further conversion shall be called a producer supplier and the steel producer engaged in further conversion shall be called a converter. Each producer supplier shall make a monthly allotment to each of his converter customers of his production of each steel mill product in accordance with provisions of this section. In order to determine such monthly allotment for each converter customer, each producer supplier shall determine the amount of each steel mill product which will be available for that particular month after making provision for production under DO rated orders and other orders which said steel producer is required to accept by specific direction by the NPA. The ratio of the tonnage thus remaining to the total average monthly shipments of each such product during the base period, from January 1, 1950, through September 30, 1950, shall be applied to the average monthly shipments of each such product to each converter customer during the base period. The result shall be the monthly allotment for each converter customer: Provided, however, That the monthly allotment of each carbon steel mill product (except carbon plates for line pipe) shall in no case be less than 90 percent of the average monthly tonnage of each carbon steel mill product shipped to each converter customer during the base period. Any such allotment of a carbon steel mill product shall include the tonnage to be shipped on all DO rated orders for that particular product received by the steel producer from such converter customer for shipment during the month for which the allotment had been made. A producer supplier must accept orders placed by his converter customer up to the limit of his allotment: Provided, however, That such orders are placed in accordance with the lead times in part B of table I. Shipments, except for carbon steel mill products for which a minimum tonnage is provided in this section, under such allotments shall be made in addition to shipments to the same converter cutomer pursuant to authorized extension of DO ratings. Orders placed under the provisions hereof must be for substantially the same product as was supplied to each such converter customer during such base period, except for minor variations in size and design. In determining the amount of the monthly allotments, adjustments may be made by a producer supplier, with the consent of the converter customer involved, to provide for any abnormal situations which affect any steel products. Converter customers in Canada shall be entitled to the benefits of this section, and producer suppliers in the United States shall make monthly allotments to Canadian converter customers in accordance with the provisions of this section.

SEC. 9. Extension of ratings for further conversion of steel products. All DO ratings extended for the purpose of further conversion of steel products shall have the symbol FC added to the two-digit designation following the prefix DO on the order.

SEC. 10. NPA assistance in placing rated orders. Any person who is unable to place a rated order for iron or steel due to the limitations imposed by sections 5 and 6 of this order should apply to the NPA, Iron and Steel Division, Ref.: M–1, specifying the producers who refused to accept the order. The NPA will arrange to assist him in locating other sources of supply.

SEC. 11. Scheduled programs. NPA will from time to time approve scheduled programs calling for the production and delivery of iron and steel products for stated purposes, over specified periods of time. Upon approval of major programs of this type, supplements to this order will be issued describing such programs and specifying the manner in which they are to be carried out by the iron and steel industry. Thereafter, directives will be issued to individual concerns establishing schedules for their participation in such programs. Such directives shall be complied with by the recipients in accordance with the terms thereof, unless otherwise directed by NPA.

SEC. 12. Minimum orders. The minimum orders that may be placed with DO ratings or under NPA directives are set out in Table II at the end of this order. The minimum quantity for each size and grade of any item for shipment at any time to any one destination is listed opposite the appropriate item. If all other requirements of this order have been met, orders for such minimum quantities shall be accepted.

SEC. 13. Inventories. In addition to the provisions of NPA Reg. 1, relating to inventory control, it is considered that a more exact requirement applying to users of iron or steel products is necessary. No person obtaining iron or steel products for use in manufacture, processing, or construction, may receive or accept delivery of a quantity of iron or steel products if his inventory is, or by such receipt would become, in excess of that necessary to meet his deliveries or supply his services on the basis of his scheduled method and rate of operation pursuant to this order during the succeeding 45-day period, for steel products, gray and malleable iron castings, and 30-day period for pig iron, or in excess of a practicable minimum working inventory (as defined in NPA Reg. 1), whichever is less. For the purpose of this section, iron and steel products listed in Table I in which only minor changes or alterations have been effected shall be included in inventory. NPA Reg. 1 will apply to iron and steel products except as modified by this section. Said 45-day limitation does not apply to persons who order structural steel for use in construction (including buildings, bridges and other structures of a like type) and who order it delivered cut to the specifications required for a specific project and who normally keep such steel segregated for the specific project. Instead, no such person may accept delivery of such steel more than 45 days before it is scheduled to be fabricated or, if it is not to be further fabricated, before it is scheduled to be assembled.

SEC. 14. Ferro-alloys. (a) As used in this section and in section 17 of this order, "ferro-alloys" means and includes, in such form or condition that the same may be used in the production of alloy iron, steel, or nonferrous products, the following elements and their compounds, and scrap containing usable quantities of any one or more of such elements or of any compound or compounds of any one or more of such elements: Boron, calcium, chromium, cobalt, columbium, manganese, molybdenum, nickel, silicon, tantalum, titanium, tungsten, vanadium, and zirconium.

(b) Every person shall comply with any direction or directions issued by NPA respecting the use, and restrictions and limitations on the use, of any ferro-alloy or alloys in the production of alloy iron, steel, or non-ferrous products.

(c) No person shall receive or accept delivery of any ferro-alloy to be used for alloying purposes at a time when his inventory thereof exceeds, or by acceptance of such delivery would be made to exceed, 45 days' requirements on the basis of his then scheduled method and rate of operation or a practicable minimum working inventory (as defined in NPA Reg. 1), whichever is less. The provisions of this paragraph shall be construed to supersede the inventory limitation provisions of NPA Orders M–10 (Cobalt), M–14 (Nickel), M–30 (Tungsten), M–33 (Molybdenum), and M–49 (Columbium and Tantalum), so far as the inventory limitation provisions of said orders apply to persons having in inventory any ferro-alloy to be used for alloying purposes.

SEC. 15. Applications for adjustment or exception. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that his business operation was commenced during or after the base period, or because any provision otherwise works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense or in the public interest. In considering requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of the public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing, shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 16. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M–1.

SEC. 17. Reports. (a) Persons subject to this order shall make such records and submit such reports to the NPA as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act of 1942 (5 U. S. C. 139–139F). In accordance with this section, all steel producers are required to report on "NPAF–100—Steel Producers' Monthly Production Directive Report"; and on "NPAF–17—Steel Producers' Monthly Report of Shipments and Past Due Orders," the record of the shipments and past due orders by DO ratings and programs made effective by NPA directives.

(b) Every person shall submit to NPA such reports as it shall require with respect to the receipt, consumption, shipment, and maintenance in inventory of any ferro-alloy as defined in section 14 (a) of this order: Provided, That no person shall be required to file, as to any ferro-alloy, any report in addition to such report with respect thereto as he files pursuant to any order of NPA establishing allocation or inventory control over the use of such ferro-alloy.

SEC. 18. Records. Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, and use in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

SEC. 19. Audit and inspection. All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of the NPA.

SEC. 20. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or any other order or regulation of NPA or who wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order as amended shall take effect on June 8, 1951.

Chapter XV—Federal Reserve System

[Regulation W, Interpretation 38]

REG. W—CONSUMER CREDIT

INT. 38—PRE-EFFECTIVE DATE "BALLOON" NOTES OR PAYMENTS

The Board has considered certain questions concerning instalment credits involving so-called "balloon" notes or payments that were written before September 18, 1950, the effective date of Regulation W. In a typical case of the kind, there would be 11 notes followed by a 12th "balloon" note which may be in an amount several times the amount of each of the preceding notes. It appears that in most cases, because of the special nature of such financing, it was necessarily anticipated that the "balloon" note or payment written before September 18, 1950, would be refinanced when due so that the future instalment payments of the obligor would be approximately in the same amounts as the earlier payments.

In the circumstances, the Board is of the view that it may be presumed that arrangements for such refinancing were made between the parties at the time of the original transaction, and that section 8 (h) of the regulation permits the carrying out of any such arrangement.

This interpretation supersedes the interpretation published in 15 F. R. 7756 (12 CFR, 222.117) on the same subject.

(Sec. 5, 40 Stat. 415, as amended, sec. 601, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; 50 U. S. C. App. 5. E. O. 8843, Aug. 9, 1941, 6 F. R. 4035; 3 CFR, 1941 Supp.)

(1) That part of the remuneration which, after remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection) equal to $3,600 with respect to employment has been paid to an individual by an employer during any calendar year, is paid to such individual by such employer during such calendar year. If an employer (hereinafter referred to as successor employer) during any calendar year acquires substantially all the property used in a trade or business of another employer (hereinafter referred to as a predecessor), or used in a separate unit of a trade or business of a predecessor, and immediately after the acquisition employs in his trade or business an individual who immediately prior to the acquisition was employed in the trade or business of such predecessor, then, for the purpose of determining whether the successor employer has paid remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection) with respect to employment equal to $3,600 to such individual during such calendar year, any remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection) with respect to employment paid (or considered under this paragraph as having been paid) to such individual by such predecessor during such calendar year and prior to such acquisition shall be considered as having been paid by such successor employer;

(2) The amount of any payment (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) made to, or on behalf of, an employee or any of his dependents under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provision for his employees generally (or for his employees generally and their dependents) or for a class or classes of his employees (or for a class or classes of his employees and their dependents), on account of (A) retirement, or (B) sickness or accident disability, or (C) medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability, or (D) death;

(4) Any payment on account of sickness or accident disability, or medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability, made by an employer to, or on behalf of, an employee after the expiration of six calendar months following the last calendar month in which the employee worked for such employer;

(5) Any payment made to, or on behalf of an employee or his beneficiary (A) from or to a trust exempt from tax under section 165 (a) at the time of such payment unless such payment is made to an employee of the trust as remuneration for services rendered as such employee and not as a beneficiary of the trust, or (B) under or to an annuity plan which, at the time of such payment, meets the requirements of section 165 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6);

(6) The payment by an employer (without deduction from the remuneration of the employee) (A) of the tax imposed upon an employee under section 1400, or (B) of any payment required from an employee under a State unemployment compensation law;

(B) Cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for domestic service in a private home of the employer, if the cash remuneration paid in the quarter for such service is less than $50 or the employee is not regularly employed by the employer in such quarter of payment. For the purposes of this subparagraph, an employee shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if (I) on each of some twenty-four days during the quarter the employee performs for the employer for some portion of the day domestic service in a private home of the employer, or (II) the employee was regularly employed (as determined under clause (I)) by the employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar quarter. As used in this subparagraph, the term "domestic service in a private home of the employer" does not include service described in subsection (h) (5);

(8) Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for agricultural labor;

(9) Any payment (other than vacation or sick pay) made to an employee after the month in which he attains the age of sixty-five, if he did not work for the employer in the period for which such payment is made; or

(10) Remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for service described in subsection (d) (3) (C) (relating to home workers), if the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such service is less than $50.

(b) Employment. The term "employment" means any service performed after 1936 and prior to 1951 which was employment for the purposes of this subchapter under the law applicable to the period in which such service was performed, and any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 either (A) by an employee for the person employing him, irrespective of the citizenship or residence of either, (i) within the United States, or (ii) on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft under a contract of service which is entered into within the United States or during the performance of which and while the employee is employed on the vessel or aircraft it touches at a port in the United States, if the employee is employed on and in connection with such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States, or (B) outside the United States by a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer (as defined in subsection (i) of this section); except that, in the case of service performed after 1950, such term shall not include—

Notice of termination or revocation thereof shall be filed in such form and manner, and with such official, as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter.

(2) Termination of waiver period by Commissioner. If the Commissioner finds that any organization which filed a certificate pursuant to this subsection has failed to comply substantially with the requirements of this subchapter or is no longer able to comply therewith, the Commissioner shall give such organization not less than sixty days' advance notice in writing that the period covered by such certificate will terminate at the end of the calendar quarter specified in such notice. Such notice of termination may be revoked by the Commissioner by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, written notice of such revocation to the organization. No notice of termination or of revocation thereof shall be given under this paragraph to an organization without the prior concurrence of the Federal Security Administrator.

(3) No renewal of waiver. In the event the period covered by a certificate filed pursuant to this subsection is terminated by the organization, no certificate may again be filed by such organization pursuant to this subsection. (l) "Employee tax" means the tax imposed by section 1400 of the Act.

(m) "Employer tax" means the tax imposed by section 1410 of the Act.

SECTION 1426 (g) OF THE ACT

AMERICAN VESSEL AND AIRCRAFT

(Sec. 1426 (g), I. R. SECTION 1426 (i) OF THE ACT

AMERICAN EMPLOYER

(Sec. 1426 (i), I. R. C., as added by sec. 1 (b) (1), Act of Mar. 24, 1943, 57 Stat. 46, and as amended by sec. 204 (e), (g), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 533, 536.)

SECTION 1420 (e) OF THE ACT

FEDERAL SERVICE

In the case of the taxes imposed by this subchapter with respect to service performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality which is wholly owned by the United States, the determination whether an individual has performed service which constitutes employment as defined in section 1426 • • • shall be made by the head of the Federal agency or instrumentality having the control of such service, or by such agents as such head may designate. • • • The provisions of this subsection shall be applicable in the case of service performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service, Navy Exchanges, Marine Corps Exchanges, or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, at installations of the Department of Defense for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of such Department; and for purposes of this subsection the Secretary of Defense shall be deemed to be the head of such instrumentality. (Sec. 1420 (e), I. R. C., as added by sec. 202 (b), (d), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 524, 525.)

§ 408.203 Employment after December 31, 1950—(a) In general. Whether services performed on or after January 1, 1951, constitute employment is determined under section 1426 (b) of the act. This section of the regulations in this part, and §§ 408.204 and 408.205 (relating to who are employees and employers), § 408.206 (relating to excepted services in general), § 408.207 (relating to included and excluded services), and §§ 408.208 to 408.225, inclusive (relating to certain classes of excepted services), apply with respect only to services performed on or after January 1, 1951. (For provisions relating to the circumstances under which services which do not constitute employment are nevertheless deemed to be employment, and relating to the circumstances under which services which constitute employment are nevertheless deemed not to be employment, see § 408.207. For provisions relating to services performed prior to January 1, 1951, see § 408.202.)

(b) Services performed within the United States. (1) Services performed on or after January 1, 1951, within the United States, that is, within any of the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territory of Alaska or Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, or Puerto Rico, by an employee for his employer, unless specifically excepted by section 1426 (b) of the act, constitute employment within the meaning of the act. Services performed outside the United States, that is, outside the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico (except certain services performed on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft, or services performed by a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer—see paragraph (c) of this section), do not constitute employment.

(2) With respect to services performed within the United States, the place where the contract of service is entered into and the citizenship or residence of the employee or of the employer are immaterial. Thus, the employee and the employer may be citizens and residents of a foreign country and the contract of service may be entered into in a foreign country, and yet, if the employee under such contract performs services within the United States, there may be to that extent employment within the meaning of the act.

(c) Services performed outside the United States—(1) On or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft. (i) Services performed on or after January 1, 1951, by an employee for an employer "on or in connection with" an American vessel or American aircraft outside the United States (that is, the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico) constitute employment, if:

(a) The employee is also employed "on and in connection with" such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States; and

(b) The services are performed under a contract of service, between the employee and the employer, which is entered into within the United States; or during the performance of the contract under which the services are performed and while the employee is employed on the vessel or aircraft it touches at a port within the United States; and

(c) The services are not excepted under section 1426 (b) of the act. (See particularly § 408.223, relating to fishing.)

(ii) An employee performs services on and in connection with the vessel or aircraft if he performs services on such vessel or aircraft which are also in connection with the vessel or aircraft. Services performed on the vessel by employees as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel, for example, are performed under such circumstances, since such services are also connected with the vessel. Similarly, services performed on the aircraft by employees as officers or members of the crew of the aircraft are performed on and in connection with such aircraft. Services may be performed on the vessel or aircraft, however, which have no connection with it, as in the case of services performed by an employee while on the vessel or aircraft merely as a passenger in the general sense. For example, the services of a buyer in the employ of a department store while he is a passenger on a vessel are not in connection with the vessel.

(iii) If services are performed by an employee "on and in connection with" an American vessel or American aircraft when outside the United States and conditions (i) (b) and (c) of this subparagraph are met, then the services of that employee performed on or in connection with the vessel or aircraft constitute employment. The expression "on or in connection with" refers not only to services performed on the vessel or aircraft but also to services connected with the vessel or aircraft which are not actually performed on it (for example, shore services performed as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel).

(iv) Services performed by a member of the crew or other employee whose contract of service is not entered into within the United States, and during the performance of which and while the employee is employed on the vessel or aircraft it does not touch at a port within the United States, do not constitute employment under this subparagraph, notwithstanding services performed by other members of the crew or other employees on or in connection with the vessel or aircraft may constitute employment.

(v) A vessel includes every description of watercraft, or other contrivance, used as a means of transportation on water. The term "American vessel" means any vessel which is documented (that is, registered, enrolled, or licensed) or numbered in conformity with the laws of the United States. It also includes any vessel which is neither documented nor numbered under the laws of the United States, nor documented under the laws of any foreign country, if the crew of such vessel is employed solely by one or more citizens or residents of the United States or corporations organized under the laws of the United States or of any State (including the District of Columbia, the Territory of Alaska or Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, or Puerto Rico). As used herein, a citizen of the United States includes a citizen of the Virgin Islands or of Puerto Rico.

(vi) An aircraft includes every description of craft, or other contrivance, used as a means of transportation through the air. The term "American aircraft" means any aircraft registered under the laws of the United States.

(vii) In the case of an aircraft, the term "port" means an airport. An airport means an area on land or water used regularly by aircraft for receiving or discharging passengers or cargo.

(viii) With respect to services performed outside the United States on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial, and the citizenship or residence of the employer is material only in case it has a bearing in determining whether a vessel is an American vessel.

(2) By a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer. (i) Services performed on or after January 1, 1951, outside the United States by a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer constitute employment provided the services are not specifically excepted under section 1426 (b) of the act.

(ii) The term "citizen of the United States" includes a citizen of the Virgin Islands or of Puerto Rico.

(iii) The term "American employer" means an employer which is (a) the United States or any instrumentality thereof, (b) an individual who is a resident of the United States (that is, the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico), (c) a partnership, if two-thirds or more of the partners are residents of the United States, (d) a trust, if all of the trustees are residents of the United States, or (e) a corporation organized under the laws of the United States or of any State (including the District of Columbia, the Territory of Alaska or Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, or Puerto Rico).

SECTION 1426 (d) OF THE ACT

EMPLOYEE

(d) Employee. The term "employee" means—

(1) any officer of a corporation; or

(2) any individual who, under the usual common law rules applicable in determining the employer-employee relationship, has the status of an employee; or

(3) any individual (other than an individual who is an employee under paragraph (1) or (2) of this subsection) who performs services for remuneration for any person—

(A) as an agent-driver or commission-driver engaged in distributing meat products, vegetable products, fruit products, bakery products, beverages (other than milk), or laundry or dry-cleaning services, for his principal;

(B) as a full-time life insurance salesman;

(C) as a home worker performing work, according to specifications furnished by the person for whom the services are performed, on materials or goods furnished by such person which are required to be returned to such person or a person designated by him, if the performance of such services is subject to licensing requirements under the laws of the State in which such services are performed; or

(D) as a traveling or city salesman, other than as an agent-driver or commission-driver, engaged upon a full-time basis in the solicitation on behalf of, and the transmission to his principal (except for side-line sales activities on behalf of some other person) of orders from wholesalers, retailers, contractors, or operators of hotels, restaurants, or other similar establishments for merchandise for resale or supplies for use in their business operations;

if the contract of service contemplates that substantially all of such services are to be performed personally by such individual; except that an individual shall not be included in the term "employee" under the provisions of this paragraph if such individual has a substantial investment in facilities used in connection with the performance of such services (other than in facilities for transportation), or if the services are in the nature of a single transaction not part of a continuing relationship with the person for whom the services are performed. (Sec. 1426 (d), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 205, Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 536.)

§ 408.204 Who are employees—(a) In general. (1) The statutory definition of the term "employee", applicable with respect to services performed on or after January 1, 1951, contains three separate and independent tests for determining who are employees. Paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of this section relate to the respective tests. Paragraph (b) relates to the test for determining whether an officer of a corporation is an employee of the corporation. Paragraph (c) relates to the test for determining whether an individual is an employee under the usual common law rules. Paragraph (d) relates to the test for determining which individuals in certain occupational groups who are not employees under the usual common law rules are included as employees. If an individual is an employee under any one of the tests, he is to be considered an employee for purpcses of the regulations in this part whether or not he is an employee under any of the other tests.

(2) If the relationship of employer and employee exists, the designation or description of the relationship by the parties as anything other than that of employer and employee is immaterial. Thus, if such relationship exists, it is of no consequence that the employee is designated as a partner, coadventurer, agent, independent contractor, or the like.

(3) All classes or grades of employees are included within the relationship of employer and employee. Thus, superintendents, managers, and other superior employees are employees.

(4) Although an individual may be an employee under this section, his services may be of such a nature, or performed under such circumstances, as not to constitute employment within the meaning of the act (see § 408.203).

(b) Corporate officers. Generally, an officer of a corporation is an employee of the corporation. However, an officer of a corporation who as such does not perform any services or performs only minor services and who neither receives nor is entitled to receive, directly or indirectly, any remuneration is not considered to be an employee of the corporation. A director of a corporation in his capacity as such is not an employee of the corporation.

(c) Common law employees. (1) Every individual is an employee if under the usual common law rules the relationship between him and the person for whom he performs services is the legal relationship of employer and employee.

(2) Generally such relationship exists when the person for whom services are performed has the right to control and direct the individual who performs the services, not only as to the result to be accomplished by the work but also as to the details and means by which that result is accomplished. That is, an employee is subject to the will and control of the employer not only as to what shall be done but how it shall be done. In this connection, it is not necessary that the employer actually direct or control the manner in which the services are performed; it is sufficient if he has the right to do so. The right to discharge is also an important factor indicating that the person possessing that right is an employer. Other factors characteristic of an employer, but not necessarily present in every case, are the furnishing of tools and the furnishing of a place to work, to the individual who performs the services. In general, if an individual is subject to the control or direction of another merely as to the result to be accomplished by the work and not as to the means and methods for accomplishing the result, he is an independent contractor. An individual performing services as an independent contractor is not as to such services an employee under the usual common law rules. Individuals such as physicians, lawyers, dentists, veterinarians, construction contractors, public stenographers, and auctioneers, engaged in the pursuit of an independent trade, business, or profession, in which they offer their services to the public, are independent contractors and not employees.

(3) Whether the relationship of employer and employee exists under the usual common law rules will in doubtful cases be determined upon an examination of the particular facts of each case.

(d) Special classes of employees. (1) In addition to individuals who are employees under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, other individuals are employees if they perform services for remuneration under certain prescribed circumstances in the following occupational groups:

(i) As an agent-driver or commission-driver engaged in distributing meat products, vegetable products, fruit products, bakery products, beverages (other than milk), or laundry or dry-cleaning services for his principal;

(ii) As a full-time life insurance salesman;

(iii) As a home worker performing work, according to specifications furnished by the person for whom the services are performed, on materials or goods furnished by such person which are required to be returned to such person or a person designated by him, if the performance of such services is subject to licensing requirements under the laws of the State in which such services are performed; or

(iv) As a traveling or city salesman, other than as an agent-driver or commission-driver, engaged upon a full-time basis in the solicitation on behalf of, and the transmission to, his principal (except for side-line sales activities on behalf of some other person) of orders from wholesalers, retailers, contractors, or operators of hotels, restaurants, or other similar establishments for merchandise for resale or supplies for use in their business operations.

(2) In order for an individual to be an employee under this paragraph, the individual must perform services in an occupation falling within one of the enumerated groups. If the individual does not perform services in one of the designated occupational groups, he is not an employee under this paragraph. An individual who is not an employee under this paragraph may nevertheless be an employee under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section. The language used to designate the respective occupational groups relates to fields of endeavor in which particular designations are not necessarily in universal use with respect to the same service. The designations are addressed to the actual services without regard to any technical or colloquial labels which may be attached to such services. Thus, a determination whether services fall within one of the designated occupational groups depends upon the facts of the particular situation.

(3) The factual situations set forth below are illustrative of some of the individuals falling within each of the above enumerated occupational groups. The illustrative factual situations are as follows:

(i) Agent-driver or commission-driver. This occupational group includes agent-drivers or commission-drivers who are engaged in distributing meat or meat products, vegetables or vegetable products, fruit or fruit products, bakery products, beverages (other than milk), or laundry or dry-cleaning services for their principals. An agent-driver or commission-driver includes an individual who operates his own truck or the truck of the person for whom he performs services, serves customers designated by such person as well as those solicited on his own, and whose compensation is a commission on his sales or the difference between the price he charges his customers and the price he pays to such person for the product or service.

(ii) Full-time life insurance salesman. An individual whose entire or principal business activity is devoted to the solicitation of life insurance or annunity contracts, or both, primarily for one life insurance company is a full-time life insurance salesman. Such a salesman ordinarily uses the office space provided by the company or its general agent, and stenographic assistance, telephone facilities, forms, rate books, and advertising materials are usually made available to him without cost. An individual who is engaged in the general insurance business under a contract or contracts of service which do not contemplate that the individual's principal business activity will be the solicitation of life insurance or annuity contracts, or both, for one company, or any individual who devotes only part time to the solicitation of life insurance contracts, including annuity contracts, and is principally engaged in other endeavors, is not a full-time life insurance salesman.

(iii) Home workers. This occupational group includes a worker who performs services off the premises of the person for whom the services are performed, according to specifications furnished by such person, on materials or goods furnished by such person which are required to be returned to such person or a person designated by him, if the performance of such services is subject to licensing requirements under the laws of the State (including the District of Columbia, the Territory of Alaska or Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, or Puerto Rico) in which such services are performed. The requirement that the performance of services by a home worker be subject to licensing laws in the State in which the services are performed is met by such State requiring either a home-work license on the part of the person for whom the services are performed or a home-work certificate on the part of the individual who performs the services. For provisions relating to remuneration which constitutes wages in the case of a home worker, see § 408.227 (j).

(iv) Traveling or city salesman. (a) This occupational group includes a city or traveling salesman who is engaged upon a full-time basis in the solicitation on behalf of, and the transmission to, his principal (except for side-line sales activities on behalf of some other person or persons) of orders from wholesalers, retailers, contractors, or operators of hotels, restaurants, or other similar establishments for merchandise for resale or supplies for use in their business operations. An agent-driver or commission-driver is not within this occupational group. City or traveling salesmen who sell to retailers or to the others specified, operate off the premises of their principals, and are generally compensated on a commission basis, are within this occupational group. Such salesmen are generally not controlled as to the details of their services or the means by which they cover their territories, but in the ordinary case they are expected to call on regular customers with a fair degree of regularity.

(b) In order for a city or traveling salesman to be included within this occupational group, his entire or principal business activity must be devoted to the solicitation of orders for one principal. Thus, the multiple-line salesman generally will not be within this occupational group. However, if the salesman solicits orders primarily for one principal, he is not excluded from this occupational group solely because of side-line sales activities on behalf of one or more other persons. In such a case, the salesman is within this occupational group only with respect to the services performed for the person for whom he primarily solicits orders and not with respect to the services performed for such other persons. The following examples illustrate the application of the foregoing provisions:

Example (1). Salesman A's principal business activity is the solicitation of orders from retail pharmacies on behalf of the X wholesale drug company. A also occasionally solicits orders for drugs on behalf of the Y and Z companies. A is within this occupational group with respect to his services for the X company but not with respect to his services for either the Y company or the Z company.

Example (2). Salesman B's principal business activity is the solicitation of orders from retail hardware stores on behalf of the R tool company and the S cooking utensil company. B regularly solicits orders on behalf of both companies. B is not within this occupational group with respect to the services performed for either the R company or the S company.

Example (3). Salesman C's principal business activity is the house-to-house solicitation of orders on behalf of the T brush company. C occasionally solicits such orders from retail stores and restaurants. C is not within this occupational group.

(4) (i) The fact that an individual falls within one of the enumerated occupational groups, however, does not make such individual an employee under this paragraph unless (a) the contract of service contemplates that substantially all the services to which the contract relates in the particular designated occupation are to be performed personally by such individual, (b) such individual has no substantial investment in the facilities used in connection with the performance of such services (other than in facilities for transportation), and (c) such services are part of a continuing relationship with the person for whom the services are performed and are not in the nature of a single transaction.

(ii) The term "contract of service", as used in this paragraph, means an arrangement, formal or informal, under which the particular services are performed. The requirement that the contract of service shall contemplate that substantially all the services to which the contract relates in the particular designated occupation are to be performed personally by the individual means that it is not contemplated that any material part of the services to which the contract relates in such occupation will be delegated to any other person by the individual who undertakes under the contract to perform such services.

(iii) The facilities to which reference is made in this paragraph include equipment and premises available for the work or enterprise as distinguished from education, training, and experience, but do not include such tools, instruments, equipment, or clothing, as are commonly or frequently provided by employees. An investment in an automobile by an individual which is used primarily for his own transportation in connection with the performance of services for another person has no significance under this paragraph, since such investment is comparable to outlays for transportation by an individual performing similar services who does not own an automobile. Moreover, the investment in facilities for the transportation of the goods or commodities to which the services relate is to be excluded in determining the investment in a particular case. If an individual has a substantial investment in facilities of the requisite character, he is not an employee within the meaning of this paragraph, since a substantial investment of the requisite character standing alone is sufficient to exclude the individual from the employee concept under this paragraph.

(iv) If the services are not performed as part of a continuing relationship with the person for whom the services are performed, but are in the nature of a single transaction, the individual performing such services is not an employee of such person within the meaning of this paragraph. The fact that the services are not performed on consecutive workdays does not indicate that the services are not performed as part of a continuing relationship.

§ 408.205 Who are employers. (a) Every person is an employer if he employs one or more employees. Neither the number of employees employed nor the period during which any such employee is employed is material for the purpose of determining whether the person for whom the services are performed is an employer.

(b) An employer may be an individual, a corporation, a partnership, a trust, an estate, a joint-stock company, an association, or a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or other unincorporated organization, group, or entity. A trust or estate, rather than the fiduciary acting for or on behalf of the trust or estate, is generally the employer.

(c) Although a person may be an employer under this section, services performed in his employ may be of such a nature, or performed under such circumstances, as not to constitute employment within the meaning of the act (see § 408.203).

SECTION 1426 (b) OF THE ACT

EMPLOYMENT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(Sec. 1426 (b), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 528.)

§ 408.206 Excepted services in general. (a) Services performed on or after January 1, 1951, by an employee for an employer do not constitute employment for purposes of the tax if they are specifically excepted from employment under any of the numbered paragraphs of section 1426 (b) of the act. Services so excepted do not constitute employment for purposes of the tax even though they are performed within the United States, or are performed outside the United States on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft, or are performed outside the United States by a citizen of the United States for an American employer.

(b) The exception attaches to the services performed by the employee and not to the employee as an individual; that is, the exception applies only to the services in an excepted class rendered by the employee.

Example. A is an individual who is employed part time by B to perform services in connection with the ginning of cotton (see § 408.208 (b)). A is also employed by C part time to perform services as a clerk in a feed store owned by him. While no tax liability is incurred with respect to A's remuneration for services performed in the employ of B (the services being excepted from employment), the exception does not embrace the services performed by A in the employ of C which constitute employment and the tax attaches with respect to the wages (see § 408.226) for such services.

(c) This section, § 408.207 (relating to included and excluded services), and §§ 408.208 to 408.225, inclusive (relating to the several classes of excepted services), apply with respect only to services performed on or after January 1, 1951. (For provisions relating to the circumstances under which services which are excepted are nevertheless deemed to be employment, and relating to the circumstances under which services which are not excepted are nevertheless deemed not to be employment, see § 408.207. For provisions relating to services performed prior to January 1, 1951, see § 408.202.)

SECTION 1426 (c) OF THE ACT

INCLUDED AND EXCLUDED SERVICE

If the services performed during one-half or more of any pay period by an employee for the person employing him constitute employment, all the services of such employee for such period shall be deemed to be employment; but if the services performed during more than one-half of any such pay period by an employee for the person employing him do not constitute employment, then none of the services of such employee for such period shall be deemed to be employment. As used in this subsection the term "pay period" means a period (of not more than thirty-one consecutive days) for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by the person employing him. This subsection shall not be applicable with respect to services performed in a pay period by an employee for the person employing him, where any of such service is excepted by paragraph (10) of subsection (b). (Sec. 1426 (c), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 606, Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, 53 Stat. 1383; sec. 204 (f), (g), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 536.)

§ 408.207 Included and excluded services. (a) If a portion of the services performed by an employee for an employer during a pay period constitutes employment, and the remainder does not constitute employment, all the services performed by the employee for the employer during the period shall for purposes of the tax be treated alike, that is, either all as included or all as excluded. The time during which the employee performs services which under section 1426 (b) of the act constitute employment, and the time during which he performs services which under such section do not constitute employment, within the pay period, determine whether all the services during the pay period shall be deemed to be included or excluded.

(b) If one-half or more of the employee's time in the employ of a particular person in a pay period is spent in performing services which constitute employment, then all the services of that employee for that person in that pay period shall be deemed to be employment.

(c) If less than one-half of the employee's time in the employ of a particular person in a pay period is spent in performing services which constitute employment, then none of the services of that employee for that person in that pay period shall be deemed to be employment.

Example. Employee A is employed by B who operates a cotton gin and a store. A's services in connection with the ginning of cotton do not constitute employment, and his services in the store constitute employment. He is paid at the end of each month. During a particular month A works 120 hours at the cotton gin and 80 hours in the store. None of A's services during the month are deemed to be employment, since less than one-half of his services during the month constitutes employment.

During another month A works 75 hours at the cotton gin and 120 hours in the store. All of A's services during the month are deemed to be employment, since one-half or more of his services during the month constitutes employment.

(d) For purposes of this section, a "pay period" is the period (of not more than 31 consecutive calendar days) for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by the employer. Thus, if the periods for which payments of remuneration are made to the employee by the employer are of uniform duration, each such period constitutes a "pay period." If, however, the periods occasionally vary in duration, the "pay period" is the period for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by the the employer, even though that period does not coincide with the actual period for which a particular payment of remuneration is made. For example, if an employer ordinarily pays a particular employee for each calendar week at the end of the week, but the employee receives a payment in the middle of the week for the portion of the week already elapsed and receives the remainder at the end of the week, the "pay period" is still the calendar week; or if, instead, that employee is sent on a trip by such employer and receives at the end of the third week a single remuneration payment for three weeks' services, the "pay period" is still the calendar week.

(e) If there is only one period (and such period does not exceed 31 consecutive calendar days) for which a payment of remuneration is made to the employee by the employer, such period is deemed to be a "pay period" for purposes of this section.

(f) The rules set forth in this section do not apply (1) with respect to any services performed by the employee for the employer if the periods for which such employer makes payments of remuneration to the employee vary to the extent that there is no period "for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee", or (2) with respect to any services performed by the employee for the employer if the period for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by such employer exceeds 31 consecutive calendar days, or (3) with respect to any service performed by the employee for the employer during a pay period if any of such service is excepted by section 1426 (b) (10) of the act (see § 408.217).

(g) If during any period for which a person makes a payment of remuneration to an employee only a portion of the employee's services constitutes employment, but the rules prescribed in this section are not applicable, the tax attaches with respect to such services as constitute employment as defined in section 1426 (b) of the act.

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(1) (A) Agricultural labor (as defined in subsection (h) of this section) performed in any calendar quarter by an employee, unless the cash remuneration paid for such labor (other than service described in subparagraph (B)) is $50 or more and such labor is performed for an employer by an individual who is regularly employed by such employer to perform such agricultural labor. For the purposes of this subparagraph, an individual shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if—

(i) such individual performs agricultural labor (other than service described in subparagraph (B)) for such employer on a full-time basis on sixty days during such quarter, and

(ii) the quarter was immediately preceded by a qualifying quarter.

For the purposes of the preceding sentence, the term "qualifying quarter" means (I) any quarter during all of which such individual was continuously employed by such employer, or (II) any subsequent quarter which meets the test of clause (i) if, after the last quarter during all of which such individual was continuously employed by such employer, each intervening quarter met the test of clause (i). Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this subparagraph, an individual shall also be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter if such individual was regularly employed (upon application of clauses (i) and (ii)) by such employer during the preceding calendar quarter.

(B) Service performed in connection with the production or harvesting of any commodity defined as an agricultural commodity in section 15 (g) of the Agricultural Marketing Act, as amended, or in connection with the ginning of cotton; (Sec. 1426 (b) (1), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 528.)

SECTION 1426 (h) OF THE ACT

AGRICULTURAL LABOR

The term "agricultural labor" includes all service performed—

(1) On a farm, in the employ of any person, in connection with cultivating the soil, or in connection with raising or harvesting any agricultural or horticultural commodity, including the raising, shearing, feeding, caring for, training, and management of livestock, bees, poultry, and fur-bearing animals and wildlife.

(2) In the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of a farm, in connection with the operation, management, conservation, improvement, or maintenance of such farm and its tools and equipment, or in salvaging timber or clearing land of brush and other debris left by a hurricane, if the major part of such service is performed on a farm.

(3) In connection with the production or harvesting of any commodity defined as an agricultural commodity in section 15 (g) of the Agricultural Marketing Act, as amended, or in connection with the ginning of cotton, or in connection with the operation or maintenance of ditches, canals, reservoirs, or waterways, not owned or operated for profit, used exclusively for supplying and storing water for farming purposes.

(4) (A) In the employ of the operator of a farm in handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, in its unmanufactured state, any agricultural or horticultural commodity; but only if such operator produced more than one-half of the commodity with respect to which such service is performed.

(B) In the employ of a group of operators of farms (other than a cooperative organization) in the performance of service described in subparagraph (A), but only if such operators produced all of the commodity with respect to which such service is performed. For the purposes of this subparagraph, any unincorporated group of operators shall be deemed a cooperative organization if the number of operators comprising such group is more than twenty at any time during the calendar quarter in which such service is performed.

(C) The provisions of subparagraphs (A) and (B) shall not be deemed to be applicable with respect to service performed in connection with commercial canning or commercial freezing or in connection with any agricultural or horticultural commodity after its delivery to a terminal market for distribution for consumption.

(5) On a farm operated for profit if such service is not in the course of the employer's trade or business or is domestic service in a private home of the employer.

As used in this section, the term "farm" includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing animal, and truck farms, plantations, ranches, nurseries, ranges, greenhouses or other similar structures used primarily for the raising of agricultural or horticultural commodities, and orchards. (Sec. 1426 (h), I. R. C., as added by sec. 606, Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, 53 Stat. 1383, and as amended by sec. 204 (d), (g), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 532, 536.)

SECTION 15 (g) OF THE AGRICULTURAL MARKETING ACT, AS AMENDED

As used in this Act, the term "agricultural commodity" includes • • • crude gum (oleoresin) from a living tree, and the following products as processed by the original producer of the crude gum (oleoresin) from which derived: Gum spirits of turpentine and gum rosin, as defined in the Naval Stores Act, approved March 3, 1923. (Sec. 15 (g), Act of June 15, 1929, 46 Stat. 18, as added by sec. 3, Act of Mar. 4, 1931, 46 Stat. 1550, 12 U. S. C. 1141j (g).)

SECTION 2 (c) AND (h) OF THE NAVAL STORES ACT

(c) "Gum spirits of turpentine" means spirits of turpentine made from gum (oleoresin) from a living tree.

(h) "Gum rosin" means rosin remaining after the distillation of gum spirits of turpentine. (Sec. 2 (c), (h), Act of Mar. 3, 1923, 42 Stat. 1435, 7 U. S. C. 92 (c), (h).)

§ 408.208 Agricultural labor—(a) In general. This section relates to services performed by an employee for an employer which constitute "agricultural labor" as defined in section 1426 (h) of the act. Paragraph (b) of this section relates to agricultural labor which is categorically excepted from employment under section 1426 (b) (1) (B) of the act. Paragraph (c) of this section relates to agricultural labor which is excepted from employment under section 1426 (b) (1) (A) of the act unless performed under the conditions therein prescribed. Paragraph (d) of this section relates to the definition of the term "agricultural labor."

(b) Services excepted under section 1426 (b) (1) (B) of the act. (1) The following services are excepted from employment under section 1426 (b) (1) (B) of the act:

(i) Services performed in connection with the production or harvesting of crude gum (oleoresin) from a living tree or the processing of such crude gum into gum spirits of turpentine and gum rosin, provided such processing is carried on by the original producer of such crude gum; and

(ii) Services performed in connection with the ginning of cotton.

(2) The amount of the remuneration paid for such services and the circumstances under which the services are performed are immaterial for the purposes of the exception under section 1426 (b) (1) (B).

(c) Services excepted under section 1426 (b) (1) (A) of the act. (1) As used in this paragraph, the term "agricultural labor" does not include services performed in connection with the ginning of cotton or in connection with the production or harvesting of those oleoresinous products described in paragraph (b) of this section.

(2) Agricultural labor performed by an employee for an employer in a calendar quarter is excepted from employment under section 1426 (b) (1) (A) of the act unless—

(i) The cash remuneration paid for agricultural labor performed by the employee for the employer in the calendar quarter is $50 or more; and

(ii) Such employee is regularly employed in the calendar quarter by such employer to perform such agricultural labor.

Unless the tests set forth in both (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph are met, the services are excepted from employment under section 1426 (b) (1) (A).

(3) The test relating to cash remuneration of $50 or more is based on the remuneration earned during a calendar quarter rather than on the remuneration paid in a calendar quarter. However, for purposes of determining whether the test is met, it is also required that the remuneration be paid, although it is immaterial when the remuneration is paid. Furthermore, in determining whether $50 or more has been paid for agricultural labor performed in a calendar quarter, only cash remuneration for agricultural labor shall be taken into account. (Since services performed in connection with the ginning of cotton or in connection with the production or harvesting of those oleoresinous products described in paragraph (b) of this section do not constitute agricultural labor for the purposes of this paragraph, any remuneration paid for such services is disregarded in determining whether the cash-remuneration test is met.) The term "cash remuneration" includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any other medium, such as lodging, food, clothing, farm products, or other goods or commodities, is disregarded in determining whether the cash-remuneration test is met. For provisions relating to the exclusion from wages of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for agricultural labor, see § 408.227 (g).

(4) For the purposes of this paragraph, an individual is deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter (including the first quarter of 1951) if:

(i) Such individual performs agricultural labor for such employer on a full-time basis on at least 60 days (whether or not consecutive) during such calendar quarter; and

(ii) The calendar quarter was immediately preceded by a qualifying quarter.

An individual shall also be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter if such individual was regularly employed (upon application of (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph) by such employer during the preceding calendar quarter.

(5) A qualifying quarter is (i) any calendar quarter during all of which the individual was continuously employed by the employer, or (ii) any subsequent calendar quarter during which such individual performs agricultural labor for such employer on a full-time basis on at least 60 days during such quarter if, after the last calendar quarter during which such individual was continuously employed by such employer, such individual performs agricultural labor for such employer on a full-time basis on at least 60 days during each intervening calendar quarter. A calendar quarter prior to the last calendar quarter of 1950 may not be a qualifying quarter.

(6) The requirement that an employee be continuously employed by an employer during all of a calendar quarter is met by the existence of the employer-employee relationship throughout an entire calendar quarter, whether or not the employee does any work for the employer during the calendar quarter. Moreover, a calendar quarter in which the employee is continuously employed by the employer is a qualifying quarter, irrespective of whether the employee is employed to perform agricultural labor. For example, the calendar quarter in which the employee is continuously employed by the employer to perform services in connection with the ginning of cotton or any business conducted by the employer is a qualifying quarter.

(7) In order to satisfy the requirement of the performance of agricultural labor on a full-time basis on at least 60 days during a calendar quarter, the arrangement under which an employee performs agricultural labor for an employer must contemplate the performance of such labor on a full-time basis, and the employee must perform agricultural labor for the employer on at least 60 days during the calendar quarter. Thus, the requirement of the performance of agricultural labor on a full-time basis relates to the arrangement under which the employee is engaged to perform agricultural labor, whereas the requirement of the performance of agricultural labor on at least 60 days during a calendar quarter relates to the performance of agricultural labor by the employee on the required number of days during such calendar quarter.

(8) An arrangement for the performance of agricultural labor on a full-time basis means an arrangement under which an employee is engaged to perform agricultural labor for a single employer on the basis of a full work day. The term "full work day" as used in the preceding sentence has reference to the full work day prevailing in the particular locality for the type of agricultural occupation in which the employee is engaged. The fact that an employee who performs agricultural labor primarily for one employer also performs other services of an incidental character for such employer or any incidental services for some other person does not prevent such employee from being engaged on a full-time basis in the performance of agricultural labor for such employer.

Example. A, the operator of a dairy farm, employs B, a schoolboy, for two hours each morning before school and two hours each afternoon after school to assist him in the operation of the dairy farm. In addition, B works for A ten hours each Saturday in the performance of the same type of work. The full work day in the particular locality for a dairy farm worker is a period of eight hours.

Each full calendar quarter B remains in the employ of A constitutes a qualifying quarter for the reason that B is continuously employed by A in each such quarter. Since under the arrangement B is engaged to perform agricultural labor for A on the basis of a full work day only on Saturdays, only the Saturdays constitute days on which B performs agricultural labor for A on a full-time basis. The other days of the week do not constitute days on which B performs agricultural labor for A on a full-time basis, since the arrangement contemplates the performance of agricultural labor on such days on less than a full work day.

(9) In determining whether an employee has performed agricultural labor on at least 60 days during a calendar quarter, there shall be counted as one day—

(i) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee actually performs such labor; and

(ii) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee does not perform agricultural labor but with respect to which remuneration is paid or payable to the employee for such labor, such as a day on which the employee is sick or on vacation.

An employee who reports for work and, at the direction of his employer, holds himself in readiness to perform agricultural labor shall be considered to be engaged in the actual performance of such labor. For the purposes of this section, a day is a period of 24 hours commencing at midnight and ending at midnight.

(10) An individual who is regularly employed in a calendar quarter under the test set forth in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of subparagraph (4) of this paragraph is also considered to be regularly employed in the next succeeding calendar quarter, irrespective of whether he performs any service during such succeeding quarter. Thus, such individual will continue to be regularly employed until the end of such succeeding calendar quarter, even though he does not perform agricultural labor on a full-time basis on 60 days during such quarter. If in such succeeding calendar quarter such individual does not perform agricultural labor on a full-time basis on at least 60 days, such individual must meet the test set forth in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of subparagraph (4) of this paragraph in order to qualify as regularly employed in any subsequent calendar quarter.

(11) The application of certain of the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. C, who operates a truck farm and a general store, hired D on September 15, 1950, to work in his store for the remainder of the year.

The calendar quarter, October 1 through December 31, 1950, is a qualifying quarter by virtue of the existence of the employer-employee relationship throughout the entire calendar quarter. The fact that the quarter was before January 1, 1951, the effective date of the inclusion of certain agricultural labor as employment, does not prevent such quarter from being a qualifying quarter. (The last calendar quarter of 1950 is the first calendar quarter which may constitute a qualifying quarter.) The nature of the work performed by D in the qualifying quarter is immaterial. D might have worked on C's farm or in any other business conducted by C during that period. In fact, the quarter would constitute a qualifying quarter even though D did not work for C during the quarter, if the employer-employee relationship existed throughout the calendar quarter.

On January 1, 1951, D was transferred from C's store to his farm to perform general farm work. The arrangement contemplates that D will devote eight hours on each work day to the performance of agricultural labor for C. An 8-hour day constitutes the full work day prevailing in the locality for general farm work. In the calendar quarter, January 1 through March 31, 1951, D performs agricultural labor for C on 65 days. D is paid $390 in cash for agricultural labor performed for C in the calendar quarter.

D is regularly employed by C in the first calendar quarter of 1951 in that he performed agricultural labor on a full-time basis on at least 60 days during such calendar quarter and such quarter was immediately preceded by a qualifying quarter. The services performed by D during the calendar quarter constitute employment (unless excepted under some provision of section 1426 of the act other than section 1426 (b) (1)) because D is regularly employed by C in the calendar quarter and is paid $50 or more for agricultural labor performed for C in the calendar quarter. The cash remuneration paid D for services performed during the calendar quarter would constitute wages and be subject to the employer and employee taxes unless such remuneration is excluded from wages under some provision of section 1426 (a) of the act.

In the next calendar quarter, April 1 through June 30, 1951, D performs agricultural labor for C on 45 days and is paid $270 in cash for the labor performed on those days.

D is regularly employed by C in the second calendar quarter of 1951, even though he worked on less than 60 days in the quarter, by reason of the fact that D was regularly employed by C in the preceding calendar quarter. The services performed in the second calendar quarter also constitute employment unless excepted under some other provision of section 1426 of the act. The cash remuneration paid for such services is likewise subject to the employer and employee taxes unless excluded from wages by virtue of some provision of section 1426 (a) of the act.

In the quarter, July 1, through September 30, 1951, D performs agricultural labor for C on a full-time basis on 60 days and is paid $360 in cash for the labor performed in that quarter.

The determination whether D is regularly employed by C in the third calendar quarter of 1951 depends upon whether the employer-employee relationship continued throughout the calendar quarter, April 1 through June 30, 1951. If the employer-employee relationship did not continue throughout the second calendar quarter of 1951, D lost his standing as regularly employed for the third calendar quarter of 1951 when he worked on less than 60 days in the preceding calendar quarter. In that case, D will not be regularly employed until after he serves another qualifying quarter, by being continuously employed for a full calendar quarter, and performs agricultural labor for the same employer on a full-time basis on at least 60 days during the next succeeding calendar quarter. However, if the employer-employee relationship existed between C and D throughout the second calendar quarter of 1951, such quarter would constitute a qualifying quarter and D would be regularly employed by C in the third calendar quarter of 1951 by reason of the fact that he performed agricultural labor for C on a full-time basis on 60 days during such third calendar quarter. In that case, D's services for C in the third calendar quarter of 1951 would constitute employment, unless otherwise excepted, by reason of the fact that he was regularly employed to perform agricultural labor in such quarter and was paid $50 or more for agricultural labor performed in the quarter. Moreover, the cash remuneration paid for such services would be subject to the taxes unless such remuneration is excluded from wages.

(d) Definition.—(1) In general. (i) The term "agricultural labor" as defined in section 1426 (h) of the act includes services of the character described in subparagraphs (2), (3), (4), (5), and (6) of this paragraph. In general, however, the term does not include services performed in connection with forestry, lumbering, or landscaping.

(ii) The term "farm" as used in this section includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing animal, and truck farms, plantations, ranches, nurseries, ranges, orchards, and such greenhouses and other similar structures as are used primarily for the raising of agricultural or horticultural commoditics. Greenhouses and other similar structures used primarily for other purposes (for example, display, storage, and fabrication of wreaths, corsages, and bouquets) do not constitute "farms".

(2) Services described in section 1426 (h) (1) of the act. (i) Services performed on a farm by an employee of any person in connection with any of the following activities constitute agricultural labor:

(a) The cultivation of the soil;

(b) The raising, shearing, feeding, caring for, training, or management of livestock, bees, poultry, fur-bearing animals, or wildlife; or

(c) The raising or harvesting of any other agricultural or horticultural commodity.

(ii) Services performed in connection with the production or harvesting of maple sap, or in connection with the raising or harvesting of mushrooms, or in connection with the hatching of poultry constitute agricultural labor only if such services are performed on a farm. Thus, services performed in connection with the operation of a hatchery, if not operated as part of a poultry or other farm, do not constitute agricultural labor. Services performed in the processing (as distinguished from the gathering) of maple sap into maple sirup or maple sugar do not constitute agricultural labor, even though such services are performed on a farm.

(3) Services described in section 1426 (h) (2) of the act. (i) The following services performed by an employee in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of one or more farms constitute agricultural labor, provided the major part of such services is performed on a farm:

(a) Services performed in connection with the operation, management, conservation, improvement, or maintenance of any of such farms or its tools or equipment; or

(b) Services performed in salvaging timber, or clearing land of brush and other debris, left by a hurricane.

(ii) The services described in subdivision (i) (a) of this subparagraph may include, for example, services performed by carpenters, painters, mechanics, farm supervisors, irrigation engineers, bookkeepers, and other skilled or semi-skilled workers, which contribute in any way to the conduct of the farm or farms, as such, operated by the person employing them, as distinguished from any other enterprise in which such person may be engaged.

(iii) Since the services described in this subparagraph must be performed in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of the farm, the term "agricultural labor" does not include services performed by employees of a commercial painting concern, for example, which contracts with a farmer to renovate his farm properties.

(4) Services described in section 1426 (h) (3) of the act. Services performed by an employee in the employ of any person in connection with any of the following operations constitute agricultural labor without regard to the place where such services are performed:

(i) The ginning of cotton;

(ii) The operation or maintenance of ditches, canals, reservoirs, or waterways, not owned or operated for profit, used exclusively for supplying or storing water for farming purposes; or

(iii) The production or harvesting of crude gum (oleoresin) from a living tree or the processing of such crude gum into gum spirits of turpentine and gum rosin, provided such processing is carried on by the original producer of such crude gum.

(5) Services described in section 1426 (h) (4) of the act. (i) Services performed by an employee in the handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, of any agricultural or horticultural commodity constitute agricultural labor if:

(a) Such services are performed by the employee in the employ of an operator of a farm or in the employ of a group of operators of farms (other than a cooperative organization);

(b) Such services are performed with respect to the commodity in its unmanufactured state; and

(c) Such operator produced more than one-half of the commodity with respect to which such services are performed during the pay period, or such group of operators produced all of the commodity with respect to which such services are performed during the pay period.

(ii) The term "operator of a farm" as used in this subparagraph means an owner, tenant, or other person, in possession of a farm and engaged in the operation of such farm.

(iii) The services described in this subparagraph do not constitute agricultural labor if performed in the employ of a cooperative organization. The term "organization" includes corporations, joint-stock companies, and associations which are treated as corporations under the Internal Revenue Code. For the purposes of this subparagraph, any unincorporated group of operators shall be deemed a cooperative organization if the number of operators comprising such group is more than 20 at any time during the calendar quarter in which the services involved are performed.

(iv) Processing services which change the commodity from its raw or natural state do not constitute agricultural labor. For example, the extraction of juices from fruits or vegetables is a processing operation which changes the character of the fruits or vegetables from their raw or natural state and, therefore, does not constitute agricultural labor. On the other hand, services rendered in the cutting and drying of fruits or vegetables are processing operations which do not change the character of the fruits or vegetables and, therefore, constitute agricultural labor, if the other requisite conditions are met. Services performed with respect to a commodity after its character has been changed from its raw or natural state by a processing operation do not constittue agricultural labor.

(v) The term "commodity" refers to a single agricultural or horticultural product, for example, all apples are to be treated as a single commodity, while apples and peaches are to be treated as two separate commodities. The services with respect to each such commodity are to be considered separately in determining whether the condition set forth in subdivision (i) (c) of this subparagraph has been satisfied. The portion of the commodity produced by an operator or group of operators with respect to which the services described in this subparagraph are performed by a particular employee shall be determined on the basis of the pay period in which such services were performed by such employee.

(vi) The services described in this subparagraph do not include services performed in connection with commercial canning or commercial freezing or in connection with any commodity after its delivery to a terminal market for distribution for consumption. Moreover, since the services described in this subparagraph must be rendered in the actual handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, of the commodity, such services do not, for example, include services performed as stenographers, bookkeepers, clerks, and other office employees, even though such services may be in connection with such activities. However, to the extent that the services of such individuals are performed in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of a farm and are rendered in major part on a farm, they may be within the provisions of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph.

(6) Services described in section 1426 (h) (5) of the act. (i) Services not in the course of the employer's trade or business (see § 408.210) or domestic service in a private home of the employer (see § 408.227 (h)) constitute agricultural labor if such services are performed on a farm operated for profit. The determination whether such services performed on a farm operated for profit constitute employment is to be made under this section rather than under § 408.210 or § 408.227 (h).

(ii) Generally, a farm is not operated for profit if it is occupied by the employer primarily for residential purposes, or is used primarily for the pleasure of the employer or his family such as for the entertainment of guests or as a hobby of the employer or his family.

SECTION 1426 (b) (2) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(2) Domestic service performed in a local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority, by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university; (Sec. 1426 (b) (2), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 529.)

§ 408.209 Domestic service performed by a student in a local college club, etc. (a) Services of a household nature performed in or about the club rooms or house of a local college club, or in or about the club rooms or house of a local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority, by a student who is enrolled and regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university are excepted from employment. For the purposes of this exception, the statutory tests are the type of services performed by the employee, the character of the place where the services are performed, and the status of the employee as a student enrolled and regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university.

(b) In general, services of a household nature in or about the club rooms or house of a local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority include services rendered by cooks, waiters, butlers, maids, janitors, laundresses, furnacemen, handymen, gardeners, housekeepers, and housemothers.

(c) A local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority does not include an alumni club or chapter. If the club rooms or house of a local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority is used primarily for the purposes of supplying board or lodging to students or the public as a business enterprise, the services performed therein are not within the exception.

(d) The term "school, college, or university" within the meaning of this exception is to be taken in its commonly or generally accepted sense.

(e) Services of a household nature are not within the exception if performed in or about rooming or lodging houses, boarding houses, clubs (except local college clubs), hotels, or commercial establishments.

(f) For provisions relating to domestic service in a private home of the employer, see § 408.227 (h).

SECTION 1426 (b) (3) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(3) Service not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed in any calendar quarter y an employee, unless the cash remuneration paid for such service is $50 or more and such service is performed by an individual who is regularly employed by such employer to perform such service. For the purposes of this paragraph, an individual shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if (A) on each of some twenty-four days during such quarter such individual performs for such employer for some portion of the day service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, or (B) such individual was regularly employed (as determined under clause (A)) by such employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar quarter. As used in this paragraph, the term "service not in the course of the employer's trade or business" does not include domestic service in a private home of the employer and does not include service described in subsection (h) (5); (Sec. 1426 (b) (3), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 529.)

§ 408.210 Services not in the course of employer's trade or business. (a) Services not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed by an employee for an employer in a calendar quarter are excepted from employment unless—

(1) The cash remuneration paid for such services performed by the employee for the employer in the calendar quarter is $50 or more; and

(2) Such employee is regularly employed in the calendar quarter by such employer to perform such services.

Unless the tests set forth in both subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph are met the services are excepted from employment.

(b) The term "services not in the course of the employer's trade or business" includes services that do not promote or advance the trade or business of the employer. Services performed for a corporation do not come within the exception.

(c) The test relating to cash remuneration of $50 or more is based on the remuneration earned during a calendar quarter rather than on the remuneration paid in a calendar quarter. However, for purposes of determining whether the test is met, it is also required that the remuneration be paid, although it is immaterial when the remuneration is paid. Furthermore, in determining whether $50 or more has been paid for services not in the course of the employer's trade or busines, only cash remuneration for such services shall be taken into account. The term "cash remuneration" includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any other medium, such as lodging, food, or other goods or commodities, is disregarded in determining whether the cash-remuneration test is met.

(d) For the purposes of this exception, an individual is deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if:

(1) Such individual performs services not in the course of the employer's trade or business for such employer for some portion of the day on at least 24 days (whether or not consecutive) during such calendar quarter; or

(2) Such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph) by such employer in the performance of services not in the course of the employer's trade or business during the preceding calendar quarter (including the last calendar quarter of 1950).

(e) In determining whether an employee has performed services not in the course of the employer's trade or business on at least 24 days during a calendar quarter, there shall be counted as one day—

(1) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee actually performs such services; and

(2) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee does not perform services of the prescribed character but with respect to which remuneration is paid or payable to the employee for such services, such as a day on which the employee is sick or on vacation.

An employee who reports for work and, at the direction of his employer, holds himself in readiness to perform services not in the course of the employer's trade or business shall be considered to be engaged in the actual performance of such services. For the purposes of this exception, a day is a period of 24 hours commencing at midnight and ending at midnight.

(f) Services not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed on a farm operated for profit, domestic service in a private home of the employer performed on a farm operated for profit, and domestic service in a private home of the employer performed other than on a farm operated for profit are not within the exception. For provisions relating to services not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed on a farm operated for profit and domestic service in a private home of the employer performed on a farm operated for profit, see § 408.208. For provisions relating to domestic service in a private home of the employer performed other than on a farm operated for profit, see § 408.227 (h).

(g) For provisions relating to the exclusion from wages of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, see § 408.227 (g).

SECTION 1426 (b) (4) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(4) Service performed by an individual in the employ of his son, daughter, or spouse, and service performed by a child under the age of twenty-one in the employ of his father or mother; (Sec. 1426 (b) (4), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 529.)

§ 408.211 Family employment. (a) Certain services are excepted from employment because of the existence of a family relationship between the employee and the individual employing him. The exceptions are as follows:

(1) Services performed by an individual in the employ of his or her spouse;

(2) Services performed by a father or mother in the employ of his or her son or daughter; and

(3) Services performed by a son or daughter under the age of 21 in the employ of his or her father or mother.

(b) Under paragraph (a) (1) and (2) of this section, the exception is conditioned solely upon the family relationship between the employee and the individual employing him. Under paragraph (a) (3) of this section, in addition to the family relationship, there is a further requirement that the son or daughter shall be under the age of 21, and the exception continues only during the time that such son or daughter is under the age of 21.

(c) Services performed in the employ of a corporation are not within the exception. Services performed in the employ of a partnership are not within the exception unless the requisite family relationship exists between the employee and each of the partners comprising the partnership.

SECTION 1426 (b) (5) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(5) Service performed by an individual on or in connection with a vessel not an American vessel, or on or in connection with an aircraft not an American aircraft, if the individual is employed on and in connection with such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States; (Sec. 1426 (b) (5), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 529.)

§ 408.212 Non-American vessel or aircraft. (a) Certain services performed within the United States "on or in connection with" a vessel not an American vessel, or "on or in connection with" an aircraft not an American aircraft, are excepted from employment. In order to be excepted, the services must be performed by an employee who is also employed "on and in connection with" the vessel or aircraft when outside the United States.

(b) An employee performs services on and in connection with the vessel or aircraft if he performs services on such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States which are also in connection with the vessel or aircraft. Services performed on the vessel outside the United States by employees as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel, for example, are performed under such circumstances, since such services are also connected with the vessel. Similarly, services performed on the aircraft outside the United States by employees as officers or members of the crew of the aircraft are performed on and in connection with such aircraft. Services may be performed on the vessel or aircraft, however, which have no connection with it, as in the case of services performed by an employee while on the vessel or aircraft merely as a passenger in the general sense. For example, the services of a buyer in the employ of a department store while he is a passenger on a vessel are not in connection with the vessel.

(c) The expression "on or in connection with" refers not only to services performed on the vessel or aircraft but also to services connected with the vessel or aircraft which are not actually performed on it (for example, shore services performed as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel).

(d) Services performed outside the United States on or in connection with a vessel not an American vessel, or on or in connection with an aircraft not an American aircraft, by a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer are excepted from employment, if the employee is employed on and in connection with such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States. Services performed outside the United States on or in connection with a vessel not an American vessel, or on or in connection with an aircraft not an American aircraft, either by an employee who is not a citizen of the United States or for an employer who is not an American employer do not constitute employment in any event. (For provisions relating to services performed outside the United States which constitute employment, see § 408.203 (c).)

(e) The citizenship or residence of the employee and the place where the contract of service is entered into are immaterial for purposes of this exception. The citizenship or residence of the employer is material only in case it has a bearing in determining whether the vessel is an American vessel. (For definitions of "vessel", "American vessel", "aircraft", "American aircraft", "citizen of the United States", and "American employer", see § 408.203 (c).)

SECTION 1426 (b) (6) AND (7) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(6) Service performed in the employ of any instrumentality of the United States, if such instrumentality is exempt from the tax imposed by section 1410 by virtue of any provision of law which specifically refers to such section in granting such exemption;

(7) (A) Service performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality of the United States, if such service is covered by a retirement system established by a law of the United States;

(B) Service performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States if such an instrumentality was exempt from the tax imposed by section 1410 on December 31, 1950, except that the provisions of this subparagraph shall not be applicable to—

(i) service performed in the employ of a corporation which is wholly owned by the United States;

(ii) service performed in the employ of a national farm loan association, a production credit association, a Federal Reserve Bank, or a Federal Credit Union;

(iii) service performed in the employ of a State, county, or community committee under the Production and Marketing Administration; or

(iv) service performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service, Navy Exchanges, Marine Corps Exchanges, or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, at installations of the Department of Defense for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of such Department;

(C) Service performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality of the United States, if such service is performed—

(i) as the President or Vice President of the United States or as a Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, of or to the Congress;

(ii) in the legislative branch;

(iii) in the field service of the Post Office Department unless performed by any individual as an employee who is excluded by Executive order from the operation of the Civil Service Retirement Act of 1930 because he is serving under a temporary appointment pending final determination of eligibility for permanent or indefinite appointment;

(iv) in or under the Bureau of the Census of the Department of Commerce by temporary employees employed for the taking of any census;

(v) by any individual as an employee who is excluded by Executive order from the operation of the Civil Service Retirement Act of 1930 because he is paid on a contract or fee basis;

(vi) by any individual as an employee receiving nominal compensation of $12 or less per annum;

(vii) in a hospital, home, or other institution of the United States by a patient or inmate thereof;

(viii) by any individual as a consular agent appointed under authority of section 551 of the Foreign Service Act of 1946 (22 U. S. C., sec. 951);

(ix) by any individual as an employee included under section 2 of the Act of August 4, 1947 (relating to certain interns, student nurses, and other student employees of hospitals of the Federal Government; 5 U. S. C., sec. 1052);

(x) by any individual as an employee serving on a temporary basis in case of fire, storm, earthquake, flood, or other similar emergency;

(xi) by any individual as an employee who is employed under a Federal relief program to relieve him from unemployment;

(xii) as a member of a State, county, or community committee under the Production and Marketing Administration or of any other board, council, committee, or other similar body, unless such board, council, committee, or other body is composed exclusively of individuals otherwise in the full-time employ of the United States; or

(xiii) by an individual to whom the Civil Service Retirement Act of 1930 does not apply because such individual is subject to another retirement system; (Sec. 1426 (b) (6), (7), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 529.)

SECTION 1412 OF THE ACT

INSTRUMENTALITIES OF THE UNITED STATES

Notwithstanding any other provision of law (whether enacted before or after the enactment of this section) which grants to any instrumentality of the United States an exemption from taxation, such instrumentality shall not be exempt from the tax imposed by section 1410 unless such other provision of law grants a specific exemption, by reference to section 1410, from the tax imposed by such section. (Sec. 1412, I. R. C., as added by sec. 202 (a), (d), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 524, 525.)

§ 408.213 United States and instrumentalities thereof—(a) In general. This section relates to services performed in the employ of the United States Government or in the employ of any instrumentality of the United States. Paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section relate to services performed either in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality thereof. Paragraph (b) of this section relates to services which are excepted from employment by virtue of the fact that the services are covered by a retirement system established by a law of the United States. Paragraph (c) of this section relates to services which are excepted from employment by virtue of the fact that the services are of the character described in any one of 13 special classes of excepted services. Paragraphs (d) and (e) of this section relate solely to services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States. Paragraph (d) of this section relates to services which are excepted from employment by virtue of the fact that the services are performed in the employ of an instrumentality which has been granted a specific statutory exemption from the tax imposed by section 1410 of the act. Paragraph (e) of this section relates to services which are excepted from employment by virtue of the fact that the services are performed in the employ of an instrumentality which either was exempt on December 31, 1950, from the tax imposed by section 1410 of the act or would have been exempt on that date from such tax had it then been in existence. Particular services which are not excepted from employment under one rule set forth in this section may nevertheless be excepted under another rule set forth in this section. Moreover, services performed in the employ of the United States or of any instrumentality thereof which are not excepted from employment under paragraph (6) or (7) of section 1426 (b) of the act may nevertheless be excepted under some other paragraph of such section.

(b) Services covered under a retirement system. Services performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality thereof are excepted from employment if such services are covered under a law enacted by the Congress of the United States which specifically provides for the establishment of a retirement system for employees of the United States or of such instrumentality. Determinations as to whether services are covered by a retirement system of the requisite character are to be made as of the time such services are performed. Services of an employee who has an option to have his services covered under a retirement system are not covered under such retirement system unless and until he exercises such option. The test is whether particular services performed by an employee are covered by a retirement system of the requisite character rather than whether the position in which such services are performed is covered by such retirement system.

(c) Special classes of services. The following classes of services performed either in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality thereof are excepted from employment:

(1) Services performed as the President or Vice President of the United States or as a Member, Delegate, Resident Commissioner, of or to the Congress of the United States;

(2) Services performed in the legislative branch of the United States Government;

(3) Services performed in the field service of the Post Office Department unless performed by an individual as an employee who is excluded by Executive order from the operation of the Civil Service Retirement Act (Act of May 29, 1930, as amended, 5 U. S. C. 691 et seq.) because he is serving under a temporary appointment pending final determination of eligibility for permanent or indefinite appointment;

(4) Services performed in or under the Bureau of the Census of the Department of Commerce by temporary employees employed for the actual taking of any census (exclusive of clerical or other employees employed for work other than in the actual taking of the census);

(5) Services performed by an individual as an employee who is excluded by Executive order from the operation of the Civil Service Retirement Act because of payment on a contract or fee basis;

(6) Services performed by an individual as an employee for nominal compensation of $12 or less per annum;

(7) Services performed in a hospital, home, or other institution of the United States by a patient or inmate thereof;

(8) Services performed by an individual as a consular agent appointed under the authority of section 551 of the Foreign Service Act of 1946 (22 U. S. C. 951);

(9) Services performed by student nurses, medical or dental interns, residents-in-training, student dietitians, student physical therapists, or student occupational therapists, assigned or attached to a hospital, clinic, or medical or dental laboratory operated by any department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States Government, or by certain other student employees described in section 2 of the act of August 4, 1947 (5 U. S. C. 1052);

(10) Services performed by an individual as an employee serving on a temporary basis in case of fire, storm, earthquake, flood, or other similar emergency;

(11) Services performed by an individual as an employee who is employed under a Federal relief program to relieve him from unemployment;

(12) Services performed as a member of a State, county, or community committee under the Production and Marketing Administration or of any other board, council, committee, or other similar body, unless such board, council, committee, or other similar body is composed exclusively of individuals otherwise in the full-time employ of the United States; and

(13) Services performed by an individual to whom the Civil Service Retirement Act does not apply because he is, with respect to such services, subject to another retirement system, established either by a law of the United States or by the agency or instrumentality of the United States for which such services are performed.

(d) Services performed for instrumentality specifically exempted from tax. Services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States are excepted from employment if such instrumentality is exempt from the employer tax imposed by section 1410 of the act by virtue of any other provision of law which specifically refers to such section 1410 in granting exemption from the tax imposed by such section. This exception does not operate to exclude from employment services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States unless and until the Congress grants to such instrumentality a specific exemption from the tax imposed by section 1410. Section 1412 of the act makes ineffectual as to the employer tax imposed by section 1410 those provisions of law which grant to an instrumentality of the United States an exemption from taxation, unless such provisions grant a specific exemption from the tax imposed by section 1410 by an express reference to such section. Thus, the general exemptions from Federal taxation granted by various statutes to certain instrumentalities of the United States without specific reference to the tax imposed by section 1410 are rendered inoperative insofar as such exemptions relate to the tax imposed by section 1410. For provisions relating to services performed for an instrumentality exempt on December 31, 1950, from the employer tax, see paragraph (e) of this section.

(e) Services performed for an instrumentality not subject to employer tax on December 31, 1950. Services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States are excepted from employment if the particular instrumentality was not subject on December 31, 1950, to the employer tax imposed by section 1410 of the act. If the particular instrumentality was not in existence on December 31, 1950, but is created thereafter under a law which was in effect on December 31, 1950, services performed in the employ of such instrumentality are excepted from employment if the instrumentality had it been in existence on December 31, 1950, would not have been subject on that date to the employer tax imposed by section 1410 of the act. It is immaterial, for the purposes of this exception, whether the exemption from the employer tax on December 31, 1950, resulted, or would have resulted, from a tax exemption as such in effect on December 31, 1950, or from the provisions of section 1426 (b) (6) of the act in effect on that date, relating to the exception from employment of services performed in the employ of certain instrumentalities of the United States. This exception, however, has no application with respect to any of the following classes of services:

(1) Services performed in the employ of a corporation which is wholly owned by the United States;

(2) Services performed in the employ of a national farm loan association, a production credit association, a Federal Reserve Bank, or a Federal Credit Union;

(3) Services performed in the employ of a State, county, or community committee under the Production and Marketing Administration; or

(4) Services performed by a civilian employee, who is not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service, Navy Exchanges, Marine Corps Exchanges, or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, at installations of the Department of Defense for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of such Department.

SECTION 1426 (b) (8) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(8) Service (other than service which, under subsection (k), constitutes covered transportation service) performed in the employ of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing which is wholly owned by one or more States or political subdivisions; (Sec. 1426 (b) (8), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

SECTION 1426 (k) OF THE ACT

COVERED TRANSPORTATION SERVICE

(1) Existing transportation systems—General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (2), all service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision in connection with its operation of a public transportation system shall constitute covered transportation service if any part of the transportation system was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951.

(2) Existing transportation systems—Cases in which no transportation employees, or only certain employees, are covered.—Service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision in connection with the operation of its public transportation system shall not constitute covered transportation service if—

(A) any part of the transportation system was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951, and substantially all service in connection with the operation of the transportation system is, on December 31, 1950, covered under a general retirement system providing benefits which, by reason of a provision of the State constitution dealing specifically with retirement systems of the State or political subdivisions thereof, cannot be diminished or impaired; or

(B) no part of the transportation system operated by the State or political subdivision on December 31, 1950, was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951; except that if such State or political subdivision makes an acquisition after 1950 from private ownership of any part of its transportation system, then, in the case of any employee who—

(C) became an employee of such State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition after 1950 of such part, and

(D) prior to such acquisition rendered service in employment (including as employment service covered by an agreement under section 218 of the Social Security Act) in connection with the operation of such part of the transportation system acquired by the State or political subdivision, the service of such employee in connection with the operation of the transportation system shall constitute covered transportation service, commencing with the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the acquisition of such part took place, unless on such first day such service of such employee is covered by a general retirement system which does not, with respect to such employee, contain special provisions applicable only to employees described in subparagraph (C).

(3) Transportation systems acquired after 1950. All service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision thereof in connection with its operation of a public transportation system shall constitute covered transportation service if the transportation system was not operated by the State or political subdivision prior to 1951 and, at the time of its first acquisition (after 1950) from private ownership of any part of its transportation system, the State or political subdivision did not have a general retirement system covering substantially all service performed in connection with the operation of the transportation system.

(4) Definitions. For the purpose of this subsection—

(A) The term "general retirement system" means any pension, annuity, retirement, or similar fund or system established by a State or by a political subdivision thereof for employees of the State, political subdivision, or both; but such term shall not include such a fund or system which covers only service performed in positions connected with the operation of its public transportation system.

(B) A transportation system or a part thereof shall be considered to have been acquired by a State or political subdivision from private ownership if prior to the acquisition service performed by employees in connection with the operation of the system or part thereof acquired constituted employment under this subchapter or was covered by an agreement made pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act and some of such employees became employees of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of such acquisition.

(C) The term "political subdivision" includes an instrumentality of (i) a State, (ii) one or more political subdivisions of a State, or (iii) a State and one or more of its political subdivisions. (Sec. 1426 (k), I. R. C., as added by sec. 204 (e), (g), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 533, 536.)

SECTION 1426 (e) (1) OF THE ACT

STATE

The term "State" includes Alaska, Hawaii, the District of Columbia, and the Virgin Islands; and on and after the effective date specified in section 3810 such term includes Puerto Rico. (Sec. 1426 (e) (1), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (b), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 532.)

SECTION 3810 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

EFFECTIVE DATE IN CASE OF PUERTO RICO

If the Governor of Puerto Rico certifies to the President of the United States that the legislature of Puerto Rico has, by concurrent resolution, resolved that it desires the extension to Puerto Rico of the provisions of title II of the Social Security Act, the effective date referred to in sections 1426 (e) • • • shall be January 1 of the first calendar year which begins more than ninety days after the date on which the President receives such certification. (Sec. 3810, I. R. C., as added by sec. 208 (b), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 543.)

[NOTE: A certificate of the Governor of Puerto Rico made in conformity with section 3810 of the Internal Revenue Code was received by the President of the United States on September 28, 1950. Accordingly, the effective date referred to in section 1426 (e) of the Internal Revenue Code is January 1, 1951.]

§ 403.214 States and their political subdivisions and instrumentalities—(a) In general. Services, other than covered transportation service as defined in section 1426 (k) of the act (see paragraph (b) of this section, performed in the employ of any State, or of any political subdivision thereof, are exempted from employment. Services, other than covered transportation service, performed in the employ of an instrumentality of one or more States or political subdivisions thereof are excepted from employment if the instrumentality is wholly owned by one or more of the foregoing. The term "State" includes the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico.

(b) Covered transportation service—(1) Transportation systems acquired in whole or in part after 1936 and prior to 1951—(i) In general. Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, all service performed after December 31, 1950, in the employ of a State or political subdivision thereof in connection with its operation of a public transportation system constitutes covered transportation service if any part of the transportation system was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951. For the purposes of this subdivision, it is immaterial whether any part of the transportation system was acquired prior to 1937 or after 1950, whether the employee was hired before, during, or after 1950, or whether the employee had been employed by the employer from whom the State or political subdivision acquired its transportation system or any part thereof.

(ii) General retirement system protected by State constitution. Except as provided in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph, service performed after December 31, 1950, in the employ of a State or political subdivision in connection with its operation of a public transportation system acquired in whole or in part from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951 does not constitute covered transportation service, if substantially all service in connection with the operation of the transportation system was, on December 31, 1950, covered under a general retirement system providing benefits which are protected from diminution or impairment under the State constitution by reason of an express provision, dealing specifically with retirement systems established by the State or political subdivisions of the State, which forbids such diminution or impairment.

(iii) Additions to certain transportation systems by acquisition after 1950. This subdivision is applicable only in case of an acquisition after 1950 from private ownership of an addition to an existing public transportation system which was acquired in whole or in part by a State or political subdivision thereof from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951 and then only in case service for such existing transportation system did not constitute covered transportation service by reason of the provisions of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph. Service in connection with the operation of such transportation system (including any additions acquired after 1950) constitutes covered transportation service commencing with the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the addition to the existing transportation system was acquired, if such service is performed by an employee who became an employee of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition from private ownership of such addition and who prior to the acquisition of such addition rendered service in employment in connection with the operation of the addition so acquired by such State or political subdivision. However, service performed by such employee in connection with the operation of the transportation system does not constitute covered transportation service if, on the first day of the third calendar quarter in which the addition was acquired, such service is covered by a general retirement system which does not, with respect to such employee, contain special provisions applicable only to employees who became employees of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition of such addition.

(2) Transportation systems in operation on December 31, 1950, no part of which was acquired after 1936 and prior to 1951—(i) In general. Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, no service performed in the employ of a State or a political subdivision thereof in connection with its operation of a public transportation system constitutes covered transportation service if no part of such transportation system operated by the State or political subdivision on December 31, 1950, was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951.

(ii) Additions acquired after 1950. This subdivision is applicable only in case of an acquisition after 1950 from private ownership of an addition to an existing public transportation system which was operated by a State or political subdivision on December 31, 1950, but no part of which was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951. Service in connection with the operation of such transportation system (including any additions acquired after 1950) constitutes covered transportation service commencing with the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the addition to the existing transportation system was acquired, if such service is performed by an employee who became an employee of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition from private ownership of such addition and who prior to the acquisition of such addition rendered service in employment in connection with the operation of the addition so acquired by such State or political subdivision. However, service performed by such employee in connection with the operation of the transportation system does not constitute covered transportation service if, on the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the addition was acquired, such service is covered by a general retirement system which does not, with respect to such employee, contain special provisions applicable only to employees who became employees of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition of such addition.

(3) Transportation systems acquired after 1950. All service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision thereof in connection with its operation of a public transportation system constitutes covered transportation service if the transportation system was not operated by the State or political subdivision prior to 1951 and, at the time of its first acquisition after 1950 from private ownership of any part of its transportation system, the State or political subdivision did not have a general retirement system covering substantially all service performed in connection with the operation of the transportation system.

(4) Definitions. For the purposes of paragraph (b) of this section—

(i) The term "general retirement system" means any pension, annuity, retirement, or similar fund or system established by a State or by a political subdivision thereof for employees of the State, political subdivision, or both; but such term does not include such a fund or system which covers only service performed in positions connected with the operation of its public transportation system.

(ii) A transportation system or a part thereof is considered to have been acquired by a State or political subdivision from private ownership if prior to the acquisition service performed by employees in connection with the operation of the system or an acquired part thereof constituted employment under the act or was covered by an agreement entered into between a State and the Federal Security Administrator pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act, and some of such employees became employees of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of such acquisition.

(iii) The term "political subdivision" includes an instrumentality of a State, of one or more political subdivisions of a State, or of a State and one or more of its political subdivisions.

(iv) The term "employment" includes service covered by an agreement entered into between a State and the Federal Security Administrator pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act.

SECTION 1426 (b) (9) (A) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(9) (A) Service performed by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order; (Sec. 1426 (b) (9) (A), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

§ 403.215 Ministers of churches and members of religious orders. Services performed by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry, or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order, are excepted from employment. The duties of ministers include the ministration of sacerdotal functions and the conduct of religious worship, and the control, conduct, and maintenance of religious organizations (including the religious boards, societies, and other integral agencies of such organizations), under the authority of a religious body constituting a church or church denomination.

SECTION 1426 (b) (9) (B) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(9) (B) Service performed in the employ of a religious, charitable, educational, or other organization exempt from income tax under section 101 (6), but this subparagraph shall not apply to service performed during the period for which a certificate, filed pursuant to subsection (l), is in effect if such service is performed by an employee (i) whose signature appears on the list filed by such organization under subsection (l), or (ii) who became an employee of such organization after the calendar quarter in which the certificate was filed. (Sec. 1426 (b) (9) (B), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

SECTION 101 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

EXEMPTIONS FROM TAX ON CORPORATIONS

Except as provided in supplement U, the following organizations shall be exempt from taxation under this chapter [chapter 1—income tax]—

• • • • •

(6) Corporations, and any community chest, fund, or foundation, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation. For loss of exemption under certain circumstances, see sections 3813 and 3814;

• • • • •

An organization operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business for profit shall not be exempt under any paragraph of this section on the ground that all of its profits are payable to one or more organizations exempt under this section from taxation. For the purposes of this paragraph the term "trade or business" shall not include the rental by an organization of its real property (including personal property leased with the real property).

Notwithstanding supplement U, an organization described in this section (other than in the preceding paragraph) shall be considered an organization exempt from income taxes for the purpose of any law which refers to organizations exempt from income taxes. (Sec. 101, I. R. C., as amended, effective with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1950, by secs. 301 (b), (c) (1), 303, 332 (c), Revenue Act of 1950, 64 Stat. 953, 954, 959.)

SECTION 11 (b) OF THE SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES CONTROL ACT OF 1950 (64 STAT. 997)

No organization shall be entitled to exemption from Federal income tax, under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code, for any taxable year if at any time during such taxable year (1) such organization is registered under section 7, or (2) there is in effect a final order of the Board requiring such organization to register under section 7.

SECTION 1426 (l) OF THE ACT

EXEMPTION OF RELIGIOUS, CHARITABLE, ETC., ORGANIZATIONS

(1) Waiver of exemption by organization. An organization exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) may file a certificate (in such form and manner, and with such official, as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter) certifying that it desires to have the insurance system established by title II of the Social Security Act extended to service performed by its employees and that at least two-thirds of its employees concur in the filing of the certificate. Such certificate may be filed only if it is accompanied by a list containing the signature, address, and social security account number (if any) of each employee who concurs in the filing of the certificate. Such list may be amended, at any time prior to the expiration of the first month following the first calendar quarter for which the certificate is in effect, by filing with such official a supplemental list or lists containing the signature, address, and social security account number (if any) of each additional employee who concurs in the filing of the certificate. The list and any supplemental list shall be filed in such form and manner as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter. The certificate shall be in effect (for the purposes of subsection (b) (9) (B) and for the purposes of section 210 (a) (9) (B) of the Social Security Act) for the period beginning with the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which such certificate is filed, but in no case shall such period begin prior to January 1, 1951. The period for which the certificate is effective may be terminated by the organization, effective at the end of a calendar quarter, upon giving two years' advance notice in writing, but only if, at the time of the receipt of such notice, the certificate has been in effect for a period of not less than eight years. The notice of termination may be revoked by the organization by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, a written notice of such revocation. Notice of termination or revocation thereof shall be filed in such form and manner, and with such official, as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter.

(2) Termination of waiver period by Commissioner. If the Commissioner finds that any organization which filed a certificate pursuant to this subsection has failed to comply substantially with the requirements of this subchapter or is no longer able to comply therewith, the Commissioner shall give such organization not less than sixty days' advance notice in writing that the period covered by such certificate will terminate at the end of the calendar quarter specified in such notice. Such notice of termination may be revoked by the Commissioner by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, written notice of such revocation to the organization. No notice of termination or of revocation thereof shall be given under this paragraph to an organization without the prior concurrence of the Federal Security Administrator.

(3) No renewal of waiver. In the event the period covered by a certificate filed pursuant to this subsection is terminated by the organization, no certificate may again be filed by such organization pursuant to this subsection. (Sec. 1426 (l), I. R. C., as added by sec. 204 (e), (g), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 535, 536.)

§ 403.216 Religious, charitable, educational, or other organizations exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code—(a) In general. (1) Services performed by an employee in the employ of a religious, charitable, educational, or other organization exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code are excepted from employment. However, this exception does not apply to services performed during the period for which a certificate, filed pursuant to section 1426 (l) of the act, is in effect if such services are performed by an employee (i) whose signature appears on the list filed by such organization under section 1426 (l) of the act, or (ii) who became an employee of such organization after the calendar quarter in which the certificate was filed.

(2) See § 403.215, relating to services performed by a minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order; § 403.218, relating to services performed in the employ of an organization exempt from income tax under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code; § 403.219, relating to services performed in the employ of a school, college, or university by certain students; and § 403.222, relating to services performed by certain student nurses and hospital internes.

(b) Waiver under section 1426 (l) of the Act of exemption from taxes—(1) Who may waive exemption. (i) Any organization exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code may waive its exemption from the taxes imposed under the act by filing a certificate on Form SS–15, provided that at least two-thirds of the employees of the organization concur in the filing of the certificate. The organization must be exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) for the taxable year in which the certificate is filed; otherwise, the Form SS–15 filed by the organization is void.

(ii) If the period covered by the certificate is terminated by the organization, no certificate may again be filed by the organization under section 1426 (l) of the act.

(2) Form and effect of waiver. (i) The certificate on Form SS–15 shall be filed with the collector for the district in which is located the principal office or principal place of business of the organization. The organization shall certify in the certificate that it desires to have the insurance system established by title II of the Social Security Act extended to services performed by its employees and that at least two-thirds of its employees, determined on the basis of the facts existing as of the date the certificate is filed, concur in the filing of the certificate.

(ii) All individuals who are employees of the organization within the meaning of section 1426 (d) of the act (see § 408.-204) shall be included in determining whether two-thirds of the employees of the organization concur in the filing of the certificate; except that there shall not be included (a) those employees who at the time of the filing of the certificate are performing for such organization services only of the character specified in paragraphs (9) (A), (11) (B), and (14) of section 1426 (b) of the act (see §§ 408.215, 408.219, and 408.222, respectively) and (b) those alien employees who at the time of the filing of the certificate are performing services for such organization under an arrangement which provides for the performance only of services outside the United States not on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft. As used in the preceding sentence, the term "alien employee" does not include an employee who is a citizen of Puerto Rico or of the Virgin Islands, and the term "United States" includes Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

(iii) The certificate may be filed only if it is accompanied by a list on Form SS–15a, containing the signature, address, and social security account number (if any) of each employee who concurs in the filing of the certificate. The list accompanying the certificate may be amended, at any time prior to the expiration of the first month following the first calendar quarter for which the certificate is in effect, by filing a supplemental list or lists on Form SS–15a Supplement, containing the signature, address, and social security account number (if any) of each additional employee who concurs in the filing of the certificate.

(iv) The certificate shall be in effect for the period beginning with the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed, but in no case shall the effective period begin prior to January 1, 1951. Thus, if the certificate is filed on or before December 31, 1950, it will be in effect with respect to services performed in the employ of the organization on and after January 1, 1951. For provisions relating to termination of the waiver, see subparagraphs (3) and (4) of this paragraph. The certificate is not terminated if the organization loses its exemption under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code, but continues effective with respect to any subsequent periods during which the organization is so exempt.

(v) Services performed in the employ of an organization which has duly filed a certificate are not excepted from employment under section 1426 (b) (9) (B) of the act, during the period for which the certificate is in effect, if such services are performed by an employee (a) whose signature appears on the list filed by the organization on Form SS–15a, or on Form SS–15a Supplement, or (b) who becomes an employee of the organization after the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed. Consequently, the taxes imposed under the act will apply to the organization and to each employee whose services constitute employment and whose signature appears on the accompanying list or on any supplemental list or lists filed within the prescribed time, commencing with the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed. Such taxes will also apply immediately with respect to services which constitute employment performed by any individual who enters the employ of the organization on or after the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed. A former employee of the organization who is rehired after the certificate becomes effective shall be considered to have entered the employ of the organization after the effective date of the certificate, regardless of whether or not such individual concurred in the filing of the certificate.

(3) Termination of waiver by organization. (i) The period for which the certificate is in effect may be terminated by the organization upon giving two years' advance notice in writing to the collector with whom the organization is filing returns of its desire to terminate the effect of the certificate at the end of a specified calendar quarter, but only if, at the time of the receipt of such notice by the collector, the certificate has been in effect for a period of not less than eight years. The notice of termination shall be signed by the president or other principal officer of the organization. Such notice shall be dated and shall show (a) the title of the officer signing the notice, (b) the name, address, and identification number of the organization, (c) the collector with whom the certificate was filed, (d) the date on which the certificate became effective, and (e) the date on which the certificate is to be terminated. No particular form is prescribed for the notice of termination.

(ii) In computing the effective period which must precede the date of receipt of the notice of termination, there shall be disregarded any period or periods as to which the organization is not exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(iii) The notice of termination may be revoked by the organization by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, a written notice of such revocation. The notice of revocation shall be filed with the collector with whom the notice of termination was filed. The notice of revocation shall be signed by the president or other principal officer of the organization. Such notice shall be dated and shall show (a) the title of the officer signing the notice, (b) the name, address, and identification number of the organization, and (c) the date of the notice of termination to be revoked. No particular form is prescribed for the notice of revocation.

(4) Termination of waiver by Commissioner. (i) The period for which the certificate is in effect may be terminated by the Commissioner, with the prior concurrence of the Federal Security Administrator, upon a finding by the Commissioner that the organization has failed to comply substantially with the requirements of the act or is no longer able to comply therewith. The Commissioner shall give the organization not less than sixty days' advance notice in writing that the period covered by the certificate will terminate at the end of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination.

(ii) The notice of termination may be revoked by the Commissioner, with the prior concurrence of the Federal Security Administrator, by giving written notice of revocation to the organization prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination.

SECTION 1426 (b) (10) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(10) Service performed by an individual as an employee or employee representative as defined in section 1532; (Sec. 1426 (b) (10), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

SECTION 1532 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

DEFINITIONS

As used in this subchapter [subchapter B, chapter 9, Internal Revenue Code]—

(a) Employer. The term "employer" means any carrier (as defined in subsection (h) of this section), and any company which is directly or indirectly owned or controlled by one or more such carriers or under common control therewith, and which operates any equipment or facility or performs any service (except trucking service, casual service, and the casual operation of equipment or facilities) in connection with the transportation of passengers or property by railroad, or the receipt, delivery, elevation, transfer in transit, refrigeration or icing, storage, or handling of property transported by railroad, and any receiver, trustee, or other individual or body, judicial or otherwise, when in the possession of the property or operating all or any part of the business of any such employer: Provided, however, That the term "employer" shall not include any street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, unless such railway is operating as a part of a general steam-railroad system of transportation, but shall not exclude any part of the general steam-railroad system of transportation now or hereafter operated by any other motive power. The Interstate Commerce Commission is hereby authorized and directed upon request of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, or upon complaint of any party interested, to determine after hearing whether any line operated by electric power falls within the terms of this proviso. The term "employer" shall also include railroad associations, traffic associations, tariff bureaus, demurrage bureaus, weighing and inspection bureaus, collection agencies and other association, bureaus, agencies, or organizations controlled and maintained wholly or principally by two or more employers as hereinbefore defined and engaged in the performance of services in connection with or incidental to railroad transportation; and railway labor organizations, national in scope, which have been or may be organized in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, as amended, and their State and National legislative committees and their general committees and their insurance departments and their local lodges and divisions, established pursuant to the constitution and bylaws of such organizations. The term "employer" shall not include any company by reason of its being engaged in the mining of coal, the supplying of coal to an employer where delivery is not beyond the mine tipple, and the operation of equipment or facilities therefor, or in any of such activities.

(b) Employee. The term "employee" means any individual in the service of one or more employers for compensation: Provided, however, That the term "employee" shall include an employee of a local lodge or division defined as an employer in subsection (a) only if he was in the service of or in the employment relation to a carrier on or after August 29, 1935. An individual shall be deemed to have been in the employment relation to a carrier on August 29, 1935, if (i) he was on that date on leave of absence from his employment, expressly granted to him by the carrier by whom he was employed, or by a duly authorized representative of such carrier, and the grant of such leave of absence will have been established to the satisfaction of the Railroad Retirement Board before July 1947; or (ii) he was in the service of a carrier after August 29, 1935, and before January 1946 in each of six calendar months, whether or not consecutive; or (iii) before August 29, 1935, he did not retire and was not retired or discharged from the service of the last carrier by whom he was employed or its corporate or operating successor, but (A) solely by reason of his physical or mental disability he ceased before August 29, 1935, to be in the service of such carrier and thereafter remained continuously disabled until he attained age sixty-five or until August 1945, or (B) solely for such last stated reason a carrier by whom he was employed before August 29, 1935, or a carrier who is its successor did not on or after August 29, 1935, and before August 1945 call him to return to service, or (C) if he was so called he was solely for such reason unable to render service in six calendar months as provided in clause (ii); or (iv) he was on August 29, 1935, absent from the service of a carrier by reason of a discharge which, within one year after the effective date thereof, was protested, to an appropriate labor representative or to the carrier, as wrongful, and which was followed within ten years of the effective date thereof by his reinstatement in good faith to his former service with all his seniority rights: Provided, That an individual shall not be deemed to have been on August 29, 1935, in the employment relation to a carrier if before that date he was granted a pension or gratuity on the basis of which a pension was awarded to him pursuant to section 6 of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937, or if during the last pay-roll period before August 29, 1935, in which he rendered service to a carrier he was not in the service of an employer, in accordance with subsection (d), with respect to any service in such pay-roll period, or if he could have been in the employment relation to an employer only by reason of his having been, either before or after August 29, 1935, in the service of a local lodge or division defined as an employer in subsection (a).

The term "employee" includes an officer of an employer.

The term "employee" shall not include any individual while such individual is engaged in the physical operations consisting of the mining of coal, the preparation of coal, the handling (other than movement by rail with standard railroad locomotives) of coal not beyond the mine tipple, or the loading of coal at the tipple.

(c) Employee representative. The term "employee representative" means any officer or official representative of a railway labor organization other than a labor organization included in the term "employer" as defined in subsection (a), who before or after June 29, 193', was in the service of an employer as defined in subsection (a) and who is duly authorized and designated to represent employees in accordance with the Railway Labor Act, 44 Stat. 577 (U. S. C., Title 45, c. 18), as amended, and any individual who is regularly assigned to or regularly employed by such officer or official representative in connection with the duties of his office.

(d) Service. An individual is in the service of an employer whether his service is rendered within or without the United States if (i) he is subject to the continuing authority of the employer to supervise and direct the manner of rendition of his service, or he is rendering professional or technical services and is integrated into the staff of the employer, or he is rendering, on the property used in the employer's operations, other personal services the rendition of which is integrated into the employer's operations, and (ii) he renders such service for compensation: Provided, however, That an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of an employer, other than a local lodge or division or a general committee of a railway-labor-organization employer, not conducting the principal part of its business in the United States only when he is rendering service to it in the United States; and an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of such a local lodge or division only if (1) all, or substantially all, the individuals constituting its membership are employees of an employer conducting the principal part of its business in the United States; or (2) the headquarters of such local lodge or division is located in the United States; and an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of such a general committee only if (1) he is representing a local lodge or division described in clauses (1) or (2) immediately above; or (2) all, or substantially all, the individuals represented by it are employees of an employer conducting the principal part of its business in the United States; or (3) he acts in the capacity of a general chairman or an assistant general chairman of a general committee which represents individuals rendering service in the United States to an employer, but in such case if his office or headquarters is not located in the United States and the individuals represented by such general committee are employees of an employer not conducting the principal part of its business in the United States, only such proportion of the remuneration for such service shall be regarded as compensation as the proportion which the mileage in the United States under the jurisdiction of such general committee bears to the total mileage under its jurisdiction, unless such mileage formula is inapplicable, in which case such other formula as the Railroad Retirement Board may have prescribed pursuant to subsection (c) of section 1 of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 shall be applicable, and if the application of such mileage formula, or such other formula as the Board may prescribe, would result in the compensation of the individual being less than 10 per centum of his remuneration for such service no part of such remuneration shall be regarded as compensation: Provided further, That an individual not a citizen or resident of the United States shall not be deemed to be in the service of an employer when rendering service outside the United States to an employer who is required under the laws applicable in the place where the service is rendered to employ therein, in whole or in part, citizens or residents thereof; and the laws applicable on August 29, 1935, in the place where the service is rendered shall be deemed to have been applicable there at all times prior to that date.

(e) Compensation. The term "compensation" means any form of money remuneration earned by an individual for services rendered as an employee to one or more employers, or as an employee representative, including remuneration paid for time lost as an employee, but remuneration paid for time lost shall be deemed earned in the month in which such time is lost. Such term does not include tips, or the voluntary payment by an employer, without deduction from the remuneration of the employee, of the tax imposed on such employee by section 1500. Compensation which is earned during the period for which the Commissioner shall require a return of taxes under this subchapter to be made and which is payable during the calendar month following such period shall be deemed to have been paid during such period only. For the purpose of determining the amount of taxes under sections 1500 and 1520, compensation earned in the service of a local lodge or division of a railway-labor-organization employer shall be disregarded with respect to any calendar month if the amount thereof is less than $3 and (1) such compensation is earned before April 1, 1940, and the taxes thereon under such sections, are not paid before July 1, 1940, or (2) such compensation is earned after March 31, 1940.

A payment made by an employer to an individual through the employer's pay roll shall be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be compensation for service rendered by such individual as an employee of the employer in the period with respect to which the payment is made. An employee shall be deemed to be paid, "for time lost" the amount he is paid by an employer with respect to an identifiable period of absence from the active service of the employer, including absence on account of personal injury, and the amount he is paid by the employer for loss of earnings resulting from his displacement to a less remunerative position or occupation. If a payment is made by an employer with respect to a personal injury and includes pay for time lost, the total payment shall be deemed to be paid for time lost unless, at the time of payment, a part of such payment is specifically apportioned to factors other than time lost, in which event only such part of the payment as is not so apportioned shall be deemed to be paid for time lost.

(f) United States. The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense means the States, Alaska, Hawaii, and the District of Columbia.

(g) Company. The term "company" includes corporations, associations, and joint-stock companies.

(h) Carrier. The term "carrier" means an express company, sleeping-car company, or carrier by railroad, subject to part I of the Interstate Commerce Act.

SECTION 1426 (b) (11) (A) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(11) (A) Service performed in any calendar quarter in the employ of any organization exempt from income tax under section 101, if the remuneration for such service is less than $50; (Sec. 1426 (b) (11) (A), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

SECTION 101 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

EXEMPTIONS FROM TAX ON CORPORATIONS

Except as provided in supplement U, the following organizations shall be exempt from taxation under this chapter [chapter 1—income tax]—

(1) Labor, agricultural, or horticultural organizations;

(2) Mutual savings banks not having a capital stock represented by shares;

(3) Fraternal beneficiary societies, orders, or associations, (A) operating under the lodge system or for the exclusive benefit of the members of a fraternity itself operating under the lodge system; and (B) providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such society, order, or association or their dependents;

(4) Domestic building and loan associations substantially all the business of which is confined to making loans to members; and cooperative banks without capital stock organized and operated for mutual purposes and without profit;

(5) Cemetery companies owned and operated exclusively for the benefit of their members or which are not operated for profit; and any corporation chartered solely for burial purposes as a cemetery corporation and not permitted by its charter to engage in any business not necessarily incident to that purpose, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual;

(6) Corporations, and any community chest, fund, or foundation, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation. For loss of exemption under certain circumstances, see sections 3813 and 3814;

(7) Business leagues, chambers of commerce, real-estate boards, or boards of trade, not organized for profit and no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual;

(8) Civic leagues or organizations not organized for profit but operated exclusively for the promotion of social welfare, or local associations of employees, the membership of which is limited to the employees of a designated person or persons in a particular municipality, and the net earnings of which are devoted exclusively to charitable, educational, or recreational purposes;

(9) Clubs organized and operated exclusively for pleasure, recreation, and other nonprofitable purposes, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder;

(10) Benevolent life insurance associations of a purely local character, mutual ditch or irrigation companies, mutual or cooperative telephone companies, or like organizations; but only if 85 per centum or more of the income consists of amounts collected from members for the sole purpose of meeting losses and expenses;

(11) Mutual insurance companies or associations other than life or marine (including interinsurers and reciprocal underwriters) if the gross amount received during the taxable year from interest, dividends, rents, and premiums (including deposits and assessments) does not exceed $75,000;

(12) Farmers', fruit growers', or like associations organized and operated on a cooperative basis (a) for the purpose of marketing the products of members or other producers, and turning back to them the proceeds of sales, less the necessary marketing expenses, on the basis of either the quantity or the value of the products furnished by them, or (b) for the purpose of purchasing supplies and equipment for the use of members or other persons, and turning over such supplies and equipment to them at actual cost, plus necessary expenses. Exemption shall not be denied any such association because it has capital stock, if the dividend rate of such stock is fixed at not to exceed the legal rate of interest in the State of incorporation or 8 per centum per annum, whichever is greater, on the value of the consideration for which the stock was issued, and if substantially all such stock (other than nonvoting preferred stock, the owners of which are not entitled or permitted to participate, directly or indirectly, in the profits of the association, upon dissolution or otherwise, beyond the fixed dividends) is owned by producers who market their products or purchase their supplies and equipment through the association; nor shall exemption be denied any such association because there is accumulated and maintained by it a reserve required by State law or a reasonable reserve for any necessary purpose. Such an association may market the products of nonmembers in an amount the value of which does not exceed the value of the products marketed for members, and may purchase supplies and equipment for nonmembers in an amount the value of which does not exceed the value of the supplies and equipment purchased for members, provided the value of the purchases made for persons who are neither members nor producers does not exceed 15 per centum of the value of all its purchases. Business done for the United States or any of its agencies shall be disregarded in determining the right to exemption under this paragraph;

(13) Corporations organized by an association exempt under the provisions of paragraph (12), or members thereof, for the purpose of financing the ordinary crop operations of such members or other producers, and operated in conjunction with such association. Exemption shall not be denied any such corporation because it has capital stock, if the dividend rate of such stock is fixed at not to exceed the legal rate of interest in the State of incorporation or 8 per centum per annum, whichever is greater, on the value of the consideration for which the stock was issued, and if substantially all such stock (other than nonvoting preferred stock, the owners of which are not entitled or permitted to participate, directly or indirectly, in the profits of the corporation, upon dissolution or otherwise, beyond the fixed dividends) is owned by such association, or members thereof; nor shall exemption be denied any such corporation because there is accumulated and maintained by it a reserve required by State law or a reasonable reserve for any necessary purpose;

(14) Corporations organized for the exclusive purpose of holding title to property, collecting income therefrom, and turning over the entire amount thereof, less expenses, to an organization which itself is exempt from the tax imposed by this chapter;

(15) Corporations organized under Act of Congress, if such corporations are instrumentalities of the United States and if, under such Act, as amended and supplemented, such corporations are exempt from Federal income taxes;

(16) Voluntary employees' beneficiary associations providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such association or their dependents, if (A) no part of their net earnings inures (other than through such payments) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and (B) 85 per centum or more of the income consists of amounts collected from members and amounts contributed to the association by the employer of the members for the sole purpose of making such payments and meeting expenses;

(17) Teachers' retirement fund associations of a purely local character, if (A) no part of their net earnings inures (other than through payment of retirement benefits) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and (B) the income consists solely of amounts received from public taxation, amounts received from assessments upon the teaching salaries of members, and income in respect of investments;

(18) Religious or apostolic associations or corporations, if such associations or corporations have a common treasury or community treasury, even if such associations or corporations engage in business for the common benefit of the members, but only if the members thereof include (at the time of filing their returns) in their gross income their entire pro-rata shares, whether distributed or not, of the net income of the association or corporation for such year. Any amount so included in the gross income of a member shall be treated as a dividend received;

(19) Voluntary employees' beneficiary associations providing for the payment of life, sick, accident, or other benefits to the members of such association or their dependents or their designated beneficiaries, if (A) admission to membership in such association is limited to individuals who are officers or employees of the United States Government, and (B) no part of the net earnings of such association inures (other than through such payments) to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

An organization operated for the primary purpose of carrying on a trade or business for profit shall not be exempt under any paragraph of this section on the ground that all of its profits are payable to one or more organizations exempt under this section from taxation. For the purposes of this paragraph the term "trade or business" shall not include the rental by an organization of its real property (including personal property leased with the real property).

Notwithstanding supplement U, an organization described in this section (other than in the preceding paragraph) shall be considered an organization exempt from income taxes for the purpose of any law which refers to organizations exempt from income taxes. (Sec. 101, I. R. C., as amended by sec. 217, Revenue Act of 1939, 53 Stat. 876; secs. 101, 137 (a), 165 (a), Revenue Act of 1942, 56 Stat. 802, 836, 872; and as amended, effective with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1950, by secs. 301 (b), (c) (1), 303, 332 (c), Revenue Act of 1950, 64 Stat. 953, 954, 959.)

SECTION 11 (b) OF THE SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES CONTROL ACT OF 1950 (64 STAT. 997)

No organization shall be entitled to exemption from Federal income tax, under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code, for any taxable year if at any time during such taxable year (1) such organization is registered under section 7, or (2) there is in effect a final order of the Board requiring such organization to register under section 7.

§ 408.218 Organizations exempt from income tax; remuneration less than $50 for calendar quarter. (a) Services performed by an employee in a calendar quarter in the employ of an organization exempt from income tax under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code are excepted from employment, if the remuneration for the services is less than $50. The exception applies separately with respect to each organization for which the employee renders services in a calendar quarter. The type of services performed by the employee and the place where the services are performed are immaterial; the statutory tests are the character of the organization in the employ of which the services are performed and the amount of the remuneration for services performed by the employee in the calendar quarter.

Example (1). X is a local lodge of a fraternal organization and is exempt from income tax under section 101 (3) of the Internal Revenue Code. X has two paid employees, A, who serves exclusively as recording secretary for the lodge, and B, who performs services for the lodge as janitor of its clubhouse. For services performed during the first calendar quarter of 1951 (that is, January 1, 1951, through March 31, 1951, both dates inclusive) A earns a total of $30. For services performed during the same calendar quarter B earns $180. Since the remuneration for the services performed by A during such quarter is less than $50, all of such services are excepted, and the tax does not attach with respect to any of the remuneration for such services. Since the remuneration for the services performed by B during such quarter, however, is not less than $50, none of such services are excepted, and the tax attaches with respect to all of the remuneration for such services (that is, $180) as and when paid.

Example (2). The facts are the same as in example (1), above, except that on April 1, 1951, A's salary is increased and, for services performed during the calendar quarter beginning on that date (that is, April 1, 1951, through June 30, 1951, both dates inclusive), A earns a total of $60. Although all of the services performed by A during the first quarter were excepted, none of A's services performed during the second quarter are excepted since the remuneration for such services is not less than $50. The tax attaches with respect to all of the remuneration for services performed during the second quarter (that is, $60) as and when paid.

Example (3). The facts are the same as in example (1), above, except that A earns $120 for services performed during the year 1951, and such amount is paid to him in a lump sum at the end of the year. The services performed by A in any calendar quarter during the year are excepted if the portion of the $120 attributable to services performed in that quarter is less than $50. If, however, the portion of the $120 attributable to services performed in any calendar quarter during the year is not less than $50, the services during that quarter are not excepted, and the tax attaches with respect to that portion of the remuneration attributable to his services in that quarter. The test is the amount earned in a calendar quarter and not the amount paid in a calendar quarter.

(b) See § 408.216, relating to services performed in the employ of religious, charitable, educational, and other organizations exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code; § 408.215, relating to services performed by a minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order; § 408.219, relating to services performed in the employ of a school, college, or university by certain students; and § 408.222, relating to services performed by certain student nurses and hospital internes.

SECTION 1426 (b) (11) (B) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(11) (B) Service performed in the employ of a school, college, or university if such service is performed by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at such school, college, or university; (Sec. 1426 (b) (11) (B), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531).

§ 408.219 Students employed by schools, colleges, or universities. (a) Services performed in the employ of a school, college, or university (whether or not such organization is exempt from income tax under section 101 of the Internal Revenue Code) are excepted from employment, if the services are performed by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at such school, college, or university.

(b) For purposes of this exception, the amount of remuneration for services performed by the employee in the calendar quarter, the type of services performed by the employee, and the place where the services are performed are immaterial; the statutory tests are the character of the organization in the employ of which the services are performed, and the status of the employee as a student enrolled and regularly attending classes at the school, college, or university in the employ of which he performs the services.

(c) The status of the employee as a student performing the services shall be determined on the basis of the relationship of such employee with the organization for which the services are performed. An employee who performs services in the employ of a school, college, or university as an incident to and for the purpose of pursuing a course of study at such school, college, or university has the status of a student in the performance of such services.

(d) The term "school, college, or university" within the meaning of this exception is to be taken in its commonly or generally accepted sense.

(e) For provisions relating to domestic service performed by a student in a local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority, see § 408.209.

SECTION 1426 (b) (12) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(12) Service performed in the employ of a foreign government (including service as a consular or other officer or employee or a nondiplomatic representative); (Sec. 1426 (b) (12), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

§ 408.220 Foreign governments. (a) Services performed by an employee in the employ of a foreign government are excepted from employment. The exception includes not only services performed by ambassadors, ministers, and other diplomatic officers and employees but also services performed as a consular or other officer or employee of a foreign government, or as a nondiplomatic representative thereof.

(b) For purposes of this exception, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial. It is also immaterial whether the foreign government grants an equivalent exemption with respect to similar services performed in the foreign country by citizens of the United States.

SECTION 1426 (b) (13) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(13) Service performed in the employ of an instrumentality wholly owned by a foreign government—

(A) If the service is of a character similar to that performed in foreign countries by employees of the United States Government or of an instrumentality thereof; and

(B) If the Secretary of State shall certify to the Secretary of the Treasury that the foreign government, with respect to whose instrumentality and employees thereof exemption is claimed, grants an equivalent exemption with respect to similar service performed in the foreign country by employees of the United States Government and of instrumentalities thereof: (Sec. 1426 (b) (13), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

§ 408.221 Wholly owned instrumentalities of a foreign government. (a) Services performed by an employee in the employ of certain instrumentalities of a foreign government are excepted from employment. The exception includes all services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the government of a foreign country, if:

(1) The instrumentality is wholly owned by the foreign government;

(2) The services are of a character similar to those performed in foreign countries by employees of the United States Government or of an instrumentality thereof; and

(3) The Secretary of State certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury that the foreign government, with respect to whose instrumentality and employees thereof exemption is claimed, grants an equivalent exemption with respect to services performed in the foreign country by employees of the United States Government and of instrumentalities thereof.

(b) For purposes of this exception, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial.

SECTION 1426 (b) (14) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(14) Service performed as a student nurse in the employ of a hospital or a nurses' training school by an individual who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes in a nurses' training school chartered or approved pursuant to State law; and service performed as an interne in the employ of a hospital by an individual who has completed a four years' course in a medical school chartered or approved pursuant to State law; (Sec. 1426 (b) (14), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

§ 408.222 Student nurses and hospital internes. (a) Services performed as a student nurse in the employ of a hospital or a nurses' training school are excepted from employment, if the student nurse is enrolled and regularly attending classes in a nurses' training school, and such nurses' training school is chartered or approved pursuant to State law.

(b) Services performed as an interne (as distinguished from a resident doctor) in the employ of a hospital are excepted from employment, if the interne has completed a four years' course in a medical school chartered or approved pursuant to State law.

SECTION 1426 (b) (15) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means * * * any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 * * *; except that * * * such term shall not include—

(15) Service performed by an individual in (or as an officer or member of the crew of a vessel while it is engaged in) the catching, taking, harvesting, cultivating, or farming of any kind of fish, shellfish, crustacea, sponges, seaweeds, or other aquatic forms of animal and vegetable life (including service performed by any such individual as an ordinary incident to any such activity), except (A) service performed in connection with the catching or taking of salmon or halibut, for commercial purposes, and (B) service performed on or in connection with a vessel of more than ten net tons (determined in the manner provided for determining the register tonnage of merchant vessels under the laws of the United States); (Sec. 1426 (b) (15), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 531.)

§ 408.223 Fishing—(a) In general. Subject to the limitations prescribed in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, the services described in this paragraph are excepted from employment. Services performed by an individual in the catching, taking, harvesting, cultivating, or farming of any kind of fish, shellfish (for example, oysters, clams, and mussels), crustacea (for example, lobsters, crabs, and shrimps), sponges, seaweeds, or other aquatic forms of animal and vegetable life are excepted from employment. The exception extends to services performed as an officer or member of the crew of a vessel while the vessel is engaged in any such activity whether or not the officer or member of the crew is himself so engaged. In the case of an individual who is engaged in any such activity in the employ of any person, the services performed, by such individual in the employ of such person, as an ordinary incident to any such activity are also excepted from employment. Similarly, for example, the shore services of an officer or member of the crew of a vessel engaged in any such activity are excepted if such services are an ordinary incident to any such activity. Services performed as an ordinary incident to any such activity may include, for example, services performed in such cleaning, icing, and packing of fish as are necessary for the immediate preservation of the catch.

(b) Salmon and halibut fishing. Services performed in connection with the catching or taking of salmon or halibut, for commercial purposes, are not within the exception. Thus, neither the services of an officer or member of the crew of a vessel (irrespective of its tonnage) which is engaged in the catching or taking of salmon or halibut, for commercial purposes, nor the services of any other individual in connection with such activity, are within the exception.

(c) Vessels of more than 10 net tons. Services described in paragraph (a) of this section performed on or in connection with a vessel of more than 10 net tons are not within the exception. For purposes of the exception, the tonnage of the vessel shall be determined in the manner provided for determining the register tonnage of merchant vessels under the laws of the United States.

The term "employment" means * * * any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 * * *; except that * * * such term shall not include—

(16) (A) Service performed by an individual under the age of eighteen in the delivery or distribution of newspapers or shopping news, not including delivery or distribution to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution;

(B) Service performed by an individual in, and at the time of, the sale of newspapers or magazines to ultimate consumers, under an arrangement under which the newspapers or magazines are to be sold by him at a fixed price, his compensation being based on the retention of the excess of such price over the amount at which the newspapers or magazines are charged to him, whether or not he is guaranteed a minimum amount of compensation for such service, or is entitled to be credited with the unsold newspapers or magazines turned back; or (Sec. 1426 (b) (16), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 532.)

§ 408.224 Delivery and distribution of newspapers, shopping news, and magazines—(a) In general. Subparagraph (A) of section 1426 (b) (16) of the act excepts from employment certain services performed by an employee under the age of 18 in the delivery or distribution of newspapers or shopping news. This exception is dealt with in paragraph (b) of this section. Subparagraph (B) of section 1426 (b) (16) excepts from employment certain services in the sale of newpapers or magazines without regard to the age of the individual performing the services. Such exception is dealt with in paragraph (c) of this section.

(b) Services of individuals under age 18. Services performed by an employee under the age of 18 in the delivery or distribution of newspapers or shopping news, not including delivery or distribution (as, for example, by a regional distributor) to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution, are excepted from employment. Thus, the services performed by an employee under the age of 18 in making house-to-house delivery or sale of newspapers or shopping news, including handbills and other similar types of advertising material, are excepted from employment. The services are excepted irrespective of the form or method of compensation. Incidental services by the employee who makes the house-to-house delivery, such as services in assembling newspapers, are considered to be within the exception. The exception continues only during the time that the employee is under the age of 18.

(c) Services of individuals of any age. Services performed by an employee in, and at the time of, the sale of newspapers or magazines to ultimate consumers under an arrangement under which the newspapers or magazines are to be sold by him at a fixed price, his compensation being based on the retention of the excess of such price over the amount at which the newspapers or magazines are charged to him, are excepted from employment. The services are excepted whether or not the employee is guaranteed a minimum amount of compensation for such services, or is entitled to be credited with the unsold newspapers or magazines turned back. Moreover, the services are excepted without regard to the age of the employee. Services performed other than at the time of sale to the ultimate consumer are not within the exception. Thus, the services of a regional distributor which are antecedent to but not immediately part of the sale to the ultimate consumer are not within the exception. However, incidental services by the employee who makes the sale to the ultimate consumer, such as services in assembling newspapers or in taking newspapers or magazines to the place of sale, are considered to be within the exception.

SECTION 1426 (b) (17) OF THE ACT

The term "employment" means * * * any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1950 * * *; except that * * * such term shall not include—

(17) Service performed in the employ of an international organization. (Sec. 1426 (b) (17), I. R. C., as added by sec. 204 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 532.)

SECTION 3797 (a) (18) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION

The term "international organization" means a public international organization entitled to enjoy privileges, exemptions, and immunities as an international organization under the International Organizations Immunities Act. (Sec. 3797 (a) (18), I. R. C., as added by sec. 4 (1), Act of Dec. 29, 1945, 59 Stat. 671.)

SECTION 1 OF THE INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS IMMUNITIES ACT

[Title I, Act of Dec. 29, 1945, 59 Stat. 669]

For the purposes of this title [International Organizations Immunities Act], the term "international organization" means a public international organization in which the United States participates pursuant to any treaty or under the authority of any Act of Congress authorizing such participation or making an appropriation for such participation, and which shall have been designated by the President through appropriate Executive order as being entitled to enjoy the privileges, exemptions, and immunities herein provided. The President shall be authorized, in the light of the functions performed by any such international organization, by appropriate Executive order to withhold or withdraw from any such organization or its officers or employees any of the privileges, exemptions, and immunities provided for in this title (including the amendments made by this title) or to condition or limit the enjoyment by any such organization or its officers or employees of any such privilege, exemption, or immunity. The President shall be authorized, if in his judgment such action should be justified by reason of the abuse by an international organization or its officers and employees of the privileges, exemptions, and immunities herein provided or for any other reason, at any time to revoke the designation of any international organization under this section, whereupon the international organization in question shall cease to be classed as an international organization for the purposes of this title.

§ 408.225 International organizations. Subject to the provisions of section 1 of the International Organizations Immunities Act, services performed in the employ of an international organization as defined in section 3797 (a) (18) of the Internal Revenue Code are excepted from employment.

SECTION 1426 (a) OF THE ACT

WAGES

The term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

(1) That part of the remuneration which, after remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection) equal to $3,600 with respect to employment has been paid to an individual by an employer during any calendar year, is paid to such individual by such employer during such calendar year. If an employer (hereinafter referred to as successor employer) during any calendar year acquires substantially all the property used in a trade or business of another employer (hereinafter referred to as a predecessor), or used in a separate unit of a trade or business of a predecessor, and immediately after the acquisition employs in his trade or business an individual who immediately prior to the acquisition was employed in the trade or business of such predecessor, then, for the purpose of determining whether the successor employer has paid remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection) with respect to employment equal to $3,600 to such individual during such calendar year, any remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraph of this subsection) with respect to employment paid (or considered under this paragraph as having been paid) to such individual by such predecessor during such calendar year and prior to such acquisition shall be considered as having been paid by such successor employer;

(2) The amount of any payment (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) made to, or on behalf of, an employee or any of his dependents under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provision for his employees generally (or for his employees generally and their dependents) or for a class or classes of his employees (or for a class or classes of his employees and their dependents), on account of (A) retirement, or (B) sickness or accident disability, or (C) medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability, or (D) death;

(3) Any payment made to an employee (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) on account of retirement;

(4) Any payment on account of sickness or accident disability, or medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability, made by an employer to, or on behalf of, an employee after the expiration of six calendar months following the last calendar month in which the employee worked for such employer;

(5) Any payment made to, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary (A) from or to a trust exempt from tax under section 165 (a) at the time of such payment unless such payment is made to an employee of the trust as remuneration for services rendered as such employee and not as a beneficiary of the trust, or (B) under or to an annuity plan which, at the time of such payment, meets the requirements of section 165 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6);

(6) The payment by an employer (without deduction from the remuneration of the employee) (A) of the tax imposed upon an employee under section 1400, or (B) of any payment required from an employee under a State unemployment compensation law;

(7) (A) Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash to an employee for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business or for domestic service in a private home of the employer;

(B) Cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for domestic service in a private home of the employer, if the cash remuneration paid in the quarter for such service is less than $50 or the employee is not regularly employed by the employer in such quarter of payment. For the purposes of this subparagraph, an employee shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if (i) on each of some twenty-four days during the quarter the employee performs for the employer for some portion of the day domestic service in a private home of the employer, or (ii) the employee was regularly employed (as determined under clause (i)) by the employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar quarter. As used in this subparagraph, the term "domestic service in a private home of the employer" does not include service described in subsection (h) (5);

(8) Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for agricultural labor;

(9) Any payment (other than vacation or sick pay) made to an employee after the month in which he attains the age of sixty-five, if he did not work for the employer in the period for which such payment is made; or

(10) Remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for service described in subsection (d) (3) (C) (relating to home workers), if the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such service is less than $50. (Sec. 1426 (a), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 203 (a), (d), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 525, 528.)

SECTION 1426 (j) OF THE ACT

COMPUTATION OF WAGES IN CERTAIN CASES

For purposes of this subchapter, in the case of domestic service described in subsection (a) (7) (B), any payment of cash remuneration for such service which is more or less than a whole-dollar amount shall, under such conditions and to such extent as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter, be computed to the nearest dollar. For the purpose of the computation to the nearest dollar, the payment of a fractional part of a dollar shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half dollar or more, in which case it shall be increased to $1. The amount of any payment of cash remuneration so computed to the nearest dollar shall, in lieu of the amount actually paid, be deemed to constitute the amount of cash remuneration for purposes of subsection (a) (7) (B). (Sec. 1426 (j), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 204 (c), (g), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 536, 536.)

SECTION 1420 (c) OF THE ACT

FEDERAL SERVICE

In the case of the taxes imposed by this subchapter with respect to service performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality which is wholly owned by the United States, the determination whether an individual has performed service which constitutes employment as defined in section 1426, the determination of the amount of remuneration for such service which constitutes wages as defined in such section, and the return and payment of the taxes imposed by this subchapter, shall be made by the head of the Federal agency or instrumentality having the control of such service, or by such agents as such head may designate. The person making such return may, for convenience of administration, make payments of the tax imposed under section 1410 with respect to such service without regard to the $3,600 limitation in section 1426 (a) (1), and he shall not be required to obtain a refund of the tax paid under section 1410 on that part of the remuneration not included in wages by reason of section 1426 (a) (1). The provisions of this subsection shall be applicable in the case of service performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service, Navy Exchanges, Marine Corps Exchanges, or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, at installations of the Department of Defense for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of such Department; and for purposes of this subsection the Secretary of Defense shall be deemed to be the head of such instrumentality. (Sec. 1420 (c), I. R. C., as added by sec. 202 (b), (d), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 524, 525.)

SECTION 1427 OF THE ACT

DEDUCTIONS AS CONSTRUCTIVE PAYMENTS

Whenever under this subchapter or any Act of Congress, or under the law of any State, an employer is required or permitted to deduct any amount from the remuneration of an employee and to pay the amount deducted to the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, then for the purposes of this subchapter the amount so deducted shall be considered to have been paid to the employee at the time of such deduction.

§ 408.226 Wages—(a) In general. (1) Whether remuneration paid on or after January 1, 1951, for employment performed after December 31, 1936, constitutes wages is determined under section 1426 (a) of the act. This section of the regulations in this part and § 408.227 (relating to exclusions from wages) apply with respect only to remuneration paid on or after January 1, 1951, for employment performed after December 31, 1936. Whether remuneration paid after December 31, 1936, and prior to January 1, 1940, for employment performed after December 31, 1936, constitutes wages shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of Part 401 of this chapter (Regulations 91). Whether remuneration paid after December 31, 1939, and prior to January 1, 1951, for employment performed after December 31, 1936, constitutes wages shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of Part 402 of this chapter (Regulations 106).

(2) The term "wages" means all remuneration for employment unless specifically excepted under section 1426 (a) of the act (see § 408.227).

(3) The name by which the remuneration for employment is designated is immaterial. Thus, salaries, fees, bonuses, and commissions on sales or on insurance premiums, are wages within the meaning of the act if paid as compensation for employment.

(4) The basis upon which the remuneration is paid is immaterial in determining whether the remuneration constitutes wages. Thus, it may be paid on the basis of piecework, or a percentage of profits; and it may be paid hourly, daily, weekly, monthly, or annually.

(5) Generally the medium in which the remuneration is paid is also immaterial. It may be paid in cash or in something other than cash, as for example, goods, lodging, food, or clothing. Remuneration paid in items other than cash shall be computed on the basis of the fair value of such items at the time of payment. See, however, paragraphs (g) and (j) of § 408.227, relating to the treatment of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, for domestic service in a private home of the employer, for agricultural labor, or for services described in section 1426 (d) (3) (C) (relating to home workers).

(6) Ordinarily, facilities or privileges (such as entertainment, medical services, or so-called "courtesy" discounts on purchases), furnished or offered by an employer to his employees generally, are not considered as remuneration for employment if such facilities or privileges are of relatively small valve and are offered or furnished by the employer merely as a means of promoting the health, good will, contentment, or efficiency of his employees. The term "facilities or privileges", however, does not ordinarily include the value of meals or lodging furnished, for example, to restaurant or hotel employees, or to seamen or other employees aboard vessels, since generally these items constitute an appreciable part of the total remuneration of such employees.

(7) Amounts paid specifically—either as advances or reimbursements—for traveling or other bona fide ordinary and necessary expenses incurred or reasonably expected to be incurred in the business of the employer are not wages. Traveling and other reimbursed expenses must be identified either by making a separate payment or by specifically indicating the separate amounts where both wages and expense allowances are combined in a single payment.

(8) Remuneration for employment, unless such remuneration is specifically excepted under section 1426 (a), constitutes wages even though at the time paid the relationship of employer and employee no longer exists between the person in whose employ the services were performed and the individual who performed them.

Example. A is employed by B during the month of January 1951 in employment and is entitled to receive remuneration of $100 for the services performed for B, the employer, during the month. A leaves the employ of B at the close of business on January 31, 1951. On February 15, 1951 (when A is no longer an employee of B), B pays A the remuneration of $100 which was earned for the services performed in January. The $100 is wages within the meaning of the act, and the tax is payable with respect thereto.

(b) Certain items included as wages—(1) Vacation allowances. Amounts of so-called "vacation allowances" paid to an employee constitute wages. Thus, the salary of an employee on vacation, paid notwithstanding his absence from work, constitutes wages.

(2) Deductions by an employer from wages of an employee. The amount of any tax which is required by section 1401 (a) of the act to be deducted by the employer from the wages of an employee is considered to be a part of the employee's wages, and is deemed to be paid to the employee as wages at the time that the deduction is made. Other amounts deducted from the wages of an employee by an employer also constitute wages paid to the employee at the time of the deduction. It is immaterial that the act, or any act of Congress, or the law of any State, requires or permits such deductions and the payment of the amount thereof to the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof.

§ 408.227 Exclusions from wages—(a) $3,600 limitation—(1) In general. (i) The term "wages" does not include that part of the remuneration paid within any calendar year beginning after December 31, 1950, by an employer to an employee which exceeds the first $3,600 of remuneration (exclusive of remuneration excepted from wages in accordance with paragraphs (b) through (k) of this section) paid within such calendar year by such employer to such employee for employment performed for him at any time after December 31, 1936.

(ii) The $3,600 limitation applies only if the remuneration received during any one calendar year by an employee from the same employer for employment performed after 1936 exceeds $3,600. The limitation in such case relates to the amount of remuneration received during any one calendar year for employment after 1936 and not to the amount of remuneration for employment performed in any one calendar year.

Example (1). Employee A, in 1951, receives $3,000 from employer B on account of $3,500 due him for employment performed in 1951. In 1952 A receives from employer B the balance of $500 due him for employment performed in the prior year (1951), and thereafter in 1952 also receives $3,500 for employment performed in 1952 for employer B. The $3,000 received in 1951 is subject to tax in 1951. The balance of $500 received in 1952 for employment during 1951 is subject to tax in 1952, as is also the first $3,100 paid of the $3,500 for employment during 1952 (this $500 for 1951 employment added to the first $3,100 paid for 1952 employment constitutes the maximum wages which could be received by A in 1952 from any one employer). The final $400 received by A from B in 1952 is not included as wages and is not subject to the tax.

(iii) If during a calendar year the employee receives remuneration from more than one employer, the limitation of wages to the first $3,600 of remuneration received applies, not to the aggregate remuneration received from all employers with respect to employment performed after 1936, but instead to the remuneration received during such calendar year from each employer with respect to employment performed after 1936. In such case the first $3,600 received during the calendar year from each employer constitutes wages and is subject to the tax, even though, under section 1401 (d) of the act, the employee may be entitled to a refund of any amount of employee tax deducted from his wages which exceeds the employee tax with respect to the first $3,600 of wages received during the calendar year from all employers. (In this connection and in connection with the two examples immediately following, see section 408.802, relating to special refunds of employee tax on wages over $3,600. In connection with the application of the $3,600 limitation, see also subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, relating to the circumstances under which wages paid by a predecessor employer are deemed to be paid by his successor.)

Example (2). During 1951 employee C receives from employer D a salary of $600 a month for employment performed for D during the first seven months of 1951, or total remuneration of $4,200. At the end of the sixth month C has received $3,600 from employer D, and only that part of his total remuneration from D constitutes wages subject to the tax. The $600 received by employee C from employer D in the seventh month is not included as wages and is not subject to the tax. At the end of the seventh month C leaves the employ of D and enters the employ of E. C receives remuneration of $720 a month from employer E in each of the remaining five months of 1951, or total remuneration of $3,600 from employer E. The entire $3,600 received by C from employer E constitutes wages and is subject to the tax. Thus, the first $3,600 received from employer D and the entire $3,600 received from employer E constitute wages.

Example (3). During the calendar year 1951 F is simultaneously an officer (an employee) of the X Corporation, the Y Corporation, and the Z Corporation and during such year receives a salary of $3,600 from each corporation. Each $3,600 received by F from each of the corporations X, Y, and Z (whether or not such corporations are related) constitutes wages and is subject to the tax.

(2) Wages paid by predecessor attributed to successor. (i) If an employer (hereinafter referred to as a successor) during any calendar year beginning after December 31, 1950, acquires substantially all the property used in a trade or business of another employer (hereinafter referred to as a predecessor), or used in a separate unit of a trade or business of a predecessor, and if immediately after the acquisition the successor employs in his trade or business an individual who immediately prior to the acquisition was employed in the trade or business of such predecessor, then, for purposes of the application of the $3,600 limitation set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, any remuneration (exclusive of remuneration excepted from wages in accordance with paragraphs (b) through (k) of this section) with respect to employment paid (or considered under this provision as having been paid) to such individual by such predecessor during such calendar year and prior to such acquisition shall be considered as having been paid by such successor.

(ii) The wages paid, or considered as having been paid, by a predecessor to an employee shall, for purposes of the $3,600 limitation, be treated as having been paid to such employee by a successor, if:

(a) The successor during a calendar year acquired substantially all the property used in a trade or business, or used in a separate unit of a trade or business, of the predecessor;

(b) Such employee was employed in the trade or business of the predecessor immediately prior to the acquisition and is employed by the successor in his trade or business immediately after the acquisition; and

(c) Such wages were paid during the calendar year in which the acquisition occurred and prior to such acquisition.

(iii) The method of acquisition of the property is immaterial. The acquisition may occur as a consequence of a corporate merger or consolidation, the incorporation of a business by a sole proprietor or a partnership, the continuance of the business without interruption by a new partnership resulting from the death or retirement of a former partner or the admission of a new partner, or a purchase or any other transaction whereby substantially all the property used in a trade or business, or used in a saparate unit of a trade or business, of one employer is acquired by another employer.

(iv) Substantially all the property used in a separate unit of a trade or business may consist of substantially all the property used in the performance of an essential operation of the trade or business, or it may consist of substantially all the property used in a relatively self-sustaining entity which forms a part of the trade or business.

Example (1). The M Corporation which is engaged in the manufacture of automobiles, including the manufacture of automobile engines, discontinues the manufacture of the engines and transfers all the property used in such manufacturing operation to the N Company. The N Company is considered to have acquired a separate unit of the trade or business of the M Corporation, namely, its engine manufacturing unit.

Example (2). The R. Corporation which is engaged in the operation of a chain of grocery stores transfers one of such stores to the S Company. The S Company is considered to have acquired a separate unit of the trade or business of the R Corporation.

(v) A successor may receive credit for wages paid to an employee by a predecessor only if immediately prior to the acquisition the employee was employed by the predecessor in his trade or business which was acquired by the successor and if immediately after the acquisition such employee is employed by the successor in his trade or business (whether or not in the same trade or business in which the acquired property is used). If the acquisition involves only a separate unit of a trade or business of the predecessor, the employee need not have been employed by the predecessor in that unit provided he was employed in the trade or business of which the acquired unit was a part.

(vi) The application of the foregoing provisions may be illustrated by the following example:

Example (3). The Y Corporation in 1951 acquires all the property of the X Manufacturing Company and immediately after the acquisition employs in its trade or business employee A, who, immediately prior to the acquisition, was employed by the X Company. The X Company has in 1951 (the calendar year in which the acquisition occurs) and prior to the acquisition paid $2,000 of wages to A. The Y Corporation in 1951 pays to A remuneration with respect to employment of $2,000. Only $1,600 of such remuneration is considered to be wages. For the purposes of the $3,600 limitation, the Y Corporation is credited with the $2,000 paid to A by the X Company. If, in the same calendar year, the property is acquired by the Z Company from the Y Corporation and A immediately after the acquisition is employed by the Z Company in its trade or business, no part of the remuneration paid to A by the Z Company in the year of the acquisition will be considered to be wages. The Z Company will be credited with the remuneration paid to A by the Y Corporation and also with the wages paid to A by the X Company (considered for purposes of the application of the $3,600 limitation as having also been paid by the Y Corporation).

(vii) Where a corporation exempt from income tax under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code files a certificate pursuant to section 1426 (l) of the act waiving its exemption from the taxes imposed by the act, the activity in which such corporation is engaged is considered to be its trade or business for the purpose of determining whether the transferred property was used in the trade or business of the predecessor and for the purpose of determining whether the employment by the predecessor and the successor of an individual whose services were retained by the successor constitute employment in a trade or business. Thus, if a charitable or religious organization, subject to tax by virtue of its certificate, acquires all the property of another such organization likewise subject to tax and retains the services of employees of the predecessor, wages paid to such employees by the predecessor in the year of the acquisition (and prior to such acquisition) will be attributed to the successor for purposes of the $3,600 limitation.

(b) Employers' plans providing for payments on account of retirement, sickness or accident disability, medical or hospitalization expenses, or death. (1) The term "wages" does not include the amount of any payment (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) made to, or on behalf of, an employee or any of his dependents under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provision for his employees generally (or for his employees generally and their dependents) or for a class or classes of his employees (or for a class or classes of his employees and their dependents), on account of:

(i) An employee's retirement,

(ii) Sickness or accident disability of an employee or any of his dependents,

(iii) Medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability of an employee or any of his dependents, or

(iv) Death of an employee or any of his dependents.

(2) The plan or system established by an employer need not provide for payments on account of all of the specified items, but such plan or system may provide for any one or more of such items. Payments for any one or more of such items under a plan or system established by an employer solely for the dependents of his employees are not within this exclusion from wages.

(3) Dependents of an employee include the employee's husband or wife, children, and any other members of the employee's immediate family.

(4) It is immaterial for purposes of this exclusion whether the amount or possibility of such benefit payments is taken into consideration in fixing the amount of an employee's remuneration or whether such payments are required, expressly or impliedly, by the contract of service.

(c) Retirement payments. The term "wages" does not include any payment made by an employer to an employee (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) on account of the employee's retirement. Thus, payments made to an employee on account of his retirement are excluded from wages under this exception even though not made under a plan or system.

(d) Payments on account of sickness or accident disability, or medical or hospitalization expenses. The term "wages" does not include any payment made by an employer to, or on behalf of, an employee on account of the employee's sickness or accident disability or the medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with the employee's sickness or accident disability, if such payment is made after the expiration of six calendar months following the last calendar month in which such employee worked for such employer. Such payments are excluded from wages under this exception even though not made under a plan or system. If the employee does not actually perform services for the employer during the requisite period, the existence of the employer-employee relationship during that period is immaterial.

(e) Payments from or to certain tax-exempt trusts or under or to certain annuity plans. The term "wages" does not include—

(1) Any payment made by an employer, on behalf of an employee or his beneficiary, into a trust or annuity plan, if at the time of such payment the trust is exempt from tax under section 165 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code or the annuity plan meets the requirements of section 165 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) of the Internal Revenue Code; or

(2) Any payment made to, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary from a trust or under an annuity plan, if at the time of such payment the trust is exempt from tax under section 165 (a) of the Code or the annuity plan meets the requirements of section 165 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) of the Code.

A payment made to an employee of a trust exempt from tax under section 165 (a) of the Code for services rendered as an employee of such trust and not as a beneficiary of the trust is not within this exclusion from wages.

(f) Payment by an employer of employees' tax or employees' contributions under a State law. The term "wages" does not include any payment by an employer (without deduction from the remuneration of, or other reimbursement from, the employee) of either (1) the employee tax imposed by section 1400 of the act, or (2) any payment required from an employee under a State unemployment compensation law.

(g) Payments other than in cash for certain types of services. (1) The term "wages" does not include remuneration paid in any medium other than cash (i) for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, (ii) for domestic service in a private home of the employer, or (iii) for agricultural labor. Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash, such as lodging, food, clothing, car tokens, transportation passes, farm products, or other goods or commodities, for services of the prescribed character does not constitute wages. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services other than those mentioned in (i), (ii), and (iii) of this subparagraph does not come within this exclusion from wages.

(2) For provisions relating to the circumstances under which services not in the course of the employer's trade or business or agricultural labor does not constitute employment, see §§ 408.210 and 408.208, respectively. For provisions relating to the circumstances under which cash remuneration for domestic service in a private home of the employer or for industrial home work does not constitute wages, see paragraphs (h) and (j) of this section, respectively.

(h) Cash payments for domestic service. (1) The term "wages" does not include cash remuneration paid in any calendar quarter by an employer to an employee for domestic servcie in a private home of the employer unless—

(i) The cash remuneration paid by the employer to the employee in the calendar quarter for such service is $50 or more; and

(ii) Such employee is regularly employed by such employer in the calendar quarter in which the payment is made.

Unless the tests set forth in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph, are met, cash remuneration for domestic service in a private home of the employer is excluded from wages.

(2) Services of a household nature performed by an employee in or about a private home of the person by whom he is employed constitute domestic service in a private home of the employer. A private home is a fixed place of abode of an individual or family. A separate and distinct dwelling unit maintained by an individual in an apartment house, hotel, or other similar establishment may constitute a private home. If a dwelling house is utilized primarily as a boarding or lodging house for the purpose of supplying board or lodging to the public as a business enterprise, it is not a private home. In general, services of a household nature in or about a private home include services performed by cooks, waiters, butlers, housekeepers, governesses, maids, valets, baby sitters, janitors, laundresses, furnacemen, caretakers, handymen, gardeners, footmen, grooms, and chauffeurs of automobiles for family use. Remuneration for the services above enumerated is not within this exclusion from wages unless performed in or about a private home of the employer. Remuneration for services not of a household nature, such as services performed as a private secretary, tutor, or librarian, even though performed in the employer's home, is not within this exclusion from wages.

(3) The test relating to cash remuneration of $50 or more is based on the remuneration paid in a calendar quarter rather than on the remuneration earned during a calendar quarter. Furthermore, in determining whether $50 or more has been paid for domestic service in a private home of the employer, only cash remuneration for such service shall be taken into account. The term "cash remuneration" includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any other medium, such as lodging, food, clothing, car tokens, transportation passes or tickets, or other goods or commodities, is disregarded in determining whether the cash-remuneration test is met.

(4) For purposes of this exclusion, an individual is deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if:

(i) Such individual performs domestic service in a private home of such employer for some portion of the day on at least 24 days (whether or not consecutive) during such calendar quarter; or

(ii) Such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subdivision (i)) in the performance of domestic service in a private home of such employer during the preceding calendar quarter (including the last calendar quarter of 1950).

(5) In determining whether an employee has performed domestic service in a private home of the employer on at least 24 days during a calendar quarter, there shall be counted as one day—

(i) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee actually performs such service; and

(ii) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee does not perform domestic service in a private home of the employer but with respect to which remuneration is paid or payable to the employee for such service, such as a day on which the employee is sick or on vacation.

An employee who reports for work and, at the direction of his employer, holds himself in readiness to perform domestic service in a private home of the employer shall be considered to be engaged in the actual performance of such service. For purposes of this exclusion, a day is a period of 24 hours commencing at midnight and ending at midnight.

(6) An employer may, for purposes of the act, elect to compute to the nearest dollar any payment of cash remuneration for domestic service in a private home of the employer which is more or less than a whole-dollar amount. For the purpose of the computation to the nearest dollar, the payment of a fractional part of a dollar shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half dollar or more, in which case it shall be increased to one dollar. For example, any amount actually paid between $4.50 and $5.49, inclusive, may be treated as $5.00 for purposes of the act. If an employer elects this method of computation with respect to any payment of cash remuneration made in a calendar quarter for domestic service in his private home, he must use the same method in computing each payment of cash remuneration of more or less than a whole-dollar amount made to each of his employees in such calendar quarter for domestic service in his private home. Moreover, if an employer elects this method of computation with respect to payments of the prescribed character made in any calendar quarter, the amount of each payment of cash remuneration so computed to the nearest dollar shall, in lieu of the amount actually paid, be deemed to constitute the amount of cash remuneration for purposes of the regulations in this part. Thus, the amount of cash payments so computed to the nearest dollar shall be used for purposes of determining whether such payments constitute wages; for purposes of applying the employee and employer tax rates to the wage payments; for purposes of any required record keeping; and for purposes of reporting and paying the employee tax and employer tax with respect to such wage payments.

(7) Domestic service in a private home of the employer performed on a farm operated for profit and services not in the course of the employer's trade or business are not within this exclusion from wages. For provisions relating to domestic service in a private home of the employer performed on a farm operated for profit and services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, see §§ 408.208 and 408.210, respectively.

(8) For provisions relating to the exclusion from wages of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for domestic service in a private home of the employer, see paragraph (g) of this section.

(i) Payments to stand-by employees. The term "wages" does not include any payment (other than vacation or sick pay) made by an employer to an employee after the calendar month in which the employee attains age 65, if:

(1) Such employee does no work (other than being subject to call for the performance of work) for such employer in the period for which such payment is made; and

(2) The employer-employee relationship exists between the employer and employee throughout the period for which such payment is made.

Vacation or sick pay is not within this exclusion from wages. If the employee does any work for the employer in the period for which the payment is made, no remuneration paid by such employer to such employee with respect to such period is within this exclusion from wages. For example, if employee A is employed by the X Company on a standby basis and, after he has attained the age of 65, is paid $200 by the X Company for being subject to call during the month of January 1951 and an additional $25 for work performed for the X Company on one day during that month, then none of the $225 is excluded from wages under this exception.

(j) Payments to certain home workers. (1) The term "wages" does not include remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for services performed as a home worker who is an employee by reason of the provisions of section 1426 (d) (3) (C) of the act (see § 408.204 (d)), unless the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such services is $50 or more. In the event an employee receives remuneration in any one calendar quarter from more than one employer for services performed as a home worker of the afore-mentioned character, this provision is to be applied with respect to the remuneration received by the employee from each employer in such calendar quarter for such services. This exclusion from wages has no application to remuneration for services performed by a home worker who is an employee by reason of the provisions of section 1426 (d) (2) of the act (see § 408.204 (c)).

(2) The test relating to cash remuneration of $50 or more is based on remuneration paid in a calendar quarter rather than on remuneration earned during a calendar quarter. If $50 or more of cash remuneration is paid in a particular calendar quarter, it is immaterial whether the $50 is in payment for services performed during the quarter of payment or during any previous quarter. Furthermore, the test requires that cash remuneration of $50 or more be paid for services performed by an employee as defined in section 1426 (d) (3) (C) of the act. Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any other medium, such as clothing, car tokens, transportation passes or tickets, or other goods or commodities, is disregarded in determining whether the cash-remuneration test is met. If the cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter for services performed by an employee as defined in section 1426 (d) (3) (C) of the act is $50 or more, then no remuneration, whether in cash or in any medium other than cash, paid by the employer to the employee in such calendar quarter for such services is excluded from wages under this exception.

(k) Miscellaneous. In addition to the exclusions specified in paragraphs (a) through (j) of this section, the following types of payments are excluded from wages:

(1) Remuneration for services which do not constitute employment under section 1426 (b) of the act;

(2) Remuneration for services which are deemed not to be employment under section 1426 (c) of the act; and

(3) Tips or gratuities paid directly to an employee by a customer of an employer, and not accounted for by the employee to the employer.

SUBPART C—EMPLOYEE TAX

SECTION 1400 OF THE ACT

RATE OF TAX

In addition to other taxes, there shall be levied, collected, and paid upon the income of every individual a tax equal to the following percentages of the wages (as defined in section 1426 (a)) received by him after December 31, 1936, with respect to employment (as defined in section 1426 (b)) after such date:

(1) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1937 to 1949, both inclusive, the rate shall be 1 per centum.

(2) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1950 to 1953, both inclusive, the rate shall be 1½ per centum.

(3) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1954 to 1959, both inclusive, the rate shall be 2 per centum.

(4) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1960 to 1964, both inclusive, the rate shall be 2½ per centum.

(5) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1965 to 1969, both inclusive, the rate shall be 3 per centum.

(6) With respect to wages received after December 31, 1969, the rate shall be 3¼ per centum. (Sec. 1400, I. R. C., as amended by sec. 1, Social Security Act Amendments of 1947, 61 Stat. 793; sec. 201 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 524.)

§ 408.301 Measure of employee tax. The employee tax is measured by the amount of wages actually or constructively received on or after January 1, 1951, with respect to employment on or after January 1, 1937. (See §§ 408.202 and 408.203, relating to employment, and §§ 408.226 and 408.227, relating to wages.)

§ 408.302 Rates and computation of employee tax. (a) The rates of employee tax applicable for the respective calendar years are as follows:

	Percent
For the calendar years 1951 to 1953, both inclusive	1½
For the calendar years 1954 to 1959, both inclusive	2
For the calendar years 1960 to 1964, both inclusive	2½
For the calendar years 1965 to 1969, both inclusive	3
For the calendar year 1970 and subsequent calendar years	3¼

(b) The employee tax is computed by applying to the wages received by the employee the rate in effect at the time such wages are received.

Example. During 1953 A is an employee of B and is engaged in the performance of services which constitute employment (see § 408.203). In the following year, 1954, A receives from B $1,000 as remuneration for services performed by A in the preceding year. The tax is payable at the 2 percent rate in effect for the calendar year 1954 (the year in which the wages are received) and not at the 1½ percent rate which is in effect for the calendar year 1953 (the year in which the services are performed).

§ 408.303 When employee tax attaches. The employees tax attaches at the time that the wages are either actually or constructively received by the employee. Wages are constructively received when they are credited to the account of or set apart for an employee so that they may be drawn upon by him at any time although not then actually reduced to possession. To constitute receipt in such a case the wages must be credited or set apart to the employee without any substantial limitation or restriction as to the time or manner of payment or condition upon which payment is to be made, and must be made available to him so that they may be drawn at any time, and their receipt brought within his own control and disposition. (See § 408.403, relating to the time the employer tax attaches.)

SECTION 1401 (a) AND (b) OF THE ACT

DEDUCTION OF TAX FROM WAGES

(a) Requirement. The tax imposed by section 1400 shall be collected by the employer of the taxpayer, by deducting the amount of the tax from the wages as and when paid.

(b) Indemnification of employer. Every employer required so to deduct the tax shall be liable for the payment of such tax, and shall be indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any such payment made by such employer.

SECTION 3661 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

ENFORCEMENT OF LIABILITY FOR TAXES COLLECTED

Whenever any person is required to collect or withhold any internal-revenue tax from any other person and to pay such tax over to the United States, the amount of tax so collected or withheld shall be held to be a special fund in trust for the United States. The amount of such fund shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations (including penalties) as are applicable with respect to the taxes from which such fund arose.

§ 408.304 Collection of, and liability for, employee tax. (a) The employer shall collect from each of his employees the employee tax with respect to wages for employment performed for the employer by the employee. The employer shall make the collection by deducting or causing to be deducted the amount of the employee tax from such wages as and when paid, either actually or constructively. The employer is required to collect the tax, notwithstanding the wages are paid in something other than money and to pay the tax to the collector in money. (As to the exclusion from wages of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, for domestic service in a private home of the employer, or for agricultural labor, see § 408.227 (g).) In collecting employee tax, the employer shall disregard any fractional part of a cent of such tax unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to 1 cent. The employer is liable for the employee tax with respect to all wages paid by him to each of his employees whether or not it is collected from the employee. If, for example, the employer deducts less than the correct amount of tax, or if he fails to deduct any part of the tax, he is nevertheless liable for the correct amount of the tax. Until collected from him the employee is also liable for the employee tax with respect to all the wages received by him. Any employee tax collected by or on behalf of an employer is a special fund in trust for the United States. The employer is indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payment of such tax made by the employer to the collector.

(b) Section 2707 of the Internal Revenue Code provides severe penalties for a willful failure to pay, collect, or truthfully account for and pay over, the employee tax or for a willful attempt in any manner to evade or defeat the tax. Such penalties may be incurred by any person, including the employer, and any officer or employee of a corporate employer, or member or employee of any other employer, who as such employer, officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

§ 408.305 Manner and time of payment of employee tax. The employee tax is payable to the collector in the manner and at the time prescribed in § 408.607.

SECTION 1633 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

RECEIPTS FOR EMPLOYEES

(a) Requirement. Every person required to deduct and withhold from an employee a tax under section 1400 or 1622, or who would have been required to deduct and withhold a tax under section 1622 if the employee had claimed no more than one withholding exemption, shall furnish to each such employee in respect of the remuneration paid by such person to such employee during the calendar year, on or before January 31 of the succeeding year, or, if his employment is terminated before the close of such calendar year, on the day on which the last payment of remuneration is made, a written statement, showing the following: (1) the name of such person, (2) the name of the employee (and his social security account number if wages as defined in section 1426 (a) have been paid), (3) the total amount of wages as defined in section 1621 (a), (4) the total amount deducted and withheld as tax under section 1622, (5) the total amount of wages as defined in section 1426 (a), and (6) the total amount deducted and withheld as tax under section 1400.

(b) Statements to constitute information returns. The statements required to be furnished by this section in respect of any remuneration shall be furnished at such other times, shall contain such other information, and shall be in such form as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may by regulations prescribe. A duplicate of any such statement if made and filed in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary shall constitute the return required to be made in respect to such remuneration under section 147.

(c) Extension of time. The Commissioner, under such regulations as he may prescribe with the approval of the Secretary, may grant to any person a reasonable extension of time (not in excess of thirty days) with respect to the statements required to be furnished under this section. (Sec. 1633, I. R. C., as added by sec. 206 (a), (c), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 537, 538.)

SECTION 1634 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

PENALTIES

(a) Penalties for fraudulent statement or failure to furnish statement. In lieu of any other penalty provided by law (except the penalty provided by subsection (b) of this section), any person required under the provisions of section 1633 to furnish a statement who willfully furnishes a false or fraudulent statement, or who willfully fails to furnish a statement in the manner, at the time, and showing the information required under section 1633, or regulations prescribed thereunder, shall for each such failure, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

(b) Additional penalty. In addition to the penalty provided by subsection (a) of this section, any person required under the provisions of section 1633 to furnish a statement who willfully furnishes a false or fraudulent statement, or who willfully fails to furnish a statement in the manner, at the time, and showing the information required under section 1633, or regulations prescribed thereunder, shall for each such failure be subject to a civil penalty of $50. Such penalty shall be assessed and collected in the same manner as the tax imposed by section 1410. (Sec. 1634, I. R. C., as added by sec. 206 (a), (c), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 537, 538.)

§ 408.306 Receipts for employees—(a) Requirement. Every employer shall furnish a written statement, with respect to the wages paid during any calendar year commencing after December 31, 1950, to each of his employees. For the requirements as to the furnishing of a written statement to an employee from whom an employer was required during the calendar year to deduct and withhold employee tax under section 1400 of the act and from whom the employer was also required during such year to deduct and withhold a tax under section 1622 of the Internal Revenue Code (income tax collected at source on wages) or would have been required during such year to deduct and withhold a tax under such section if such employee had claimed no more than one withholding exemption, see the regulations under subchapter D of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code. If during the calendar year an employer pays to an employee wages subject only to the employee tax imposed by section 1400 of the act, the written statement required to be furnished to such employee shall be in accordance with the provisions of this section. Such statement shall be in a form suitable for retention by the employee and shall show, with respect to the wages paid by the employer to the employee during the calendar year for employment on or after January 1, 1937, the following: (1) The name of the employer, (2) the name and social security account number of the employee, (3) the total amount of wages paid, and (4) the total amount of employee tax deducted and withheld from such wages (increased by any adjustment in such year for overcollection, or decreased by any adjustment in such year for undercollection, of employee tax during any prior year). If (i) the amount of employee tax deducted in the calendar year from such wages was less or greater than the tax imposed on such wages by reason of the adjustment in such year of an overcollection or undercollection of employee tax in any prior year, or (ii) regardless of the reason for the error or the method of its correction, the amount of wages or employee tax entered on a statement furnished to the employee for a prior year was incorrect, a corrected statement for such prior year reflecting the adjustment or the correct data shall be furnished to the employee. The statement for the calendar year and the corrected statement for any prior year shall be furnished to the employee on or before January 31 of the year succeeding such calendar year or, if his employment is terminated before the close of the calendar year, on the day on which the last payment of wages is made. No particular form is prescribed for the statement required to be furnished to employees under this section. For the convenience of employers in complying with the requirements of this section, copies of a form of written statement, Form SS–14, have been provided and will be furnished employers by collectors upon application therefor.

(b) Extension of time for furnishing receipts to employees. An extension of time, not exceeding 30 days, within which to furnish the written statement provided for in paragraph (a) of this section upon termination of employment is hereby granted to any employer with respect to any employee whose employment is terminated during the calendar year. In the case of intermittent or interrupted employment where there is a reasonable expectation on the part of both the employer and employee of further employment, there is no requirement that a written statement be immediately furnished the employee; but when such expectation ceases to exist, the statement must be furnished within 30 days from that time.

(c) Penalties for fraudulent receipt or failure to furnish receipt. Criminal and civil penalties are imposed for the willful failure to furnish a statement in the manner, at the time, and showing the information required by law or regulations prescribed thereunder or for willfully furnishing a false or fraudulent statement. For each such violation, the criminal penalty is a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, and the civil penalty is a fine of $50. The civil penalty is assessable and collectible in the same manner as the employer tax. Such penalties are in lieu of any other penalties provided by law respecting the failure to furnish a statement or the furnishing of a false or fraudulent statement.

SUBPART D—EMPLOYER TAX

RATE OF TAX

In addition to other taxes, every employer shall pay an excise tax, with respect to having individuals in his employ, equal to the following percentages of the wages (as defined in section 1426 (a)) paid by him after December 31, 1936, with respect to employment (as defined in section 1426 (b)) after such date:

(1) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1939 to 1949, both inclusive, the rate shall be 1 per centum.

(2) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1950 to 1953, both inclusive, the rate shall be 1½ per centum.

(3) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1954 to 1959, both inclusive, the rate shall be 2 per centum.

(4) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1960 to 1964, both inclusive, the rate shall be 2½ per centum.

(5) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1965 to 1969, both inclusive, the rate shall be 3 per centum.

(6) With respect to wages paid after December 31, 1969, the rate shall be 3¼ per centum. (Sec. 1410, I. R. C., as amended by sec. 2, Social Security Act Amendments of 1947, 61 Stat. 793; sec. 201 (b), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 524.)

408.401 Measure of employer tax. The employer tax is measured by the amount of wages actually or constructively paid on or after January 1, 1951, with respect to employment on or after January 1, 1937. (See §§ 408.202 and 408.203, relating to employment, and §§ 408.226 and 408.227, relating to wages.)

§ 408.402 Rates and computation of employer tax. (a) The rates of employer tax applicable for the respective calendar years are as follows:

	Percent
For the calendar years 1951 to 1953, both inclusive	1½
For the calendar years 1954 to 1959, both inclusive	2
For the calendar years 1960 to 1964, both inclusive	2½
For the calendar years 1965 to 1969, both inclusive	3
For the calendar year 1970 and subsequent calendar years	3¼

(b) The employer tax is computed by applying to the wages paid by the employer the rate in effect at the time such wages are paid.

§ 408.403 When employer tax attaches. The employer tax attaches at the time that the wages are either actually or constructively paid by the employer. Wages are constructively paid when they are credited to the account of or set apart for an employee so that they may be drawn upon by him at any time although not then actually reduced to possession. To constitute payment in such a case the wages must be credited or set apart to the employee without any substantial limitation or restriction as to the time or manner of payment or condition upon which payment is to be made, and must be made available to him so that they may be drawn at any time, and their payment brought within his own control and disposition. (See § 408.303, relating to the time the employee tax attaches.)

§ 408.404 Liability for employer tax. The employer is liable for the employer tax with respect to the wages paid to his employees for employment performed for him.

§ 408.405 Manner and time of payment of employer tax. The employer tax is payable to the collector in the manner and at the time prescribed in § 408.607.

SUBPART E—IDENTIFICATION OF TAXPAYERS

SECTION 1420 (a) AND (c) OF THE ACT

COLLECTION AND PAYMENT OF TAXES

(a) Administration. The taxes imposed by this subchapter shall be collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue under the direction of the Secretary and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States as internal-revenue collections.

(c) Method of collection and payment. Such taxes shall be collected and paid in such manner, at such times, and under such conditions, not inconsistent with this subchapter (either by making and filing returns, or by stamps, coupons, tickets, books, or other reasonable devices or methods necessary or helpful in securing a complete and proper collection and payment of the tax or in securing proper identification of the taxpayer), as may be prescribed by the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary.

OTHER LAWS APPLICABLE

All provisions of law, including penalties, applicable with respect to any tax imposed by section 2700 or section 1800, and the provisions of section 3661, shall, insofar as applicable and not inconsistent with the provisions of this subchapter, be applicable with respect to the taxes imposed by this subchapter. (Sec. 1430, I. R. C., as amended by sec. 903, Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, 53 Stat. 1400.)

SECTION 2709 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE, MADE APPLICABLE BY SECTION 1430 OF THE ACT

RECORDS, STATEMENTS, AND RETURNS

Every person liable to any tax imposed by this subchapter, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render under oath such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and regulations, as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may from time to time prescribe.

§ 408.501 Employers' identification numbers—(a) In general. Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, every employer who on or after January 1, 1951, has in his employ one or more individuals in employment for wages, but who prior to such date has neither secured an identification number nor made application therefor, shall make an application, in duplicate, on Form SS–4 for an identification number. Each application, together with any supplementary statement, shall be prepared in accordance with the instructions and regulations applicable thereto, and shall set forth fully and clearly the data therein called for. The employer shall file the application either with the collector for the district in which his principal place of business is located, or with the nearest field office of the Social Security Administration in the State in which such place of business is located, or, if the employer has no principal place of business within the United States, with the collector at Baltimore, Md. An employer who has no principal place of business but whose legal residence is in Puerto Rico or in the Virgin Islands shall file the application with the collector's office in Puerto Rico, or the collector's office in the Virgin Islands, as the case may be, or with the nearest field office of the Social Security Administration. The application shall be filed on or before the seventh day after the date on which employment for wages for such employer first occurs. Copies of Form SS–4 may be obtained from any collector or from any field office of the Social Security Administration. Each application shall be signed by (1) the individual, if the employer is an individual; (2) the president, vice president, or other principal officer, if the employer is a corporation; (3) a responsible and duly authorized member or officer having knowledge of its affairs, if the employer is a partnership or other unincorporated organization; or (4) the fiduciary, if the employer is a trust or estate. An identification number will be assigned to the employer in due course upon the basis of information reported on the application required under this section. Identification numbers assigned to employers who are required to make application therefor shall be shown in their records, returns, and claims to the extent required by §§ 408.605, 408.607 (b), 408.609, and 408.801 and by the instructions relating to Form 941, Form 941 PR, and Form 941 V. I., and to Form 450.

(b) Household employers. An employer, other than an employer whose legal residence is in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, who has in his employ only employees who are engaged exclusively in the performance of domestic service in his private home not on a farm operated for profit (see § 408.227 (h)) is not required to apply for an identification number, and the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section are not applicable with respect to such an employer.

§ 408.502 Employees' account numbers. (a) Every employee who on or after January 1, 1951, is in employment for wages, but who prior to such date has neither secured an account number nor made application therefor, shall make an application on Form SS–5 for an account number. Each application shall be prepared in accordance with the instructions and regulations applicable thereto, and shall set forth fully and clearly the data therein called for. Such employee shall file the application with the field office of the Social Security Administration nearest his place of employment, or, if the employee is not working within the United States, with the office of the Social Security Administration at Baltimore, Md. The application shall be filed on or before the seventh day after the date on which the employee first performs employment for wages, except that the application shall be filed on or before the date the employee leaves the employ of his employer if such date precedes such seventh day. Copies of Form SS–5 may be obtained from any field office of the Social Security Administration or from any collector. An account number will be assigned to the employee by the Social Security Administration in due course upon the basis of information reported on the application required under this section. A card showing the name and account number of an employee to whom an account number has been assigned will be furnished to the employee by the Social Security Administration.

(b) Any employee may have his account number changed at any time by applying to a field office of the Social Security Administration and showing good reasons for a change. With that exception, only one account number will be assigned to an employee. Any employee whose name is changed by marriage or otherwise, or who has stated incorrect information on Form SS–5, should report such change or correction to a field office of the Social Security Administration. Copies of the form for making such reports may be obtained from any field office of the Administration.

§ 408.503 Duties of employee with respect to his account number. (a) An employee shall, on the day on which he enters the employ of any employer for wages, comply with subparagraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of this paragraph:

(1) If the employee has been issued an account number card by the Social Security Administration and has the card available, the employee shall show it to the employer.

(2) If the employee does not have available the account number card issued to him by the Social Security Administration but knows what his account number is, and what his name is, exactly as shown on such card, the employee shall advise the employer of such number and name. Care must be exercised that the employer is correctly advised of such number and name.

(3) If the employee does not have an account number card but has available a receipt issued to him by an office of the Social Security Administration acknowledging that an application for an account number has been received, the employee shall show such receipt to the employer.

(4) If an employe is unable to comply with the requirement of subparagraph (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph, the employee shall furnish to the employer an application on Form SS–5, completely filled in and signed by the employee. If a copy of Form SS–5 is not available, the employee shall in lieu thereof furnish to the employer a statement in writing, signed by the employee, setting forth the date of the statement, the employee's full name, present address, date and place of birth, father's full name, mother's full name before marriage, and employee's sex and color, including a statement as to whether the employee has previously filed an application on Form SS–5 and, if so, the date and place of such filing. The furnishing of an executed form SS–5, or statement in lieu thereof, by the employee to the employer does not relieve the employee of his obligation to make an application on Form SS–5 and file it with the field office of the Social Security Administration as required by § 408.502. The provisions of this subparagraph are not applicable to an employee engaged exclusively in the performance of domestic service in a private home of his employer not on a farm operated for profit, or in the performance of agricultural labor, if the services are performed for an employer other than an employer whose principal place of business, or whose legal residence if he has no principal place of business, is located in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands.

(For provisions relating to the duties of an employer when furnished the information required by subparagraph (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph, and the disposition to be made by the employer of an executed Form SS–5 or a statement in lieu thereof furnished to him by the employee as required by subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, see § 408.504.)

(b) Every employee who, on the day on which he enters the employ of any employer for wages, has an account number card but for any reason does not show such card to the employer on such day shall promptly thereafter show the card to the employer. An employee who does not have an account number card on the day on which he enters the employ of any employer for wages shall, upon receipt of an account number card from the Social Security Administration, promptly show such card to the employer, if he is still in the employ of that employer. If an employee has left the employ of an employer when the employee receives an account number card from the Social Security Administration, he shall promptly advise the employer of his account number and name exactly as shown on such card. The account number originally assigned to an employee (or the number as changed in accordance with § 408.502) shall be used by the employee even though he enters the employ of other employers.

§ 408.504 Duties of employer with respect to employees' account numbers—(a) When individual has entered his employ. (1) Upon being shown the account number card issued to an employee by the Social Security Administration, the employer shall enter the account number and name, exactly as shown on the card, in his records, returns, and claims to the extent required by §§ 408.605 and 408.609, by the instructions relating to the applicable return form, and by § 408.801. Upon failure of an employee to show his employer his account number card when he enters the employ of the employer for wages, the employer shall request the employee to show him such card. If the employee has not been assigned an account number and has not filed an application therefor with a field office of the Social Security Administration, the employer shall, when the employee enters his employ for wages, inform the employee of his duties under §§ 408.502 and 408.503.

(2) With respect to an employee who on the day he enters the employ of an employer for wages does not show the employer an account number card issued to the employee by the Social Security Administration, the employer shall comply with subdivision (i), (ii), or (iii) of this subparagraph:

(i) If the employee advises the employer of his number and name as shown on his account number card, as provided in § 408.503 (a) (2) the employer shall enter such number and name in his records.

(ii) If the employee shows the employer, as provided in § 408.503 (a) (3), a receipt issued to him by an office of the Social Security Administration acknowledging that an application for an account number has been received from the employee, the employer shall enter in his records with respect to such employee the date of issue of the receipt, its termination date, the address of the issuing office, and the name and address of the employee exactly as shown on the receipt. The receipt shall be retained by the employee.

(iii) If the employee furnishes to the employer, as provided in § 408.503 (a) (4), an executed Form SS–5 or statement in lieu thereof, the employer shall retain the form or statement for disposition as provided below.

(3) In any case in which the employee's account number is for any reason unknown to the employer at the time the employer's return is filed for any calendar quarter in which the employee receives wages from such employer—

(i) If the employee has shown to the employer, as provided in § 408.503 (a) (3), a receipt issued to him by an office of the Social Security Administration acknowledging that an application for an account number has been received from the employee, the employer shall enter on the return, with the entry with respect to the employee, the name and address of the employee exactly as shown on the receipt, the date of issue of the receipt, and the address of the issuing office; or

(ii) If the employee has furnished to the employer, as provided in § 408.503 (a) (4), an executed Form SS–5 or statement in lieu thereof, the employer shall attach such form or statement to the return for the first calendar quarter in which the employee receives wages from such employer and shall make and retain a copy thereof for use in preparing any additional copies required for attachment to any returns subsequently filed on which wages received by such employee from the employer are reported but on which neither an employee account number nor the required information relating to the receipt for an application for an account number is reported; or

(iii) If neither (i) nor (ii) of this subparagraph is applicable, the employer shall, except as provided in the first sentence of subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, attach to the return a Form SS–5 or statement, signed by the employer, setting forth as fully and clearly as practicable the employee's full name, his present or last known address, date and place of birth, father's full name, mother's full name before marriage, the employee's sex and color, and a statement as to whether an application for an account number has previously been filed by the employee and, if so, the date and place of such filing. The employer shall also insert in such Form SS–5 or statement an explanation of why he has not secured from the employee a Form SS–5 or statement signed by the employee as provided in § 408.503 (a) (4), and shall insert the word "Employer" as part of his signature.

(4) The provisions of subdivision (iii) of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph are not applicable with respect to an employee engaged exclusively in the performance of domestic service in a private home of his employer not on a farm operated for profit, or in the performance of agricultural labor, if the services are performed for an employer other than an employer whose principal place of business, or whose legal residence if he has no principal place of business, is located in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands. If any such employee has not furnished to the employer the information required by paragraph (a) (1), (2), or (3) of § 408.503 prior to the time the employer's return is filed for any calendar quarter in which the employee receives wages from such employer, the employer shall enter the word "Unknown" in the account number column of the return and (i) file with the return a statement showing the employee's name and address, or (ii) enter the employee's address on the return form immediately below the name of the employee.

(5) If the employee advises his employer what his name and account number are as shown on his account number card prior to the time the employer's return is filed and the employer enters such name and number on the return, the employer shall return to the employee any executed Form SS–5 or statement in lieu thereof furnished by the employee to the employer in accordance with § 408.503 (a) (4), together with any copy thereof retained by the employer in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (3) (ii) of this paragraph.

(6) Employers may obtain copies of Form SS–5 from any field office of the Social Security Administration or from any collector.

(b) Prospective employees. While not mandatory, it is suggested that the employer advise any prospective employee who does not have an account number of the requirements of §§ 408.502 and 408.503.

* * * * *

(c) Method of collection and payment. Such taxes shall be collected and paid in such manner, at such times, and under such conditions, not inconsistent with this subchapter (either by making and filing returns, or by stamps, coupons, tickets, books, or other reasonable devices or methods necessary or helpful in securing a complete and proper collection and payment of the tax or in securing proper identification of the taxpayer), as may be prescribed by the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary.

(d) Fractional parts of a cent. In the payment of any tax under this subchapter a fractional part of a cent shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to 1 cent.

(e) Federal service. In the case of the taxes imposed by this subchapter with respect to service performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality which is wholly owned by the United States, * * * the return and payment of the taxes imposed by this subchapter, shall be made by the head of the Federal agency or instrumentality having the control of such service, or by such agents as such head may designate. The person making such return may, for convenience of administration, make payments of the tax imposed under section 1410 with respect to such service without regard to the $3,600 limitation in section 1426 (a) (1), and he shall not be required to obtain a refund of the tax paid under section 1410 on that part of the remuneration not included in wages by reason of section 1426 (a) (1). The provisions of this subsection shall be applicable in the case of service performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service, Navy Exchanges, Marine Corps Exchanges, or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, at installations of the Department of Defense for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of such Department; and for purposes of this subsection the Secretary of Defense shall be deemed to be the head of such instrumentality. (Sec. 1420, I. R. C., as amended by sec. 202 (b), (d), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 524, 525.)

SECTION 3310 (f) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

Discretion allowed Commissioner—(1) Returns and payment of tax. Notwithstanding any other provision of law relating to the filing of returns or payment of any tax imposed by chapter 9 * * *, the Commissioner may by regulations approved by the Secretary prescribe the period, for which the return for such tax shall be filed, the time for the filing of such return, the time for the payment of such tax, and the number of copies of the return required to be filed.

(2) Use of Government depositaries. The Secretary may authorize Federal Reserve banks, and incorporated banks or trust companies which are depositaries or financial agents of the United States, to receive any tax imposed by this title, in such manner, at such times, and under such conditions as he may prescribe; and he shall prescribe the manner, times, and conditions under which the receipt of such tax by such banks and trust companies is to be treated as payment of such tax to the collector. (Sec. 3310 (f), I. R. C., as added by sec. 7 (a), Act of Aug. 27, 1949, 63 Stat. 668.)

OTHER LAWS APPLICABLE

All provisions of law, including penalties, applicable with respect to any tax imposed by section 2700 or section 1800, and the provisions of section 3661, shall, insofar as applicable and not inconsistent with the provisions of this subchapter, be applicable with respect to the taxes imposed by this subchapter. (Sec. 1430, I. R. C., as amended by sec. 903, Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, 53 Stat. 1400.)

SECTION 2709 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE, MADE APPLICABLE BY SECTION 1430 OF THE ACT

SECTION 2701 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE, MADE APPLICABLE BY SECTION 1430 OF THE ACT

RETURNS

Every person liable for the tax * * * shall make * * * returns under oath * * * to the collector for the district in which is located the principal place of business. Such returns shall contain such information and be made at such times and in such manner as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may by regulations prescribe.

SECTION 3603 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

NOTICE REQUIRING RECORDS, STATEMENTS, AND SPECIAL RETURNS

Whenever in the judgment of the Commissioner necessary he may require any person, by notice served upon him, to make a return, render under oath such statements, or keep such records as the Commissioner deems sufficient to show whether or not such person is liable to tax.

SECTION 3632 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTER OATHS, TAKE TESTIMONY, AND CERTIFY

(a) Internal Revenue personnel—(1) Persons in charge of administration of internal revenue laws generally. Every collector, deputy collector, internal revenue agent, and internal revenue officer assigned to duty under an internal revenue agent, is authorized to administer oaths and to take evidence touching any part of the administration of the internal revenue laws with which he is charged, or where such oaths and evidence are authorized by law or regulation authorized by law to be taken.

(2) Persons in charge of exports and drawbacks. Every collector of internal revenue and every superintendent of exports and drawbacks is authorized to administer such oaths and to certify to such papers as may be necessary under any regulation prescribed under the authority of the internal revenue laws.

(b) Others. Any oath or affirmation required or authorized by any internal revenue law or by any regulations made under authority thereof may be administered by any person authorized to administer oaths for general purposes by the law of the United States, or of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or of the District of Columbia, wherein such oath or affirmation is administered, or by any consular officer of the United States. This subsection shall not be construed as an exclusive enumeration of the persons who may administer such oaths or affirmations.

SECTION 3809 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

VERIFICATION OF RETURNS; PENALTIES OF PERJURY

(a) Penalties. Any person who willfully makes and subscribes any return, statement, or other document, which contains or is verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury, and which he does not believe to be true and correct as to every material matter, shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(b) Signature presumed correct. The fact that an individual's name is signed to a return, statement, or other document filed shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return, statement, or other document was actually signed by him.

(c) Verification in lieu of oath. The Commissioner, under regulations prescribed by him with the approval of the Secretary, may require that any return, statement, or other document required to be filed under any provision of the internal revenue laws shall contain or be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury, and such declaration shall be in lieu of any oath otherwise required. (Sec. 3809, I. R. C., as added by sec. 4 (a), (c), Act of Aug. 27, 1949, 63 Stat. 667, 668.)

SECTION 3612 (a), (b), AND (c) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

RETURNS EXECUTED BY COMMISSIONER OR COLLECTOR

(a) Authority of collector. If any person fails to make and file a return or list at the time prescribed by law or by regulation made under authority of law, or makes, willfully or otherwise, a false or fraudulent return or list, the collector or deputy collector shall make the return or list from his own knowledge and from such information as he can obtain through testimony or otherwise.

(b) Authority of Commissioner. In any such case the Commissioner may, from his own knowledge and from such information as he can obtain through testimony or otherwise—

(1) To make return. Make a return, or

(2) To amend collector's return. Amend any return made by a collector or deputy collector.

(c) Legal status of returns. Any return or list so made and subscribed by the Commissioner, or by a collector or deputy collector and approved by the Commissioner, shall be prima facie good and sufficient for all legal purposes.

SECTION 3614 (a) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

EXAMINATION OF BOOKS AND WITNESSES

To determine liability of the taxpayer. The Commissioner, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return or for the purpose of making a return where none has been made, is authorized, by any officer or employee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, including the field service, designated by him for that purpose, to examine any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return, and may require the attendance of the person rendering the return or of any officer or employee of such person, or the attendance of any other person having knowledge in the premises, and may take his testimony with reference to the matter required by law to be included in such return, with power to administer oaths to such person or persons.

SECTION 2702 (a) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE, MADE APPLICABLE BY SECTION 1430 OF THE ACT

PAYMENT OF TAX

Date of payment. The tax shall, without assessment by the Commissioner or notice from the collector, be due and payable to the collector for the district in which is located the principal place of business, at the time fixed • • • for filing the return.

§ 408.601 Tax and information returns—(a) In general. Every employer shall make a tax and information return for the first calendar quarter after December 31, 1950, within which he pays wages, and for each subsequent calendar quarter (whether or not wages are paid therein) until he files a final return as required by § 408.603. Every employer required to make a tax and information return for the calendar quarter ended December 31, 1950, shall make a tax and information return for each subsequent calendar quarter (whether or not wages are paid therein) until he files a final return as required by § 408.603. Form 941 is the form prescribed for making a tax and information return, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section.

(b) Domestic service in a private home not on a farm operated for profit. Form 942 is the form prescribed for use by every employer in reporting wages paid by him for domestic service in a private home not on a farm operated for profit. If, however, in addition to paying such wages in the current calendar quarter the employer in such quarter or a prior calendar quarter also paid wages for other services and is required to make a tax and information return for such current quarter on Form 941, the employer, at his election, may—

(1) Report all wages on Form 941, or

(2) Report on Form 942 the wages for domestic service in a private home not on a farm operated for profit, and report on Form 941 the wages for other services.

An employer entitled to make the election referred to in the preceding sentence who has chosen one method shall not change to the other method without first notifying the collector with whom he is required to file his returns that he will thereafter use such other method. The provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to any employer whose principal place of business, or whose legal residence if he has no principal place of business, is located in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands.

(c) Employers in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Form 941 PR is the form prescribed for use by every employer whose principal place of business, or whose legal residence if he has no principal place of business, is located in Puerto Rico. Form 941 V. I. is the form prescribed for use by every employer whose principal place of business, or whose legal residence if he has no principal place of business, is located in the Virgin Islands. However, Form 941 is the form prescribed for use by every such employer who is also required to deduct and withhold income tax at source on wages under section 1622 of the Internal Revenue Code.

§ 408.602 When to report wages. Wages shall be reported in the tax return for the period in which they are actually paid unless they were constructively paid in a prior tax-return period, in which case such wages shall be reported only in the return for such prior period.

§ 408.603 Final returns. (a) The last return on Form 941, Form 941 PR, or Form 941 V. I., for any employer who ceases to pay wages shall be marked "Final return" by the employer or the person filing the return. Such final return shall be filed with the collector on or before the thirtieth day after the date on which the final payment of wages is made for services performed for the employer, and shall plainly show the period covered by the return. If, however, an employer (other than an employer whose principal place of business, or whose legal residence if he has no principal place of business, is located in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands) ceases during a calendar quarter to pay wages for services other than for domestic service in a private home not on a farm operated for profit but pays wages in such calendar quarter for such domestic service which are reportable on Form 941 and expects to continue during such calendar quarter to pay wages for such domestic service, then such employer shall make a tax and information return on Form 941 for the entire calendar quarter. Such return shall be marked "Final return", irrespective of whether the employer expects to pay wages in the future for such domestic service, and shall be filed with the collector on or before the last day prescribed for the filing of returns under § 408.606. An employer required to make a return on Form 941, Form 941 PR, or Form 941 V. I., who has only temporarily ceased to pay wages, including an employer engaged in seasonal activities, shall continue to file returns, but shall enter on the face of any return on which no wages are required to be reported the date of the last payment of wages and the date when he expects to resume paying wages to one or more employees. If an employer ceases to pay wages as defined in section 1426 (a) but continues to pay wages as defined in section 1621 (a), no final return on Form 941 should be filed so long as he continues to pay such wages. However, if an employer who has been paying remuneration which constitutes wages as defined in each of such sections permanently ceases to pay such wages, a final return is required of such employer.

(b) There shall be executed as part of each final return on Form 941, Form 941 PR, or Form 941 V. I., a statement giving the address at which the records required by § 408.609 will be kept, the name of the person keeping such records, and, if the business has been sold or otherwise transferred to another person, the name and address of such person and the date on which such sale or other transfer took effect. If no such sale or transfer occurred or the employer does not know the name of the person to whom the business was sold or transferred, that fact should be included in the statement. In the case of a final return on Form 941, the statement shall also set forth the date of the last payment of wages for services other than domestic service not on a farm operated for profit, and whether or not the employer will pay wages in the future for such domestic service. In the case of a final return on Form 941 PR or Form 941 V. I., the statement shall also set forth the date of the last payment of wages.

(c) The last return on Form 942 for any employer who ceases to pay wages for domestic service in a private home not on a farm operated for profit shall be marked "Final return" by the employer or the person filing the return.

§ 408.604 Execution of returns—(a) Requirement. Each return shall be signed by the employer and shall contain or be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury. The return shall be signed and verified by (1) the individual, if the employer is an individual; (2) the president, vice president, or other principal officer, if the employer is a corporation; (3) a responsible and duly authorized member or officer having knowledge of its affairs, if the employer is a partnership or other unincorporated organization; or (4) the fiduciary, if the employer is a trust or estate. The employer's return may be executed by an agent in the name of the employer if an acceptable power of attorney is filed with the collector and if such return includes the wages paid to all employees of the employer for the period covered by the return. In the case of the United States or any instrumentality which is wholly owned by the United States, the return shall be signed and verified by the head of the Federal agency or instrumentality having control of the services with respect to which the taxes are imposed, or by such agent or agents as such head may designate.

(b) Penalties of perjury. Section 3809 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code provides that any person who willfully makes and subscribes any return, statement, or other document, which contains or is verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury, and which he does not believe to be true and correct as to every material matter, shall be guilty of a felony. The punishment for such offense, upon conviction thereof, is a fine of not more than $2,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both.

§ 408.605 Use of prescribed forms. (a) Copies of the prescribed return forms will so far as possible be regularly furnished employers by collectors without application therefor. An employer will not be excused from making a return, however, by the fact that no return form has been furnished to him. Employers not supplied with the proper forms should make application therefor to the collector in ample time to have their returns prepared, verified, and filed with the collector on or before the due date. (See § 408.606, relating to the place and time for filing returns; see also § 408.603, relating to final returns.) If the prescribed form is not available, a statement made by the employer disclosing the amount of wages paid during the period for which a return is required and the amount of taxes due may be accepted as a tentative return. If filed within the prescribed time the statement so made will relieve the employer from liability for the addition to tax imposed for the delinquent filing of the return (see § 408.909, relating to the addition to tax), provided that without unnecessary delay such tentative return is supplemented by a return made on the proper form.

(b) Each return, together with a copy thereof, if the return is filed on Form 941, Form 941 PR, or Form 941 V. I., and any supporting data, shall be filled in and disposed of in accordance with the instructions and regulations applicable thereto. (See § 408.606, relating to the place and time for filing returns, and § 408.609 (c) and (e), relating to copies of returns, schedules, and statements, and to the place and period for keeping records.) The return shall be carefully prepared so as fully and accurately to set forth the data therein called for. Returns which have not been so prepared will not be accepted as meeting the requirements of the act. Only one return on any one prescribed form for a tax-return period shall be filed by or for an employer. Any supplemental return filed for such period in accordance with § 408.702 of § 408.703 shall constitute a part of such return. Consolidated returns of parent and subsidiary corporations are not permitted.

(c) If in a return, or in any other manner, the employer fails to report, or incorrectly reports, to the collector, the name, account number, or wages of an employee, the employer shall fully advise the collector of the omission or error by letter; except that such letter is not required if the omission or error is corrected by adjustment, supplemental return, credit, refund, or abatement, within seven months after the date the correct data are ascertained. The employer shall include in such letter his identification number (except that an identification number need not be included if the omission or error is with respect to information required to be reported on a return on Form 942), each tax-return period for which the data were omitted or for which the incorrect data were furnished, the data incorrectly reported for each period, and the data which should have been reported. A copy of such letter shall be retained by the employer as a part of his records.

§ 408.606 Place and time for filing returns. Each return on Form 941 shall be filed with the collector for the district in which is located the principal place of business of the employer, or, if the employer has no principal place of business in the United States (that is, the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico), with the collector at Baltimore, Md. Each return on Form 941 PR shall be filed with the collector's office in Puerto Rico, and each return on Form 941 V. I. shall be filed with the collector's office in the Virgin Islands. Each return on Form 942 shall be filed with the collector for the district in which is located the legal residence of the employer. Except as provided in § 408.603, relating to final returns, each return shall be filed on or before the last day of the first month following the period for which it is made. However, if, and only if, the return is accompanied by depositary receipts, Form 450, showing timely deposits, in full payment of the taxes due for the entire calendar quarter, the return may be filed on or before the tenth day of the second month following the period for which it is made. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, the timeliness of the deposit will be determined by the date of the endorsement by a designated commercial bank or by a Federal Reserve bank made on the reverse side of Form 450. Deposit of the taxes for the last month of the calendar quarter with a designated commercial bank or a Federal Reserve bank, as the case may be, may be made on or before the last day of the first month following the close of such quarter. If the last day for filing any return falls on Sunday or a legal holiday, the return may be filed on the next following business day. If placed in the mails, the return shall be posted in ample time to reach the collector's office, under ordinary handling of the mails, on or before the due date. As to additions to tax for failure to file a return within the prescribed time, see § 408.909. See also section 2707 of the Internal Revenue Code relating to penalties.

§ 408.607 Payment of tax—(a) In general. The employee tax and the employer tax required to be reported on each return on Form 941, Form 941 PR, Form 941 V. I., or Form 942 are due and payable to the collector, without assessment by the Commissioner or notice by the collector, at the time fixed for filing such return. For provisions relating to interest, additions to tax, and penalties, see §§ 408.907, 408.908, and 408.909 and section 2707 of the Internal Revenue Code.

(b) Use of Federal Reserve banks and authorized commercial banks in connection with payment of taxes—(1) Requirement. Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, if during any calendar month, the aggregate amount of

(i) The employee tax withheld under section 1401,

(ii) The employer tax for such month under section 1410, and

(iii) The income tax withheld at source on wages under section 1622, of the Internal Revenue Code, exclusive of taxes with respect to wages reportable on a return on Form 942, exceeds $100 in the case of an employer, it will be the duty of such employer to deposit such amount within 15 days after the close of such calendar month with a Federal Reserve bank. The remittance of such amount shall be accompanied by a Federal Depositary Receipt (Form 450). Such depositary receipt shall be prepared in accordance with the instructions and regulations applicable thereto. The employer, at his election, may forward such remittance, together with such depositary receipt, to a commercial bank authorized in accordance with Treasury Department Circular No. 848 to accept remittances of the aforementioned taxes for transmission to a Federal Reserve bank. After the Federal Reserve bank has validated the depositary receipt, such depositary receipt will be returned to the employer. Every employer making deposits pursuant to this section shall attach to his return for the calendar quarter with respect to which such deposits are made, in part or full payment of the taxes shown thereon, depositary receipts so validated, and shall pay to the collector the balance, if any, of the taxes due for such quarter.

(2) Payments for last month of the calendar quarter. With respect to the taxes specified in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph for the last month of the calendar quarter, the employer may either include with his return direct remittance to the collector for the amount of such taxes or attach to such return a depositary receipt validated by a Federal Reserve bank as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Payment of the taxes required to be reported on each return, in the form of validated depositary receipts or direct remittances, shall be made to the collector at the time fixed for filing such return. If a deposit is made for the last month of the quarter, the employer shall make it in ample time (whether before, on, or after the 15th day of the succeeding month) to enable the Federal Reserve bank to return the validated receipt to the employer so that it can be attached to and filed with the employer's return at the time so fixed.

(3) Procurement of prescribed form. Initially, Form 450, Federal Depositary Receipt, will so far as possible be furnished the employer by the collector. An employer not supplied with the proper form should make application therefor to the collector in ample time to have such form available for use in making his initial deposit within the time prescribed in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Thereafter a blank form will be sent to the employer by the Federal Reserve bank when returning the validated depositary receipt. An employer may secure additional forms from a Federal Reserve bank by applying therefor and advising the bank of his identification number. The employer's identification number and name, on each depositary receipt, should be the same as they are required to be shown on the return to be filed with the collector. The address of the employer, as shown on each depositary receipt, should be the address to which the receipt should be returned following validation by the Federal Reserve bank.

§ 408.608 When fractional part of cent may be disregarded. In the payment of taxes to the collector a fractional part of a cent shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to 1 cent. Fractional parts of a cent shall not be disregarded in the computation of taxes. See § 408.304 for provisions relating to fractional parts of a cent in connection with the deduction of employee tax from wages.

§ 408.609 Records—(a) Records of employers. (1) Every employer liable for tax shall keep accurate records of all remuneration paid to his employees after December 31, 1950, for services performed for him after December 31, 1936. Such records shall show with respect to each employee—

(i) The name, address, and account number of the employee (see § 408.504, relating to account numbers), and such additional information with respect to the employee as is required by § 408.504 (a) when the employee does not advise the employer what his account number and name are as shown on an account number card issued to the employee by the Social Security Administration;

(ii) To the extent material to the determination of tax liability, the dates on which the employee worked during each calendar quarter, including the days for which remuneration is paid or payable to the employee, and the character of the services performed (see §§ 403.210 and 408.227 (h), relating respectively to services not in the course of the employer's trade or business and to domestic service in a private home of the employer not on a farm operated for profit), and in addition, in the case of agricultural labor, whether such agricultural labor is performed on a full-time basis, and the date on which the employer-employee relationship commenced in each instance and, if terminated, the date of the termination thereof (see § 408.208, relating to agricultural labor);

(iii) The total amount (including any sum withheld therefrom as tax or for any other reason) and date of each remuneration payment and the period of services covered by such payment;

(iv) The amount of such remuneration payment which constitutes wages subject to tax (see §§ 408.226 and 408.227); and

(v) The amount of employee tax withheld or collected with respect to such payment, and, if collected at a time other than the time such payment was made, the date collected.

The term "remuneration", as used in this paragraph, includes all payments whether in cash or in a medium other than cash, except that the term does not include payments in a medium other than cash (a) for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, (b) for domestic service in a private home of the employer not on a farm operated for profit, or (c) for agricultural labor. (For provisions relating to the exclusion from wages of payments in a medium other than cash for such services, see § 408.227 (g).)

(2) If the total remuneration payment (subparagraph (1) (iii) of this paragraph) and the amount thereof which is taxable (subparagraph (1) (iv) of this paragraph) are not equal, the reason therefor shall be made a matter of record. Accurate records of the details of each adjustment or settlement made pursuant to § 408.702 or § 408.703 shall also be kept.

(3) No particular form is prescribed for keeping the records required by this paragraph (a). Each employer shall use such forms and systems of accounting as will enable the Commissioner to ascertain whether the taxes for which the employer is liable are correctly computed and paid.

(b) Records of employees. While not mandatory, it is advisable for each employee to keep permanent, accurate records showing the name and address of each employer for whom he performs services as an employee, the dates of beginning and termination of such services, the information with respect to himself which is required by paragraph (a) of this section to be kept by employers, and the receipts furnished in accordance with the provisions of § 408.306. (See, however, par. (d) of this section, relating to records of claimants.)

(c) Copies of returns, schedules, and statements. Every employer who is required, by the regulations in this part or by instructions applicable to any form prescribed thereunder, to keep any copy of any return, schedule, statement, or other document, shall keep such copy as part of his records.

(d) Records of claimants. Any person (including an employee) claiming refund, credit, or abatement of any tax, penalty, or interest shall keep a complete and detailed record with respect to such tax, penalty, or interest.

(e) Place and period for keeping records. (1) All records required by the regulations in this part shall be kept, by the person required to keep them, at one or more convenient and safe locations accessible to internal revenue officers. Such records shall at all times be open for inspection by such officers. If the employer has a principal place of business in the United States, the records required by paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section shall be kept at such place of business.

(2) Records required by paragraphs (a) and (c) of this section shall be maintained for a period of at least four years after the date the tax to which they relate becomes due, or the date the tax is paid, whichever is the later. Records required by paragraph (d) of this section (including any record required by paragraph (a) or (c) which relates to a claim) shall be maintained for a period of at least four years after the date the claim is filed.

Subpart G—Adjustments of Employee Tax and Employer Tax

Section 1401 (c) of the Act

Adjustments

If more or less than the correct amount of tax imposed by section 1400 is paid with respect to any payment of remuneration, proper adjustments, with respect both to the tax and the amount to be deducted, shall be made, without interest, in such manner and at such times as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter. (Sec. 1401 (c), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 602 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, 53 Stat. 1382.)

Section 1401 (d) (4) (A) of the Act

Special rules in case of Federal employees

In the case of remuneration received from the United States or a wholly owned instrumentality thereof during any calendar year after the calendar year 1950, each head of a Federal agency or instrumentality who makes a return pursuant to section 1420 (e) and each agent, designated by the head of a Federal agency or instrumentality, who makes a return pursuant to such section shall, for the purposes of subsection (c) • • • •, be deemed a separate employer; • • •. (Sec. 1401 (d) (4) (A), I. R. C., as added by sec. 203 (c), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 527.)

Adjustment of tax

If more or less than the correct amount of tax imposed by section 1410 is paid with respect to any payment of remuneration, proper adjustments with respect to the tax shall be made, without interest, in such manner and at such times as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter. For the purposes of this section, in the case of remuneration received from the United States or a wholly owned instrumentality thereof during any calendar year after the calendar year 1950, each head of a Federal agency or instrumentality who makes a return pursuant to section 1420 (e) and each agent, designated by the head of a Federal agency or instrumentality, who makes a return pursuant to such section shall be deemed a separate employer. (Sec. 1411, I. R. C., as amended by sec. 605, Social Security Act Amendments of 1939, 53 Stat. 1383; sec. 202 (c), (d), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 525.)

§ 408.701 Adjustments in general. Errors in the payment of employee tax and employer tax must be adjusted in certain cases without interest. Not all corrections of erroneous collections or payments of tax, however, constitute adjustments within the meaning of the act and the regulations in this part. The various situations under which such adjustments shall be made are set forth in § § 408.702 and 408.703, the provisions of which also relate to settlement other than by adjustment under certain circumstances set forth therein. No underpayment of employee tax or employer tax shall be reported pursuant to such sections after receipt from the collector of notice and demand for payment thereof based upon an assessment, but the amount shall be paid in accordance with such notice and demand. Every return on which an adjustment or settlement is reported pursuant to § 408.702 or § 408.703 must have securely attached as a part thereof a statement explaining the adjustment or settlement, designating the tax-return period in which the error was ascertained, and setting forth such other information as may be required by the regulations in this part and by the instructions relating to the return. If an adjustment of an overcollection of employee tax which an employer has repaid to an employee is reported on a return, such statement shall include the fact that such tax was repaid to the employee. If the adjustment relates to an overcollection of employee tax in a prior year, the employer's statement explaining the adjustment shall also show that the employer has obtained from the employee a written statement that the employee has not claimed and will not claim refund or credit of the amount of such overcollection. (See § 408.702 (b) (2).) Amounts deducted from remuneration of an employee and other settlements between an employee and his employer, in correction of an overcollection or undercollection of employee tax, shall be reflected in the amounts shown on statements furnished by the employer to the employee in accordance with section 408.306, relating to receipts for employees. For purposes of this section and §§ 408.702 and 408.703, in the case of remuneration received from the United States or a wholly owned instrumentality thereof, each head of a Federal agency or instrumentality, and each agent designated by the head of a Federal agency or instrumentality, who makes a return pursuant to section 1420 (e) of the act is deemed to be a separate employer.

§ 408.702 Adjustment of employee tax—(a) Undercollections—(1) Prior to filing of return. If no employee tax or less than the correct amount of employee tax is deducted from any payment of wages to an employee and the error is ascertained prior to the time the return is filed with the collector for the period in which such wages are paid, the employer shall nevertheless report on such return and pay to the collector the correct amount of employee tax. However, the reporting and payment by the employer of the correct amount of such tax in accordance with this subparagraph do not constitute an adjustment, and the amount shall not be reported as an adjustment on the return.

(2) After return is filed. (i) If no employee tax or less than the correct amount of employee tax with respect to a payment of wages to an employee is reported on a return and paid to the collector, the employer shall adjust the underpayment by (a) reporting the additional amount due by reason of such underpayment as an adjustment on a return filed on or before the last day on which the return for the tax-return period in which the error is ascertained is required to be filed, or (b) reporting such additional amount on a supplemental return for the tax-return period in which such payment of wages is made. The reporting of such an underpayment on a supplemental return constitutes an adjustment within the meaning of this subparagraph only when the supplemental return is filed on or before the last day on which the return for the tax-return period in which the error is ascertained is required to be filed. (See § 408.605, relating in part to supplemental returns.) The amount of each underpayment adjusted in accordance with this subparagraph shall be paid to the collector, without interest, at the time fixed for reporting the adjustment. If an adjustment is reported pursuant to this subparagraph but the amount thereof is not paid when due, interest thereafter accrues.

(ii) If no employee tax or less than the correct amount of employee tax with respect to a payment of wages to an employee is reported on a return and paid to the collector and such underpayment is not reported as an adjustment within the time prescribed by this subparagraph, the amount of such underpayment shall be (a) reported on the employer's next return, or (b) reported immediately on a supplemental return. (For interest accruing on amounts so reported, see § 408.907.)

(3) Deductions from employee. If an employer collects no employee tax or less than the correct amount of employee tax from an employee with respect to wages received by the employee, the employer shall collect the amount of the undercollection by deducting such amount from remuneration of the employee, if any, under his control after he ascertains the error. Such deductions may be made even though the remuneration, for any reason, does not constitute wages. (See §§ 408.226 and 408.227, relating to wages.) If the employer ascertains the error prior to the time the return is required to be filed for the period in which such wages are paid, or if the employer ascertains the error subsequent to such time and the error is subject to adjustment under the provisions of subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the deduction of the amount of the undercollection in correction of such error shall be made without interest. The obligation of the employee to the employer with respect to an undercollection of employee tax from the employee not subsequently corrected by a deduction made as prescribed in the foregoing provisions of this subparagraph is a matter for settlement between the employee and the employer. The amount of the employee tax, in the case of a prior undercollection thereof from the employee, shall be reported and paid as provided in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph. If an employer makes an erroneous collection of employee tax from two or more of his employees, a separate settlement must be made with respect to each employee. Thus, an overcollection of employee tax from one employee may not be used to offset an undercollection of such tax from another.

(b) Overcollections—(1) Prior to filing of return. If an employer (i) during any tax-return period collects more than the correct amount of employee tax from any employee, and (ii) repays the amount of the overcollection to the employee prior to the time the return for such period is filed with the collector, and (iii) obtains and keeps as part of his records the written receipt of the employee, showing the date and amount of the repayment, the employer shall not report on any return or pay to the collector the amount of the overcollection. However, every overcollection not repaid to and receipted for by the employee as provided in this subparagraph must be reported and paid to the collector with the return for the period in which the overcollection was made.

(2) After return is filed. (i) If an employer collects from any employee and pays to the collector more than the correct amount of employee tax, the employer shall adjust the overcollection by repaying or reimbursing the employee in the amount thereof; except that an overcollection of employee tax in one calendar year is not adjustable in a subsequent calendar year unless the employer obtains from the employee a written statement that the employee has not claimed and will not claim refund or credit of the amount of such overcollection. (See section 408.801 (c), relating to refund claims by employees, and section 408.802, relating to special refunds of employee tax.) Such statement shall be retained by the employer as a part of his records.

(ii) If the amount of the overcollection is repaid, the employer shall obtain and keep as part of his records the written receipt of the employee, showing the date and amount of the repayment. (See § 408.701, relating in part to statements required in explanation of adjustments of overcollections of employee tax.)

(iii) If the employer does not repay the employee, the employer shall reimburse the employee by applying the amount of the overcollection against the employee tax which attaches to wages paid to the employee prior to the expiration of the tax-return period following the tax-return period in which the error is ascertained. If the amount of the overcollection exceeds the amount so applied against such employee tax, the excess amount shall be repaid to the employee as required by this subparagraph.

(iv) An overcollection is adjustable under this subparagraph only if it is completed prior to the expiration of the tax-return period following the tax-return period in which the error is ascertained by the employer, and then only

If the adjustment is reported on a return filed within the statutory period of limitation upon refunds and credits of the tax (see § 408.804, relating to the statutory period). A claim for credit or refund (in accordance with § 408.801) may be filed within the period of limitation upon refunds and credits for any overcollection which cannot be adjusted under this subparagraph.

§ 408.703 Adjustment of employer tax—(a) Underpayments. (1) If no employer tax or less than the correct amount of employer tax with respect to a payment of wages to an employee is reported on a return and paid to the collector, the employer shall adjust the underpayment by (i) reporting the additional amount due by reason of such underpayment as an adjustment on a return filed on or before the last day on which the return for the tax-return period in which the error is ascertained is required to be filed, or (ii) reporting such additional amount on a supplemental return for the tax-return period in which such payment of wages is made. The reporting of such an underpayment on a supplemental return constitutes an adjustment within the meaning of this paragraph only when the supplemental return is filed on or before the last day on which the return for the tax-return period in which the error is ascertained is required to be filed. (See § 408.605, relating in part to supplemental returns.) The amount of each underpayment adjusted in accordance with this paragraph shall be paid to the collector, without interest, at the time fixed for reporting the adjustment. If an adjustment is reported pursuant to this paragraph but the amount thereof is not paid when due, interest thereafter accrues.

(2) If no employer tax or less than the correct amount of employer tax with respect to a payment of wages to an employee is reported on a return and paid to the collector and such underpayment is not adjusted in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph, the amount of such underpayment shall be (i) reported on the employer's next return, or (ii) reported immediately on a supplemental return. (For interest accruing on amounts so reported, see § 408.907.)

(b) Overpayments. If (1) an employer pays more than the correct amount of employer tax with respect to any payment of remuneration, and (2) the employer is required under paragraph (b) of § 408.702 to adjust a corresponding overpayment of employee tax with respect to the same payment of remuneration to the employee, the employer shall adjust the overpayment of employer tax to the same extent and on the same return or returns on which the adjustment of employee tax is reported. The adjustment of employer tax shall be made by deducting the amount of the overpayment from the amount of employer tax reported on such return or returns. No overpayment shall be adjusted under this paragraph after the expiration of the statutory period of limitation upon refunds and credits of the tax (see § 408.804, relating to the statutory period). If an overpayment of employer tax is made with respect to a payment of remuneration to an employee, but no corresponding overpayment of employee tax is made with respect to the same payment of remuneration, the overpayment of employer tax is not adjustable under this paragraph. (See § 408.801, relating to refunds and credits.)

SUBPART H—REFUNDS, CREDITS, AND ABATEMENTS

OVERPAYMENTS

If more * * * than the correct amount of tax imposed by section 1400 or 1410 is paid or deducted with respect to any wage payment and the overpayment * * * of tax cannot be adjusted under section 1401 (c) or 1411 the amount of the overpayment shall be refunded * * * in such manner and at such times (subject to the statutes of limitations properly applicable thereto) as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter.

ERRONEOUS PAYMENTS

In general. In the case of any overpayment or overcollection of the tax * * * the person making such overpayment or overcollection may take credit therefor against taxes due upon any * * * return, and shall make refund of any excessive amount collected by him upon proper application by the person entitled thereto.

SECTION 3770 (a) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

AUTHORITY TO MAKE ABATEMENTS, CREDITS, AND REFUNDS

To taxpayers—(1) Assessments and collections generally. Except as otherwise provided by law in the case of income, war-profits, excess-profits, estate, and gift taxes, the Commissioner, subject to regulations prescribed by the Secretary, is authorized to remit, refund, and pay back all taxes erroneously or illegally assessed or collected, all penalties collected without authority, and all taxes that appear to be unjustly assessed or excessive in amount, or in any manner wrongfully collected.

(2) Assessments and collections after limitation period. Any tax (or any interest, penalty, additional amount, or addition to such tax) assessed or paid after the expiration of the period of limitation properly applicable thereto shall be considered an overpayment and shall be credited or refunded to the taxpayer if claim therefor is filed within the period of limitation for filing such claim.

(4) Credit of overpayment of one class of tax against another class of tax due. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the Commissioner may, in his discretion, in lieu of refunding an overpayment of tax imposed by any provision of this title [Internal Revenue Code], credit such overpayment against any tax due from the taxpayer under any other provision of this title.

(5) Delegation of authority to collectors to make refunds. The Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, is authorized to delegate to collectors any authority, duty, or function which the Commissioner is authorized or required to exercise or perform under paragraph (1), (2), * * * or (4) of this subsection, * * * where the amount involved (exclusive of interest, penalties, additions to the tax, and additional amounts) does not exceed $10,000.

* * * * *

(Sec. 3770 (a), I. R. C., as amended by sec. 508 (b), Second Revenue Act of 1940, 54 Stat. 1008; sec. 9 (a), act of Aug. 27, 1949, 63 Stat. 669.)

SECTION 3477 OF THE UNITED STATES REVISED STATUTES

WHEN ASSIGNMENT OF CLAIMS VOID

All transfers and assignments made of any claim upon the United States, or of any part or share thereof, or interest therein, whether absolute or conditional, and whatever may be the consideration therefor, and all powers of attorney, orders, or other authorities for receiving payment of any such claim, or of any part or share thereof, shall be absolutely null and void, unless they are freely made and executed in the presence of at least two attesting witnesses, after the allowance of such a claim, the ascertainment of the amount due, and the issuing of a warrant for the payment thereof. Such transfers, assignments, and powers of attorney, must recite the warrant for payment, and must be acknowledged by the person making them, before an officer having authority to take acknowledgments of deeds, and shall be certified by the officer; and it must appear by the certificate that the officer, at the time of the acknowledgment, read and fully explained the transfer, assignment, or warrant of attorney to the person acknowledging the same.

§ 408.801 Refund or credit of overpayments which are not adjustable; abatement of overassessment—(a) Who may make claims. If more than the correct amount of tax, penalty, or interest is paid to the collector, the person who paid such tax, penalty, or interest to the collector may file a claim for refund of such overpayment or such person may take credit for the overpayment against any tax under the act reported on any return which he subsequently files. (See par. (c) of this section, relating in part to overpayments which are adjustable.) No refund or credit of employee tax shall be allowed if for any reason (for example, an overcollection of employee tax having been inadvertently included by the employee in computing a special refund—see § 408.802) the employee has claimed the amount thereof as a credit against, or refund of, his income tax unless such claim has been rejected. If more than the correct amount of tax, penalty, or interest is assessed but not paid to the collector, the person against whom the assessment is made may file a claim for abatement of such overassessment. (See also par. (c) of this section, relating to claims by employees.)

(b) Statements supporting employers' claims for employee tax. Every claim filed by an employer for refund, credit, or abatement of employee tax collected from an employee shall include a statement (1) that the employer has repaid the tax to the employee or has secured the written consent of such employee to allowance of the refund, credit, or abatement, and (2) that the employer has obtained from the employee a written statement that the employee has not claimed and will not claim refund or credit of the amount of the overcollection. In every such case, the employer shall maintain as part of his records the written receipt of the employee, showing the date and amount of the repayment, or the written consent of the employee, whichever is used in support of the claim, and the written statement of the employee that he has not claimed and will not claim refund or credit of the amount of the overcollection. (See par. (d) of this section, relating to form of claims.)

(c) Refund claims made by employees. If (1) more than the correct amount of employee tax is collected by an employer from an employee and paid to the collector, and (2) such overcollection is not adjustable under § 408.702, and (3) the employee has not claimed reimbursement through credit against, or refund of, his income tax (or if so claimed, the claim has been rejected), and (4) the employee does not receive reimbursement in any manner from such employer and does not authorize the employer to file a claim and receive refund or credit, such employee may file a claim for refund of such overpayment. The employee shall submit with the claim a statement setting forth whether the employee has claimed credit against, or refund of, his income tax by reason of a special refund for the calendar year of such overcollection, and the amount, if any, so claimed. The employee shall also submit with the claim a statement setting forth the extent, if any, to which the employer has reimbursed the employee in any manner for the overcollection, the amount, if any, of credit or refund of such overpayment claimed by the employer or authorized by the employee to be claimed by the employer, and such facts as will establish that the overpayment is not adjustable under § 408.702. The employee shall obtain such statement, if possible, from the employer, who should include in such statement the fact that it is made in support of a claim against the United States to be filed by the employee for refund of employee tax paid by such employer to the collector of internal revenue. If the employer's statement is not submitted with the claim, the employee shall make the statement to the best of his knowledge and belief, and shall include therein an explanation of his inability to obtain the statement from the employer. (For provisions relating to special refunds of employee tax on wages over $3,600, see § 408.802.)

(d) Form of claims. (1) Each claim for refund or abatement under this section shall be made on Form 843 in accordance with the regulations in this part and with the instructions relating to such form, and shall designate the tax-return period in which the error was ascertained. Copies of Form 843 may be obtained from any collector. If credit is taken under this section, a claim on Form 843 is not required, but the return on which such credit is claimed shall have attached as a part thereof a statement which shall constitute the claim for credit, setting forth in detail the grounds and facts relied upon in support of the credit, designating the tax-return period in which the error was ascertained, and showing such other information as is required by the regulations in this part or by the instructions relating to the return.

(2) Whenever a claim for refund, credit, or abatement is made with respect to remuneration which was erroneously reported on a return or schedule thereof, such claim shall include a statement showing (i) the identification number of the employer, if he was required to make application therefor, (ii) the name and account number of the employee for whom such remuneration was so reported, (iii) the period covered by such return or schedule, (iv) the amount of remuneration actually reported as wages for such employee, and (v) the amount of wages which should have been reported for such employee.

(e) Limitations on claims. No refund or credit will be allowed after the expiration of the applicable statutory period of limitations, except upon one or more of the grounds set forth in a claim filed prior to the expiration of such period. For provisions relating to the period of limitation upon refunds and credits, see § 408.804. No refund or credit of an overpayment will be allowed if such overpayment is adjustable under § 408.702 or § 408.703.

(f) Claims improperly made. Any claim which does not comply with the requirements of this section will not be considered for any purpose as a claim for refund, credit, or abatement.

(g) Proof of representative capacity. If a return is made by an individual who thereafter dies and a refund claim is made by a legal representative of the deceased, certified copies of the letters testamentary, letters of administration, or other similar evidence must be annexed to the claim, to show the authority of the executor, administrator, or other fiduciary by whom the claim is made. If an executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, receiver, or other fiduciary makes a return and thereafter a refund claim is made by the same fiduciary, documentary evidence to establish the legal authority of the fiduciary need not accompany the claim, provided a statement is made in the claim showing that the return was made by the fiduciary and that the latter is still acting. In such cases, if a refund or interest is to be paid, letters testamentary, letters of administration, or other evidence may be required, but should be submitted only upon the receipt of a specific request therefor. If a claim is made by a fiduciary other than the one by whom the return was made, the necessary documentary evidence should accompany the claim. The claim may be executed by the agent of the person assessed, but in such case a power of attorney must accompany the claim.

SECTION 1401 (d) (3) AND (4) OF THE ACT

SPECIAL REFUNDS

(3) Wages received after 1950. If by reason of an employee receiving wages from more than one employer during any calendar year after the calendar year 1950, the wages received by him during such year exceed $3,600, the employee shall be entitled to a refund of any amount of tax, with respect to such wages, imposed by section 1400 and deducted from the employee's wages (whether or not paid to the collector), which exceeds the tax with respect to the first $3,600 of such wages received. Refund under this section may be made in accordance with the provisions of law applicable in the case of erroneous or illegal collection of the tax; except that no such refund shall be made unless (A) the employee makes a claim, establishing his right thereto, after the calendar year in which the wages were received with respect to which refund of tax is claimed, and (B) such claim is made within two years after the calendar year in which such wages were received. No interest shall be allowed or paid with respect to any such refund.

(4) Special rules in the case of Federal and State employees.—(A) Federal employees. In the case of remuneration received from the United States or a wholly owned instrumentality thereof during any calendar year after the calendar year 1950, each head of a Federal agency or instrumentality who makes a return pursuant to section 1420 (e) and each agent, designated by the head of a Federal agency or instrumentality, who makes a return pursuant to such section shall, for the purposes of * * * paragraph (3) of this subsection, be deemed a separate employer; and the term "wages" includes, for the purposes of paragraph (3) of this subsection, the amount not to exceed $3,600, determined by each such head or agent as constituting wages paid to an employee.

(B) State employees. For the purposes of paragraph (3) of this subsection, in the case of remuneration received during any calendar year after the calendar year 1950, the term "wages" includes such remuneration for services covered by an agreement made pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act as would be wages if such services constituted employment; the term "employer" includes a State or any political subdivision thereof, or any instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing; the term "tax" or "tax imposed by section 1400" includes, in the case of services covered by an agreement made pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act, an amount equivalent to the tax which would be imposed by section 1400, if such services constituted employment as defined in section 1426; and the provisions of paragraph (3) of this subsection shall apply whether or not any amount deducted from the employee's remuneration as a result of an agreement made pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act has been paid to the Secretary of the Treasury. (Sec. 1401 (d) (3), (4), I. R. C., as added by sec. 203 (c), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 527.)

SECTION 322 (a) (4) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

CREDIT FOR "SPECIAL REFUNDS" OF EMPLOYEE SOCIAL SECURITY TAX

The Commissioner is authorized to prescribe, with the approval of the Secretary, regulations providing for the crediting against the tax imposed by this chapter [chapter 1—Income tax] for any taxable year of the amount determined by the taxpayer or the Commissioner to be allowable under section 1401 (d) as a special refund of tax imposed on wages received during the calendar year in which such taxable year begins. If more than one taxable year begins in such calendar year, such amount shall not be allowed under this section as a credit against the tax for any taxable year other than the last taxable year so beginning. The amount allowed as a credit under such regulations shall, for the purposes of this chapter, be considered an amount deducted and withheld at the source as tax under subchapter D of chapter 9. (Sec. 322 (a) (4), I. R. C., as added by sec. 206 (b) (1), (c), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 538.)

SECTION 48 (a) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

TAXABLE YEAR

"Taxable year" means the calendar year, or the fiscal year ending during such calendar year, upon the basis of which the net income is computed under this Part [part IV, subchapter B, chapter 1]. "Taxable year" means, in the case of a return made for a fractional part of a year under the provisions of this chapter [chapter 1—income tax] or under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, the period for which such return is made. (Sec. 48 (a), I. R. C., as amended by secs. 101, 135 (d), Revenue Act of 1942, 56 Stat. 802, 835.)

§ 408.802 Special refunds of employee tax on wages over $3,600—(a) In general. If, during any calendar year commencing after December 31, 1950, an employee receives wages in excess of $3,600 from two or more employers, the employee shall be entitled to a special refund of the amount, if any, by which the employee tax imposed with respect to such wages and deducted therefrom (whether or not paid to the collector) exceeds the employee tax with respect to the first $3,600 of such wages. (See §§ 408.226 and 408.227, relating to wages.)

Example (1). Employee A in the calendar year 1951 receives taxable wages in the amount of $2,000 from each of his employers B, C, and D, for services performed during such year (or at any time after December 31, 1936), or a total of $6,000. Employee tax is deducted from A's wages, in the amount of $30 by B and $30 by C, or a total of $60. Employer D pays employee tax in the amount of $30 to the collector without deducting such tax from A's wages. The employee tax with respect to the first $3,600 of such wages is $54. A is entitled to a special refund of $6.

Example (2). Employee E in the calendar year 1951 performs employment for employers F and G, for which E is entitled to remuneration of $3,600 from each employer, or a total of $7,200. On account of such employment E in 1950 received an advance payment of $600 in wages from F; and in 1951 receives wages in the amount of $3,000 from F, and $3,600 from G. Employee tax was deducted as follows: In 1950, $9 by employer F; and in 1951, $45 by employer F, and $54 by employer G. Thus E in the calendar year 1951 received $6,600 in wages, from which $99 of employee tax was deducted. The amount of employee tax with respect to the first $3,600 of such wages received in 1951 is $54. E is entitled to a special refund of $45. (The $600 advance of wages received in 1950 from F, and $9 of employee tax with respect thereto, have no bearing in computing E's special refund for 1951, because the wages were not received in 1951; and such amounts could not form the basis for a special refund unless E during 1950 received from F and at least one more employer wages totaling more than $3,000, in which case E's right to refund would be determined under section 1401 (d) (2) of the act, which is dealt with in § 402.705 (c) of Regulations 106.)

(b) Special rules pertaining to Federal and State employees—(1) Federal employees. For the purpose of special refunds of employee tax, each head of a Federal agency or of a wholly owned instrumentality of the United States who makes a return pursuant to section 1420 (e) of the act (and each agent designated by a head of a Federal agency or instrumentality who makes a return pursuant to such section) is considered a separate employer. For such purpose, the term "wages" includes the amount, not in excess of $3,600, which each such head (or agent) determines to constitute wages paid an employee. For example, if wages received by an employee during any calendar year are reportable by two or more agents of one or more Federal agencies and the amount of such wages is in excess of $3,600, the employee shall be entitled to a special refund of the amount, if any, by which the employee tax imposed with respect to such wages and deducted therefrom exceeds the employee tax with respect to the first $3,600 of such wages. Moreover, if an employee receives wages during any calendar year from an agency or wholly owned instrumentality of the United States from one or more other employers, either private or governmental, and the amount of such wages is in excess of $3,600, the employee shall similarly be entitled to a special refund.

(2) State employees. For the purpose of special refunds of employee tax, the term "wages" includes such remuneration for services covered by an agreement made pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act, relating to voluntary agreements for coverage of employees of State and local governments, as would be wages if such services constituted employment (see §§ 408.226 and 408.227, relating to wages); the term "employer" includes a State or any political subdivision thereof, or any instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing; and the term "tax" or "tax imposed by section 1400" includes an amount equivalent to the employee tax which would be imposed by section 1400 of the act if such services constituted employment. In the case of employees of a State or local government, the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section are applicable whether or not any amount deducted from the employee's remuneration as a result of an agreement made pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act has been paid to the Secretary. Thus, the special refund provisions are applicable to amounts equivalent to employee tax deducted in any calendar year from employees' remuneration by States, political subdivisions, or instrumentalities pursuant to agreements made under section 218 of the Social Security Act. Moreover, if an employee receives wages during any calendar year from a State, political subdivision, or instrumentality thereof and from one or more other employers, either private or governmetal, and the amount of such wages is in excess of $3,600, the special refund provisions are applicable with respect to such wages.

(c) Claims for special refund—(1) In general. No special refund of employee tax will be allowed unless (i) the employee files a claim, establishing his right thereto, after the calendar year in which the wages are received with respect to which the special refund of tax is claimed, and (ii) such claim is filed within two years after the calendar year in which such wages are received. Each such claim shall be made with respect to wages received within one calendar year (regardless of the year or years after 1936 during which the services are performed for which such wages are received).

(2) Individual required to file income tax return. If an employee is entitled to a special refund of employee tax with respect to wages received during any calendar year commencing after December 31, 1950, and is required under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code to file an income tax return for such calendar year (or for his taxable year beginning in such calendar year or, if the employee has more than one taxable year beginning in such calendar year, for his last taxable year beginning in the calendar year), the employee shall claim credit for such refund on such income tax return in accordance with the applicable provisions of the regulations prescribed under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code. As used herein, the term "taxable year" shall have the meaning assigned to it by section 43 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code, set forth above, and the regulations prescribed thereunder.

(3) Individual not required to file income tax return. If an employee is entitled to a special refund of employee tax with respect to wages received during any calendar year commencing after December 31, 1950, and is not required under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code to file an income tax return for such calendar year (or for his taxable year beginning in such calendar year or, if the employee has more than one taxable year beginning in such calendar year, for his last taxable year beginning in the calendar year), the employee shall claim such refund in accordance with the provisions of this section. Each claim for special refund under this section shall be made on Form 843, in accordance with the regulations in this subpart and the instructions relating to such form, and shall be filed with the collector for the district in which the employee resides. The employee shall submit with the claim, as a part thereof, a statement setting forth the reason why he is entitled to claim the special refund in accordance with the regulations in this section, together with the following information, with respect to each employer from whom he received wages during the calendar year: (i) The name and address of such employer, (ii) the account number of the employee and the employee's name as reported by the employer on his returns, (iii) the amount of wages received during the calendar year to which the claim relates, (iv) the amount of employee tax on such wages deducted by the employer, and (v) the amount of such tax, if any, which has been refunded or otherwise returned to the employee. Other information may be required, but should be submitted only upon request. No interest will be allowed or paid by the Government on the amount of any special refund claimed on Form 843 in accordance with the provisions of this section.

ERRONEOUS PAYMENTS

Any tax paid under this subchapter by a taxpayer with respect to any period with respect to which he is not liable to tax under this subchapter shall be credited against the tax, if any, imposed by subchapter B upon such taxpayer, and the balance, if any, shall be refunded.

§ 408.803 Credit and refund of taxes paid for period during which liability existed under subchapter B of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code. If any person pays any amount as tax under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act with respect to any period for which he is not liable for such tax and such person is liable for a tax imposed by subchapter B of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code, the amount paid as tax under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act shall be credited against the tax for which the person is liable under such subchapter and the balance, if any, shall be refunded. Each claim for refund under this section shall be made in accordance with § 408.801. Each claim for credit under this section shall be made on Form 843 in accordance with the instructions relating to such form and the applicable provisions of § 408.801. See section 1531 of subchapter B of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code for credit or refund of amounts paid as tax under such subchapter for any period during which liability existed under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act.

SECTION 1636 OF THE ACT

PERIOD OF LIMITATION UPON REFUNDS AND CREDITS OF CERTAIN EMPLOYMENT TAXES

(a) General rule. In the case of any tax imposed by subchapter A • • • of this chapter—

(1) Period of limitation. Unless a claim for credit or refund is filed by the taxpayer within three years from the time the return was filed or within two years from the time the tax was paid, no credit or refund shall be allowed or made after the expiration of whichever of such periods expires the later. If no return is filed, then no credit or refund shall be allowed or made after two years from the time the tax was paid, unless before the expiration of such period a claim therefor is filed by the taxpayer.

(2) Limit on amount of credit or refund. The amount of the credit or refund shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid—

(A) If a return was filed, and the claim was filed within three years from the time the return was filed, during the three years immediately preceding the filing of the claim.

(B) If a claim was filed, and (i) no return was filed, or (ii) if the claim was not filed within three years from the time the return was filed, during the two years immediately preceding the filing of the claim.

(C) If no claim was filed and the allowance of credit or refund is made within three years from the time the return was filed, during the three years immediately preceding the allowance of the credit or refund.

(D) If no claim was filed, and (i) no return was filed or (ii) the allowance of the credit or refund is not made within three years from the time the return was filed, during the two years immediately preceding the allowance of the credit or refund.

(b) Penalties, etc. The provisions of subsection (a) of this section shall apply to any penalty or sum assessed or collected with respect to the tax imposed by subchapter A • • • of this chapter.

(c) Date of filing return and date of payment of tax. For the purposes of this section—

(1) If a return for any period ending with or within a calendar year is filed before March 15 of the succeeding calendar year, such return shall be considered filed on March 15 of such succeeding calendar year; and

(2) If a tax with respect to remuneration paid during any period ending with or within a calendar year is paid before March 15 of the succeeding calendar year, such tax shall be considered paid on March 15 of such succeeding calendar year.

(d) Application of section. The provisions of this section shall apply only to those taxes imposed by subchapter A of this chapter • • • which are required to be collected and paid by making and filing returns.

(e) Effective date. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any tax paid or collected with respect to remuneration paid during any calendar year before 1951 or to any penalty or sum paid or collected with respect to such tax. (Sec. 1636, I. R. C., as added by sec. 207 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 538.)

§ 408.804 Period of limitation upon refunds and credits—(a) In general. Section 1636 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that, unless a claim for refund or credit of an overpayment of the tax imposed by the act with respect to remuneration paid during any calendar year commencing after December 31, 1950, is filed within three years from the time the return was filed, or within two years from the time the tax was paid, no refund or credit shall be allowed or made after the expiration of whichever of such periods expires the later. The section further provides that, if no return is filed, then no refund or credit of such overpayment shall be allowed or made after two years from the time the tax was paid, unless before the expiration of such period a claim therefor is filed.

(b) Limitation on amount of refund or credit. The limitation on the amount of the refund or credit shall be determined in accordance with section 1636 (a) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(c) Limitation on penalties, etc. The provisions of this section relative to the tax imposed by the act are also applicable to any penalty or other sum assessed or collected with respect to such tax.

(d) Date of filing return and payment of tax. For the purposes of this section, if a return for any period ending with or within a calendar year is filed before March 15 of the succeeding calendar year, it shall be deemed filed on March 15 of such succeeding calendar year. Likewise, if any tax with respect to remuneration paid during any period ending with or within a calendar year is paid before March 15 of the succeeding calendar year, such tax shall be deemed paid on March 15 of such succeeding calendar year.

SUBPART I—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION

UNDERPAYMENTS

If • • • less than the correct amount of tax imposed by section 1400 or 1410 is paid or deducted with respect to any wage payment and the • • • underpayment of tax cannot be adjusted under section 1401 (c) or 1411 • • • the amount of the underpayment shall be collected, in such manner and at such times (subject to the statutes of limitations properly applicable thereto) as may be prescribed by regulations made under this subchapter.

§ 408.901 Assessment of underpayments. If any tax is not paid to the collector when due, the Commissioner may, as the circumstances warrant, assess the tax (whether or not the underpayment is otherwise adjustable) or afford the employer opportunity to adjust the underpayment pursuant to § 408.702 or § 408.703. Unpaid employer tax or employee tax may be assessed against the employer. Employee tax not collected by the employer may also be assessed against the employee. The unpaid amount, together with interest and penalty, if any, will be collected, pursuant to section 3655 of the Internal Revenue Code and other applicable provisions of law, from the person against whom the assessment is made. If an employer pays employee tax pursuant to an assessment against him without an adjustment having been made pursuant to § 408.702, reimbursement is a matter to be settled between the employer and the employee. (See § 408.907, relating to interest, and § 408.908, relating to penalty for failure to pay an assessment after notice and demand. See also § 408.902, relating to jeopardy assessments.)

SECTION 3660 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

JEOPARDY ASSESSMENT

(a) If the Commissioner believes that the collection of any tax (other than income tax, estate tax, and gift tax) under any provision of the internal-revenue laws will be jeopardized by delay, he shall, whether or not the time otherwise prescribed by law for making return and paying such tax has expired, immediately assess such tax (together with all interest and penalties the assessment of which is provided for by law). Such tax, penalties, and interest shall thereupon become immediately due and payable, and immediate notice and demand shall be made by the collector for the payment thereof. Upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, penalty, and interest, collection thereof by distraint shall be lawful without regard to the period prescribed in section 3690.

(b) The collection of the whole or any part of the amount of such assessment may be stayed by filing with the collector a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount as to which the stay is desired, and with such sureties, as the collector deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the amount collection of which is stayed, at the time at which, but for this section, such amount would be due.

§ 408.902 Jeopardy assessments. (a) Whenever, in the opinion of the collector, the collection of the tax will be jeopardized by delay, he should report the case promptly to the Commissioner by telegram or letter. The communication should recite the full name and address of the person involved, the tax-return period or periods involved, the amount of tax due for each period, the date any return was filed by or for the taxpayer for such period, a reference to any prior assessment made for such period against the taxpayer, and a statement as to the reason for the recommendation, which will enable the Commissioner to assess the tax, together with all penalties and interest due. Upon assessment such tax, penalty, and interest shall become immediately due and payable, whereupon the collector will issue immediately a notice and demand for payment of the tax, penalty, and interest.

(b) The collection of the whole or any part of the amount of the jeopardy assessment may be stayed by filing with the collector a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount with respect to which the stay is desired and with such sureties as the collector deems necessary. Such bond shall be conditioned upon the payment of the amount, collection of which is stayed, at the time at which, but for the jeopardy assessment, such amount would be due. In lieu of surety or sureties the taxpayer may deposit with the collector bonds or notes of the United States, or bonds or notes fully guaranteed by the United States, having a par value not less than the amount of the bond required to be furnished, together with an agreement authorizing the collector in case of default to collect or sell such bonds or notes so deposited.

(c) Upon refusal to pay, or failure to pay or give bond, the collector will proceed immediately to collect the tax, penalty, and interest by distraint without regard to the period prescribed in section 3690 of the Internal Revenue Code.

SECTION 1635 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

PERIOD OF LIMITATION UPON ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION OF CERTAIN EMPLOYMENT TAXES

(a) General rule. The amount of any tax imposed by subchapter A of this chapter • • • shall (except as otherwise provided in the following subsections of this section) be assessed within three years after the return was filed, and no proceeding in court without assessment for the collection of such tax shall be begun after the expiration of such period.

(b) False return or no return. In the case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax or of a failure to file a return, the tax may be assessed, or a proceeding in court for the collection of such tax may be begun without assessment, at any time.

(c) Willful attempt to evade tax. In case of a willful attempt in any manner to defeat or evade tax, the tax may be assessed, or a proceeding in court for the collection of such tax may be begun without assessment, at any time.

(d) Collection after assessment. Where the assessment of any tax imposed by subchapter A of this chapter • • • has been made within the period of limitation properly applicable thereto, such tax may be collected by distraint or by a proceeding in court, but only if begun (1) within six years after the assessment of the tax, or (2) prior to the expiration of any period for collection agreed upon in writing by the Commissioner and the taxpayers.

(e) Date of filing of return. For the purposes of this section, if a return for any period ending with or within a calendar year is filed before March 15 of the succeeding calendar year, such return shall be considered filed on March 15 of such succeeding calendar year.

(f) Application of section. The provisions of this section shall apply only to those taxes imposed by subchapter A of this chapter • • • which are required to be collected and paid by making and filing returns.

(g) Effective date. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any tax imposed with respect to remuneration paid during any calendar year before 1951. (Sec. 1635, I. R. C., as added by sec. 207 (a), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 538.)

§ 408.903 Period of limitation upon assessment and collection. Section 1635 of the Internal Revenue Code provides, in general, for a three-year period of limitation on the assessment of the taxes imposed by the act with respect to remuneration paid during any calendar year commencing after December 31, 1950. This period of limitation is measured from the date the return is filed, except that if a return for any period ending with or within a calendar year is filed before March 15 of the succeeding calendar year, such return shall be deemed filed on March 15 of such succeeding calendar year. For example, if quarterly returns are filed for the four quarters of 1951 on April 30, July 31, and October 31, 1951, and on January 31, 1952, the period of limitation for assessment with respect to the tax required to be reported on each such return is measured from March 15, 1952. However, if any of such returns is filed after March 15, 1952, the period of limitation for assessment of the tax required to be reported on that return is measured from the date it is in fact filed. Where the tax is assessed within the statutory period of limitation, such tax may be collected by distraint or by a proceeding in court, if begun (a) within six years after the assessment of the tax, or (b) prior to the expiration of any period for collection agreed upon in writing by the Commissioner and the taxpayer. In the case of a false or fradulent return with intent to evade tax or of a failure to file a return, and in the case of a willful attempt in any manner to defeat or evade tax, the tax required to be reported on the return may be assessed, or a proceeding in court for the collection of such tax may be begun without assessment at any time.

SECTION 3811 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

COLLECTION OF TAXES IN PUERTO RICO AND VIRGIN ISLANDS

(a) Puerto Rico. Notwithstanding any other provision of law respecting taxation in Puerto Rico, all taxes imposed • • • by subchapters A • • • of chapter 9, shall be collected under the direction of the Secretary and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States as internal revenue collections. All provisions of the laws of the United States applicable to the administration, collection, and enforcement • • • of any tax imposed by subchapter A • • • of chapter 9, shall, in respect to such tax, extend to and be applicable in Puerto Rico in the same manner and to the same extent as if Puerto Rico were a State, and as if the term "United States" when used in a geographical sense included Puerto Rico.

(b) Virgin Islands. Notwithstanding any other provision of law respecting taxation in the Virgin Islands, all taxes imposed • • • by subchapter A of chapter 9, shall be collected under the direction of the Secretary and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States as internal revenue collections. All provisions of the laws of the United States applicable to the administration, collection, and enforcement • • • of any tax imposed by subchapter A of chapter 9, shall, in respect to such tax, extend to and be applicable in the Virgin Islands in the same manner and to the same extent as if the Virgin Islands were a State, and as if the term "United States" when used in a geographical sense included the Virgin Islands.

(c) Definition. As used in this section, the term "tax" includes any penalty with respect to the tax, any addition to the tax, and any additional amount with respect to the tax, provided for by any law of the United States. (Sec. 3811, I. R. C., as added by sec. 208 (b), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 543, and as amended by sec. 221 (i), (k), Revenue Act of 1950, 64 Stat. 946, 947.)

§ 408.904 Collection of taxes in Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands. All provisions of the laws of the United States relating to the administration, collection, and enforcement (such as the provisions relating to the ascertainment, return, determination, redetermination, assessment, collection, remission, credit, and refund) of any tax imposed by the act shall, in respect of such tax, extend to and be applicable in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands in the same manner and to the same extent as if Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands were each a State, and as if the term "United States" when used in a geographical sense included Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

MITIGATION OF EFFECT OF STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS IN CASE OF RELATED EMPLOYEE TAX AND SELF-EMPLOYMENT TAX

SECTION 3812 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

MITIGATION OF EFFECT OF STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS AND OTHER PROVISIONS IN CASE OF RELATED TAXES UNDER DIFFERENT CHAPTERS

(a) Self-employment tax and tax on wages. In the case of the tax imposed by subchapter E of chapter 1 (relating to tax on self-employment income) and the tax imposed by section 1400 of subchapter A of chapter 9 (relating to tax on employees under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act)—

(1) (i) If an amount is erroneously treated as self-employment income, or

(ii) If an amount is erroneously treated as wages, and

(2) If the correction of the error would require an assessment of one such tax and the refund or credit of the other tax, and

(3) If at any time the correction of the error is authorized as to one such tax but is prevented as to the other tax by any law or rule of law (other than section 3761, relating to compromises), then, if the correction authorized is made, the amount of the assessment, or the amount of the credit or refund, as the case may be, authorized as to the one tax shall be reduced by the amount of the credit or refund, or the amount of the assessment, as the case may be, which would be required with respect to such other tax for the correction of the error if such credit or refund, or such assessment, of such other tax were not prevented by any law or rule of law (other than section 3761, relating to compromises).

(b) Definitions. For the purposes of subsection (a) of this section, the terms "self-employment income" and "wages" shall have the same meaning as when used in section 481 (b). (Sec. 3812, I. R. C., as added by sec. 208 (b), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 544.)

§ 408.905 Mitigation of effect of statute of limitations in case of related employee tax and self-employment tax—(a) Application of section. (1) Section 3812 of the Internal Revenue Code may be applied in the correction of a certain type of error involving both the tax on self-employment income and the employee tax under section 1400 of the act, if the correction of the error as to one tax is, on the date the correction is authorized, prevented in whole or in part by the operation of any law or rule of law other than section 3761 of the Internal Revenue Code, relating to compromises.

(2) If the liability for either tax with respect to which the error was made has been compromised under section 3761 of the Code, the provisions of section 3812 of the Code limiting the correction with respect to the other tax do not apply.

(3) Section 3812 of the Code is not applicable if, on the date of the authorization, correction of the effect of the error is permissible as to both taxes without resource to such section.

(4) If, because an amount of wages (as defined in section 1426 (a) of the act) is erroneously treated as self-employment income (as defined in section 481 (b) of the Internal Revenue Code) or an amount of self-employment income is erroneously treated as wages, it is necessary in correcting the error to assess the correct tax and give a credit or refund for the amount of the tax erroneously paid, and either, but not both, of such adjustments is prevented by any law or rule of law (other than section 3761 of the Code), the amount of the assessment or of the credit or refund authorized shall reflect the adjustment which would be made in respect of the other tax (either the tax on self-employment income under section 480 of the Internal Revenue Code or the employee tax under section 1400 of the act) but for operation of such law or rule of law. For example, assume that during 1951 A paid $10 as tax on an amount erroneously treated as wages, when such amount was actually self-employment income, and that credit or refund of the $10 is not barred. A should have paid a self-employment tax of $15 on the amount. If the assessment of the correct tax, that is, $15, is barred by the statute of limitations, no credit or refund of the $10 shall be made without offsetting against such $10 the $15, assessment of which is barred. Thus, no credit or refund in respect of the $10 can be made.

(5) As another example, assume that during 1951 a taxpayer reports wages of $3,600 and net earnings from self-employment of $900. By reason of the limitations of section 481 (b) of the Code he shows no self-employment income. Assume further that by reason of a final decision in The Tax Court of the United States, further adjustments to his income tax liability are barred. The question of the amount of his wages, as defined in section 1426 (a) of the act, was not in issue in the Tax Court litigation, but it is subsequently determined (within the period of limitations applicable under the act) that $700 of the $3,600 reported as wages was not for employment as defined in section 1426 (b) of the act, and he is entitled to the allowance of a refund of the $10.50 tax paid on such remuneration under section 1400 of the act. The reduction of his wages from $3,600 to $2,900 would result in the determination of $700 self-employment income, the tax on which is $15.75 for the year. The overpayment of $10.50 would be offset under section 3812 of the Code by the barred deficiency of $15.75, thus eliminating the refund otherwise allowable. If the facts were changed so that the taxpayer erroneously paid tax on self-employment income of $700, having been taxed on only $2,900 as wages, and within the period of limitations applicable under the act, it is determined that his wages were $3,600, the tax of $10.50 under section 1400 of the act, otherwise collectible, would be eliminated by offsetting under section 3812 of the Code the barred overpayment of $15.75. The balance of the barred overpayment, $5.25, cannot be credited or refunded.

(6) Another illustration of the operation of section 3812 of the Code is the case of a taxpayer who is erroneously taxed on $2,500 as wages, the tax on which is $37.50, and who reports no self-employment income. After the statute of limitations has run on the refund of the tax under the act, it is determined that the amount treated as wages should have been reported as net earnings from self-employment. The taxpayer's self-employment income would then be $2,500 and the tax thereon would be $56.25. Assume that the period of limitations under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code has not expired, and that a notice of deficiency may properly be issued. Under section 3812 of the Code, the amount of the deficiency of $56.25 must be reduced by the barred overpayment of $37.50.

(b) Law applicable in determination of error. The question of whether there was an erroneous treatment of self-employment income or of wages is determined under the provisions of law and regulations applicable with respect to the year or other taxable period as to which the error was made. The fact that the error was in pursuance of an interpretation, either judicial or administrative, accorded such provisions of law and regulations at the time of such action is not necessarily determinative of this question. For example, if a later judicial decision authoritatively alters such interpretation so that such action was contrary to such provisions of the law and regulations as later interpreted, the error is within the meaning of section 3812 of the Code.

ACTS TO BE PERFORMED BY AGENTS

SECTION 1632 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

ACTS TO BE PERFORMED BY AGENTS

In case a fiduciary, agent or other person has the control, receipt, custody, or disposal of, or pays the wages of an employee or group of employees, employed by one or more employers, the Commissioner, under regulations prescribed by him with the approval of the Secretary, is authorized to designate such fiduciary, agent or other person to perform such acts as are required of employers under this chapter [chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code] and as the Commissioner may specify. Except as may be otherwise prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, all provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of an employer shall be applicable to a fiduciary, agent or other person so designated but, except as so provided, the employer for whom such fiduciary, agent or other person acts shall remain subject to the provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of employers. (Sec. 1632, I. R. C., as added by sec. 2 (a), (d), Current Tax Payment Act of 1943, 57 Stat. 126, 139.)

§ 408.906 Acts to be performed by agents. If an employer pays wages to an employee or group of employees through a fiduciary, agent, or other person who also has the control, receipt, custody, or disposal of, or pays the wages payable by another employer to such employee or group of employees, the Commissioner may, subject to such terms and conditions as he deems proper, authorize such fiduciary, agent, or other person to perform such acts as are required of employers under the act and the regulations in this part. Application for authorization to perform such acts, signed by such fiduciary, agent, or other person, should be filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C. If the fiduciary, agent, or other person is authorized by the Commissioner to perform such acts as are required of employers under the act and regulations, all provisions of law (including penalties) and of the regulations prescribed in pursuance of law applicable in respect of an employer shall be applicable to such fiduciary, agent, or other person. However, each employer for whom such fiduciary, agent, or other person acts shall remain subject to all provisions of law (including penalties) and of the regulations prescribed in pursuance of law applicable in respect of employers.

INTEREST AND ADDITIONS TO TAX

SECTION 1420 (b) OF THE ACT

ADDITION TO TAX IN CASE OF DELINQUENCY

If the tax is not paid when due, there shall be added as part of the tax interest (except in the case of adjustments made in accordance with the provisions of sections 1401 (c) and 1411) at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date the tax became due until paid.

SECTION 3655 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

NOTICE AND DEMAND FOR TAX

(a) Delivery. Where it is not otherwise provided, the collector shall in person or by deputy, within ten days after receiving any list of taxes from the Commissioner, give notice to each person liable to pay any taxes stated therein, to be left at his dwelling or usual place of business, or to be sent by mail, stating the amount of such taxes and demanding payment thereof.

(b) Addition to tax for nonpayment. If such person does not pay the taxes, within ten days after the service or the sending by mail of such notice, it shall be the duty of the collector or his deputy to collect the said taxes with a penalty of 5 per centum additional upon the amount of taxes, and interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from the date of such notice to the date of payment • • •.

§ 408.907 Interest. If the tax is not paid to the collector when due and is not adjusted under § 408.702 or § 408.703, interest accrues at the rate of 6 percent per annum.

§ 408.908 Addition to tax for failure to pay an assessment after notice and demand. (a) If tax, penalty, or interest is assessed and the entire amount thereof is not paid within 10 days after the date of issuance of notice and demand for payment thereof, based on such assessment, there accrues under section 3655 of the Internal Revenue Code (except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section) a penalty of 5 percent of the assessment remaining unpaid at the expiration of such period.

(b) If, within 10 days after the date of issuance of notice and demand, a claim for abatement of any amount of the assessment is filed with the collector, the 5 percent penalty does not attach with respect to such amount. If the claim is rejected in whole or in part and the amount rejected is not paid, the collector shall issue notice and demand for such amount. If payment is not made within 10 days after the date the collector issues the notice and demand, the 5 percent penalty attaches with respect to the amount rejected. The filing of the claim does not stay the running of interest.

SECTION 3612 (d) AND (e) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

(d) Additions to tax—(1) Failure to file return. In case of any failure to make and file a return or list within the time prescribed by law, or prescribed by the Commissioner or the collector in pursuance of law, the Commissioner shall add to the tax 25 per centum of its amount, except that when a return is filed after such time and it is shown that the failure to file it was due to a reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, no such addition shall be made to the tax: Provided, That in the case of a failure to make and file a return required by law, within the time prescribed by law or prescribed by the Commissioner in pursuance of law, if the last date so prescribed for filing the return is after August 30, 1935, then there shall be added to the tax, in lieu of such 25 per centum: 5 per centum if the failure is for not more than 30 days, with an additional 5 per centum for each additional 30 days or fraction thereof during which failure continues, not to exceed 25 per centum in the aggregate.

(2) Fraud. In case a false or fraudulent return or list is willfully made, the Commissioner shall add to the tax 50 per centum of its amount.

* * * * *

(e) Collection of additions to tax. The amount added to any tax under paragraphs (1) and (2) of subsection (d) shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner and as a part of the tax unless the tax has been paid before the discovery of the neglect, falsity, or fraud, in which case the amount so added shall be collected in the same manner as the tax.

FAILURE OF EMPLOYER TO FILE RETURN

In case of a failure to make and file any return required under this chapter within the time prescribed by law or prescribed by the Commissioner in pursuance of law, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, the addition to the tax or taxes required to be shown on such return shall not be less than $5. (Sec. 1631, I. R. C., as added by sec. 2 (a), Current Tax Payment Act of 1943, 57 Stat. 133, and as amended by sec. 209 (d), Social Security Act Amendments of 1950, 64 Stat. 547.)

§ 408.869 Additions to tax for delinquent or false returns—(a) Delinquent returns—(1) Ad valorem addition. (i) If a person fails to make and file a return required by the regulations in this part within the prescribed time, a certain percent of the amount of the tax is added to the tax unless the return is later filed and failure to file the return within the prescribed time is shown to be due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect. Two classes of delinquents are subject to this addition to the tax:

(a) Those who do not file returns and for whom returns are made by a collector, a deputy collector, or the Commissioner; and

(b) Those who file tardy returns and are unable to show reasonable cause for the delay.

The amount to be added to the tax is 5 percent if the failure is for not more than 30 days, with an additional 5 percent for each additional 30 days or fraction thereof during which failure continues, not to exceed 25 percent in the aggregate, subject, however, to the minimum addition to the tax set forth in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. In computing the period of delinquency all Sundays and holidays after the due date are counted.

(ii) A person who files a tardy return and wishes to avoid the addition to the tax for delinquency must make an affirmative showing of all facts alleged as a reasonable cause for failure to file the return on time in the form of a statement which should be attached to the return as a part thereof.

(2) Minimum addition. If a person fails to make and file a return required by the regulations in this part within the prescribed time, unless it is shown that the failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, the addition to the tax or taxes required to be shown on such return shall not be less than $5. The addition to the tax or taxes shall be computed as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph and if less than $5 shall be increased to $5.

(b) False returns. If a false or fraudulent return is willfully made, the addition to tax under section 3612 (d) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code is 50 percent of the total tax due for the entire period involved, including any tax previously paid.

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Toledo, Ohio, on June 1, 1950, reopened on November 30, 1950, pursuant to notices thereof which were issued on May 5, 1950 (15 F. R. 2804), and November 17, 1950 (15 F. R. 7980).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on May 5, 1951, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of filing such recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 10, 1951 (16 F. R. 4343, F. R. Doc. 51-5437).

Ruling on exceptions. Within the period reserved for filing exceptions to the recommended decision, exceptions were submitted on behalf of handlers. These exceptions have been fully considered and to the extent to which the findings and conclusions of this decision are at variance with the exceptions, such exceptions are hereby overruled.

The material issues and the findings and conclusions of the recommended decision (16 F. R. 4343, F. R. Doc. 51-5437) are hereby approved and adopted as the material issues and the findings and conclusions of this decision as if set forth in full herein.

Determination of representative period. The month of March, 1951, is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of amendments to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Toledo, Ohio, marketing area in the manner set forth in the attached amending order is approved or favored by producers who during such period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order, as hereby amended.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Toledo, Ohio, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Toledo, Ohio, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

ORDER RELATIVE TO HANDLING

It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Toledo, Ohio, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended; and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

(c) Class III milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat accounted for (1) as used to produce a product other than those specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section; (2) as actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat received in producer milk, but not to exceed 2 percent of such receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, and (3) as actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in other source milk received: Provided, That if producer milk is utilized as milk, skim milk, or cream in conjunction with other source milk, the shrinkage allocated to producer milk shall be computed pro rata according to the proportions of the volumes of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from such sources to their total.

§ 930.42 Interhandler and nonhandler transfers. (a) Skim milk and butterfat disposed of by a handler to another handler in the form of milk or skim milk shall be Class I milk, and skim milk and butterfat so disposed of in the form of cream shall be Class II milk, unless utilization in another class is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 5th day after the end of the month within which such transfer was made: Provided, That in no event shall the amount so reported be greater than the amount used in such class by the receiving handler.

(b) Skim milk and butterfat disposed of in the form of milk or skim milk by a handler to a nonhandler's plant located less than 100 miles from the City Hall at Toledo, Ohio, by the shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator, shall be Class I milk, and skim milk and butterfat so disposed of in the form of cream shall be Class II milk, unless (1) utilization is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both the handler and nonhandler on or before the 5th day after the end of the month within which such transfer was made, and (2) the nonhandler maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at his plant which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the verification of such mutually indicated utilization.

(c) Skim milk and butterfat disposed of in the form of milk or skim milk by a handler to a nonhandler's plant located 100 miles or more from the City Hall at Toledo, by the shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator, shall be Class I milk, and skim milk and butterfat so disposed of in the form of cream shall be Class II milk.

§ 930.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be classified as Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat proves to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified in one class shall be reclassified if used or reused by such handler or by another handler in another class.

§ 930.44 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for obvious errors the monthly report submitted by each handler and compute the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk, Class II milk, and Class III milk for such handler.

§ 930.45 Allocation of butterfat classified. The pounds of butterfat remaining after making the following computations shall be the pounds in each class allocated to producer milk:

(a) Subtract from the total pounds of butterfat in Class III milk the total pounds of butterfat shrinkage pursuant to subparagraphs (2) and (3) of paragraph (c) of this section;

(b) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class the pounds of butterfat received from other handlers and used in such class;

(1) The pounds of butterfat in other source milk received in the form of milk or skim milk,

(2) The difference by which the pounds of butterfat received in producer milk are less than 1.2 times the pounds of butterfat in the handler's Class I milk, not including that disposed of to other fluid milk plants, and

(3) The total pounds of butterfat in other source milk less the amount of the butterfat shrinkage on other source milk subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section;

(d) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class, in series beginning with the lowest-priced utilization, the pounds of butterfat in other source milk other than (1) butterfat shrinkage in other source milk subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section and (2) butterfat in other source milk determined pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section;

(e) Subtract pro rata from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class, the pounds of butterfat in other source milk determined pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section; and

(f) Add to the pounds of butterfat remaining in Class III milk the pounds of butterfat shrinkage in producer milk subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section; or if the remaining pounds of butterfat in all classes exceed the pounds of butterfat in milk received from producers, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of butterfat in each class in series beginning with the lowest-priced utilization.

§ 930.46 Allocation of skim milk classified. Allocate the pounds of skim milk in each class to producer milk in a manner similar to that prescribed for butterfat in § 930.45.

§ 930.47 Determination of producer milk in each class. Add the pounds of butterfat and pounds of skim milk allocated to producer milk in each class, respectively, as computed pursuant to §§ 930.45 and 930.46 and determine the percentage of butterfat in each class.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 930.50 Class prices. Subject to the provisions of §§ 930.52 and 930.53, each handler shall pay not less than the following prices per hundredweight, on the basis of 3.5 percent butterfat content, for producer milk received.

§ 930.52 Butterfat differentials to handlers. If the weighted average butterfat test of that portion of producer milk which is classified, respectively, in any class of utilization for a handler, pursuant to § 930.47, is more or less than 3.5 percent, there shall be added to, or subtracted from, as the case may be, the price for such class of utilization, for each one-tenth of one percent that such weighted average butterfat test is above or below, respectively, 3.5 percent, a butterfat differential (computed to the nearest tenth of a cent), calculated for each class of utilization as follows:

(a) Class I milk. Multiply by 1.3 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month, and divide the result by 10;

(c) Class III milk. Multiply by 1.2 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month, and divide the result by 10.

§ 930.53 Emergency price provisions. Whenever the provisions of this subpart require the market administrator to use a specific price (or prices) for milk or any milk product for the purpose of determining minimum class prices or for any other purpose, the market administrator shall add to the specified price the amount of any subsidy, or other similar payment, being made by any Federal agency in connection with the milk, or product, associated with the price specified: Provided, That if for any reason the price specified is not reported or published as indicated, the market administrator shall use the applicable maximum price established by regulations of any Federal agency plus the amount of such subsidy or other similar payment: Provided further, That if the specified price is not reported or published and the Secretary determines that the market price is below the applicable maximum uniform price, the market administrator shall use a price determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to or comparable with the price specified.

HANDLER'S OBLIGATION AND UNIFORM PRICE

§ 930.60 Value of milk. The value of producer milk of each handler for each month shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator by multiplying by the respective class prices pursuant to § 930.50, the amounts in each class computed pursuant to § 930.47, and adding together such amounts: Provided, That if a handler, after the subtraction of other source milk and receipts from other handlers, has disposed of skim milk or butterfat in excess of the skim milk or butterfat which on the basis of his report for the month pursuant to § 930.30, has been credited to his producers as having been received from them, there shall be added an amount computed by multiplying the pounds in each class as subtracted pursuant to § 930.45 (f) and § 930.46 by the applicable class prices.

§ 930.61 Uniform price. For each delivery period the market administrator shall compute for each handler a "uniform price" per hundredweight, on the basis of 3.5 percent butterfat content, for producer milk received by such handler as follows:

(a) From the value of milk computed for such handler pursuant to § 930.60, deduct, if the weighted average butterfat test of all producer milk received by him is greater than 3.5 percent, or add, if the weighted average butterfat test of such milk is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the total pounds of butterfat represented by the variance of such weighted average butterfat test from 3.5 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 930.72 and multiplied by 10;

(b) Add or subtract, as the case may be, the amount necessary to correct errors in classification for previous delivery periods as disclosed by audit of the market administrator;

(c) Adjust the resulting amount by the sum of money used in adjusting the uniform price, pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section, for the previous month to the nearest cent;

(d) Divide the result by the total hundredweight of producer milk represented by the value computed pursuant to § 930.60; and

(e) Adjust the resulting figure to the nearest cent.

§ 930.62 Notification. On or before the 12th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall mail to each handler, at his last known address, a statement showing:

(a) The amount and value of his producer milk in each class;

(b) The uniform price for such handler pursuant to § 930.61 and the butterfat differentials computed pursuant to § 930.72; and

(c) The totals of the amounts to be paid by such handler pursuant to §§ 930.73, 930.74, and 930.75.

PAYMENTS

§ 930.70 Time and method of final payment. (a) On or before the 13th day after the end of each month, each handler shall, upon request, pay to a cooperative association with respect to milk of producers for which it has received written authorization to collect payment a total amount not less than the sum of the individual amounts otherwise payable to such producers pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) On or before the 15th day after the end of each month, each handler shall pay each producer (other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section) for milk received from him during such month, at not less than the uniform price for such handler adjusted by the butterfat differential pursuant to § 930.72 less the amount of payment made pursuant to § 930.71.

§ 930.71 Partial payments. (a) On or before the last day of each month, each handler shall, upon request, pay to a cooperative association with respect to milk received during the first 15 days of the month from producers specified in paragraph (a) of this section, a total amount not less than the sum of the individual amounts for such producers, computed at not less than the uniform price for such handler for the preceding month.

(b) On or before the last day of each month each handler shall pay to each producer (other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section) for milk received from him during the first fifteen (15) days of the month at not less than fifty cents (50 cents) under the uniform price for such handler for the preceding month: Provided, That in the event a producer discontinues shipping to the market during the month, such partial payments shall not be made and full payment for all milk received from such producer during the month shall be made pursuant to the provisions of § 930.70.

§ 930.72 Producer butterfat differential. In making payments pursuant to § 930.70 the uniform price for each handler shall be adjusted for each one-tenth of one percent of butterfat content in the milk of each producer above or below 3.5 percent, as the case may be, by a butterfat differential (computed to the nearest multiple of one-half cent) calculated as follows: Multiply by 1.2 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month and divide the result by 10.

§ 930.73 Expense of administration. As his prorata share of expense incurred pursuant to § 930.22 (d), each handler shall pay the market administrator, on or before the 15th day after the end of each month, 2 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe with respect to receipts, during the month, of (a) milk from producers (including such handler's own production), and (b) other source milk received at a fluid milk plant and classified as Class I milk or Class II milk.

§ 930.74 Deductions for marketing services. Except as set forth in § 930.75, each handler, in making payments to producers pursuant to § 930.70, with respect to all milk received from each producer (except milk of such handler's own production) at a plant not operated by a cooperative association of which such producer is a member, shall deduct 4 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe; and on or before the 15th day after the end of such month, shall pay such deductions to the market administrator. Such moneys shall be expended by the market administrator to verify weights, samples, and tests of milk of such producers and to provide such producers with market information, such services to be performed by the market administrator, or by an agent engaged by and responsible to him.

§ 930.75 Cooperative association. In the case of producers whose milk is received at a plant not operated by a cooperative association of which such producers are members, and for whom a cooperative association is actually performing the services described in § 930.74, as determined by the market administrator, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deductions specified in § 930.74, such deductions from payments required pursuant to § 930.70 as may be authorized by such producers, and pay such deductions on or before the 15th day after the end of such month to the cooperative association rendering such services of which such producers are members.

§ 930.76 Reports to cooperatives. Upon request the market administrator is authorized to report to any cooperative association qualifying under § 930.75 for each month the amount of butterfat shortage or overage in member milk found in any handler's plant, as revealed by the records of the market administrator. For the purpose of this report, the butterfat shortage or overage on member milk shall be determined as the percentage of total butterfat shortage or overage which total receipts of butterfat in member milk is of the total receipts of butterfat in the plant.

§ 930.77 Errors in payments. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records, or accounts discloses errors resulting in moneys due (a) the market administrator from such handler, or such handler from the market administrator pursant to §§ 930.73 or 930.74, or (b) any producer or cooperative association from such handler pursuant to § 930.70, the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any such amount due; and said payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payment set forth in the provision under which such error occurred, following the 5th day after such notice.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 930.80 Milk subject to other Federal orders. (a) Milk received at a plant of a handler other than from producers the handling of which the Secretary determines to be subject to the pricing and payment provisions of any other Federal milk marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act for any fluid milk marketing area shall be considered as other source milk.

(b) Milk distributed as described in § 930.6 directly from a plant at which the handling of such milk is subject to the pricing and payment provisions of any other Federal milk marketing agreement or order shall not be subject to any of the provisions of this subpart except §§ 930.30, 930.31, 930.32 and 930.33.

(c) The value of milk disposed of by a handler as Class I milk within the marketing area of any other Federal milk marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act, which milk is not subject to the pricing and payment provisions of such agreement or order, shall be computed pursuant to § 930.69 at the Class I price provided in such other agreement or order adjusted pursuant to any applicable location adjustments, if such Class I price is higher than the Class I price provided in this subpart.

§ 930.81 Milk caused to be delivered by cooperative associations. Milk referred to in this subpart as received from producers by a handler shall include milk of producers caused to be delivered directly from the farm to the fluid milk plant of such handler by a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for such milk.

§ 930.82 Diverted milk. (a) Producer milk diverted by an operator of a fluid milk plant from such plant to a nonhandler's plant shall be deemed to have been received by the fluid milk plant from which such milk was diverted.

(b) Producer milk diverted by a cooperative association from a fluid milk plant to a nonhandler's plant shall be deemed to have been received by such association.

§ 930.83 Producer-handlers. Sections 930.40, 930.50, 930.60, 930.70, 930.73, 930.74, and 930.77 shall not apply to the milk of a producer-handler.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 930.90 Termination of obligations. (a) The obligations of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this subpart shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c), terminate two years after the last day of the month during which the market administrator receives the handler's report of utilization of the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to a cooperative association, the name of such producers or association, or, if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the month following the month during which such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representative.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this subpart to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or wilful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this subpart shall terminate two years after the end of the month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

§ 930.92 When suspended or terminated. The Secretary shall, whenever he finds that this subpart, or any provision thereof, obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, terminate or suspend the operation of this subpart or any such provision thereof.

§ 930.93 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this subpart, there are any obligations thereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 930.94 Liquidation. Upon the suspension of the provisions of this subpart, except this section, the market administrator, or such other liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable and execute and deliver all assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated, all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

§ 930.95 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

MAY 28, 1951.

Pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003), notice is hereby given of the proposed issuance by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, with the approval of the Attorney General, of the following rules relating to the issuance of certifications of records which are in the custody of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. In accordance with subsection (b) of said section 4, interested persons may submit to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, Room 1063, Temporary Federal Office Building X, Nineteenth and East Capitol Streets NE., Washington 25, D. C., written data, views and arguments relative to the substantive provisions of the proposed amendment. Such representations may not be presented orally in any manner. All relevant material received within 20 days following the day of publication of this notice will be considered.

The following amendments to Part 383, Fees and procedure to obtain certifications of or information from records, of Chapter I, Title 8 of the Code of Federal Regulations, are hereby prescribed:

Section 383.1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 383.1 Application for certification of records; form. Except as provided in § 383.3 (a), application shall be made on Form N-585 to the Commissioner for certification of a naturalization record of any court, or of any part thereof, or of any certificate of naturalization or of citizenship, for use in complying with any statute, Federal or State, or in any judicial proceeding. The applicant shall fill out properly, sign, and forward the application to the commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, Washington, D. C.

The second sentence of § 383.2, Application for certification of records; contents, is hereby amended to read as follows: "If it is desired for use in a judicial proceeding, the application shall set forth the title and character of the proceeding and the court in which it is pending."

Section 383.3 is amended to read as follows:

§ 383.3 Certification of declaration of intention; application; form; procedure; action by field office. (a) An applicant for a certification of a declaration of intention in lieu of one filed with a petition for naturalization shall fill out properly, sign, and submit Form N-585 to the immigration and naturalization office prescribed in § 60.30 (a) of this chapter. The application shall be accompanied by three photographs of the applicant as prescribed in Part 364 of this chapter. The application shall be examined in the field office for defects in execution and, if necessary, shall be returned to the applicant for correction. The field office shall forward a properly executed application for decision to the district director having jurisdiction over the alien's place of residence.

(b) If the application submitted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section is approved, the certification of the declaration of intention in lieu of one filed with a petition for naturalization shall be issued by the district director, acting for the Commissioner, and not by the clerk of court.

(c) If denial of the application for a certification of a declaration of intention in lieu of one filed with a petition for naturalization is recommended, the reasons therefor shall be given. The application and photographs, together with the findings and recommendation of the examining officer, shall then be forwarded to the district director.

(d) If the district director is in doubt as to whether such application shall be granted, the complete record in the case shall be forwarded to the Commissioner for decision.

(e) If the district director is not satisfied that the application should be granted, he shall deny the application. The applicant shall be notified in writing of the decision with the reasons therefor, and at the same time shall be advised that he has ten days from the date of notification of decision in which he may appeal to the Commissioner. If an appeal is taken, it shall be filed with the district director, who shall forward the complete record in the case to the Commissioner for decision.

(f) Upon acquiring jurisdiction over an application for a certification of a declaration of intention in lieu of one filed with a petition for naturalization, the Commissioner shall enter a final order granting or denying the application. Notice of the Commissioner's decision shall be sent to the district office of origin, and at the same time the file relating to the applicant shall be returned to the field office. If the application is granted by the Commissioner, the district director, acting for the Commissioner, shall issue the certification of the declaration of intention in lieu of one filed with a petition for naturalization. The district director shall advise the applicant in writing of the Commissioner's decision.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER GRANTING EXTENSION OF TIME TO CONSUMMATE TRANSACTIONS

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 5th day of June A. D. 1951.

REPUBLIC LIGHT, HEAT AND POWER CO., INC.

NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 5th day of June A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that an application has been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), by Republic Light, Heat and Power Company, Inc. ("Republic"), a public utility subsidiary of Cities Service Company, a registered holding company. Applicant has designated section 6 (b) of the act and Rule U-50 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may not later than June 18, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by said application which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed to the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after June 18, 1951, said application, as filed or as amended, may be granted as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

All interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the offices of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Republic has made a loan agreement dated April 30, 1951 (hereinafter called the "Loan Agreement"), with Manufacturers and Traders Trust Company (hereinafter called "Trust Company"), pursuant to which the Trust Company has agreed to lend to Republic such sum or sums of money as Republic may from time to time request of it on or before October 1, 1954, up to, but not exceeding, the total amount of $1,500,000. The amounts borrowed under the Loan Agreement from time to time are to be evidenced by promissory notes of Republic. All Notes shall be dated as of the date of the borrowing they respectively evidence and shall mature on October 1, 1954. Each Note issued during the period from April 30, 1951 through October 31, 1952, shall bear interest at the rate of the greater of 3 percent per annum or 1¼ percent above the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in effect at the date thereof to Member Banks for the discount of eligible commercial paper. Each Note issued during the period from November 1, 1952 to September 30, 1954, shall bear interest at the rate of the greater of 3 percent per annum or 1 percent above the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in effect at the date thereof to Member Banks for the discount of eligible commercial paper. However, in no event shall any Note bear interest at a rate greater than 3½ percent per annum. Interest on all Notes shall be payable quarterly on the first day of January, April, July and October in each year.

The Notes are to be subject to prepayment by Republic, in whole or in part, at any time or from time to time. No premium is to be payable upon such prepayment except in the event that the funds used for any such prepayment are borrowed by Republic from any bank other than the Trust Company, in which event a premium will be payable equivalent to ¼ of 1 percent per annum upon the amount of such prepayment from the date thereof to October 1, 1954: Provided, however, That no premium will be payable in any event in the case of any prepayment made within twelve months of October 1, 1954.

As consideration for the Trust Company's commitment to make loans under the Loan Agreement, Republic will pay to the Trust Company on July 1, 1951, for the two months' period ending on that date, and quarterly thereafter for each preceding quarter-annual period, a commitment fee computed at the rate of ¼ percent per annum on the balance of funds available to it under said Loan Agreement from time to time unused during such period. Republic may cancel any unused credit available to it by giving three days written notice of such cancellation to the Trust Company, whereupon Republic's obligation to pay the commitment fee, except such fee as shall have accrued to the date of such cancellation, shall cease.

It is proposed to apply the proceeds of such borrowings to the payment of construction expenditures. Republic states that the issue and sale of the notes are solely for the purpose of financing the business of the company and are to be expressly authorized by the Public Service Commission of the State of New York, the State Commission of the State in which Republic is organized and doing business. It is also stated that the proposed issuance and sale of notes is exempt from the provisions of Rule U-50 because of the provisions of paragraph (a) (2) thereof.

It is requested that the Commission enter an order, to become effective upon its issuance, as soon as practical following authorization of the transactions by the Public Service Commission of the State of New York.

By the Commission.

Subchapter B—Sugar Requirements and Quotas

[Sugar Reg. 811, Rev. 1]

PART 811—SUGAR REQUIREMENTS; CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES

SUGAR REQUIREMENTS, 1951

Basis and purpose. The revised determination set forth below is made pursuant to section 201 of the Sugar Act of 1948. The act requires that the Secretary shall revise the determination of sugar requirements at such times during the calendar year as may be necessary. It now appears that an increase in the estimate of requirements for the calendar year 1951 is necessary. The purpose of this revision is to make such determination conform to the requirements indicated on the basis of the factors specified in section 201 of the act.

Immediate availability of a part of the additional supply of sugar provided by this determination of sugar requirements is necessary to insure orderly marketing and to maintain a continuous and stable supply of sugar at prices that are not excessive to consumers. Therefore, in order effectively to carry out the purposes of the Sugar Act, it is necessary that the revision of the determination be made effective as soon as possible. Accordingly, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice, procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and the revision of the determination made herein shall be effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by the Sugar Act of 1948 (61 Stat. 922, 7 U. S. C. Supp. I, 1100) and the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001) Sugar Regulation 811, the determination of the amount of sugar needed to meet the requirements of consumers in the continental United States for 1951, as amended, (15 F. R. 9374) is hereby revised to read as follows:

§ 811.3 Sugar requirements, 1951. The amount of sugar needed to meet the requirements of consumers in the continental United States for the calendar year 1951 is hereby determined to be 8,250,000 short tons, raw value.

Statement of bases and considerations. On December 26, 1950, the supply of sugar required from quota sources for the calendar year 1951 was determined to be 8,000,000 short tons, raw value. That quantity was expected to maintain stable prices, permit unrestricted consumption of sugar and the maintenance of stocks of sugar at about the levels prevailing at the beginning of the year.

After that time, the duty paid price for raw sugar, New York, declined from 6.35 cents per pound to a low of 5.65 cents on April 12 and then rose sharply to 6.60 cents by May 24. The price for refined cane sugar has increased from 8.25 in New York and 8.05 cents basis in Chicago to 8.5 cents per pound. The price for "world raws", f. a. s. Cuban ports, which was around 5.40 cents at the turn of the year, declined to a low of 4.75 cents in February, but subsequently increased to 7.20 by May 24. On May 23, therefore, the f. a. s. Cuban price of raw sugar for shipment to world markets was close to 1.60 cents per pound above the Cuban price of sugar for shipment under quota to the United States. It is probable that the great strength of prices in the world market has contributed to the recent strength in domestic prices.

Distribution of sugar by U. S. refiners, importers and beet sugar processors, after three relatively slow months in February, March and April, has increased markedly in May, so that by June 2 the total for the year was about 350,000 tons greater than to the same date a year earlier. Distribution for the next three months, particularly for July, is not expected to equal that for the same period last year. For the year as a whole, however, distribution may equal that of 1950, which was 8,273,000 tons.

In view of the demand situation outlined above, it is clear that raw sugar is not being offered in sufficient volume to meet current demand at stable prices and that an increase in the availability of raw sugar is essential to meet such demand and to "provide a supply * * * that will be consumed at prices which are not excessive to consumers."

Therefore, the quantity of 8,250,000 short tons, raw value, of sugar is herein determined to be required for the calendar year 1951.

Except to the extent modified herein, the Statement of Bases and Considerations contained in the determination dated December 26, 1950, is unchanged.

(Sec. 403, 61 Stat. 932; 7 U. S. C. Sup., 1153)

Secretary.

[Sugar Reg. 813, Amdt. 1]

PART 813—SUGAR QUOTAS AND PRORATIONS OF QUOTA DEFICITS

DETERMINATION AND PRORATION OF 1951 QUOTAS

Basis and purpose. The amendments herein are issued pursuant to section 202 of the Sugar Act of 1948 and are made for the purpose of giving effect to the revision of the determination of sugar requirements made by the Secretary of Agriculture in May 1951.

After providing for quotas in specific amounts for domestic sugar producing areas and the Republic of the Philippines, section 202 of the act provides that the difference between the sum of such quotas and the requirements estimate shall be prorated to foreign countries other than the Republic of the Philippines on the basis of stated percentages. Thus the statute states specifically how quotas are to be revised when there is a change in the estimate of requirements. Furthermore, in order to make available the additional sugar authorized by this amendment to meet current demand at stable prices and thereby protect the interests of consumers, it is essential that this amendment be made effective immediately. Therefore, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice, procedure and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest. The amendments made herein shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by the Sugar Act of 1948 (61 Stat. 922, 7 U. S. C. Supp. I, 1100) and the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001), Sugar Regulation 813, (15 F. R. 9425), establishing sugar quotas for 1951 is hereby amended as hereinafter set forth.

1. Section 813.22 is changed to read:

§ 813.22 Basic quotas for other areas. There are hereby established, pursuant to subsections (b) and (c) of section 202 of the act, for foreign countries for the calendar year 1951 the following quotas.

Area:	Quotas in terms of short tons raw value
Republic of the Philippines	982,000
Cuba	2,959,200
Other foreign countries	40,800

2. Paragraph (a) of § 813.24 is changed to read:

§ 813.24 Proration of quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines—(a) Basic prorations. The quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines is hereby prorated, pursuant to subsection (c) of section 202 of the act, among such countries as follows:

Country:	Proration in pounds, raw value
Belgium	482,620
Canada	925,209
China and Hong Kong	472,462
Czechoslovakia	431,775

Other countries	70,392
Subtotal	81,100,000
Unallotted reserve	500,000
Total	81,600,000

Statement of Bases and Considerations

Revised quotas due to increase in requirements. The revised quotas for Cuba and "Other Foreign Countries" have been established by prorating the amount by which the revised estimate of requirements exceeds the quotas for domestic areas and the Republic of the Philippines on the basis of 98.64 per centum to Cuba and 1.36 per centum to "Other Foreign Countries" as provided in section 202 (c) of the act. In addition, the revised quota for "Other Foreign Countries", after setting aside 500,000 pounds for an unallotted reserve, has been prorated on the basis of the division of the quota made in General Sugar Quota Regulations, Series 4, No. 1, issued December 12, 1936, as provided in section 202 (c).

After giving effect to the changes set forth in this amendment to Sugar Regulation 813, the quotas for all areas are as follows:

[1] Hard seed will be added to live seed when determining germination of legume seeds.

[2] See attached supplement to this schedule for limitations on noxious weed seed.

[3] The Northern region includes all producing areas north of the southern boundaries of Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Nebraska, and eastward in counties which are north of, intersected by, the fortieth degree of latitude.

[4] The Central region includes all the producing areas south of the northern region and north of the thirty-seventh degree of latitude (excluding California north of the thirty-seventh degree of latitude except the counties of Tahama, Plumas, and those counties north of the fortieth degree of latitude, but including all counties south of the thirty-seventh degree of latitude in Nevada, Missouri, Kentucky and Virginia). Approved origin alfalfa seed in Oklahoma treated and sealed with the official tags and seals of the Oklahoma Crop Improvement Association will be at the rates specified for the Central region.

[5] The Southern region includes all the producing areas south of the Central region.

[6] For certified varieties listed regardless of where grown. Certified seed for the purpose of this program shall be tagged and sealed by the State Crop Improvement Association or other Agency authorized to certify to the genetic purity of the seed. In States where there are two or more tag color designations used in the certification of seed and the seed did not qualify for highest grade certification, the purity to be used for price support purposes for such certified seed must be below the minimum purity requirements for certification for the next higher grade.

[7] Note exceptions to noxious weed seed requirements for lespedeza seed as given in supplement.

[8] Not more than 1 percent sand dropseed.

[9] Loans and purchases will be made at the respective rates on quantities of big bluestem, little bluestem, and sand bluestem in mixture; provided the mixture contains at least 30 percent of two or more of these seeds; not more than 1 percent sand dropseed and not more than 5 percent of grass seeds other than switchgrass, side-oats grama, and indiangrass. The pure seed of the mixture and the germination of each component will be used in determining the value. Maximum weed seed, 2 percent.

[10] Loans and purchases will be made at the respective rates on quantities of blue grama and side-oats grama in mixture; provided the mixture contains at least 25 percent of blue grama and side-oats grama; not more than 1 percent of sand dropseed and not more than 5 percent of grass seeds other than buffalo grass, bluestem, switchgrass and indiangrass. The pure seed mixture and the germination of each component will be used in determining the value. Maximum weed seed, 2 percent.

§ 607.221 Administration. Under the general direction and supervision of the President, CCC, the Cotton Branch and other appropriate branches of PMA will carry out the provisions of this subpart. In the field, the program will be administered through PMA commodity offices, PMA State Committees, and PMA county committees (hereinafter referred to as county committees). Forms will be distributed by the applicable PMA commodity office and will be available at the offices of county committees, approved lending agencies, approved warehouses, and others designated to assist in administering the loan program.

§ 607.222 Availability of loans. Loans will be available to eligible producers on eligible cotton.

(a) Area. (1) Loans on cotton stored in approved warehouses will be available in all areas.

(2) Loans on cotton stored in approved structures, on or off the farm (hereinafter referred to as "farm storage"), will be available in the States and counties for which loan rates will be established.

(3) Loans on cotton covered by bills of lading will be available in areas specified by the applicable PMA commodity office.

(b) Time. Loans will be available from the date the loan rates are announced through April 30, 1952.

(c) Source. Loans may be obtained by producers from approved lending agencies or from the applicable PMA commodity office.

§ 607.223 Eligible producer. An eligible producer shall be any individual, partnership, corporation, association, trust, estate, or other legal entity, or a State or political subdivision thereof, or an agency of such State or political subdivision, producing upland cotton in 1951 in the capacity of landowner, landlord, tenant or sharecropper.

Where eligible cotton is produced by a landlord and his share tenant or sharecropper, a loan may be obtained only as follows:

(a) If the cotton is divided among the producers entitled to share in such cotton, each landlord, tenant, and sharecropper may obtain a loan on his separate share.

(b) If the cotton is not divided, (1) the landlord and one or more of the share tenants or sharecroppers may obtain a joint loan on their shares of such cotton, or (2) the landlord may obtain a loan on cotton in which both he and a share tenant or a sharecropper have an interest if he has the legal right to do so, and in such case the share tenant or sharecropper must be paid his pro rata share of the loan proceeds and his pro rata share of any additional proceeds received from the cotton. In no case shall a share tenant or sharecropper obtain a loan individually on cotton in which a landlord has an interest.

§ 607.224 Eligible cotton. Eligible cotton shall be upland cotton produced in the United States in 1951 which meets the following requirements:

(a) Such cotton must be of a grade and staple length specified in § 607.249.

(b) Such cotton must not be false-packed, water-packed, reginned or repacked, and must not have been classed as gin cut, oily, sandy, dusty or seedy, or reduced in grade because of extraneous matter (such as needle grass).

(c) Such cotton must not be compressed to high density.

(d) Such cotton must have been produced by the person tendering it for a loan, and such person must have the legal right to pledge or mortgage it as security for a loan.

(e) If the person tendering such cotton for a loan is a landlord or landowner, the cotton must not have been acquired by him directly or indirectly from a share tenant or sharecropper and must not have been received in payment of fixed or standing rent; and if it was produced by him in the capacity of landlord, share tenant or sharecropper, it must be his separate share of the crop, unless he is a landlord and is tendering cotton in which both he and a share tenant or sharecropper have an interest.

(f) The person tendering such cotton for a loan must not have previously sold and repurchased such cotton.

(g) Each bale of such cotton must weigh at least 300 pounds.

§ 607.225 Forms. The following documents must be delivered by producers in connection with every loan except loans made pursuant to § 607.243 and § 607.246:

(a) Warehouse storage loans. (1) Cotton Producer's Note and Loan Agreement (CCC Cotton Form A, hereinafter referred to as "Form A"), duly executed within the period prescribed in § 607.222.

(2) Warehouse receipts complying with the provisions of § 607.238.

(3) Producer's Letter of Transmittal (CCC Cotton Form B, hereinafter referred to as "Form B") if the loan is obtained direct from the applicable PMA commodity office.

(b) Farm storage loans. (1) Cotton Producer's Note (CCC Cotton Form E, hereinafter referred to as "Form E") duly executed within the period prescribed in § 607.222.

(2) Cotton Chattel Mortgage (CCC Cotton Form F, hereinafter referred to as "Form F") and 1951 Cotton Mortgage Supplement (CCC Cotton Form FF, hereinafter referred to as "Form FF") covering the cotton tendered as security for a loan.

(3) Form B if the loan is obtained direct from the applicable PMA commodity office.

(c) Cotton represented by order bills of lading. (1) Form A duly executed within the area and during the period such loans are available.

(2) Order bill of lading in a form acceptable to CCC and representing the cotton tendered as security for the loan.

(3) Weight and Condition Certificates complying with the provisions of § 607.242 if the Receiving Agency is not a warehouseman.

(4) Form B if the loan is obtained direct from the applicable PMA commodity office.

(A Form A or E executed by an administrator, executor or trustee will be acceptable only where valid in law and must be accompanied by documentary evidence of the authority of the person executing the form or by a repurchase agreement of the lending agency. Copies of this agreement may be obtained from the applicable PMA commodity office. State documentary revenue stamps shall be affixed to loan documents where required by law.)

§ 607.226 Approved lending agency. An approved lending agency shall be any bank, corporation, partnership, association, individual, or other legal entity which has entered into a Lending Agency Agreement (CCC Cotton Form D, hereinafter referred to as "Form L"), with CCC covering loans on 1951-crop cotton. Organizations desiring to enter into such agreements should communicate with the local county committee.

§ 607.227 Approved storage—(a) Warehouses. Cotton in warehouses will be accepted as security for loans under this part only if stored in warehouses approved by CCC. Warehousemen desiring approval of their facilities should communicate with the local county committee. When warehouses are approved, notification will be given either by letter or by published lists.

(b) Farm storage. Cotton in farm storage will be accepted as security for loans under this part only if stored in a structure approved by the county committee for the county in which the cotton is stored. Such structures may be on or off the farm and must afford safe storage and protection against weather damage, poultry and livestock, and reasonable protection against fire and theft. If the producer does not own the premises where the cotton is stored and his lease on such premises expires prior to September 30, 1952, the owner of such premises must execute the Consent for Storage on the Cotton Mortgage Supplement. Any other tenant who has a right or interest in the premises must also execute the Consent for Storage.

§ 607.228 Amount, weight, and rate. (a) Loans will be made on the gross weight of the cotton. Notes covering cotton pledged on reweights will not be accepted if it is evident that such reweights reflect an increase in weight due to the absorption of additional moisture. An allowance of 7 pounds per bale will be made for bales covered with cotton bagging.

(b) The base loan rate applicable at each approved warehouse will be shown in the "Schedule of Base Loan Rates for Warehouse-Stored Cotton" and the base loan rate under the farm-storage program for each county will be shown in the "Schedule of Base Loan Rates by Counties for Farm-Stored Cotton." These schedules will be published by CCC and will be available at county committee offices. The premium or discount applicable to each eligible grade and staple length is shown in § 607.249. After a loan is made CCC will not be obligated to make adjustments in the amount of the loan as a result of any subsequent redetermination of the weight or quality of the cotton.

§ 607.229 Preparation of documents. All blanks on the loan forms must be filled in with ink, indelible pencil, or typewriter in the manner indicated therein, and no documents containing additions, alterations, or erasures will be accepted by CCC. The spaces provided in the notes on Forms A and E for the producer to request and direct payment of the proceeds of the note must be completed in every instance. All disbursements made from the proceeds of the note by the lending agency, including clerks' fees when deducted, must be shown. If the proceeds are to be paid only to the producer, his name should be shown. The total must agree with the amount of the note.

(a) Warehouse-storage cotton. A producer desiring to obtain a loan on warehouse-stored cotton may obtain the necessary forms from county committees, approved lending agencies, approved warehouses, and approved clerks (persons approved by the county committees to assist producers in preparing and executing the loan forms). The Clerk's Certificate on each Form A tendered for a loan must be executed by an approved clerk, who will assist the producer in the preparation and execution of the Form A. The original of Form A must be signed by the producer and the copy marked "duplicate" is to be retained by the producer. All of the cotton pledged as security for any loan must be of only one grade and staple and must be stored in the same warehouse.

(b) Farm-storage cotton. A producer desiring to obtain a loan on farm-storage cotton should communicate with the county committee in the county in which the cotton is to be stored. The county committee will inspect the storage structure and approve it if it determines that it is of such construction as to afford adequate storage for the cotton. A service charge of $1 per bale with a minimum of $3.00 per loan will be collected by the county committee from the producer to cover services rendered under this program. No such service charge will be refunded. The producer may also obtain the necessary loan forms from and will be assisted in their preparation by the county committee. A deposit of $1.00 per bale will also be collected from the producer to guarantee delivery of the cotton if the loan is not repaid by the producer. Such deposit will be returned if the loan is repaid or the cotton is delivered in accordance with the provisions of Form FF. If the producer does not deliver the cotton upon demand by CCC, the county committee will arrange delivery and retain the deposit. The original of the Form FF will be retained by the county committee. If the producer desires to obtain a loan directly from CCC, the county committee will forward the loan documents for the producer.

(c) Fees. The clerk or county committee assisting the producer in the preparation of the loan documents may collect a fee from the producer not to exceed the fees shown in the following schedule:

Number of bales on note:	Maximum fee allowed
1	25 cents.
2–6	25 cents plus 15 cents for each bale over 1.
7–18	$1.00 plus 10 cents for each bale over 6.
19 and over	$2.20 plus 5 cents for each bale over 18.

§ 607.230 Liens. Eligible cotton must be free and clear of all liens except the warehouseman's lien for charges permitted under the Storage Agreement on warehouse-storage cotton. The signatures of the holders of all existing liens on cotton tendered as security for a loan, such as landlords, laborers, or mortgagees (but not the warehouseman, if the cotton is stored in a warehouse), must be obtained in the Lienholder's Waiver on each Form A and Form FF. If the producer tendering the cotton for the loan is not the owner of the land on which the cotton was produced, all landowners and landlords must sign the Lienholder's Waiver on the Form A or Form FF whether or not they claim liens, unless they sign the note jointly with the borrower. A fraudulent representation, as to prior liens or otherwise, will render the producer personally liable under the terms of the Loan Agreement and subject him to criminal prosecution under the provisions of the Commodity Credit Corporation Charter Act. The Lienholder's Waiver must be signed personally by all lienholders, by their agents (in which case duly executed powers of attorney must be attached), or, if a corporation, by the designated officer thereof customarily authorized to execute such instruments (in which case no authority need be attached).

§ 607.231 Set-offs. (a) If the producer is indebted to CCC on any accrued obligation, or if any installments past due or maturing within twelve months are unpaid on any loan made available by CCC on farm-storage facilities, whether held by CCC or a lending agency, the producer must designate CCC or such lending agency as the payee of the proceeds of the loan to the extent of such indebtedness or installments, but not to exceed that portion of the proceeds remaining after deduction of loan service fees and amounts due prior lienholders. If the producer is indebted to any other agency of the United States and such indebtedness is listed on the county debt register, he must designate such agency as the payee of the proceeds as provided above. Indebtedness owing to CCC or to a lending agency as provided above shall be given first consideration after claims of prior lienholders. County committees will furnish each approved clerk a list of the names and addresses of all persons shown on the county debt register. Lists will also be furnished to clerks in adjacent counties as is determined necessary by the county committee. These lists shall be kept up to date and revised and supplemented as determined necessary by the county committee.

Before the clerk prepares loan documents, he shall determine that the producer's name is not shown on the list furnished by the county committee. If the person is shown on such list, he shall be informed that unless he can produce satisfactory evidence that the indebtedness has been satisfied, he must go to the office of the county committee in the county issuing the list containing his name and have his loan documents completed by a clerk in the county office. A clerk in the office of the county committee will assist the producer in the preparation of such loan documents and will show in the space provided in the notes the agency to which the check should be issued and the amount to be collected from the note.

(b) Compliance with the provisions of this section shall not constitute a waiver of any right of the producer to contest the justness of the indebtedness involved either by administrative appeal or by legal action.

§ 607.232 Classification of cotton. (a) All cotton must be classed by a Board of Cotton Examiners of the United States Department of Agriculture (hereinafter referred to as the "Board"). A Cotton Classification Memorandum Form 1 of the United States Department of Agriculture will be accepted, provided the sample is a representative cut sample drawn in accordance with instructions to organized cotton improvement groups for sampling cotton under the 1951 Smith-Doxey Program. If a sample has been drawn and submitted for a Form 1 classification, another sample may not be drawn and forwarded to a Board except for review. If the producer's cotton has not been sampled for a Form 1 classification, the warehouseman (for warehouse-storage cotton), receiving agencies (for cotton covered by bills of lading) and county committees (for farm-storage cotton) should sample such cotton and forward the samples to the Board serving the district in which the cotton is located. A Cotton Classification Memorandum Form A3 must be inserted in each sample. A Tag List and Record Sheet (CCC Cotton Form L, hereinafter referred to as "Form L"), must be prepared by the warehouseman, receiving agency or county committee, listing each sample included in a shipment to the Board. A copy of such Form L shall be included with the samples and two copies must be mailed separately to the Board. The Board will enter the classification of each bale on the Form L and return a copy of such form to the warehouse, receiving agency or county committee. The Cotton Classification Memorandum Form A3 will be returned to the producer by the Board.

(b) A charge of 25 cents per bale shall be collected from the producer by the warehouseman, receiving agency, or county committee for all cotton for which samples are submitted to a Board for classification, except that no charge shall be collected for samples submitted for Form 1 classification. The Boards will submit billings for classing charges to the warehousemen, receiving agencies, and county committees at the end of each month. Checks or money orders covering these charges shall be made payable to "Commodity Credit Corporation" and shall be sent to the applicable PMA commodity office.

§ 607.233 Method of obtaining loans. Producers may obtain loans from a local lending agency, which, in turn, will tender the notes evidencing such loans to CCC, or direct from the applicable PMA commodity office. A producer, if he so desires, may designate persons other than himself to receive all or part of the proceeds of the loan by designating them in the spaces provided in the note. In each case where the loan is obtained from the applicable PMA commodity office, the note must be made payable to CCC and must be tendered to the applicable PMA commodity office with a Form B, in duplicate, postmarked not later than April 30, 1952, if tendered by mail. Upon receipt of all necessary documents, properly executed, and upon approval, payment will be made in accordance with the directions of the producer contained in the note. The producer shall not present documents for a loan unless the cotton is in existence and in good condition. If the cotton is not in existence and in good condition at the time the loan is obtained, the proceeds shall be promptly refunded by the producer.

§ 607.234 Lending agency. The lending agency shall execute the Payee's Endorsement on Forms A and E. In the case of warehouse-storage cotton, care should be exercised by the lending agency to determine that the warehouse receipts are genuine. No deduction may be made from the loan proceeds by the lending agency as a charge for handling the loan documents, except the authorized clerk's fee in case an employee of the lending agency has executed the Clerk's Certificate on Form A. Lending agencies may carry their investment in the loans and receive interest at the rate of 1½ percent per annum. Lending agencies which are also eligible producers must obtain direct loans on cotton produced by them from the applicable PMA commodity office in accordance with § 607.235 or obtain loans from another approved lending agency.

§ 607.235 Interest rate. Loans will bear interest at the rate of 3 percent per annum from the date of disbursement.

§ 607.236 Maturity. Loans mature July 31, 1952, or upon such earlier date as CCC may make demand for payment. If a producer does not repay his loan by maturity, CCC has the right to sell, purchase or pool the cotton securing the loan in accordance with the provisions of the loan agreements. If the cotton is pooled, the producer will no longer have a right to redeem the cotton but will share ratably in any overplus remaining upon liquidation of the pool. CCC shall have the right to treat any pooled cotton as a reserve supply to be marketed under such sales policies as CCC determines will promote orderly marketing, protect the interests of producers and consumers, and not unduly impair the market for the current crop of cotton, even though part or all of such pooled cotton is disposed of under such policies at less than the current domestic price for such cotton.

Any sum due the producer as a result of the sale of the cotton or collections of insurance proceeds therefrom, or his ratable share from a pool, shall be payable only to the producer or his personal representative without right of assignment to or substitution of any other person.

(a) Farm storage. If the producer does not repay his loan on or before maturity, he is required to deliver the cotton in accordance with the provisions of Form FF, and if the cotton is not delivered by the producer, the holder of the note may enter on the premises where the cotton is stored and remove the cotton. Upon such delivery or removal, the holder may dispose of the cotton in accordance with the provisions of this section.

§ 607.237 Safeguarding farm-storage cotton. The producer obtaining a farm-storage loan is obligated to maintain the farm-storage structure in good repair and to keep the cotton in good condition. The producer will be responsible for any loss or damage occurring through the fault or negligence of the producer or any other person having control of the storage structure or as a result of any cause other than fire, flood, lightning, explosion, windstorm, cyclone, or tornado, except that he will not be responsible for loss in weight of not to exceed 10 pounds per bale which is due to natural shrinkage. The maximum amount of cotton stored in any structure shall be limited to 200 bales if only one producer has cotton stored in such structure and to 100 bales if more than one producer has cotton stored in such structure. The conversion or unlawful disposition by the producer of any bale of the cotton will render him personally liable for the payment of the mortgage indebtedness.

§ 607.238 Warehouse receipts and insurance. (a) Only negotiable warehouse receipts issued by an approved warehouse in the name of the individual, individuals, or concern who appear as producer on the Cotton Producer's Note to which the receipt is pledged will be acceptable, except that receipts representing cotton pledged in the name of a landowner, landlord, tenant or sharecropper or pledged jointly in the name of two or more parties to a tenancy will be acceptable when issued in the name of either individual who is a party to the tenancy or a signatory to the note. In those instances where the warehouse receipt is issued to an individual or concern who is a party to the tenancy, but who cannot be identified as such from the note, the producer securing a loan will be required to submit a statement certifying that the individual in whose name the warehouse receipt is issued is a tenant or sharecropper of the producer. The warehouse receipts must show that the cotton is covered by fire insurance, must be dated on or prior to the date of the producer's notes, and, if not bearer form receipts, must be properly assigned by an endorsement in blank so as to vest title in the holder. They must set out in their written or printed terms a description by tag number and weight of the bale represented thereby and all other facts and statements required to be stated in the written or printed terms of a warehouse receipt under the provisions of section 2 of the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act. Warehouse receipts issued prior to August 1, 1951, which by their terms will expire prior to August 1, 1952, must bear an endorsement of the warehouseman extending the terms of the warehouse receipts for a period of one year from August 1, 1951. Block warehouse receipts will not be accepted.

(b) In addition to the insurance carried by the warehouseman, CCC will carry insurance on the loan cotton covering losses due to flood and errors and omissions in the warehouseman's insurance. The cost of such insurance will be a charge against the cotton.

§ 607.239 Insurance on farm-storage cotton. CCC will not require the producer to insure cotton under farm-storage loan; however, if the producer does insure the cotton, such insurance shall inure to the benefit of CCC to the extent of its interest, after first satisfying the producer's equity in the cotton involved in the loss.

§ 607.240 Warehouse charges. The warehouseman's charges are limited and his obligations defined by the Warehouseman's Certificate and Storage Agreement contained in Form A. The Agreement of Warehouseman on Form A must be executed by the warehouseman not more than 10 days preceding the date of the note.

§ 607.241 Tender of notes by lending agencies. Notes (Forms A and Forms E) evidencing loans made by a lending agency which has entered into a Lending Agency Agreement (CCC Cotton Form D) prior to the making of the loans will be eligible for purchase or pooling by CCC. Under this agreement, lending agencies which are parties thereto are required to tender to CCC, on Form C executed in quadruplicate, all notes on Form A and Form E with warehouse receipts, bills of lading (and weight and condition certificates, if required), or cotton chattel mortgages attached, representing loans made by the lending agency within 15 days after the dates of the notes. Forty notes shall be submitted on each Form C except when fewer notes are listed thereon in order that the loans may be tendered within 15 days after the dates of the notes. All notes transmitted on a Form C must cover cotton stored in warehouses in the same custodial district. Notes secured by warehouse receipts, by bills of lading and by chattel mortgages must be transmitted on separate Forms C. Notes accompanied by Producer's Powers of Attorney must also be transmitted on separate Forms C. Each Form C shall state whether the lending agency desires CCC to purchase the notes or to place them in a pool. Upon receipt of the loan papers by the applicable PMA commodity office, they will be examined and, if found correct, will be approved and transmitted to the custodial office serving the district in which the cotton is stored, and will be purchased or placed in a pool as directed by the lending agency. Lending agencies which have previously been approved by CCC as eligible to draw drafts on CCC may, subject to such instructions and requirements as CCC may hereafter from time to time prescribe, obtain immediate payment for notes they desire to sell to CCC, by tendering such notes and letters of transmittal with sight drafts drawn on CCC through a Federal Reserve Bank or Branch Bank approved by CCC. In the event that the notes are pooled, a Certificate of Interest representing the interest in the pool acquired as the result of the deposit therein of the notes shown on the Form C will be issued to any approved lending agency designated on the Form C.

§ 607.242 Loans on order bills of lading. (a) Loans on cotton represented by order bills of lading will be available only in areas specified by the applicable PMA commodity office where there is a shortage of storage space and where the necessary arrangements for handling the cotton may be made.

(b) Cotton represented by order bills of lading will be eligible for a loan only when it is shipped by an approved receiving agency as agent for the producer. Warehousemen, ginners, and other responsible parties in areas where such loans are available may be approved to act as receiving agencies by the applicable PMA commodity office. Receiving agencies will enter into Receiving Agency Agreements with CCC. When receiving agencies are approved, notifications will be given by letter or published lists.

(c) A producer who is unable to find storage space in his local area and who wishes to obtain such a loan should deliver his cotton to a receiving agency with the request that it ship the cotton as agent for the producer to a warehouse where storage space is available. The receiving agency will complete the Schedule of Pledged Cotton on a Form A and, if it is a warehouseman, will execute the Warehouseman's Certificate and Storage Agreement thereon. If the receiving agency is not a warehouseman, it will have the cotton weighed by a public or licensed weigher and will secure a Weight and Condition Certificate in the form prescribed by CCC. The receiving agency will ship the cotton, secure order bills of lading in a form acceptable to CCC, and deliver to the producer the bills of lading, together with Forms A and Weight and Condition Certificates (if any). If the receiving agency is a warehouseman, it will be permitted to collect fees in accordance with the Warehouseman's Certificate and Storage Agreement and a fee of not to exceed 10 cents a bale to cover the costs of preparation of shipping documents. If the receiving agency is not a warehouseman, it will be permitted to collect from producers a fee of not to exceed the fee set forth in the Receiving Agency Agreement executed by the receiving agency, and shall post, in a conspicuous place, a notice showing the fee to be charged producers. Loans will be made at the full loan rate at the point where the receiving agency receives the cotton. CCC will pay warehouse storage charges on cotton tendered by the producer for a loan under this section, if the receiving agency is a warehouseman.

§ 607.243 Advance loans. (a) If a producer desires to obtain a loan under this part on cotton stored or to be stored in a warehouse, prior to the announcement of the loan rates on such cotton (as determined on the basis of the August 1, 1951, parity price of cotton), prior to the receipt of the classification of such cotton by a Board of Cotton Examiners, or prior to the issuance of a warehouse receipt representing the cotton, and if the producer desires to obtain interim financing from a lending agency until such time as a CCC loan may be obtained, the lending agency may make the producer a private loan (hereinafter called "the advance loan") on such cotton on forms and in amounts agreed upon between the lending agency and the producer and may obtain from the producer a duly executed Producer's Power of Attorney (CCC Cotton Form J, hereinafter referred to as "Form J") in triplicate authorizing and directing the lending agency to prepare or cause to be prepared and execute on behalf of and in the name of the producer Forms A covering all such cotton which is eligible for a loan under this part. The duplicate copy shall be delivered to the producer. On or before the date the advance loan is made, samples must have been drawn from the cotton and submitted to a Board of Cotton Examiners for classification or, if the cotton has not arrived at the warehouse, the warehouseman must have been instructed to sample the cotton and forward the samples for classification upon receipt of the cotton at the warehouse. On or before September 1, 1951, or within 15 days after the dates of the classification certificates, or within 15 days after the dates of the warehouse receipts, whichever is later, the lending agency shall (as provided in the Producer's Power of Attorney), unless the cotton is redeemed by the producer, prepare or cause to be prepared and execute on behalf of the producer Forms A covering all of such cotton which is eligible for a loan and make a CCC loan or loans to the producer under this part. The lending agency shall promptly remit to the producer any difference between the amount due on the advance loan and the proceeds of the CCC loan, less any applicable charges under this part paid by the lending agency on behalf of the producer. The duplicate copies of Forms A and the canceled note evidencing the advance loan shall be forwarded to the producer. The original of the Producer's Power of Attorney shall be transmitted with the notes when they are tendered to CCC.

(b) It shall be the joint responsibility of the lending agency named in the Form J to obtain the official classification from the producer or the warehouseman and of the producer to deliver the official classification to such lending agency, within 15 days from the date of the classification certificate, so that the Form A loans can be made within the specified time.

(c) It shall be the responsibility of the lending agency named in the Form J to obtain the execution of the Warehouseman's Certificate and Storage Agreement and the Clerk's Certificate on the Form A. Only bona fide employees of lending agencies making the advance loans who are approved as clerks by the county committee, or approved clerks in the office of the county committee, will be permitted to execute the Clerk's Certificate on Forms A covering cotton on which advance loans have been made.

§ 607.244 Loans prior to August 1, 1951. Loans will be made available to eligible producers in the area where cotton is harvested prior to August 1, 1951. Base loan rates for warehouse locations in the early harvesting area will be announced by the applicable PMA commodity office prior to harvest. The premium or discount applicable to each eligible grade and staple length is shown in § 607.249. Other provisions for loans prior to August 1, 1951, will be the same as provided for loans after that date, except that in the event that the base loan rate based on August 1, 1951, parity is in excess of the base loan rate announced prior to such date, the difference will be paid to the producer upon his application to the applicable PMA commodity office in the manner prescribed by such office.

§ 607.245 Repayments — (a) Warehouse-stored cotton. No partial release of the cotton represented by warehouse receipts and securing a note will be permitted. If a producer desires to obtain the return of his note and the release of the cotton securing the note, he must execute the Producer's Redemption Request on the Producer's Loan Statement, which will be furnished to the producer by the applicable PMA commodity office at the time the notes are processed by that office, and must send or deliver the Producer's Loan Statement to CCC, in care of the custodial office serving the district in which the cotton is stored, as shown in § 607.247. If the producer desires to sell his equity in the cotton, he must complete the Producer's Equity Transfer Agreement in the Producer's Equity Transfer on the reverse side of the Producer's Loan Statement, and the Certificate of Witness in the Producer's Equity Transfer must be dated and signed by a witness approved for such purpose by a county committee in the cotton-producing area. Outside the cotton-producing area, the certificate may be executed by a notary public. The equity purchaser must complete the Certificate of Purchaser in the Producer's Equity Transfer and send it to CCC, in care of the custodial office serving the district in which the cotton is stored. Upon receipt of the Producer's Redemption Request or the Producer's Equity Transfer, the custodial office will forward the note and warehouse receipts to any approved bank designated by the person requesting their release with directions to the bank to release the note and warehouse receipts only to the producer or holder of the equity transfer upon payment of the amount due on the loan. In all such cases, the bank will be instructed to return the note and warehouse receipts to the custodial office if payment is not effected within 15 days. All charges assessed by the bank to which the note and warehouse receipts are sent must be paid by the person requesting the release of the cotton. In the event the Producer's Loan Statement is destroyed or lost, the producer may obtain a duplicate of such form from the custodial office serving the district in which the cotton is stored.

(b) Farm-stored cotton. If the producer desires to repay his loan and obtain the release of the cotton securing the note, he may obtain complete instructions from the county committee of the county in which the cotton is stored. Partial releases will be allowed.

§ 607.246 Cotton cooperative marketing association loans. A special form of loan agreement will be made available to cotton cooperative marketing associations whereby members of such associations may act collectively in obtaining loans. The loan rates under this agreement will be the same as the loan rates to individual producers, and loans to such associations will otherwise be made on substantially the same basis as loans to individual producers. Members desiring to obtain loans from their associations should contact their associations.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter V—Department of the Army

Subchapter B—Claims and Accounts

PART 536—CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

ENLISTED MEN ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE, DESERTERS, AND ESCAPED MILITARY PRISONERS

Sections 536.30 and 536.40 are revised to read as follows:

§ 536.30 Apprehension—(a) Military personnel. Military personnel authorized by paragraph 19, Manual for Courts-Martial, United States, 1951 (16 F. R. 1303), may apprehend absentees and deserters.

(b) Civil personnel. Any civil officer described in Uniform Code of Military Justice, Article 8, and private citizens when authorized by a commissioned officer of one of the Armed Forces, may apprehend an absentee or deserter from the Army and deliver him into the custody of the Armed Forces. See paragraph 23, Manual for Courts-Martial, 1951.

(c) Classes of absentees not to be apprehended or returned to military control. Individuals who deserted from the Regular Army during the Spanish American War, those who deserted the Army during World War I, and peacetime absentees or deserters in whose cases trial is barred by Uniform Code of Military Justice, Article 43, will not be apprehended or returned to military control.

(d) Cooperation of State and local police authorities. Continental army and Military District of Washington commanders will take steps to secure the active cooperation of all State and local police authorities and of such other officials and organizations, except FBI, as they deem useful to insure that wanted absentees and deserters are returned promptly to military control. Agencies should be informed that action will not be taken to apprehend absentees and deserters unless the agency concerned is in receipt of WD AGO Form 45 (Descriptive List of Absentee Wanted by the United States Army) or upon receipt of information from an officer of the Army that the individual is an absentee or a deserter whose return to military control is desired. All commanding officers will assure prompt, complete, and accurate replies to all inquiries received from civil law enforcement agents or agencies regarding the status, station, provision for guards, payment of apprehension fees, or other pertinent information relating to an absentee or his return to proper station.

(e) Inquiry from civil officer or civilian. When a post or organization commander receives word from a civil officer that such civilian intends to arrest, or has arrested, an alleged absentee or deserter, he will take the following action with the least possible delay:

(1) Advise the civil officer of his right to payment for services if the individual is identified as an absentee, and inform him that disposition instructions will be forthcoming.

(2) If appropriate, cause a guard to be sent within 24 hours to effect the return of the absentee or deserter to military control, or

(3) If it is impracticable to furnish a guard from his command, make arrangements with a commander capable of providing one or report the case to the army commander. In appropriate cases the civil officer may be requested to deliver the absentee to the nearest military post; however, this practice should be avoided whenever possible.

(4) Furnish final disposition instructions to the civil officer if not previously given.

§ 536.40 Property and personal effects. (a) When an individual absents himself without leave, the unit commander will cause the public property, including clothing, for which the absentee is responsible, and his abandoned personal effects to be secured. The personal effects will be inventoried, listed on DA AGO Form 442 (Inventory of Personal Property), in triplicate, and turned over to the unit supply officer for safekeeping, pending return of the individual or for disposition in accordance with Public Law 39, 81st Congress (63 Stat. 44; 5 U. S. C. 150e-i). The ownership of personal clothing will be determined, if appropriate. Where title has rightfully passed to the absentee, such clothing will be regarded as personal effects and will be handled accordingly.

(b) Money left by an absentee will be deposited with a disbursing officer whose receipt will be taken in duplicate. Claims for the recovery of such funds may be filed with the General Accounting Office, by the rightful owners, their heirs, next of kin, or legal representatives.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 34]

GCPR, SR 34—ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES OF MANUFACTURERS AND DISTRIBUTORS OF FRESH AND SEMI-DRY SAUSAGE MADE IN WHOLE OR IN PART FROM BEEF

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Public Law 774, 81st Congress), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation No. 34 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 809) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Sausage manufacturers, whose prices are still controlled by the General Ceiling Price Regulation, have been caught in a price squeeze. This supplementary regulation, therefore, permits dollars and cents increases to manufacturers of fresh and semi-dry sausage made in whole or in part from beef based on the increase in cost to them of the beef used by them in the manufacturing of such sausage. This dollars and cents increase is in turn allowed to be passed on through the distributor to prevent a price squeeze anywhere along the line. This is essentially the same formula as that used in providing for parity adjustments under the General Ceiling Price Regulation and has the advantage of precluding the compounding of basic cost increases. However, unlike the parity adjustments allowed under the General Ceiling Price Regulations, the adjustments allowed by this supplementary regulation may be made only once since a further increase in the cost of beef ingredients is prevented by the ceilings established by Ceiling Price Regulation 24.

The basis upon which a manufacturer's price increase is to be determined is the difference between his "base period cost" for the items of beef used in making his sausage and his "current cost" for such items of beef. The "base period cost" is the weighted average price actually paid to an independent seller for the purchase of beef contracted for during the period of January 15 to January 20, 1951, inclusive. Those five days constitute the last full business week in the base period established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation. To establish a longer period for the purpose of computing "base period cost" would be unduly burdensome on the manufacturer and the prices prevailing during those five days are, in any event, likely to approximate fairly closely the costs on the basis of which the sausage manufacturer established the selling prices which became his ceiling prices under the General Ceiling Price Regulation. Where, during the period January 15, 1951, to January 20, 1951, inclusive, no contract to purchase beef was made, or no contract was made with an independent seller or where proof of prices paid for beef purchased from independent sellers is lacking, the "base period cost" is established by reference to Appendix A. This appendix lists the approximate average quotations on the Chicago market for the period January 15 to January 20, 1951, inclusive. An appropriate addition for carload freight to the manufacturer's plant is permitted. The amount of such addition depends on the zone in which the plant is located. The choice of the Chicago market as a criterion for determining "base period cost" is in accordance with its historical acceptance by the industry as a basing point for trading in most packing house products.

The sausage manufacturer's "current cost" is an average of the ceiling prices of the various types of sellers or other sources from which the manufacturer derives his beef. This average is weighted to reflect the normal proportion of beef, used during the last four calendar weeks immediately preceding the effective date of this supplementary regulation, derived from differing sources.

It appears that there are innumerable formulas for making sausage. If a ceiling price increase were allowed on each item of sausage, the burden on the manufacturer of reporting and record-keeping as well as the burden on the Office of Price Stabilization of checking reports would be very great. The manufacturer may therefore increase his ceiling price only on those items which accounted for over 2 per cent of the total dollar sales, during a specified period, of all fresh and semi-dry sausage containing beef.

If a manufacturer increases his price of sausage he must notify the persons other than ultimate consumers to whom he sells such item of sausage that it contains beef. The manufacturer must also notify the persons, other than ultimate consumers, to whom he sells that sausage that he is increasing his price in accordance with the provisions of this supplementary regulation, and of the amount of that increase. This provides the basis upon which the distributor may increase his own ceiling price on such sausage.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR OF PRICE STABILIZATION

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of Supplementary Regulation 34 to General Ceiling Price Regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive, and to relevant factors of general applicability.

In formulating this supplementary regulation the Director has consulted with representatives of the industry to the extent practicable under the circumstances and has given consideration to their recommendations.

Appendix A—Zone and price schedules for determining "base period cost" under applicable provision of section 4.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 9 issued under sec. 704, Public Law 774, 81st Congress. Interpret or apply Title IV, Public Law 774, 81st Congress, E. O. 10161, September 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

SECTION 1. What this supplementary regulation does. This supplementary regulation authorizes certain manufacturers and distributors of fresh and semi-dry sausage made in whole or in part with beef to increase the ceiling price on that sausage by an amount based on the difference between the "base period cost" and the "current cost" of the beef used in manufacturing that sausage. It does not apply to any item covered specifically by any other regulation such as ground beef (bulk, including hamburger), ground beef in casings and ground beef patties. Ceiling prices for "dry" sausage are determined under Ceiling Price Regulation 22.

SEC. 2. Where this supplementary regulation applies. This supplementary regulation applies in the 48 states of the United States and the District of Columbia.

SEC. 3. Persons covered by this supplementary regulation—(a) Manufacturers subject to this supplementary regulation. If you are a manufacturer of sausage this supplementary regulation applies to you only if:

(1) You sell fresh or semi-dry sausage which you manufactured in whole or in part from beef, and

(2) Your "current cost" of any item of beef used in manufacturing that sausage exceeds your "base period cost" for such item of beef.

(b) Distributors subject to this supplementary regulation. If you are a distributor of sausage this supplementary regulation applies to you only if:

(1) You resell an item of fresh or semi-dry sausage a whole or a part of the ingredients of which is declared to be beef in a statement furnished to you pursuant to section 7(c) of this supplementary regulation, and

(2) You have been notified pursuant to section 7(c) of an increase in the ceiling price for that item of sausage by the manufacturer or distributor from whom you purchase that item of sausage.

SEC. 4. Adjustments of ceiling prices for manufacturers.—(a) How you determine your adjustment. If you are a manufacturer of an item of fresh or semi-dry sausage containing one or more items of beef, you may increase your ceiling price, as determined by the General Ceiling Price Regulation, for that item of sausage, by the dollars and cents difference per cwt. between your "base period cost" and your "current cost" for each item of beef used in its manufacture, multiplied by the percentage of that item of beef used in the item of sausage, and divided by the yield of that item of sausage. Your total price increase must be adjusted to the nearest ten cents per cwt.

Example: You are a manufacturer of an item of sausage, 10% of the ingredients of which is boneless chucks (clod out) and 30% of the ingredients of which is regular beef trimmings. The yield of the item of sausage is 90%. Your "base period cost" for boneless chucks (clod out) is $54.40 per cwt. Your "current cost" for such boneless chucks (clod out) is $55.40 per cwt., a difference of $1.00 per cwt. Your "base period cost" for trimmings is $46.30 per cwt. Your "current cost" for trimmings is $47.30 per cwt., a difference of $1.00 per cwt. The amount by which you may increase your present ceiling price for that item of sausage due to the increase in cost to you of boneless chucks (clod out) is 11 cents per cwt. ($1.00 × .10 = .90). The amount by which you may increase the price of that item of sausage due to the increase in cost to you of trimmings is 33 cents per cwt. ($1.00 × .30 = .90). The total authorized increase in price for such item of sausage is 40 cents per cwt. (11 cents plus 33 cents adjusted to the nearest 10 cents per cwt.).

(b) How you determine your "base period cost". If, during the period January 15, 1951, to January 20, 1951, inclusive, you contracted for the purchase of a given item of beef used by you at any time in the manufacture of fresh or semi-dry sausage, you determine your "base period cost" per cwt. for that item of beef as follows:

(1) Take the actual cost to you of the total weight of that item of beef actually used by you at any time in the manufacture of fresh or semi-dry sausage which, during the period January 15, 1951, to January 20, 1951, inclusive, you contracted to purchase from independent sellers and the cost of which is substantiated by purchase invoices from those independent sellers.

(2) Take the total weight of that item of beef actually used by you at any time in the manufacture of fresh or semi-dry sausage which, during the period January 15, 1951, to January 20, 1951, inclusive, (i) you produced yourself, or (ii) you contracted to purchase from other than independent sellers, or (iii) you contracted to purchase and the cost of which cannot be substantiated by purchase invoices from independent sellers.

(3) Multiply the figure in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph by the price, including freight allowances, for a plant in your zone for that item of beef determined pursuant to Appendix A.

(4) Add the figures in subparagraphs (1) and (3) of this paragraph. This gives you your gross cost for the quantity of that item of beef which you actually used in the manufacture of fresh and semi-dry sausage.

(5) Divide this gross cost by the total weight of that item of beef actually used by you at any time in the manufacture of fresh or semi-dry sausage which, during the period January 15, 1951, to January 20, 1951, inclusive, you contracted to purchase or you produced yourself.

(6) The result is your "base period cost" per cwt. for that item of beef.

If, during the period January 15, 1951 to January 20, 1951, inclusive, you made no contracts to purchase a given item of beef used by you in the manufacture of fresh or semi-dry sausage, your "base period cost" for that item of beef shall be the price, including freight allowances, for a plant in your zone for that item of beef determined pursuant to Appendix A.

(c) How you determine your "current cost". You must determine your "current cost" per cwt. for any given item of beef as follows:

(1) Determine the percentage of your total requirement of that item of beef during the last four full calendar weeks immediately preceding the effective date of this supplementary regulation produced by yourself or which you procured from anyone other than an independent seller;

(2) Determine the percentage of your total requirement of that item of beef during the last four full calendar weeks immediately preceding the effective date of this supplementary regulation which you procured from slaughterers who were independent sellers;

(3) Determine the percentage of your total requirement of that item of beef during the last four full calendar weeks immediately preceding the effective date of this supplementary regulation which you procured from wholesalers who were independent sellers;

(4) Multiply the sum of the percentages determined under subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph by the ceiling price at which a slaughterer may under CPR 24 sell that item of beef to you at your plant, such ceiling price to include an allowance for local delivery in accordance with section 41 of CPR 24 not to exceed 40 cents per cwt., and an allowance for boxing in accordance with section 45 of CPR 24 not to exceed 70 cents per cwt.

(5) Multiply the percentage determined under subparagraph (3) of this paragraph by the ceiling price at which a wholesaler may under CPR 24 sell that item of beef to you at your plant, such ceiling price to include an allowance for local delivery in accordance with section 41 of CPR 24 not to exceed 40 cents per cwt. and for boxing in accordance with section 45 of CPR 24 not to exceed 70 cents per cwt.

(6) Add the figures in subparagraphs (4) and (5) of this paragraph.

(7) The result is your "current cost" per cwt. for the given item of beef.

When used in subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) of this paragraph the term "calendar week" means a period of seven days from Sunday through Saturday, inclusive; the term "requirement" as used in subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) shall include the amount, by weight, of a given item of beef actually used by you in the manufacture of fresh or semi-dry sausage during the last four full calendar weeks immediately preceding the effective date of this supplementary regulation, which was produced by yourself, which you procured from anyone who was not an independent seller, which you procured from slaughterers who were independent sellers and which you procured from wholesalers who were independent sellers, so that the percentages calculated under those subparagraphs shall add up to 100 per cent.

(d) Limitations on your adjustment. You may not increase your ceiling price for an item of sausage pursuant to this section, if:

(1) You have, after the effective date of this supplementary regulation, established a ceiling price for that item of sausage under section 4 or section 6 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation; or

(2) Your total dollar sales of that item of sausage during the last full accounting period immediately preceding the effective date of this supplementary regulation amounted to 2 per cent or less of the dollar sales of all items of fresh and semi-dry sausage, made in whole or in part from beef, sold during that accounting period; or

(3) You have once increased your ceiling price for that item of sausage under this section.

SEC. 5. Adjustment of ceiling prices for distributors.—(a) How you determine your adjustment. If you are a distributor subject to this supplementary regulation, you may increase your ceiling price, as determined by the General Ceiling Price Regulation, for an item of sausage by the dollars and cents amount by which the manufacturer or distributor from whom you purchase that item of sausage has increased his ceiling price according to a notice furnished to you pursuant to section 7 (c) of this supplementary regulation by such manufacturer or distributor.

(b) Limitations on your adjustment. You may not increase your ceiling price for an item of sausage pursuant to this section, if:

(1) You have, after the effective date of this supplementary regulation, established a ceiling price for that item of sausage under section 5 or section 6 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation; or

(2) You have once increased your ceiling price for that item of sausage under this section.

SEC. 6. Export sales.—(a) Ceiling prices. The ceiling prices at which you may export any item of sausage subject to this supplementary regulation shall be your domestic ceiling price for the item of sausage, f. o. b. your place of business, determined in accordance with this supplementary regulation plus any of the following costs actually incurred incidental to exportation of the item of sausage.

(1) Cost of transportation to the dock.
(2) Export packing costs.
(3) Demurrage or warehouse charges.
(4) Ocean freight costs.
(5) Insurance costs.
(6) Consular fees.
(7) Freight forwarders' fees.

(b) Records and reports for exporters. You shall make and preserve the records and reports required in section 7 of this supplementary regulation and in addition to the information there required, you shall keep records showing any of the actual costs incurred in paragraph (a) (1) through (7) of this section. You shall furnish the buyer a written statement showing all this information.

SEC. 7. Records and reports.—(a) Manufacturers. If you are a manufacturer who seeks, pursuant to this supplementary regulation, to increase the ceiling price of an item of sausage by more than one dollar per cwt. you may not increase your ceiling price for that item of sausage until you first notify the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, giving the following information:

(1) Your existing ceiling price for that item of sausage determined according to the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

(2) Your "base period cost" for each item of beef used in that item of sausage and the figures from which it has been determined.

(3) Your "current cost" for each item of beef used in that item of sausage and the figures from which it has been determined.

(4) The percentage of: (i) Each item of beef, (ii) of each of the other respective types of meat (veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton, mutton or pork), (iii) of each respective meat by-product (e. g. pork hearts, lamb hearts, etc.), (iv) of the total amount of seasoning, and (v) of the total amount of condiments, and or extender used in manufacturing that item of sausage.

(5) The yield of that item of sausage.

(6) The increase of ceiling price.

(7) Your total dollar sales of all fresh and semi-dry sausage made in whole or in part with beef during the last full accounting period immediately preceding the effective date of this supplementary regulation.

(8) Your total dollar sales of the item of sausage subject to this supplementary regulation upon which a ceiling price increase is sought, during the last full accounting period immediately preceding the effective date of this supplementary regulation.

If you are a manufacturer who seeks, pursuant to this supplementary regulation, to increase the ceiling price of an item of sausage by one dollar per cwt. or less you may increase your ceiling price for that item of sausage without notifying the Director of Price Stabilization. However, you must in any event keep records showing the foregoing eight items of information.

(b) Distributors. If you are a distributor of an item of sausage subject to this supplementary regulation you must keep a copy of the notice furnished to you pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section by the manufacturer or distributor from whom you buy such item of sausage.

(c) Furnishing and keeping invoices and statements. If you are a manufacturer or distributor of sausage subject to this supplementary regulation you shall hereafter furnish to each buyer other than an ultimate consumer to whom you sell an item of sausage subject to this supplementary regulation:

(1) A purchase invoice for that item of sausage; and

(2) A statement that the item of sausage on which you have increased your ceiling price under this supplementary regulation contains beef and of the exact amount in dollars and cents per cwt. you have added to the price of that item of sausage as authorized under this supplementary regulation.

You shall, in addition, keep a copy of each invoice and statement furnished to you pursuant to this paragraph.

(d) Effect of notification of adjustment by manufacturer who increased his ceiling price by more than one dollar per cwt. If you are a manufacturer subject to this supplementary regulation who increased your ceiling price on an item of sausage by more than one dollar per cwt. you may charge the new ceiling price upon mailing the notification required in paragraph (a) of this section.

SEC. 8. Definitions. When used in this part, the term:

(a) "Accounting period" means the customary accounting period of a calendar month or a period of at least four weeks and not more than five weeks in length used by you in keeping your books and records, and shall be the same period used by you in making reports, if any, to the United States Department of Agriculture or to the Office of Price Stabilization, pursuant to Distribution Regulation 1.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 22, Amdt. 6, Correction]

CPR 22—MANUFACTURERS' GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION

EXTENSION OF EFFECTIVE DATE AND RELATED CHANGES; CORRECTION

Due to an error the words "undesignated paragraph in section 32 (f)" rather than the words "section 32 (f) (3)" were used in Amendatory Provision 5 of Amendment 6 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22, issued May 28, 1951 and effective May 28, 1951 (16 F. R. 5010). Accordingly, Amendatory Provision 5 of Amendment 6 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 is corrected to read as follows:

5. Section 32 (f) (3) is amended by deleting the words "June 12, 1951" and substituting therefor the words "15 days after the effective date of this regulation."

[General Overriding Regulation 5, Amendment 1]

GOR-5—EXEMPTIONS OF CERTAIN CONSUMER DURABLE GOODS

SALES OF HAND-WOVEN, IMPORTED ORIENTAL RUGS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment to General Overriding Regulation 5 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 5 has as its purpose to remove oriental rugs from price control. Almost all hand woven imported rugs are of the type generally termed "oriental". Oriental rugs like antiques and paintings, depend for their value on their beauty and other considerations which make them essentially unsuitable objects for price control which assumes a more or less standard product. Such rugs are bought only by a few and constitute an insignificant part of our economy of no importance to the cost of living. The prices of these rugs were not controlled during World War II. Similar treatment for them at the present time is indicated. As in the past, the subjective reaction of the buyer and the intrinsic beauty of the article will determine the price. Consumers of these rare and precious articles are well able to control the prices charged for them by refusing to buy, should prices rise disproportionately.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

General Overriding Regulation 5, effective April 23, 1951, is amended by adding a new section 4 to read as follows:

SEC. 4. Oriental rugs. Hand-woven, imported oriental rugs.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 5 shall become effective June 16, 1951.

Acting Director of Price Stabilization.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 3—VETERANS CLAIMS

INSTRUCTIONS RELATING TO DISABILITY COMPENSATION AND PENSION

A new § 3.1511 is added as follows:

§ 3.1511 Instructions relating to disability compensation and pension accorded veterans under Public Law 28, 82d Congress. (a) Under the provisions of Public Law 28, 82d Congress, active service on or after June 27, 1950, and prior to the delimiting date as provided therein, entitles to disability compensation and disability pension on a parity with World War II service.

(b) The effective dates of evaluations and awards, including Part III, will be in accordance with existing regulations: Provided, That in no event will an evaluation or award made solely under the provisions of Public Law 28, 82d Congress, be effective prior to May 11, 1951.

(c) Public Law 894, 81st Congress, provides vocational rehabilitation only in those instances in which the veteran is entitled to compensation under the provisions of subparagraph I (c), Part II, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended, and therefore the granting of a rating under Veterans Regulation 1 (a), Part I, under Public Law 28, 82d Congress, will not, in and of itself, serve as a proper basis for vocational rehabilitation. It is necessary that the requirements of § 3.67 be met. It will therefore be necessary for the rating sheet, not only in the reviewed cases but hereafter, to reflect entitlement or nonentitlement to such benefit. This will be accomplished by one of the following codes, as appropriate:

For purposes of Public Law 894, 81st Congress: (C) Entitled PL 868, 80th Cong., or (I) Not entitled Pub. Law 868, 80th Cong.

Upon completion of the rating, the authorization group will take the necessary action, fully advising the veteran and his representative, if any, of the action taken and of the right of appeal. Amended awards will be prepared even in those cases where the prior entitlement was under Public Law 868, 80th Congress, and there is no change in the rate of disability compensation being paid. The awards in connection with this review and hereafter will show the legend, "PL 28 82" in order that proper finance codes may be assigned. (The Code 18B will be used where service connection is established under the new legislation and 18B–1 where entitlement to disability pension is shown under such legislation.) Where the rating shows entitlement to vocational rehabilitation under Public Law 894, 81st Congress, Veterans' Administration claims procedures will be followed. However, where a notice has previously been sent to the veteran, it will not be duplicated at this time. (Instruction No. 1, Public Law 28, 82d Cong.)

This regulation is effective June 13, 1951.

Deputy Administrator.

REGULAR AND RESERVE COMMISSIONED CORPS

SEC. 204. General statement. Commissions in the Regular and Reserve Corps of the Public Health Service are available to citizens trained in the fields of medicine, dentistry, sanitary engineering, pharmacy, scientific specialties related to public health, nursing, dietetics, and physical and occupational therapy. Regulations relating to the commissioned corps are contained in 42 CFR Parts 21, 22.

All appointments in the commissioned corps are made by the President and in the case of the Regular Corps, are subject to confirmation by the Senate. Officers retain commissions in the Regular Corps for life, contingent upon their passing prescribed promotion and physical examinations and compliance with rules and regulations of the Service. Reserve commissions are for a period of not more than five years, after which an officer may be reappointed. Reserve commissions may be terminated at any time by the Federal Security Administrator, upon recommendation of the Surgeon General, under authority delegated to the Administrator by the President (Executive Order 9993, 13 F. R. 5093).

SEC. 205. Application for commission. Applications may be made on PHS Form 5D, "Application for Commission in the United States Public Health Service." Application forms and instructions may be obtained by writing to the Division of Commissioned Officers, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington 25, D. C. Eligibility requirements and the contents of the application are described in the regulations.

SEC. 206. Regular Corps; examinations and appointment. Competitive written examinations for appointment in the Regular Corps are usually held annually in the principal cities in the early spring or summer. Announcements of the time and place of examinations are published at least thirty days prior to the date of the examination, in the leading medical and other professional journals. Applicants with satisfactory qualifications are instructed to present their completed applications and supporting documents to a board of commissioned officers, appointed by the Surgeon General, which conducts oral and written professional examinations and physical examinations as prescribed in regulations.

The procedure for establishment of merit rolls on the basis of examination ratings and relative standings of candidates, and for nominations from merit rolls, are described in the regulations.

SEC. 207. Reserve Corps; examination and appointment. Eligibility requirements are described in Title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations. The examination consists of a review of the candidate's qualifications by the examining board in Washington, D. C., a physical examination which is arranged at a Public Health Service station, and may include an oral interview, a written examination, or both. Recommendations for appointment of a candidate, after approval by the Surgeon General and the Federal Security Administrator, are transmitted to the President for final action.

SEC. 209. General statement. The Public Inquiries Branch in the Division of Public Health Methods, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington 25, D. C., conducts a central inquiry service for the professional and lay public. It answers questions and distributes publications and films on a variety of subjects ranging from simple health information to scientific research findings in the fields of medicine and public health.

COLLECTION OF VITAL STATISTICS

SEC. 210. General statement. Reports of morbidity and mortality are collected by the Public Health Service from State, Territorial or local governments in accordance with 42 U. S. C. 245 and provisions of International Sanitary Conventions to which the United States is a signatory power. Transcripts of birth, death, and stillbirth certificates are purchased by arrangements with the States, Territories, and independent registration cities in accordance with 13 U. S. C. 101.

SEC. 211. Use of reports and transcripts. Transcripts and reports collected by the Public Health Service under these provisions are tabulated and analyzed by the National Office of Vital Statistics for statistical purposes only.

SEC. 212. Reports. Weekly and special telegraphic morbidity reports, monthly morbidity reports (Forms PHS 849VS and PHS 1246VS) and annual morbidity summaries (Form PHS 1270VS) are submitted by cooperating State Health Departments. In addition, weekly morbidity reports (Form PHS 453VS) are submitted directly by selected cities. Report forms, as well as instructions, may be obtained upon request from the National Office of Vital Statistics, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington 25, D. C.

SEC. 213. Official publications. Annual reports (Vital Statistics in the United States, Parts I and II), and occasional special publications on vital statistics may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. Subscriptions to "Public Health Reports", a weekly publication which carries summaries of morbidity and mortality data, may be obtained from the same source. Other weekly and monthly statistical reports and the papers entitled "Vital Statistics—Special Reports" are made available to professionally interested persons and agencies without charge.

INTERSTATE CARRIER SANITATION

SEC. 221. General statement. Interstate Carriers must comply with requirements of the Interstate Quarantine Regulations contained in 42 CFR Part 72 regarding the sanitary condition of interstate conveyances such as railroad passenger cars and dining cars, buses, ships, and airlines, which have sanitary facilities, provide water or food, and which operate in interstate traffic. Failure to comply with the requirements of the regulations can result in a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both (section 368 (a) of the Public Health Service Act as amended, 42 U. S. C. 271). Operating conditions on these conveyances are observed and in the case of ships and dining cars, inspections are made regularly. Water and food sources are inspected and certified for use by interstate carriers. The facilities for handling water and food at servicing areas, terminals and airports are also under inspection and plans relative to construction or reconstruction of facilities are reviewed.

SEC. 222. Construction of conveyance. Plans for the construction or reconstruction of railroad passenger cars, buses, and aircraft are required to be submitted to the Division of Sanitation for review. Inspections are made by Public Health Service Regional Office representatives. Plans may be submitted by the operators or the car builders. The obligation to submit plans is the responsibility of the operator not the car builder or aircraft builder, but the submittal frequently is made by the car builder. The Sanitation Manual for Land and Air Conveyances Operating in Interstate Traffic (Public Health Reprint 2444, 1943) provides general information. Separate handbooks for each of the respective industries are under preparation.

Plans for the construction or reconstruction of U. S. vessels in interstate traffic, as well as in foreign trade, are reviewed on a voluntary basis. Inspections result in issuance of a "Certificate of Sanitary Construction," if construction or reconstruction has been in accordance with the recommendations contained in the Principles of Sanitation Applicable to the Construction of New Vessels, July 1, 1949. Inspections are made by Regional Office representatives. In the case of U. S. vessels in foreign trade, ratproof construction, as well as general sanitation including water, food, plumbing, and waste disposal, is important.

SEC. 223. Operating conditions. The Interstate Quarantine Regulations, 42 CFR Part 72, spell out various requirements to be met by the railroad, bus, airline, and vessel industries in their interstate operations. Inspections are generally made of each passenger or freight ship and each dining car about twice a year. Inspections of other interstate carriers are not made on a regularly scheduled basis. Reports of inspection are given to the operator with the request that corrections be made where indicated. Certificates of sanitation are issued to conveyances having a high sanitation rating. These certificates should be posted by the carriers.

SEC. 224. Water and food sources. The regulations require that the sources of water and milk be approved by the Surgeon General. The Service prepares and distributes to the carriers lists of the various watering points used by them, each classified either as "approved," "provisionally approved," or as "use prohibited." Carriers may use watering points in the first two categories and not in the "use prohibited" category. Special measures are taken to provide carriers with immediate notification of changes in "use prohibited" watering points. The classification of a watering point depends on two factors. One is the water supply, which may be a public supply or a private one, and the second factor is the sanitary status of the facilities at the watering point for handling or loading water. The Public Health Service makes inspections of water supplies or watering points or utilizes reports of State or local health agencies. Sufficient copies of the respective lists are sent to those railroads, bus lines, airlines and vessel companies which provide water on their conveyances for passenger or crew consumption. The standards for classification of the water supplies are the Drinking Water Standards contained in 42 CFR 72.201–72.204. The Sanitation Manual for Land and Air Conveyances Operating in Interstate Traffic is used as a guide in classifying watering points, except that a separate handbook is being prepared for vessel watering points.

Milk plants supplying fresh milk or frozen desserts to interstate carriers are inspected and classified in a manner similar to watering points. The Milk Ordinance and Code (Public Health Bulletin #220, 1939) is used as a guide in classifying milk plants. Its Frozen Desserts Ordinance and Code, recommended by the Public Health Service, is used as a guide in classifying ice cream sources.

Railroad and airline commissaries are inspected by Public Health Service or State personnel. The Eating and Drinking Establishments Ordinance and Code of 1943 (Public Health Bulletin #280) is used as a guide in inspecting and classifying these food preparation places. These commissaries are evaluated in a manner similar to that for watering points and milk sources and the carriers are notified of the results of inspections as well as the classification. Sources of bottled water are inspected by Public Health Service or State personnel and classified as "approved," "provisionally approved" or "use prohibited."

As a service to the shellfish industry and to State authorities, the Public Health Service publishes, semimonthly, a list of shellfish shippers holding certificates issued by those State regulatory authorities which conduct a shellfish sanitation program approved by the Service on the basis of a "Manual of Recommended Practices for the Sanitary Control of the Shellfish Industry".

The regulations require the submittal of construction plans or plans for major reconstruction of sanitation facilities at servicing areas. These facilities include watering point installations of hydrants and platforms as well as facilities for disposing of material from soil cans, garbage cans, and the construction or reconstruction of commissaries where food is stored or prepared.

INTERSTATE SHIPMENT OF SHAVING AND LATHER BRUSHES

SEC. 225. General statement. Shaving or lather brushes may not be shipped or carried in interstate commerce unless manufactured in compliance with the regulations contained in 42 CFR Part 72.

SEC. 226. Permits; application and issuance. (a) Application forms for permits certifying approval of manufacturing procedures (Budget Bureau No. 68-R107) may be obtained from the Division of Sanitation, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington 25, D. C. This form calls for the name and location of the manufacturing establishment, a list of products manufactured or processed, and the signature and title of the executive officer of the establishment. The application form is submitted in duplicate to the Division of Sanitation. The facilities and processes of the applicant's establishment are then inspected for compliance with provisions of the regulations by a representative of the Regional Office within whose jurisdiction the establishment is located. Copies of the identifying marks to be used on brushes are also obtained. The Regional Office transmits to the Division of Sanitation an inspection report, together with recommendations. If upon the basis of the report the head of the Municipal and Rural Sanitation Branch of the Division determines that the establishment is complying with the regulations, a permit is forwarded to the applicant. If the application is not approved, the applicant is notified of this fact, reasons given, and suggestions are offered for improvements that would result in favorable action.

(b) After a permit is issued, all Regional Offices and all State health authorities are so notified in order that the establishment's products may be recognized on the market. State and local health departments make periodic checks of brushes for sale on the retail market and when brushes are found not carrying a registered mark as required by the regulations, a report of that fact is sent to the Surgeon General for enforcement action. Establishments holding permits are subject to periodic inspection; the permit is revoked if it is determined that the regulations are not complied with.

BIOLOGICAL PRODUCTS; LICENSES

SEC. 230. General statement. (a) Licenses are issued to establishments engaged in the manufacture and preparation of certain biological products, under the authority of section 351 of the Public Health Service Act, as amended (42 U. S. C. 262). Standards designed to insure the continued safety, purity, and potency of such products are prescribed in regulations made jointly by the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, the Surgeon General of the Army, and the Surgeon General of the Navy, and approved by the Administrator. They appear in 42 CFR Part 73.

(b) The Laboratory of Biologics Control, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda 14, Md., prepares and issues monographs, known as "Minimum Requirements," on individual biological products. The monographs discuss each product, methods for its production, tests for safety, purity and potency, etc. They are advisory in character, intended for the information and assistance of manufacturers and scientists. Forms are sometimes attached to the monographs which are designed for use in recording the results of tests of a licensed product. These forms may be used in preparing the protocols which are to be transmitted to the National Institutes of Health with samples of licensed products, as provided for in 42 CFR 73.71, 73.91. The Laboratory of Biologics Control also prepares and issues from time to time material, known as "Dating Decisions", containing information concerning the periods within which particular products may be expected to yield their specific results. This material represents the latest scientific knowledge available and is also advisory in character. Copies of the "Minimum Requirements" and "Dating Decisions" may be obtained from the Laboratory of Biologics Control, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda 14, Maryland.

SEC. 231. Products and establishments subject to license. Products subject to license include any virus, therapeutic serum, toxin, antitoxin, or analogous product, or arsphenamine or its derivatives (or any other trivalent organic arsenic compound), applicable to the prevention, treatment, or cure of diseases or injuries of man. Foreign as well as domestic establishments are subject to license requirements with respect to products brought into the District of Columbia or any State or possession, for sale, barter, or exchange.

SEC. 232. Applications for licenses. Forms for application for licenses, and assistance in completing application forms, may be obtained from the Laboratory of Biologics Control, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda 14, Maryland. Detailed information is required on the technical facilities of the establishment and on the methods of preparation and testing of the product.

SEC. 233. Processing of applications. Completed applications, reviewed by the Laboratory of Biologics Control are forwarded with a report to the Surgeon General. The report is based in part on inspection of the establishment and laboratory tests of the product. The Surgeon General transmits the application, the report, and his recommendations for action, to the Federal Security Administrator. In certain cases the Surgeon General appoints a Special Board of Officers to review applications. The findings of the Board are submitted to the Administrator with the Surgeon General's recommendations.

SEC. 234. Issuance of licenses. Licenses for approved establishments and products are issued by the Administrator. Licensed establishments are subject to reinspection and licensed products are subject to retesting.

SEC. 235. Suspension, cancellation, or revocation. Upon recommendation of the Surgeon General, the Administrator may suspend, cancel, or revoke licenses in accordance with regulations, contained in 42 CFR Part 73. Such recommendations are ordinarily based upon inspection reports and laboratory tests.

SEC. 236. Hearings. The Surgeon General grants opportunity for hearings (a) prior to denial, revocation, or suspension of license; or (b) after a license has been denied or, because of danger to health, summarily suspended without prior opportunity for a hearing. Such hearings are provided before an officer or board of officers designated by the Surgeon General for that purpose. The findings and recommendations of the officers or board are forwarded by the Surgeon General with his recommendations to the Administrator.

SEC. 237. Complaints. Any person who has reason to question the safety, purity, or potency of any licensed biological products on the open market should communicate with the Laboratory of Biologics Control, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda 14, Maryland.

SEC. 238. Relation to Food and Drug Administration; licensed products and products for investigational use only. The Public Health Service is generally responsible to the Federal Security Administrator for the administration of the provisions of both the Public Health Service Act, as amended, and of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act which are applicable to biological products. This responsibility extends to products licensed under the Public Health Service Act, which are deemed not subject to section 505 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, and to products intended solely for investigational use which are subject to the provisions of subsection (i) of section 505 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and the regulations thereunder. By administrative arrangement, reports are made to the Service by the Food and Drug Administration whenever, in the course of the field operations of the Food and Drug Administration, conditions or products are encountered which there is reason to suspect may be substandard. In any emergency involving protection to the public against products which may be dangerous to life or health, proceedings may be invoked under the provisions of either act as may be agreed between the Public Health Service and the Food and Drug Administration, or as the Administrator may direct.

GRANTS FOR RESEARCH

SEC. 240. General statement. Grants for medical research are made to universities, hospitals, laboratories, other public and private institutions and individual scientists, in accordance with section 301, and related provisions of the Public Health Service Act, as amended, 42 U. S. C. 241.

SEC. 241. Applications for grants. Application forms and instructions for preparing the forms may be obtained from the Division of Research Grants, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda 14, Maryland. The principal items in the application require from the applicant detailed information on the proposed research project as well as the qualifications of those who would conduct it. SEC. 253. Applications for loans. Application forms and a statement of the conditions under which loans are granted may be obtained from the National Cancer Institute, National Institutes of Health, Bethesda 14, Maryland. The application requires a description of the size and equipment of the hospital or clinic, the qualifications of the staff, and a statement of the number of cancer patients using the facilities. In order to coordinate the loan program with the cancer control programs of State health departments, applicants are required to secure approval of the applications from their respective State health departments.

SEC. 254. Processing of applications. The completed application is reviewed by the Director of the National Cancer Institute, or persons designated by him. The main points considered are the qualifications of staff, the need for the radium as determined by the amount the hospital already has and the number of cancer patients using its facilities, the adequacy of the hospital's radiological equipment and the availability of other radium in the community. In order to effect an equitable distribution of radium, loans already made to institutions in the State and community are considered.

SEC. 255. Loan contract. The applicant is notified of the decision made on his application. If the loan is approved, a loan contract is sent to the applicant for signature. The essential elements in the contract provide that the borrowers agree to:

(a) Replace any lost radium.

(b) Make no charge to patients for the use of the radium.

(c) Permit the radium to be used for treatment purposes only by experts whose qualifications are the equivalent of the standards established for radiologists by the American Board of Radiology.

(d) Maintain adequate standards for the protection of their personnel from overexposure to the radium.

(e) Furnish such reports on the use of the radium as the Service may require.

Upon completion of the contract, the radium is shipped to the borrower. Loan contracts are made for a period of one year and may be renewed.

FOREIGN QUARANTINE

SEC. 285. General information—(a) Addresses of quarantine stations. For addresses of Public Health Service Quarantine Stations and other field stations, see the statement of Public Health Service organization published February 28, 1951, (16 F. R. 1912).

(b) Penalty procedures. For penalty procedures, see sections 311 and 312.

FOREIGN QUARANTINE: VESSELS

SEC. 287. General statement. Vessels departing from foreign ports for ports under the control of the United States are required to comply with quarantine regulations contained in 42 CFR Part 71, (a) at ports of departure, (b) while en route, and (c) at time of first arrival on each voyage at a port in the United States, in accordance with sections 361 to 368, inclusive, of the Public Health Service Act, as amended (42 U. S. C. 264–271). Definitions of terms used in the following sections on foreign quarantine are contained in 42 CFR 71.1.

SEC. 288. Measures at foreign ports and in transit. The master of a vessel is required to enter in the ship's official record a statement of measures taken (a) at foreign ports, to comply with 42 CFR 71.11–71.19, and (b) in transit, to comply with 42 CFR 71.31, 71.32. The occurrence or suspected occurrence on board of any of the communicable diseases listed in 42 CFR 71.34, while the vessel is in transit, must be reported by radio to the medical officer in charge at the port of entry.

SEC. 289. Measures at ports of arrival. (a) Upon arrival at a port under control of the United States, unless exempted by 42 CFR 71.46, 71.47, vessels must anchor at a point designated by port authorities, or proceed to a point designated by the medical officer in charge, and await boarding and inspection by a quarantine officer of the U. S. Public Health Service. The vessel signifies its readiness for inspection by hoisting a yellow (Q) flag. The usual hours of boarding are 6 a. m. to 6 p. m., daily. Ships in distress or those carrying perishable cargoes may be boarded any hour.

(b) Usually, a quarantine officer and one or more sanitary inspectors board the vessel. Quarantine and sanitary operations and inspections are conducted in accordance with 42 CFR 71.63–71.71, 71.81–71.91, and 71.101–71.104.

(c) If inspection requirements are met satisfactorily, the master of the vessel is given a free pratique, signed by the quarantine officer. A pratique is a certificate issued by a quarantine officer releasing or provisionally releasing a vessel from quarantine. This certificate, which permits the vessel to enter the port, is presented to the Collector of Customs as evidence of compliance with quarantine regulations.

(d) If inspection requirements are not met satisfactorily, the vessel may be detained in quarantine, or a provisional partique may be issued by the quarantine officer permitting the ship to enter the port, but specifying additional measures which must be met before or after discharge of cargo or landing of passengers. For example, it may require fumigation before the cargo is unloaded or after the cargo is partially or completely unloaded. After the conditions specified in the provisional pratique are met, a free pratique may be issued.

(e) The Medical Officer in Charge of a Quarantine Station may grant pratique by radio as provided in 42 CFR 71.124.

(f) Vessels arriving from a foreign port are subject to fumigation every 6 months. When a vessel is fumigated or inspected and found free of rodents, a deratization certificate or deratization exemption certificate is issued by the medical officer in charge. The certificate is valid for six months.

SEC. 290. Remanding of vessels. (a) As applied to vessels, the term "remand" means the procedure by which a vessel coming from a foreign port may be kept under quarantine surveillance as it proceeds from one United States port to another. The quarantine officer of the port from which a vessel is remanded transmits in writing, to the Collector of Customs and the quarantine officer at the port to which the vessel is remanded, a notice that the vessel is to remain under observation or is to be subjected to further quarantine measures. When a vessel is merely referred to another quarantine station for the purpose of continuing sanitary control, no notice is sent to the Collector of Customs.

(b) Vessels remanded to other United States ports. (1) Vessels which have residue cargo for other United States ports sufficient in amount to prevent complete and final rat infestation inspection, and on which the observed evidence of active rat life is insufficient to warrant deratization, are remanded to the next United States port at which less cargo will be on board, for further inspection and for such treatment as may be indicated.

(2) Vessels which have arrived from known or suspected plague ports and which contain an appreciable amount of residue cargo for other United States ports after deratization are remanded to the next United States port where cargo is to be discharged, for further search for rats and for such additional treatment as may be indicated. When a deratization certificate cannot be completed on account of inability to ascertain the results of deratization, the incomplete certificate is forwarded with the notice of remand to the station receiving the remand. The certificate is completed by the quarantine station making the final inspection and is delivered to the master or to the agents for the vessel. When deratization is required on a vessel from plague-free ports, the vessel is remanded as necessary to permit deratization when the vessel is empty or when the discharge of cargo is sufficient to allow adequate deratization.

(3) When a vessel has been granted provisional pratique and remanded to another quarantine station for fumigation, the master or agents are given explicit instructions in writing relative to the required fumigation.

(4) In remanding a vessel, full information as to the reason therefor is given to the station receiving the remand.

(5) Notice of remand is timed to reach its destination at least 48 hours ahead of the arrival of the vessel concerned, a telegram being sent when necessary.

(c) Vessels remanded from other United States ports. (1) If from known or suspected plague ports, the vessel is treated as if direct from infected ports except that the vessel may be permitted to dock and to discharge cargo under supervision of the quarantine station. Quarantine treatment is predicated upon the finding of the inspection undertaken during the discharge of cargo. If the vessel has residue cargo for other United States ports, it is remanded to the next port where cargo will be discharged unless preliminary inspection shows the need for immediate fumigation.

(2) If from non-plague ports, the vessel is treated as if direct from a clean foreign port.

(d) Upon completion of quarantine treatment at a port to which a vessel has been remanded, a report of the action taken and of the results obtained is sent to the quaranine station which remanded the vessel.

Quarantine and sanitary operations (including insecticide spraying) and inspections are conducted in accordance with 42 CFR 71.63–71.71; 71.81–71.91; 71.101, 71.102, 71.104; and 71.503–71.516.

(c) If inspection requirements are met satisfactorily, the passengers are released from quarantine jurisdiction and pass on to the jurisdiction of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the Customs Service.

(d) If inspection requirements are not met satisfactorily—or in the case of infected aircraft—control measures, including surveillance, detention, and vaccination of persons and disinfection or disinfestation of the aircraft, may be undertaken as provided in 42 CFR Part 71.

When an apparent violation of quarantine laws or regulations has been committed by a person, he is formally notified in writing by the Collector of Customs, who sets forth the specific section of the Public Health Service Act or foreign quarantine regulations violated, advising that the matter is being reported to the Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service for appropriate action. The case is referred to the medical officer in charge for transmission to the Surgeon General. The Surgeon General may or may not refer the case to the U. S. Department of Justice for prosecution, depending on the circumstances.

(b) Violations by vessels or aircraft. When an apparent violation by a vessel or aircraft has occurred, incurring a forfeiture under section 368 (b) of the Public Health Service Act, as amended, the owner is served with a formal written notice by the Collector of Customs, setting forth the specific section of the Public Health Service Act or foreign quarantine regulations violated and requiring that a Customs bond on Customs form 7567 or 7569 be given before the aircraft or vessel is permitted to depart. The owner or agent of the vessel or aircraft is informed that an application for mitigation or remission of the forfeiture incurred may be filed with the Surgeon General. The entire case, including petition for relief, is referred to the medical officer in charge for transmission, with recommendations, to the Surgeon General.

INTERSTATE QUARANTINE

SEC. 320. General statement. The interstate travel of persons who are capable of spreading a communicable disease or who are believed to be spreading a disease is governed by 42 CFR Part 72. The interstate transportation of articles which may be the source of a communicable infection are governed by these regulations. See 42 CFR Part 72, for interstate quarantine procedures.

GRANTS FOR HOSPITAL SURVEY AND PLANNING

SEC. 327. General statement. Federal funds are made available (a) to assist States to inventory their existing hospitals, (b) to survey the need for construction of hospitals, and (c) to develop programs for construction of such public and other nonprofit hospitals as will, in conjunction with existing facilities, afford the necessary physical facilities for furnishing adequate hospital, clinical, and similar services to the people of the several States. "Hospital" includes public health centers as well as hospitals, and facilities related to either.

These grants are made to legally designated State agencies in the 48 States, District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands in accordance with 42 CFR Part 53.

SEC. 328. Making of allotments. The Surgeon General determines the allotment to each State in accordance with methods outlined in section 613 (a) of the Public Health Service Act, as amended, (42 U. S. C. 291c (a)). State agencies are notified of allotments by the Regional Medical Director.

SEC. 329. Application and other required forms. Forms and instructions for submitting applications may be secured from the Regional Offices of the Federal Security Agency. The forms should be submitted by the State Agency designated as the sole agency for carrying out the purposes of section 601 (a) of the Public Health Service Act, as amnded (42 U. S. C. 291), to the Regional Offices for review and approval or disapproval. The State agency is notified of final action by the Regional Medical Director. Amendments to these forms are handled in the same manner as the original forms.

SEC. 330. Assistance in development of State programs. The help of special consultants assigned to the Regional Office may be secured in developing State programs. In connection with their work, these consultants maintain close working relationships between the Public Health Service headquarters and State hospital survey and planning agencies.

SEC. 331. Payments from allotments. Upon approval of an application for a grant, a State agency may submit a request for payment. Payments are made according to specifications in 42 CFR Part 53.

SEC. 332. Audits. Fiscal audits are made of the expenditures by the State of grant and matching funds to insure that funds were spent in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, and approved plans. These audits are made by personnel attached to the Regional Offices. The Regional Medical Director notifies the State agency of the results of the audit.

HOSPITAL PLANS AND CONSTRUCTION

SEC. 335. General statement. Following completion of a State inventory and survey of existing hospital and public health center facilities, each State develops and submits a State Plan for the construction of needed hospital and public health center facilities.

SEC. 336. Format and content of State Plans. The general form and content of State Plans are set forth in Title 2 of the Health Grants Manual which is available in the Regional and Washington offices of the Service and at State Agencies. State Plans set forth a program for the construction of general, mental, chronic disease and tuberculosis hospital beds and facilities and public health centers and related facilities for all population groups within the State, and establish a system for determining the priority of construction projects. In addition, State Plans set forth the basic State laws for administration of the program by the State, a description of the State Agency organization and functions, the membership of the State Advisory Council, the merit system rules governing personnel administration, standards of construction, standards of maintenance and operation, methods of administration, fair hearing procedures for project applicants, and fiscal methods and procedures. Forms required to be filled out as a part of a State Plan are supplied on request by any of the Regional Offices.

SEC. 337. Approval of State Plans. State Plans are submitted in duplicate through the Regional Offices and are approved by the Surgeon General. Regional Office Consultants are available to assist in State Plan preparation. After approval by the Surgeon General, State Agencies are notified of such approval by Regional Medical Directors.

SEC. 338. Revision and amendments to State Plans. The regulations require annual revision of plans by State Agencies. The plan may be amended, however, as often as necessary to reflect changes in the hospital and public health center requirements of the State.

SEC. 339. Delegation of final authority. Final authority to approve amendments to State Plans, other than major modifications and annual revisions required by the regulations, has been delegated by the Surgeon General to the Regional Medical Directors.

SEC. 340. Availability of Official Records. State Agencies are required by the regulations to maintain on file for public information a copy of their approved State Plan. Members of the public may secure information concerning the approved State Plan from their State Agency.

SEC. 341. Allotment and availability of hospital construction funds. Following the approval of the State Plan, funds are allotted to the State in accordance with the formula contained in the Public Health Service Act, as amended. Allotments are made each fiscal year thereafter. Allotments are certified to the Secretary of the Treasury and each State is notified of its allotment.

ADMINISTRATION AND DEVELOPMENT OF HOSPITAL CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

SEC. 343. Project Construction Schedule—(a) General. Following approval of the State Plan a project construction schedule is submitted, which outlines the construction projects to be undertaken during the fiscal year involved. The schedule is submitted to Regional Offices on Form PHS–224 (HF), in duplicate, and sets forth the name, location, category of hospital, estimated cost, estimated Federal share and other data for each contemplated construction project. In submitting the project construction schedule, the State Agency must certify that the projects included thereon are of the highest priority, or that higher priority projects cannot meet the financial assurances or are not interested in construction during the fiscal year involved. The schedule may be amended by the State Agency as often as necessary.

(b) Delegation of final authority. Project Construction Schedules are reviewed in the Regional Offices for compliance with the Public Health Service Act, as amended, 42 CFR Part 53, instructions of the Public Health Service, and the approved State Plan. Final authority to take action on project construction schedules and amendments thereto has been delegated by the Surgeon General to the Regional Medical Directors.

APPLICATION FOR HOSPITAL CONSTRUCTION FUNDS

SEC. 345. Project construction applications. Following approval of the State Plan, and in accordance with the Project Construction Schedule, States, political subdivisions, and nonprofit organizations may submit applications to their appropriate State Agency requesting Federal funds in the construction, expansion, remodeling, or alteration of a hospital or public health center. The application must comply with Federal statutory and regulatory requirements, as well as any State requirements which may have been established, and must be consistent with the approved Plan and Construction Schedule. If the State Agency recommends approval, it certifies and transmits the application to the Regional Office. The application contains such data and certification by the applicant and State Agency as are essential to approval by the Public Health Service. The State Agency may require submission of additional data by the applicant to support certifications by the State Agency regarding the accuracy and adequacy of the summary information included in the application. The application form consists of Parts 1, 2, 3, and 4 of Form PHS–62 (HF), "Project Construction Application," and plans and specifications. Final drawings and specifications accompany Part 4 of the application. Form PHS–87 (HF) must accompany each drawing. Lists of equipment must be submitted by the applicant as soon as possible after the award of the construction contract and prior to requesting payments of Federal funds for equipment. Forms for use in preparation of specifications are available upon request to any Regional Office.

SEC. 346. Wage rate determinations. Under the Public Health Service Act, as amended, minimum wage rates as established by the Department of Labor must be paid in the construction of projects receiving Federal funds. To assist the Secretary of Labor in establishing such wage rates, the applicant is required to submit through the State Agency and Regional Office, Form PHS–531 (HF), listing current building construction wage data in the applicant's area.

SEC. 347. Delegation of final authority. Project Construction Applications, including drawings, specifications and equipment lists, are reviewed by the Regional Offices for compliance with Federal statutory and regulatory requirements, and the approved State Plan and Project Construction Schedule. Final authority to approve such applications has been delegated by the Surgeon General to the Regional Medical Directors. The Regional Office notifies the State Agency in writing of the action taken. In the event the Regional Medical Director cannot approve an application, it is forwarded to the Washington Office for further action. In instances where approval cannot be given, the State Agency, under the terms of the statutes, is afforded an opportunity for a hearing before the Surgeon General. When an application is disapproved by a State Agency, or an applicant is denied an opportunity to apply for Federal aid, such applicant is entitled to a hearing before the State Agency, in accordance with procedures set forth in the approved State Plan.

SEC. 348. Encumbrance of allotments. Upon approval of a Project Construction Application, the estimated amount of the Federal share is certified to the Secretary of the Treasury.

SEC. 349. Bids, contract awards, and modifications. Competitive bidding procedures must be followed by the applicant and the award of the contract must be made to the responsible bidder submitting the lowest acceptable bid. Actual construction work must be performed by the lump sum (fixed price) contract method. Contracts awarded to other than the responsible bidder submitting the lowest bid must be justified to the State Agency and the Regional Office. Copies of the executed agreements between the applicant and successful bidder are submitted in duplicate through the State Agency to the Regional Office. All contract modifications must be approved by the State Agency and Regional Office. The nature and extent of such modifications determine whether or not they may be authorized immediately by the applicant, or whether approval of the State Agency and Regional Office is required.

SEC. 350. Inspections and payment procedures—(a) State inspections. Payments to applicants are made on the basis of inspections conducted by State Agencies and certifications made by the State Agencies to the Public Health Service. Written reports of inspections made by State Agencies are maintained in their files.

(b) Payments. Payments are certified on Federal Public Voucher for "Installment Payments," Form PHS–459 (SS), which is prepared by State Agencies in quadruplicate. At the time of inspection, the representative of the State Agency and the applicant prepare and sign the "Project Progress Report," Form PHS–530 (HF), which constitutes the basis for the preparation of the voucher and accompanies it in duplicate. In certain instances where a State itself may not legally make payment to applicants, payments are made directly to the applicant.

(c) Federal inspection and withholding of payments. Inspections are made by Public Health Service Regional Office representatives to determine compliance with the approved application, including plans and specifications, and to ascertain whether or not certain defaults as specified in the Public Health Service Act, as amended, have occurred which require the withholding of payments and certifications. If, in the opinion of the Regional Office, there has been a default justifying the withholding of payment, a recommendation to that effect is submitted to the Surgeon General. Prior to final decision by the Surgeon General, an opportunity for a hearing is afforded the State Agency.

SEC. 351. Audits. Audits of the fiscal aspects of projects are made periodically by personnel attached to Regional Offices, after arrangements with project applicants and the State Agencies. Audit exceptions which may be taken are reviewed by the Regional Medical Director who, with the agreement of the Regional Auditor, sustains or withdraws the exceptions and notifies the State Agency accordingly. If agreement is not reached between the Regional Medical Director and the Regional Auditor, exceptions are referred to the Bureau of Medical Services and the Division of State Grant-in-Aid Audits, Federal Security Agency, respectively. The Chief of the Bureau of Medical Services determines whether the exception shall be sustained or withdrawn. Exceptions appealed by a State Agency are handled in a similar manner. The Regional Medical Director is notified of final action and he notifies the State Agency.

SEC. 352. Assistance in administration. Consultants assigned to Regional Offices assist the States in planning, developing and executing their construction programs. Close working relationships are maintained with the State Agencies for this purpose.

SEC. 353. Places at which public may secure information. Interested and prospective applicants for Federal funds under the Public Health Service Act, as amended, may secure information and necessary application forms from their appropriate State Agency. The Regional representatives of the Service will refer such prospective applicants to the appropriate State Agency.

GRANTS TO STATES FOR HEALTH SERVICES

SEC. 355. General statement. The Public Health Service makes grants for (1) venereal disease control, (2) tuberculosis control, (3) general health purposes, (4) community mental health services, (5) heart disease control, (6) cancer control, and (7) research and studies relating to the control and prevention of water pollution caused by industrial wastes. These grants are made to designated State agencies (and, in the case of water pollution grants, interstate agencies) in 48 States, District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands in accordance with 42 CFR Parts 51, 52, 55.

SEC. 356. Allotments. The Surgeon General, in accordance with regulations, makes allotments to each State from the sums appropriated by Congress. States are notified of these allotments through the Regional Offices as soon as possible after appropriations become available.

SEC. 357. Approval of plans. State agencies submit to Regional Offices prior to the beginning of each fiscal year, State plans or (for water pollution control) applications for grants which indicate the purposes for which grant and matching funds will be spent. Authority to approve such State plans has, with few limitations, such as the Hospital Construction program, been delegated to Regional Medical Directors. The approval authority which has not been so delegated is vested in the Chief, Bureau of State Services.

SEC. 358. Payments from allotments. With exception of water pollution funds, quarterly payments are made upon request to those States which have approved plans and which have submitted all of the required reports.

SEC. 359. Forms and instructions. Necessary forms and instructions used in the grant-in-aid program are available from the Regional Offices.

SEC. 360. Consultant services. Consultants in a variety of public health specialties, administrative management, and merit system operations are available to States upon request made to the Regional Offices.

SEC. 361. Program review. A biennial review of State public health operations is made by personnel in or available to the Regional Offices. The purposes of this review are to determine that the State operations are in substantial conformity to the approved State plan, that the services performed are reasonably commensurate with the amount of funds expended, and to furnish the consultants a systematic basis for assisting States in the development of their programs. Results of the program review are sent to the State agency by the Regional Medical Director.

SEC. 362. Audits. Fiscal audits are made of the expenditures by the State of grant and matching funds to insure that funds were spent in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, and approved plans. These audits are made by personnel attached to the Regional Offices. The Regional Medical Director notifies the State agency of the results of the audit.

WATER POLLUTION CONTROL

SEC. 365. General statement. The Division of Water Pollution Control in the Bureau of State Services is responsible for carrying out the provisions of 42 CFR Part 55 having to do with control of pollution of the Nation's waters.

SEC. 366. Development of comprehensive programs. The Division of Water Pollution Control is preparing comprehensive programs for eliminating or reducing the pollution of interstate waters and their tributaries, and for improving the sanitary conditions of surface and underground waters for various water uses, including public water supplies, propagation of fish and aquatic life, recreational purposes, and agricultural, industrial and other legitimate uses. These programs are being developed by river basins and sub-basins, numbering approximately 260. The programs consist of the listing of pollution sources, determination of the most acceptable water uses, and recommendation of the remedial measures necessary to realize the uses. These programs are ever-changing, because of changes in industrial activity and in industrial processes and because of shifting population.

SEC. 367. Investigations, research and technical assistance. This division aids and supports technical research to devise and perfect methods of treatment of industrial wastes for which known methods of treatment are inadequate. These studies, and other technical assistance, surveys, investigations, research, or experiments relating to water pollution and its prevention and abatement conducted by the Public Health Service and cooperating agencies, are made available to States, interstate agencies, municipalities, industries and individuals. Upon request of any State water pollution agency or interstate agency, the Division of Water Pollution Control conducts investigations and research, and makes surveys concerning specific problems of water pollution confronting a State, interstate agency, community, municipality, or industrial plant. The division may, if necessary in discharging its legal obligations, initiate investigative studies of water pollution.

SEC. 368. Financial aid. The Public Health Service is authorized to make loans to State, municipal, or interstate agencies for the construction of necessary treatment works to prevent the discharge of untreated or inadequately treated sewage or other waste into interstate waters or into tributaries of such waters, and for the preparation of engineering reports, plans, and specifications for such treatment works. The Public Health Service is also authorized to make grants for action preliminary to the construction of such treatment works. These loans and grants are subject to provisions and limitations specified in 42 CFR Part 55, and when funds are available, will be administered by the Division of Water Pollution Control in cooperation with the Division of State Grants, Bureau of State Services. Grants are made to State and interstate agencies for studies relating to the treatment of industrial waste.

SEC. 369. Abatement of a public nuisance. The pollution of interstate waters, which endangers the health or welfare of persons in a State other than that in which the pollution originates, is declared to be a public nuisance and is subject to abatement, section 2 (d) of the Water Pollution Control Act (sec. 2, 62 Stat. 1155; 33 U. S. C. 466a). The Division of Water Pollution Control is responsible for discharging the provisions of the Water Pollution Control Act in respect to public nuisances of this kind.

Dated: May 21, 1951.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 50–39]

NEW ENGLAND ELECTRICAL SYSTEM

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER GRANTING EXEMPTION FROM COMPETITIVE BIDDING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 5th day of June A. D. 1951.

New England Electric System ("NEES"), a registered holding company, has undertaken a program to dispose of all of its gas properties and, on March 19, 1951, applied for an exemption from the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50 under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 with respect to the sale of its interest in its Massachusetts gas properties. Prior to making formal application for the exemption but with our informal permission the management discussed with various interested parties the possibility of sale.

In its application NEES states that the prospective purchasers of the gas properties not only represented diversified interests but also exhibited a divergence of views with respect to the form of the sale. Some indicated that such sale should be in the form of a sale of assets while others preferred a sale of the portfolio securities held by NEES. In addition, some of the purchasers were interested in acquiring only certain individual or specific properties while others were interested in all or substantially all of the gas properties. According to NEES, further complications became apparent. Where a sale of portfolio securities was suggested by the prospective purchasers, some, but not all, of this group suggested that, in advance of any such sale, NEES should take the preliminary step of organizing separate gas companies to acquire the gas properties of the combination gas and electric companies ,and some of this group further suggested that NEES organize a subholding company to hold the securities of the gas operating subsidiary companies. There is a further divergence of views among some of the prospective purchasers with respect to the details of any proposed sale of the gas properties.

For example, NEES indicates that questions were raised regarding the extent to which it would furnish executive and advisory personnel and the extent to which present joint facilities would be included in the transfer of the gas properties. For these reasons NEES came to the conclusion that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to formulate bidding specifications satisfactory to all of the interested persons and that competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50 was not practicable.

NEES states in its application that in the event we grant its request for an exemption from the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50 under the act, it will invite all interested persons to submit proposals to purchase the gas properties, such proposals to specify the details of the proposed transaction including, among other specifications, the properties to be purchased and the price to be paid therefor, subject only to such adjustments as are specified. NEES will reserve the right to reject any and all proposals. NEES further states that if any proposal is accepted, it, and such of its subsidiary companies as may be appropriate, will file a declaration seeking our approval of the sale of its gas properties.

While it is intended that the invitation for the submission of proposals will in some respects prescribe certain of the terms and conditions, it is the intention of NEES to permit prospective purchasers considerable latitude of discretion with respect to most of the details. The exact procedure to be followed by prospective purchasers and the documents to be used for the purpose of eliciting proposals have not been definitively determined by NEES or submitted to us. However, in accordance with the application of NEES, such documents will be submitted to us prior to their dissemination to interested persons.

As we have often said in dealing with requests for exemption from the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50, our decision in any particular case must depend upon the relevant factors in that case. We appreciate the problems facing NEES in formulating bidding specifications and have concluded that we will grant NEES' application for an exemption from the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50.

However, an exemption from competitive bidding does not provide relief from the statutory requirement that competitive conditions be maintained. In this connection we note that we cannot at this time consider the adequacy of the mechanics to be followed nor will we attempt to do so until we have before us a complete record of what has been done. When the facts are known, then and only then, will we be in a position to determine whether competitive conditions and other statutory requirements have been satisfied.

One of the persuasive reasons prompting us to grant this request for an exemption, as well as one of the most obvious difficulties which will face NEES, is that the proposals of the prospective purchasers will not be made on a comparable basis. In addition, it appears that even if NEES finds that, as a practical matter, it could accept one of the proposals, the transactions proposed therein may not be feasible in the light of regulatory standards as applied to that particular prospective purchaser. Thus, in this connection, the management of NEES will have to take into consideration as an element in its own decision the fact that the acquisition of the gas properties may also be subject to regulatory approval.

Subject to the further proceedings which will necessarily ensue, when and if a specific transaction is proposed:

It is hereby ordered, That said application of NEES for an exemption from the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50 under the act with respect to the sale of its interest in the gas properties in Massachusetts be, and the same hereby is, granted, subject to the terms and conditions set forth in Rule U-24 under the act.

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C. on the 5th day of June 1951.

General Public Utilities Corporation ("GPU"), a registered holding company, having filed an application-declaration, with amendments thereto, pursuant to the provisions of sections 6 (a), 7 and 12 (c) of the act and Rules U-42 and U-50 thereunder, with respect to the following proposed transactions:

GPU proposes to issue 504,657 additional shares of its authorized and unissued common stock, par value $5 per share. It proposes to issue to the holders of its outstanding common stock transferable subscription warrants carrying the right to subscribe for shares of such additional common stock on the basis of one share for each fifteen shares of common stock held of record. The duration of the offer, which will be from 15 to 25 days, the record date, and the subscription price are to be supplied by GPU by later amendment.

No fractional shares of GPU's common stock will be issued; however, up to a specified date to be set by amendment, the initial stockholders of record may sell their rights, whether representing a fractional share or otherwise, to GPU and GPU will pay to such initial record holders for such rights the higher of (a) a fixed price to be set by GPU by subsequent amendment, or (b) a price reflecting the excess, if any, of the market price of GPU common stock on the New York Stock Exchange over the subscription price.

The offering will not be underwritten nor will GPU enter into any dealer-manager arrangement. GPU does propose, however, to utilize the services of security dealers in soliciting the exercise of the warrants and GPU will pay such dealers for such services a fee, the amount of which is to be supplied by amendment.

GPU further proposes to dispose of the additional common stock covered by rights purchased by GPU or by rights not exercised by the holders thereof by selling such stock either through the participating security dealers or through others. The price at which such additional common stock is to be acquired and sold by the participating security dealers or others will be determined by GPU on the day of such acquisition. Such price will not be in excess of the sum of the closing quoted asked price of the stock on the preceding business day and an amount to be specified by GPU by amendment, and such price will not be less than the subscription price or the closing quoted bid price for the stock on such preceding business day. The participating security dealers or others who acquire such additional common stock will be paid a fee by GPU, the amount of which will be supplied by amendment.

GPU also requests permission to acquire, during the subscription period, GPU common stock and rights for the purpose of stabilizing their market prices. In connection with such stabilization program, GPU will not acquire a net long position in excess of 50,466 shares of common stock including for this purpose the equivalent shares represented by rights so acquired. The common stock purchased by GPU for stabilizing purposes may be disposed of by GPU during the subscription period by selling such stock on the New York Stock Exchange at the then prevailing market price, or through the participating security dealers or others in the manner specified in the next preceding paragraph.

The net proceeds of the issuance will be used by GPU to repay bank notes in the principal amount of $3,500,000, to make additional investments in the common stock of GPU's domestic subsidiaries, and for other general corporate purposes.

To the extent that the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50 under the act are applicable to the sale of additional common stock to participating dealers or others and to the sale of common stock purchased by GPU for stabilization purposes, GPU requests an exemption from that rule.

The application-declaration, as amended, further states that the expenses of GPU in connection with the issuance and sale are estimated at no more than $188,000.

Appropriate notice of said filing having been given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to said act, and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect to said application-declaration within the period specified, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to said application-declaration, as amended, that the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and rules thereunder are satisfied, that no adverse findings are necessary thereunder, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interests of investors and consumers that the said application-declaration, as amended, be granted and permitted to become effective:

It is ordered, Pursuant to said Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of said act, that said application-declaration, as amended, be and the same hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 and to the following additional terms and conditions:

(1) That the proposed issuance and sale by GPU of 504,637 additional shares of its common stock, par value $5 per share, shall not be consummated until a further amendment is filed herein setting forth (a) the subscription price at which the rights to subscribe for the additional common stock of GPU may be exercised; (b) the duration of the subscription period; (c) the price to be paid to record holders who sell such rights to GPU and the duration of the period during which GPU will purchase such rights; (d) the fixed amount per share which is to be added to the closing quoted asked price of the GPU common stock on the preceding business day in order to determine the upper price limit at which the additional common stock not taken up by subscription and the common stock acquired by GPU for stabilization purposes may be acquired and sold by the participating security dealers or others; and (e) the compensation to be paid for soliciting the exercise of subscription warrants, for acquiring shares of additional common stock not taken up by subscription, and for purchasing shares acquired for stabilization purposes; and a further order shall have been entered by this Commission in the light of the record so completed, which order shall contain such further terms and conditions, if any, as may then be deemed appropriate, for which purpose jurisdiction be, and the same hereby is, reserved; and

(2) That jurisdiction be reserved with respect to any and all fees and expenses incurred or to be incurred in connection with the consummation of the proposed transactions.

It is further ordered, That the request for an exemption from the provisions of Rule U-50 to the extent such rule is applicable to the proposed transactions be, and the same hereby is, granted.

By the Commission.

[File No. 70-2643]

ELECTRIC BOND & SHARE CO.

NOTICE OF FILING WITH RESPECT TO ACQUISITION OF STOCK OF UNITED GAS CORP. PURSUANT TO RIGHTS OFFERING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 7th day of June A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that Electric Bond and Share Company ("Bond and Share"), a registered holding company, has filed an application-declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, with respect to the transactions summarized below. Said application-declaration does not admit the necessity for the filing herein but requests approval of the transactions under section 12 (f) of the act or of such other sections as the Commission may deem applicable.

Bond and Share presently has 2,870,653 (26.95%) of the common stock of United Gas Corporation ("United"), presently held by Bond and Share pursuant to its application to acquire such shares in connection with the reorganization of United's former parent, Electric Power and Light Corporation ("Electric"). In that application, Bond and Share stated that it would "sell, distribute or otherwise dispose of, in such manner as the Commission may permit, all of the common stock of • • • United received by it under the Electric Plan not later than one year (unless such period is extended by the Commission) after the receipt of same by Bond and Share: Provided, however, That Bond and Share may, not later than 60 days after entry of an order of the Commission approving the Electric Plan, institute appropriate proceedings before the Commission for relief from its commitment to dispose of such common stock of United and for determination of its rights under the act to hold such common stock of United."

Subsequently, Bond and Share filed an application with the Commission proposing that it be an exempt holding company holding the stock of United, the securities of American & Foreign Power Company, Inc., Ebasco Services, Incorporated, and cash available for investment. That application is presently pending before the Commission, and hearings have been completed and the Commission now has under advisement that application in so far as it relates to the question of whether Bond and Share may be relieved from its commitment to dispose of the common stock of United.

United has filed a separate application setting forth an over-all program for financing its construction program (File No. 70-2637) which includes the issuance and sale, pursuant to a rights offering, of 1,065,330 shares of its $10 par value common stock. Bond and Share proposes to acquire for cash, from funds on hand, its proportionate interest pursuant to the rights offering, namely, 287,065 shares, and states that it may exercise the over-subscription privilege, if available, to the extent of an additional 287,065 shares of the United common stock.

The application-declaration states that in the event Bond and Share may not retain its present holdings of United (after exhaustion of all available appellate processes) it will dispose of any stock of United acquired under the application herein within the period within which it must dispose of the United stock presently held.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than June 18, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by said application-declaration proposed to be controverted, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time thereafter, said application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted or permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof. All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration, which is on file in the office of this Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed.

By the Commission.

Chapter IV—Production and Marketing Administration and Commodity Credit Corporation, Department of Agriculture

Subchapter C—Loans, Purchases, and Other Operations

[1951 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Amdt. 1 to Supp. 1, Wheat]

PART 601—GRAINS AND RELATED COMMODITIES

SUBPART—1951-CROP WHEAT LOAN AND PURCHASE AGREEMENT PROGRAM

The regulation issued by Commodity Credit Corporation and the Production and Marketing Administration published in 16 F. R. 2777, and containing the specific requirements for the 1951-crop wheat price support program is hereby amended as follows:

Section 601.1218 Determination of support rates is amended by changing the requirements in paragraph (a) Support rates at designated terminal markets for wheat shipped by rail or water, or received by truck and stored at certain designated port terminal markets when neither registered freight bills nor such freight certificates are presented to guarantee outbound movement at the minimum proportional domestic interstate freight rate, so that the paragraph (a) reads as follows:

(a) Support rates at designated terminal markets. (1) Wheat eligible for loan or purchase at the support rate established for designated terminal markets must have been shipped on a domestic interstate freight rate basis. On any wheat shipped at other than the domestic interstate freight rate, the support rate at the designated terminal market shall be reduced by the difference between the freight paid (plus tax) and the domestic interstate freight rate (plus tax).

The support rates established for designated terminal markets apply to wheat which has been shipped by rail or water from a country shipping point to one of the designated terminal markets, as evidenced by paid freight bills duly registered for transit privileges: Provided, That in the event the amount of paid-in freight is insufficient to guarantee the minimum proportional domestic interstate freight rate from the terminal market, there shall be deducted from the applicable terminal support rate the difference between the amount of freight actually paid in and the amount required to be paid in to guarantee outbound movement at the minimum proportional domestic interstate freight rate.

(2) When shipped by rail or water and stored at any designated terminal market, except the terminal markets listed in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, wheat for which neither registered freight bills nor such freight certificates are presented to guarantee outbound movement at the minimum proportional domestic interstate freight rate, shall have a support rate equal to the terminal rate minus 8 cents per bushel.

For wheat received by truck and stored at any designated terminal market, except the terminal markets listed in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, the support rate shall be determined by making a deduction from the terminal rate as follows:

Terminal located in—	Amount of deduction (cents per bushel)
Area I: Arizona, California, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, Utah	12
Area II: Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Wyoming, Wisconsin	13
Area III, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia	14
Area IV: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas	14

(3) When shipped by rail or water and stored at any of the following terminal markets Galveston, Houston, Texas; Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, California; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Portland, Astoria, Oregon; Seattle, Longview, Tacoma, Vancouver, Washington; Baltimore, Maryland; New Orleans, Louisiana; Norfolk, Virginia; wheat for which neither registered freight bills nor such freight certificates are presented to guarantee outbound movement at the minimum proportional domestic interstate freight rate, shall have a support rate equal to the applicable terminal rate.

For wheat received by truck and stored at any of the above terminal markets, the support rate shall be determined by making a deduction from the terminal rate as follows:

Terminal	Amount of deduction (cents per bushel)
Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland, California; Portland and Astoria, Oregon; Seattle, Longview, Tacoma and Vancouver, Washington	4½
New Orleans, Louisiana; Baltimore, Maryland; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Galveston and Houston, Texas; Norfolk, Virginia	6

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Orange Reg. 372, Amdt. 1]

PART 966—ORANGES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA OR IN ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the provisions of Order No. 66 (7 CFR Part 966) regulating the handling of oranges grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the size of such oranges which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this regulation must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. Shipments of oranges, grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, are currently subject to regulation by size pursuant to said amended order; the recommendation as to the need for changing the level of such size regulation not later than June 17, 1951, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act was made at the meeting of the said committee on June 7, 1951, after consideration of all available information relative to the supply and demand conditions for such oranges, and such recommendation and supporting information was promptly submitted to the Department; the said meeting of the committee was held after giving due notice thereof to consider recommendations for regulation, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this amendment to Regulation 372, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such oranges; and compliance with this amendment will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

It is, therefore ordered as follows:

The provisions in paragraph (b) (2) of § 966.518 (Orange Regulation 372) (16 F. R. 4678) shall, during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., June 17, 1951, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., January 1, 1952, read as follows:

(2) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., June 17, 1951, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., January 1, 1952, standard size 288 is fixed as the minimum size of Valencia oranges, grown in Prorate Districts 1, 2, 3 and 4 which may be handled.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup., 608c)

Done at Washington, D. C. this 11th day of June 1951.

[SEAL] M. W. BAKER,
Acting Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration.

[Dept. Reg. 108.128]

PART 42—VISAS: DOCUMENTATION OF ALIENS ENTERING THE UNITED STATES

WAIVER OF DOCUMENTARY REQUIREMENTS

The following amendment to Part 42, Chapter I, Title 22, Code of Federal Regulations, is hereby prescribed:

Paragraph (bb) of § 42.107, Nonimmigrants not required to present passports or visas, is amended to read as follows:

(bb) An alien who is a Canadian citizen, or who is a British subject domiciled, permanently residing, or stationed in Canada, who proceeds directly from the United States or Canada to Cuba, the Bahama Islands, Bermuda, or Jamaica, who remains less than thirty days in each of such islands visited, and who seeks to enter the United States temporarily before returning to Canada: Provided, That the period for which such citizen or subject may be admitted into the United States shall not exceed the period of admission prescribed by paragraph (w) and paragraph (q), respectively, of this section.

This order shall become effective upon the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003) relative to notice of proposed rule making and delayed effective date are inapplicable to this order because the regulation contained therein involves foreign-affairs functions of the United States.

DEAN ACHESON,
Secretary of State.

Dated: June 6, 1951.

Recommended, so far as the provisions of the Immigration Act of 1924 and the Alien Registration Act, 1940, are concerned.

Acting Attorney General.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter V—Department of the Army

Subchapter G—Procurement

ARMY PROCUREMENT PROCEDURE; MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

The following amendments to Subchapter G are issued.

PART 590—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Part 590 is amended as indicated below:

1. Section 590.705-3 is rescinded and the following substituted therefor:

§ 590.705-3 Use of Form 383 as a delivery order—(a) Open end contracts. Form 383 is authorized for use in making purchases under all "open end" or "term" contracts which provide that deliveries will be made upon call of Contracting Officers, where the aggregate amount of the delivery order does not exceed $1,000.

(b) Reference to basic purchase agreement. Proper reference will be made to the basic purchase agreement against which the purchase is made in the space provided.

(c) Consolidation of deliveries into one monthly delivery order. (1) One delivery order may be accomplished at the end of the month or more often if necessary to cover previous deliveries against "open end" or "term" contracts under the following conditions:

(i) When, in the judgment of the Contracting Officer, such action is more practical and economical than the making of separate delivery orders.

(ii) When the local Contracting Officer who issues the delivery order has made satisfactory arrangements with the vendor or his authorized representative.

Since the accumulation and consolidation of deliveries into one delivery order at the end of the month may result in a delayed payment, such action must be agreeable to the vendor.

(2) When such practice is to be followed, each delivery of supplies or services will be supported by a signed delivery ticket prepared in triplicate by the vendor. The following information will be shown on the delivery ticket:

(i) Name of contractor.

(ii) Contract number.

(iii) Nomenclature of supplies or services including stock number, part number, etc., as necessary for proper identification.

(iv) Quantity of supplies or services.

In the event that the vendor does not furnish a delivery ticket, the individual who receives the supplies will prepare a receiving report (DD Form 227) showing the essential information thereon.

(3) The quantity listed on the delivery ticket will be verified, exceptions noted, and the three copies of the ticket will be dated and signed by the individual who is authorized to receive the items. Copies will be distributed as follows: Original to the accountable property officer, one copy to the Contracting Officer, and one copy to the vendor.

(4) The accountable property officer will voucher and post to the stock record account each delivery ticket covering supplies received. A basic voucher number will be assigned to each vendor and as deliveries are received during the current month the individual delivery ticket will be subvouchered against the basic voucher number established for the vendor concerned.

(5) The signed copy of the delivery tickets will be the basis for consolidating the deliveries and preparing one delivery order at the end of the month by the Contracting Officer. The vendor will be instructed to submit one invoice (4 copies) for the period concerned.

(6) The accomplishment and processing of DA Form 383 will be as prescribed in this subpart.

2. Section 590.809 (d) is amended by rescinding subparagraph (4) thereof.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 42, Amendment 1]

CPR 42—CEILING PRICES FOR CERTAIN CANNED VEGETABLES OF 1951 SPRING PACK

PRICING OF ADDITIONAL VEGETABLES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.) Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738) this Amendment 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 42 (16 F. R. 5112), is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment adds canned broccoli, brussels sprouts, new potatoes, fresh field peas, and rhubarb, to Ceiling Price Regulation 42, thus completing the list of canned vegetables which will be priced under the 1951 spring pack vegetable regulation. These vegetables were not included in CPR 42 at the time of its issuance as additional pricing information was needed.

The same considerations for the issuance of CPR 42 are applicable to the canned vegetables added to the regulation by this amendment and the statement of considerations accompanying CPR 42 is accordingly incorporated herein by reference.

As in the case of vegetables covered by the original CPR 42, permitted cost increases for raw materials are limited to actual cost increases, but in no event may these increases exceed 20 percent of each canner's 1950 weighted average raw material cost for the particular vegetable, except in the case of potatoes. For potatoes, the permitted increase may not exceed 75 percent of each canner's 1950 weighted average raw material cost of potatoes for canning.

No parity prices have been determined by the Secretary of Agriculture for the vegetables subject to this amendment except potatoes, for which parity has been determined only for all uses of potatoes. The permitted percentage increase of 20 percent for all vegetables except potatoes under this amendment is based upon changes during the past year in grower prices, prices received for all farm products, and upon the percentage increase of parity as of March 15, 1951, over 1950 prices for the eleven vegetables for which the Secretary of Agriculture has determined a parity price. The 75 percent percentage increase for potatoes for canning is the amount of the increase of the May 15, 1951 parity price for potatoes for all uses over the 1950 seasonal average price.

These increases also take into account the fact that these vegetables, when sold for fresh use, are exempt from price control under the General Ceiling Price Regulation. The permitted increases for raw materials under this regulation are therefore designed to maintain the price relationships of these vegetables with other vegetables and for other uses and to satisfy any applicable requirements of section 402 (d) (3) of the Defense Production Act.

In issuing this amendment the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted with the industry represented and has given consideration to its recommendations. The Director finds that in his judgment the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 42 is hereby amended in the following respects:

1. In Section 1 (a) the following canned vegetables processed in the following areas are added:

[General Overriding Regulation 10—Amendment 2]

GOR 10—ADJUSTMENTS OF CEILING PRICES FOR MANUFACTURERS

EXTENDING GEOGRAPHICAL APPLICATION OF GOR 10 TO INCLUDE TERRITORIES AND POSSESSIONS OF UNITED STATES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Public Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment to General Overriding Regulation 10 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 10 extends to the manufacturer in the territories and possessions of the United States the same permission to request an upward adjustment of ceiling prices in the event he is being forced to operate his business at a loss, as has already been granted manufacturers in the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

Ceiling prices, although generally fair and equitable to the group which they cover, sometimes work hardships on individual members of the group. GOR-10 is intended to remedy this situation by providing for individual adjustments where a manufacturer shows that he is operating at a loss, and that the loss is due to the ceiling price, and not to some other factor. It is essential for the healthy economy of the territories and possessions that the manufacturers in the territories and possessions have the same recourse to request increases under the same condition as would manufacturers in the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

General Overriding Regulation 10 is amended so that section 8 reads as follows:

SEC. 8. Geographical applicability. The provisions of this regulation are applicable to the United States, its territories and possessions, and the District of Columbia.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment is effective June 13, 1951.

Acting Director of Price Stabilization.

[41 CFR, Part 202]

PAPER AND PULP INDUSTRY: PREVAILING MINIMUM WAGE

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED AMENDMENT

The Secretary of Labor, in an amended minimum wage determination issued pursuant to the provisions of the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (act of June 30, 1936, 49 Stat. 2036, 41 U. S. C. 35–45) and effective January 25, 1950 (15 F. R. 382), determined that the minimum wage for persons employed in the performance of contracts with agencies of the United States Government subject to the act for the manufacture or furnishing of the products of the Paper and Pulp Industry shall be not less than 75 cents per hour. This amended determination was based upon information indicating that substantially all employees in the Paper and Pulp Industry are engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce, as defined in the Fair Labor Standards Act, and that as a consequence the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949 require payment of a wage rate of not less than 75 cents per hour to substantially all employees in the Industry. This amended determination also provided that learners might be employed at subminimum rates in accordance with regulations of the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor under section 14 of the Fair Labor Standards Act (29 CFR Part 522).

A wage survey of selected paper and pulp establishments made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics as of May 1950 indicates that the 75-cent rate now in effect may not reflect the prevailing minimum wages in the Industry; and it is proposed, therefore, to hold a hearing for the purpose of consideration by the Secretary of Labor of an amendment of the current determination.

The Paper and Pulp Industry, as defined in the current determination, is that Industry engaged in the manufacture of furnishing of pulp and other fiber and in the primary conversion of pulp and other fiber into paper and paperboard, and in the manufacture and conversion of primary paper into toilet paper and paper towels, coated book paper and paper shipping sacks.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given: that a public hearing will be held on July 11, 1951 at 10:00 a. m., in Room 1214 of the Department of Labor, Constitution Avenue and Fourteenth Street NW., Washington, D. C., before the Administrator of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions or a representative designated to preside in his place, at which hearing all interested persons may appear and submit data, views and arguments: (1) As to what are the prevailing minimum wages in the Paper and Pulp Industry; (2) as to whether there should be included in any amended determination for this Industry provision for employment of learners, beginners (or probationary workers), or apprentices at subminimum rates, and if so, in what occupations, at what subminimum rates, and with what limitations, if any, as to length of period and number or proportion of such subminimum rate employees; and (3) as to whether the definition of the Industry should be amended to read as follows:

The Paper and Pulp Industry is defined as that Industry which manufactures or furnishes any of the following products: Pulp from wood or from other materials such as rags, linters, waste paper and straw; paper from wood pulp and other fibers; paperboard from wood pulp and other fibers; building paper and building board except gypsum products; paper bags; and sanitary paper such as facial tissues, toilet paper, paper napkins and paper towels.

Persons intending to appear are requested to notify the Administrator of their intention in advance of the hearing. Written statements in lieu of personal appearance may be filed by mail at any time prior to the date of the hearing, or may be filed with the presiding officer at the hearing. An original and four copies of any such statement should be filed.

Tabulations of wage data released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics as of January 15, 1951, as well as other tabulations prepared by that Bureau at the request of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, will be made available to interested persons upon request to the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, United States Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. Interested persons are invited to submit wage data, including data as to changes which have taken place in the wage structure of the Industry since the time of the survey.

In the discretion of the presiding officer, a period not to exceed 30 days may be allowed for the filing of comment on the evidence and statements introduced into the record of the hearing. If such supplemental statements are received an original and four copies of each should be filed.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of June 1951.

WM. R. MCCOMB, Administrator, Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

[Docket No. 9991]

STANDARD BROADCAST STATIONS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of Part 3, Subpart A, of the Commission's rules and regulations and Part 1 of the Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations to eliminate provisions relating to the assignment of Class IV stations to regional channels.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. It is proposed to amend Subpart A of Part 3 of the Commission's rules and regulations by deleting § 3.29 and Part 1 of the Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations by eliminating from the seventh paragraph thereof, appearing at the top of the second column on page 2, the provisions relating to the assignment of Class IV stations to regional channels. Paragraph 7, as amended, will read as follows:

Class IV stations operate on local channels, normally rendering primary service only to a city or town and the suburban and rural areas contiguous thereto with powers not less than 0.1 kw or more than 0.25 kw. These stations are normally protected to 500 uv/m groundwave contour daytime. On local channels the separation required for the daytime protection shall also determine the nighttime separation. The actual nighttime limitation will be calculated.[3a] Class IV stations authorized to operate on regional channels prior to (effective date of amendment if adopted) will not be required to change frequency or increase power but will not be protected against interference from Class III stations.

[No change in footnote 3a.]

It is also proposed to amend Table IV of Part 1 of the Standards by deleting therefrom footnote 6 which reads as follows: "Class IV stations may also be assigned to regional channels according to § 3.29."

3. The assignment of stations with powers of less than 500 watts to regional channels is inconsistent with the Commission's basic allocation plan for the standard broadcast band and tends to result in an inefficient utilization of available frequencies. At the present time the Commission's rules and standards provide for such assignments under certain limitations which are intended to insure the full utilization of regional channels. The Commission's experience indicates that these limitations do not effectively achieve their intended purpose. Moreover, the present rules and Standards provide that Class IV stations assigned to regional channels shall not be protected from interference from Class III stations. Thus, they permit the establishment of stations whose service is of marginal quality at best and subject at any time to further degradation. The Commission is, therefore, of the opinion that the assignment of Class IV stations to regional channels under any circumstances should be discontinued.

4. Authority for the proposed amendments is contained in sections 303 (a) (b), (c), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

5. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the proposed amendments should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth, may file with the Commission, on or before July 16, 1951, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. At the same time persons favoring the amendments as proposed may file statements in support thereof. Answers to comments may be filed within 30 days of the last day for the filing of comments. The Commission will consider all comments that are received before taking final action in the matter, and if any comments appear to warrant the Commission in holding an oral argument before final action is taken, notice of the time and place of such oral argument will be given interested parties.

6. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, comments, or answers thereto shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: June 7, 1951.

Released: June 8, 1951.

ORDER PERMITTING SUBMISSION OF PRINCIPAL AMOUNT FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS TO COMPETITIVE BIDDING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C. on the 7th day of June 1951.

Missouri Power & Light Company ("Missouri Power"), a public utility subsidiary of Union Electric Company of Missouri and the North American Company, both registered holding companies, has filed with the Commission an application and amendment thereto, pursuant to section 6 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and Rules U-20, U-23, U-24, and U-50 of the general rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, regarding the following proposed transactions:

Missouri Power proposes to issue and sell, at competitive bidding pursuant to the provisions of Rule U-50, $4,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds, __ percent series due 1981 ("new bonds").

The invitation for bids provides that each bid shall specify the coupon rate for the new bonds, which shall be a multiple of ⅛ of 1 percent, and the price to be paid the company, exclusive of accrued interest, which price shall be not less than 100 percent nor more than 102.75 percent of the principal amount of said bonds, plus secured interest from June 1, 1951.

The new bonds will be issued under and secured by a Mortgage and Deed of Trust between the applicant and Harris Trust and Savings Bank and Clark Cox, as Trustees, dated July 1, 1946, as last supplemented on November 1, 1949, and to be further supplemented by a Third Supplemental Indenture, dated June 1, 1951.

Said application having been filed on May 17, 1951, and notice of filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23, promulgated pursuant to the act, and the Commission not having received a request for a hearing with respect to said application within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

It appearing to the Commission that the proposed issuance and sale of the new bonds have been expressly authorized by the Missouri Public Service Commission, the State Commission of the State in which the company is organized and doing business; and

The Commission finding that said application, as amended, satisfied the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder and that it is not necessary to impose any terms or conditions other than those set forth below, and the Commission deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application, as amended, be granted, effective forthwith:

INCOME FOUNDATION FUND, INC., AND AXE SECURITIES CORP.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION; STATEMENT OF ISSUES; ORDER FOR HEARING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 8th day of June A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that Income Foundation Fund, Incorporated (hereinafter sometimes referred to as "Fund"), a registered investment company and Axe Securities Corporation (hereinafter sometimes referred to as "Axe Securities") the prospective principal underwriter for the Fund (the Fund and Axe Securities Corporation being hereinafter sometimes referred to as "Applicants") have filed an application pursuant to section 6 (c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 for an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of section 22 (d) of the act, the proposed offering of shares of the Fund to charitable and religious organizations, hospitals, colleges and other eleemosynary institutions including non-profit organizations such as pension funds, on the basis of one-half of the regular sales load set forth in the Fund's prospectus.

The application states that the Fund is registered under the Act as an open-end diversified investment company of the management type and issues redeemable securities. Axe Securities Corporation is the principal underwriter and general distributor of the shares of the Fund. The regular public offering price of the shares of the Fund is equal to their net asset value per share plus a sales load. Quantity discounts are presently available to purchasers with respect to individual purchases of $25,000 or more of the Fund's shares upon the following schedule:

Less than $25,000	8½
Not less than $25,000	6
Not less than $50,000	4
Not less than $100,000, but less than $250,000	2
Not less than $250,000, but less than $500,000	1
$500,000 or more	½

Such scale of quantity discounts is set forth in the Fund's prospectus. As set forth in the application, the Fund proposes to offer its shares to charitable and religious organizations, hospitals, colleges and other eleemosynary institutions including non-profit organizations such as pension funds, at prices which include sales loads equal to one-half (½) of those set forth in the schedule above.

The application further states that, "as it is a customary practice in many businesses and other lines of endeavor to grant concessions to such organizations as set forth above because of their being operated for their respective charitable, religious, educational, public health and other non-profit purposes, it is therefore the desire of the applicants to give such organizations a similar concession by permitting them to purchase shares of this Fund on the basis of one-half of their regular sales load."

The Applicants assert that the order of exemption herein requested is appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy provisions of the Act.

All interested parties are referred to said application, which is on file in the offices of the Commission, for a more detailed statement of the proposed transactions and the matters of fact and law asserted.

Section 22 (d) of the act, with certain exceptions not pertinent here, prohibits registered investment companies from selling their redeemable securities to any person other than a dealer or principal underwriter at prices less than that at which the security is offered to the public. The offering of shares of the Fund through the underwriter to charitable and religious organizations, hospitals, colleges and other eleemosynary institutions at one-half of the regular sales load set forth in the prospectus would appear to be unlawful in the absence of an order by the Commission granting an exemption to the applicants from the provisions of section 22 (d) of the Investment Company Act.

Section 6 (c) of the act provides that the Commission may by rules and regulations upon its own motion or by order upon application, conditionally or unconditionally, exempt any person, security or transaction or any class or classes of persons, securities, or transactions from the provisions of the act or any rule or regulation thereunder, if and to the extent that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the act.

The Division of Corporation Finance has advised the Commission that upon a preliminary examination of the application it deems the following issues to be raised thereby without prejudice to the specification of additional issues upon further examination: (1) Whether the practice alleged by the Applicants to be customary in many businesses and other lines of endeavor "to grant concessions" to organizations of the above described character is unfair, discriminatory, and inconsistent with the policy of the Act particularly in the light of the provisions of sections 1 (b) (2) and 22 (d) thereof; and (2) whether an order of exemption permitting discrimination in public offering price of the Fund's shares when purchased by organizations of the above described character is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the act.

It is ordered, Pursuant to section 40 (a) of said act, that a public hearing on the aforesaid application be held on July 2, 1951 at 10:00 a. m., e. d. s. t., Room 198 in the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street, NW., Washington, D. C.

It is further ordered, That Richard Townsend, or any officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose shall preside at the hearing and any officer or officers so designated to preside at any such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all of the powers granted to the Commission under sections 41 and 42 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 and to hearing officers under the Commission's rules of practice.

Notice of such hearing is hereby given to the above-named Applicants, Income Foundation Fund, Incorporated and Axe Securities Corporation, and to any other person or persons whose participation in such proceedings may be in the public interest or for the protection of investors. Any person desiring to be heard or otherwise desiring to participate in said proceeding should file with the Secretary of the Commission, on or before June 29, 1951 his application therefor as provided by Rule XVII of the rules of practice of the Commission, setting forth therein any issues of law or fact which he desires to controvert and any additional issues he deems raised by the aforesaid application.

By the Commission.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter I—Production and Marketing Administration (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices), Department of Agriculture

PART 51—FRUITS, VEGETABLES, AND OTHER PRODUCTS (INSPECTION, CERTIFICATION, AND STANDARDS

SUBPART B—UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR FRESH FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND OTHER PRODUCTS

UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR PECANS IN THE SHELL

On April 21, 1951, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F. R. Doc. 51-4656; 16 F. R. 3485) regarding proposed United States Standards for Pecans in the Shell to supersede the United States Standards for Unshelled Pecans (14 F. R. 2543, 2608) currently in effect. After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, the following United States Standards for Pecans in the Shell are hereby promulgated under the authority contained in the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759., 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950).

§ 51.342 Standards for pecans in the shell—(a) General. The pecan grading chart [1] to which reference is made in paragraph (f) of this section is the pecan grading chart which was issued in 1942 by the United States Department of Agriculture.

(b) Grades—(1) U. S. No. 1. U. S. No. 1 consists of pecans in the shell which shells are fairly uniform in color, fairly well shaped and which are free from damage caused by stains or adhering hulls, split or broken shells, loose hulls or other foreign material or other means. The kernels shall be well cured, free from rancidity, mold, decay, insect injury, and from damage caused by shriveling, leanness, hollowness, discoloration, or other means. (See paragraph (d) of this section.)

(i) In order to allow for variations incident to proper grading and handling, the following tolerances shall be permitted:

(a) For external defects not more than 10 percent, by count, for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That not more than three-tenths of this amount, or 3 percent, shall be allowed for pecans which are seriously damaged by stains or adhering hulls, or by split, broken or punctured shells.

(b) For internal defects (defects of the kernel) not more than 15 percent, by count, for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That not more than two-fifths of this amount, or 6 percent, shall be allowed for kernels which are not well cured, rancid, moldy, decayed, injured by insects, or seriously damaged by shriveling, leanness, discoloration or other means.

(2) U. S. Commercial. U. S. Commercial consists of pecans in the shell which shells are free from serious damage caused by stains or adhering hulls, split, broken or punctured shells, loose hulls or other foreign material or other means. At least 65 percent, by count, of the pecans in any lot shall have kernels which meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade; and the remainder shall have kernels which are well cured, free from rancidity, mold, decay, insect injury, and from serious damage caused by shriveling, leanness, discoloration or other means. (See paragraph (d) of this section.)

(i) In order to allow for variations incident to proper grading and handling, the following tolerances shall be permitted:

(a) For external defects not more than 10 percent, by count, for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade.

(b) For internal defects (defects of the kernel) not more than 15 percent, by count, for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That not more than two-thirds of this amount, or 10 percent, shall be allowed for kernels which are very seriously damaged. No part of any tolerance shall be allowed to reduce for the lot the percentage of U. S. No. 1 kernels required in this grade.

(c) Unclassified. Unclassified consists of pecans in the shell which have not been classified in accordance with either of the foregoing grades. The term "unclassified" is not a grade within the meaning of these standards but is provided as a designation to show that no definite grade has been applied to the lot.

(d) Size. The size of pecans may be designated on the basis of the following table:

Size designation	Number of nuts per pound	The 10 smallest nuts in a representative 1-pound sample must weigh at least[1]
		Ounces	Equivalent in grams
Oversize	Not more than 52	2.50	71
Extra large	Not more than 60	2.25	64
Large	61 to 73	1.75	50
Medium	74 to 90	1.50	43
Small	91 to 115	1.25	36

[1] When the sample for inspection consists of more than 100 nuts, the 10 percent, by count, which are smallest will be segregated and weighed. For example, if the sample consists of 300 nuts, as will generally be the case when a carload is being inspected, the 30 smallest nuts must weigh at least three times the amount shown for any size designation. In selecting the smallest nuts, those which are by observation the smallest in appearance are segregated. In deciding which is the smallest among two or more nuts which appear to be about equal in size, the lightest in weight shall be used.

(1) In addition to having the requisite count per pound for any size designation shown in this table, the lot must comply with the restrictions as to the smallest nuts as indicated. No tolerance shall be allowed.

(2) In lieu of the size designations in the table in this section, the size of pecans in any lot may be described in accordance with the maximum number per pound or the range in number per pound without restrictions as to the smallest nuts in the lot. When this method of size specification is used, no tolerance shall be allowed. The size may also be described as an exact number per pound as 65, 80, etc. When this method is used, the actual number per pound may not vary by more than 12 percent from the specified number.

(3) The size may also be described in terms of the diameter of the smallest nuts, or range in diameters of the nuts in a lot stated in sixteenths of an inch. When so specified, not more than 12 percent, by count, of the pecans in any lot may be below the minimum diameter specified and not more than 12 percent may be above the maximum diameter specified.

(e) Application of tolerances. The tolerances for these grades are on a lot basis and a composite sample customarily is taken for inspection purposes. However, any container or group of containers in which the pecans are found to be materially inferior to those in the majority of the containers shall be considered as a separate lot.

(f) Definitions. (1) "Fairly uniform in color" means that the shells do not show sufficient variation in color to materially detract from the general appearance of the lot. Natural markings (usually in dark streaks and heaviest near the ends) shall not be considered as detracting from the appearance of the lot.

(2) "Fairly well shaped" means that the pecan is not crescent-shaped nor otherwise materially misshapen.

(3) "Damage" means any defect which materially affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality. Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect shall be considered as damage:

(i) Stains or adhering hulls, when stains of dark color or adhering hulls, caused by shuck worms or other means, affect an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the surface of the shell.

(ii) Split or broken shells, when the parts of the shell spread upon application of slight pressure near the split or crack.

(iii) Shriveling, when materially affecting more than 5 percent of the kernel including both halves. The shriveling may be on one or both halves. In judging the percentage affected by shriveling the flat or inner sides of the kernel are disregarded. The maximum percentage of shriveling (5 percent including both halves) on two half-kernels not considered damaged is illustrated in the upper left hand corner of the pecan grading chart.

(iv) Leanness, when either half of the kernel has more than a moderately lean or undeveloped appearance. A half-kernel and cross-section showing moderately lean or undeveloped appearance not considered damaged is illustrated in the center of the upper row of the pecan grading chart.

(v) Hollowness, when a cross-section of either half of the kernel shows more than a moderate hollowness, or the half-kernel is not fairly firm and "meaty." A half-kernel and cross-section showing moderate hollowness not considered damaged is illustrated in the upper right hand corner of the pecan grading chart.

(vi) Discoloration:

(a) When either half of the kernel is darker than indicated for undamaged half-kernels in the lower left-hand corner of the pecan grading chart. The inner or flat side of the half-kernel is disregarded in judging color. Natural markings, including dark lines, specks or mottling shall not be considered as damage if the ground color is not too dark according to the chart.

(b) When more than one dark kernel spot is present on either half of the kernel, or one such spot when more than one-eighth inch in greatest dimension.

(c) When there is brownish or grayish material from the inside of the shell adhering to more than one-fourth of the surface, including both halves, which was adjacent to the shell.

(d) When there is reddish or brownish dust, from the inside of the shell, present in sufficient quantity to materially affect the appearance, or the edible quality.

(e) Discoloration which is readily noticeable in the interior of the kernel when it is broken.

(4) "Well cured" means that the kernel separates freely from the shell and from the corky partitions inside the shell, breaks at a definite point without splintering, shattering, or tearing the meat or loosening the skin, and appears to be in good shipping and storing condition as to moisture content.

(5) "Rancidity" means that the kernel is distinctly rancid to the taste.

(6) "Mold" means any mold growth which noticeably affects the exterior or interior of the kernel.

(7) "Decay" means that the kernel is putrid or decomposed.

(8) "Insect injury" means that the insect, web, or frass is present, or that the kernel shows other noticeable evidence of insect injury.

(9) "Serious damage" means any defect which seriously affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality. Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as serious damage:

(i) Stains or adhering hulls, when stains of dark color or adhering hulls, caused by shuck worms or other means, affect an aggregate area of more than 20 percent of the surface of the shell.

(ii) Split, broken, or punctured shells, when a fragment of the shell is broken out, when the kernel is plainly visible through a punctured, split, or cracked shell without the application of any pressure, or when a worm hole penetrates the shell wall.

(iii) Shriveling, when materially affecting more than one-third of the kernel including both halves. In judging the percentage affected by shriveling the flat or inner sides of the kernel are disregarded. The maximum percentage of shriveling (one-third of the kernel including both halves) not considered seriously damaged is illustrated in the left side of the middle row of the pecan grading chart.

(iv) Leanness, when either half of the kernel has a more lean or undeveloped appearance than shown on the right side of the middle row of the pecan grading chart.

(v) Discoloration:

(a) When the color of either half of the kernel is as dark in color, or darker, than indicated as seriously damaged on the kernel in the center of the lower row of the pecan grading chart. The inner or flat side of the half-kernel is disregarded in judging color.

(b) When there are more than three dark kernel spots on either half of the kernel, or when such spots affect an aggregate area of more than 10 percent of the surface of the half-kernel which was adjacent to the shell.

(c) When there is brownish or grayish material from the inside of the shell adhering to more than one-half of the surface, including both halves, which was adjacent to the shell.

(d) When the interior of the kernel is so discolored that it is unacceptable as food.

(10) "Very serious damage" means any defect which very seriously affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality. Any one of the following defects shall be considered as very serious damage:

(i) Kernels which are distinctly rancid to the taste.

(ii) Kernels which are noticeably affected by mold on the exterior or interior.

(iii) Kernels which are decayed (putrid or decomposed).

(iv) Kernels with insects, web, or frass present, or which show other noticeable evidence of insect injury.

(v) Kernels which are so shriveled that they have virtually no food value.

(11) "Diameter" means the smallest dimension at right angles to the longitudinal axis taken at the point of greatest circumference. The diameter shall be determined by passing, or attempting to pass, the pecan through slotted openings of sufficient length to permit the pecan to pass through in a lengthwise position.

(g) Effective time and supersedure. The United States Standards for Pecans in the Shell contained in this section, and which supersede the United States Standards for Unshelled Pecans (14 F. R. 2543, 2608), shall become effective October 1, 1951.

GENERAL

§ 729.240 Basis and purpose. The regulations contained in §§ 729.240 to 729.269 are issued pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, and govern the determination of farm peanut acreages, the issuance of marketing cards, the identification of peanuts, the collection and refund of penalties, and the records and reports incident thereto, on the marketing of peanuts of the 1951 crop, regardless of whether such peanuts are marketed before, during, or after the 1951–52 marketing year. Prior to preparing the regulations in §§ 729.240 to 729.269, public notice of their formulation was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003). Views and recommendations received in response to such notice have been duly considered within the limits prescribed by the aforesaid Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938.

§ 729.241 Definitions. As used in §§ 729.240 to 729.269 and in all instructions, forms and documents in connection therewith, the words and phrases defined in this section shall have the meanings herein assigned to them unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires.

(h) "Excess peanuts" means peanuts in excess of the farm marketing quota determined pursuant to § 729.246.

(i) "Farm" means all adjacent or nearby farmland under the same ownership which is operated by one person, including also:

(1) Any other adjacent or nearby farmland which the county committee, in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator, determines is operated by the same person as part of the same unit with respect to the rotation of crops and with workstock, farm machinery, and labor substantially separate from that for any other lands; and

(2) Any field-rented tract (whether operated by the same or another person) which, together with any other land included in the farm constitutes a unit with respect to the rotation of crops.

A farm shall be regarded as located in the county in which the principal dwelling is situated, or if there is no dwelling thereon, it shall be regarded as located in the county in which the major portion of the farm is located.

(j) "Farm allotment" means the farm peanut acreage allotment for the 1951 crop of peanuts, established pursuant to §§ 729.210 to 729.231 (15 F. R. 7292, 16 F. R. 3275).

(k) "Farm peanut acreage" means the acreage on the farm planted to peanuts in 1951 as determined by the county committee, less any such acreage with respect to which it is established by the operator or otherwise to the satisfaction of the county committee that the entire production therefrom has not and will not be picked or threshed either before or after marketing from the farm: Provided, however, That

(1) The farm peanut acreage shall be considered equal to the farm allotment on a farm for which such allotment equals or exceeds the larger of one acre or the farm permitted peanut acreage, if the acreage in excess of the farm allotment from which peanuts are picked or threshed is not greater than one-tenth acre or three percent of the farm allotment, whichever is larger;

(2) The farm peanut acreage shall be considered equal to one acre on a farm for which the farm allotment and the farm permitted peanut acreage are each equal to or less than one acre, and the acreage from which peanuts are picked or threshed does not exceed 1.1 acres; or

(3) The farm peanut acreage shall be considered equal to the farm permitted peanut acreage on a farm for which the farm permitted peanut acreage exceeds the larger of the farm allotment or one acre, if the acreage in excess of the farm permitted peanut acreage from which peanuts are picked or threshed is not greater than one-tenth acre or three percent of the farm permitted peanut acreage, whichever is larger; but the provisions of subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3) of this paragraph shall not apply unless the operator—

(i) Submits evidence satisfactory to the county committee that the picking or threshing of peanuts was completed before he received notice of the acreage planted to peanuts, or that peanuts were picked or threshed from an acreage in excess of the largest of the farm allotment, one acre, or the farm permitted peanut acreage notwithstanding an honest effort on the part of the operator to dispose of the excess by means other than by picking or threshing, and

(ii) A quantity of peanuts equal to the county committee's estimate of the production from the acreage in excess of the largest of the farm allotment, one acre, or the farm permitted peanut acreage is disposed of on the farm in such manner that the peanuts cannot thereafter be used or marketed as peanuts: Provided, further, That the maximum acreage limit prescribed in subparagraph (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph shall not be applicable if the State committee concurs in the findings and recommendations of the county committee that the unusual circumstances from which the excess resulted are such that the maximum limitation should not apply.

(l) "Farm permitted peanut acreage" means the picked or threshed acreage of peanuts on the farm in 1947, or in 1948 if no peanuts were picked or threshed from the farm in 1947, as determined by the county committee in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator.

(m) "Farmers stock peanuts" means picked or threshed peanuts produced in the continental United States during the calendar year 1951, which have not been shelled, crushed, cleaned (except for removal of foreign material) or otherwise changed from the state in which picked or threshed peanuts are customarily marketed by producers.

(n) "Market" means to dispose of peanuts, including farmers stock peanuts, shelled peanuts, cleaned peanuts, or peanuts in processed form, by voluntary or involuntary sale, barter, or exchange, or by gift inter vivos. The terms "marketed," "marketing," and "for market" shall have corresponding meanings to the term "market" in the connection in which they are used. The terms "barter" and "exchange" shall include the payment by the producer of any quantity of peanuts for the harvesting, picking, threshing, cleaning, crushing, or shelling of peanuts, or for any other service rendered to him by anyone.

(o) "Marketing card":

(1) "Excess oil card" means MQ–90—Peanuts (1951), 1951 Peanut Excess Oil Marketing Card, providing the producer an option for marketing each lot of peanuts either by paying the marketing penalty or by delivering the excess peanuts to a designated agency at a price based on the value of such peanuts for crushing for oil.

If peanuts have been graded at the time of marketing, the poundage shall be the weight thereof excluding foreign material and excess moisture. (Excess moisture means moisture in excess of seven percent in the Southeastern and Southwestern areas or eight percent in the Virginia-Carolina area, as such areas are defined in the 1950 price support bulletin (15 F. R. 6465)). If shelled peanuts are marketed, the poundage thereof shall be converted to the weight of farmers stock peanuts by multiplying the number of pounds of shelled peanuts by 1.5, and the result shall be the number of pounds considered as marketed under §§ 729.240 to 729.269.

(u) "Producer" means a person who, as owner, landlord, tenant, or sharecropper, is entitled to share in the peanuts produced on the farm or in the proceeds thereof.

§ 729.242 Instructions and forms. The Director shall cause to be prepared and issued such forms as are necessary, and shall cause to be prepared such instructions as are necessary, for carrying out §§ 729.240 to 729.269. The forms and instructions shall be approved by, and the instructions shall be issued by, the Assistant Administrator.

§ 729.243 Extent of calculations and rule of fractions. (a) The farm peanut acreage shall be expressed in tenths of an acre, and fractions of less than one-tenth of an acre shall be dropped.

(b) The percentage of excess peanuts, hereinafter referred to as the "percent excess", shall be expressed in tenths of a percent and fractions of less than one-tenth of a percent shall be dropped, except that the minimum percent excess for a farm having any excess acreage shall be one-tenth of one percent.

(c) The amount of penalty per pound upon marketings of peanuts, hereinafter referred to as the "converted penalty rate," shall be expressed in tenths of a cent and fractions of less than a tenth of a cent shall be dropped, except that the minimum converted penalty rate for a farm having any excess acreage shall be one-tenth of a cent.

IDENTIFICATION AND MEASUREMENT OF FARMS

§ 729.244 Identification of farms. Each farm as operated for the 1951 crop of peanuts shall be identified by a farm serial number assigned by the county committee; and all records pertaining to marketing quotas for the 1951 crop of peanuts shall be identified by the farm serial number.

§ 729.245 Measurement of farms. The county committee shall provide for measuring peanut farms in the county in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator.

FARM MARKETING QUOTAS AND MARKETING CARDS

§ 729.246 Amount of farm marketing quota. (a) The farm marketing quota for a farm having no excess acreage shall be the actual production of peanuts on the farm peanut acreage.

§ 729.247 Marketing quotas not transferable. Farm marketing quotas are not transferable in whole or in part from one farm to another farm; and peanuts produced on one farm shall not be marketed on a marketing card issued with respect to another farm.

§ 729.248 Issuance of marketing cards. (a) A farm marketing card shall be issued to the operator of each farm having 1951 crop peanuts, for use by any producer for marketing his share of the peanuts produced on the farm. If the county committee finds that it will serve a useful purpose, additional farm marketing cards issued in the name of the operator, may be delivered to other producers on the farm.

(b) If the county committee determines that such action is necessary to enforce the provisions of §§ 729.240 to 729.269, it may withhold issuing marketing cards for farms in which a multiple farm producer has an interest, if one or more of such farms are eligible for an excess oil or excess penalty marketing card, until the peanut production on each farm in which the multiple farm producer has an interest is estimated. The estimated production on each such farm will be used in determining, after all peanuts produced on such farms have been marketed or otherwise disposed of, whether the marketing card issued for each farm was properly used. The term "multiple farm producer" means a person who has an interest in the 1951 crop of peanuts on more than one farm.

(c) All entries on each marketing card shall be made in accordance with the instructions for issuing marketing cards. Upon return to the office of the county committee of any marketing card where all spaces for recording sales have been used and before the marketing of peanuts from the farm has been completed, a new marketing card of the same kind, bearing the same name, information, and identification as the used card shall be issued. A new marketing card of the same kind shall also be issued to replace a card which has been determined by the county committee to have been lost, destroyed, mutilated, or stolen.

(d) Within quota card. A farm is eligible for a within quota card under any one of the following conditions:

(1) The farm has no excess acreage.

(2) An agreement on MQ–92—Peanuts (1951) is obtained from the farm operator in accordance with § 729.259 (a).

(3) The total production of peanuts on the farm is estimated by the county committee and an amount of peanuts equal to the estimated production in excess of the farm marketing quota has been marketed through a designated agency at prices based on the value of the peanuts for crushing for oil.

(4) The peanuts were grown only for experimental purposes on land owned or leased by a publicly owned agricultural experiment station and are produced at public expense by employees of the experiment station, or the peanuts were produced by farmers pursuant to an agreement with a publicly owned experiment station whereby the experiment station bears the cost and risks incident to the production of the peanuts and the proceeds from the crop inure to the benefit of the experiment station: Provided, That such agreement is approved by the State committee prior to the issuance of a marketing card for the farm.

(e) Excess oil card. A farm is eligible for an excess oil card under either of the following conditions:

(1) The farm peanut acreage is in excess of the larger of the farm allotment or one acre but is not in excess of the farm permitted peanut acreage.

(2) An agreement on MQ–92—Peanuts (1951) is obtained from the operator in accordance with § 729.259 (b).

(f) Excess penalty card. An excess penalty card shall be issued for a farm if the farm peanut acreage exceeds the largest of the farm allotment, one acre, or the farm permitted peanut acreage.

§ 729.249 Person authorized to issue cards. The county committee shall designate one person to sign marketing cards for farms in the county as issuing officer. The issuing officer may, subject to the approval of the county committee, designate not more than three persons to sign his name in issuing marketing cards: Provided, That each such person shall place his initials immediately beneath the name of the issuing officer as writen by him, or stamped on the card.

§ 729.250 Successors in interest. Any person who succeeds in whole or in part to the share of a producer in the peanuts to be marketed from a farm shall, to the extent of such succession, have the same rights as the producer to the use of any marketing card issued for the farm.

§ 729.251 Invalid marketing card. (a) A marketing card shall be invalid if:

(1) It is not issued or delivered in the form and manner prescribed;

(2) Entries are omitted, incorrect, contradictory, or illegible;

(3) It is lost, destroyed, or stolen;

(4) Any erasure or alteration has been made, and not properly initialed;

(5) The converted penalty rate on an excess oil card or an excess penalty card has been altered;

(6) The percent excess on an excess oil card has been altered.

(b) If any marketing card becomes invalid (other than by loss, destruction or theft) the operator, or the person having the card in his possession, shall return it to the county office from which it was issued. If any marketing card is lost, destroyed or stolen, the producer to whom the card was issued shall give written notice of such fact to the county office from which the card was issued.

(c) If a marketing card becomes invalid because an entry is not made as required either through omission or incorrect entry, and the proper entry is later made and initialed as provided in the instructions for issuing marketing cards, then such card shall become valid; or if the invalid card is not made valid in this manner, it shall be canceled and a new card issued in its place.

§ 729.252 Report of misuse of marketing card. Any information which causes a member of a State, county, or community committee, or an employee of a State or county committee, to believe that any peanuts have been or are being marketed on a marketing card issued for another farm or to another producer shall be reported immediately by such person to the county committee or State committee.

MARKETING OR OTHER DISPOSITION OF PEANUTS AND PENALTIES

§ 729.253 Extent to which marketings from a farm are subject to penalty. The marketing of peanuts in excess of the farm marketing quota for any farm shall be subject to a penalty at the rate prescribed in § 729.255 and the penalty shall be paid on each lot of peanuts marketed from the farm in an amount equal to the converted penalty rate multiplied by the number of pounds in the lot, except that the penalty will not be required on any excess peanuts produced on a farm eligible for an excess oil card if such excess peanuts are delivered to or marketed through a designated agency. The converted penalty rate shall be determined as follows:

(a) Determine the percent excess for the farm by dividing the excess acreage by the farm peanut acreage.

(b) Determine the converted penalty rate by multiplying the percent excess by the rate of penalty prescribed in § 729.255.

§ 729.254 Identification of marketings. (a) Each marketing of peanuts from a farm shall be recorded by the buyer or his representative on a marketing card issued for the farm on which the peanuts were produced, if such marketing card is presented to the buyer by the producer at the time of sale. Each marketing without a marketing card shall be subject to the penalty at the rate prescribed in § 729.255. Buyers who are not designated agencies will record and report data with respect to all peanuts purchased on Form MQ–93—Peanuts (1951), Record of Sale Without Federal-State Inspection. Buyers who are designated agencies will record and report data with respect to all marketings on which a penalty is due on Form MQ–93—Peanuts (1951). MQ–94—Peanuts (1951), Sales Memorandum, will be used by buyers who are designated agencies to report and record data with respect to the inspection and purchases of within quota and excess oil peanuts: Provided, however, That a person who is not engaged in the business of buying peanuts shall not be required to execute Form MQ–93—Peanuts (1951) or Form MQ–94—Peanuts (1951), identifying purchases of peanuts from producers, if the county committee has determined that it would be administratively impracticable to require such buyer to execute forms, keep the records, and make the buyer's reports required in §§ 729.240 to 729.269, in which case the producer marketing the peanuts shall be responsible for reporting each marketing to the county committee as provided in § 729.256.

(b) Each marketing of farmers stock peanuts by any buyer, which such buyer represents to be a resale, shall be recorded on a record of resale on which the buyer reselling the peanuts or his representative certifies that the peanuts were identified by valid marketing cards or other records of resale and that any marketing penalty due has been collected.

§ 729.255 Rate of penalty. The penalty per pound upon marketings of excess peanuts subject to penalty shall be at a rate equal to 50 percent of the basic rate of the loan or support price for peanuts for the marketing year.

§ 729.256 Persons to pay penalty. (a) The penalty due on peanuts purchased directly from a producer shall be paid by the buyer, who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the price paid to the producer; except that the penalty due on marketings by a producer directly to any person outside the United States shall be paid by the producer. The buyer shall not be relieved of any liability with respect to the amount of penalty due because of any error which may occur in executing Form MQ–93—Peanuts (1951). If the buyer fails to collect or to pay the penalty due on any marketing of peanuts from a farm, he and all producers on the farm shall be jointly and severally liable for the amount of the penalty. If peanuts are improperly marketed by or for a producer in such a manner that the buyer takes such peanuts as not being subject to the marketing penalty, any penalty due on such marketings shall be paid by the producers on the farm.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provisions of the regulations in this part, if the county committee finds that peanuts produced on a farm on which there is excess acreage have been or probably will be sold to persons who are not engaged in the business of buying peanuts and determines that it would be administratively impracticable to effect the collection of the marketing penalty from such persons, the county committee may, on the basis of county office records or other available information, estimate the actual yield per acre and the production for the farm, and determine the amount of penalty due on the quantity of peanuts marketed to such persons. If an excess oil card is issued with respect to the farm, the amount of penalty that will be due will be determined by multiplying the operator's or the producer's estimate of the quantity of peanuts which are to be marketed to persons other than established buyers by the converted penalty rate for the farm. If an excess penalty card is issued for the farm, the amount of penalty shall be determined by multiplying the total production for the farm by the converted penalty rate. The amount of penalty may be collected from the operator or producer before the marketing card is issued if he agrees to payment of the penalty in this manner. If the county committee determines that satisfactory information is not available for estimating the 1951 yield per acre the county committee shall establish a normal yield per acre for the farm pursuant to the applicable § 729.225 or § 729.227 (15 F. R. 7292) and the normal yield per acre shall be considered to be the estimated yield per acre for the purpose of determining the amount of penalty. The county committee shall issue an excess oil card or an excess penalty card, whichever is applicable. If the penalty is paid before the excess penalty card is issued, the converted penalty rate shall be shown as "zero". If the county committee determines, after marketing of the 1951 crop for the farm has been completed, that the actual yield per acre for the farm was less than the estimated yield per acre, any penalty paid in excess of the amount actually due shall be refunded upon presentation of a request therefor as provided in § 729.260.

§ 729.257 Marketings subject to penalty. In addition to marketings subject to penalty that are identified by excess oil cards or excess penalty cards, the marketing of peanuts under any of the following conditions shall be deemed to be a marketing subject to penalty at the rate prescribed in § 729.255:

(a) Producer marketings. (1) Except for marketings within the terms of the proviso contained in § 729.254 (a), any marketing of peanuts by a producer which is not identified by a valid marketing card shall be deemed to be a marketing subject to penalty. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the buyer who may deduct an amount equivalent to the penalty from the amount due the producer.

(2) If any producer falsely identifies or fails to account for the disposition of any peanuts produced on a farm, an amount of peanuts equal to the normal yield, as determined under the applicable § 729.225 or § 729.227 (15 F. R. 7292), of the excess acreage for the farm shall be deemed to have been a marketing subject to penalty from such farm and the penalty due thereon shall be paid by the producer.

(b) Buyer's marketings. The part or all of any marketing of peanuts by a buyer which such buyer represents to be a resale, but which, when added to prior resales by such buyer, is in excess of the total of his prior purchases, shall be deemed to be a marketing subject to penalty unless and until such buyer furnishes proof acceptable to the Director showing that such marketing is not a marketing subject to penalty. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the buyer making the resale.

(c) Marketings not reported. Any sale of peanuts which, under the regulations in §§ 729.240 to 729.269, a buyer is required to report, but which is not so reported within the time and in the manner therein required, shall be deemed to be a marketing subject to penalty unless and until such buyer furnishes a report of such sale which is acceptable to the Director. The penalty thereon shall be paid by the buyer who fails to make the report as required.

§ 729.258 Payment of penalty. Penalties shall become due at the time the peanuts are marketed and shall be paid by remitting the amount thereof to the State committee not later than the end of the calendar week following the week in which the peanuts became subject to penalty. A draft, money order, or check drawn payable to the Treasurer of the United States may be used to pay any penalty, but any such draft or check shall be received subject to payment at par.

§ 729.259 Use of agreement to permit marketings from overplanted farms—(a) Within quota card issued on basis of agreement. The county committee may, upon request of the operator of any farm on which the acreage planted to peanuts exceeds the farm allotment, issue a within quota card with respect to the farm in the manner prescribed in § 729.248, if the county committee obtains from the operator an agreement that the farm peanut acreage will not exceed the farm allotment.

(b) Excess oil card issued on basis of agreement. The county committee may, upon request of the operator of any farm on which the acreage planted to peanuts exceeds the farm allotment, issue an excess oil card with respect to the farm in the manner prescribed in § 729.248 if the county committee obtains from the operator an agreement that the farm peanut acreage will not exceed a specified acreage which is greater than the farm allotment but not greater than the farm permitted peanut acreage.

(c) Form of agreement. The agreement referred to in this section shall be on Form MQ–92—Peanuts (1951), executed in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator. If the county committee determines that a within quota card or an excess oil card issued pursuant to this section would be used as a device to evade the collection of penalty or the terms and conditions of the 1951 crop price support program, the agreement shall not be approved by the county committee and a marketing card shall not be issued for the farm until the farm peanut acreage has been determined.

(d) Payment of penalty. If the county committee determines that any penalty is due for a farm for which an agreement has been executed and approved, the converted penalty rate shall be determined as provided in § 729.253. At the request of the county committee, the operator shall surrender the marketing card issued for the farm showing thereon the required record of all peanuts marketed. The operator shall pay the amount of penalty due on all marketings that have been made from the farm, as determined by the county committee. The county committee shall cancel such marketing card as well as any other marketing card issued for the farm and, after collecting the amount of any penalty due, shall issue an excess penalty card if marketings from the farm have not been completed.

§ 729.260 Request for return of penalty. After the marketing of peanuts from the farm has been completed and the disposition of any other peanuts produced on the farm can be shown, the producer or any other person who bore the burden of the payment of any penalty may request the return of the amount of such penalty which is in excess of the amount required under §§ 729.240 to 729.269 to be paid. Such request shall be filed with the county committee within two years after the payment of the penalty. No refund shall be made because of peanuts kept on the farm for seed or for home consumption.

RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 729.261 Producer's records and reports—(a) Report on marketing card. Each marketing card issued with respect to a farm on which peanuts are produced in 1951 shall be returned to the office of the county committee whenever marketings from the farm are completed or at such earlier time as the county or State committee may request. Failure to return the marketing card shall constitute failure to account for disposition of peanuts marketed from the farm in the event that a satisfactory account of such disposition is not furnished otherwise, and the allotment next established for such farm shall be reduced by that percentage which the amount of peanuts unaccounted for is of the farm marketing quota.

(b) Additional reports by producers. In addition to any other reports which may be required under §§ 729.240 to 729.269, the operator of each farm or any other producer on the farm (even though the farm peanut acreage does not exceed the farm allotment or even though no farm allotment was established) shall, upon written request from the State committee sent by registered mail to such person at his last known address, furnish the Secretary a written report of the disposition made of all peanuts produced on the farm by sending the same to the State committee within 15 days after the request for such report was deposited in the United States mails. Such written report shall show for the farm:

(1) The farm peanut acreage,

(2) The total production of peanuts on the farm peanut acreage,

(3) The amount of peanuts not marketed and their location, and

(4) For each lot of peanuts marketed, the name and address of the buyer to or through whom such peanuts were marketed, the number of pounds marketed, and the date marketed.

Failure to file the report as requested or the filing of a report which is found by the State committee to be incomplete or incorrect shall constitute failure of the producer to account for disposition of peanuts produced on the farm, and the allotment next established for such farm shall be reduced by that percentage which the amount of peanuts unaccounted for is of the farm marketing quota.

§ 729.262 Buyer's records and reports. The following paragraphs shall apply to all marketings except marketings within the terms of the proviso contained in § 729.254 (a):

(a) Record of marketings. Each buyer shall keep such records as will enable him to furnish the Director the following information with respect to each lot of peanuts marketed to or through him by a producer and to each lot of farmers stock peanuts marketed to or through him by another buyer:

(1) Serial number of the marketing card issued to identify each marketing.

(2) Name of seller (if the seller is a producer, the producer's name and either the name of the operator of the farm or the farm serial number).

(3) Date of marketing.

(4) Number of pounds marketed.

(5) Amount of any penalty due and the amount of any deduction for penalty from the price paid the seller.

(6) Number of pounds marketed as a delivery to or through a designated agency.

Records of all resales of farmers stock peanuts by the buyer shall be maintained and the name of each person to whom such resale was made shall be shown on the buyer's records. Resales by a buyer of farmers stock peanuts shall be recorded on Form MQ–86 (Peanuts), Record of Resale, and reported by the buyer and seller by forwarding copies of such form to the State committee not later than the end of two calendar weeks following the week in which the peanuts were resold.

(b) Form MQ–93—Peanuts (1951)—Form MQ–94—Peanuts (1951). Buyers who are not designated agencies shall record and report data with respect to all peanuts purchased on form MQ–93—Peanuts (1951). Buyers who are designated agencies shall record and report data with respect to all marketings on which a penalty is due on form MQ–93—Peanuts (1951). Form MQ–94—Peanuts (1951) shall be used to report and record data with respect to the inspection and marketings of within quota and excess oil marketings by buyers who are designated agencies. The Production and Marketing Administration's copies of all forms MQ–93—Peanuts (1951) and forms MQ–94—Peanuts (1951) covering within quota marketings, with remittance for the penalties due as shown on forms MQ–93—Peanuts (1951), shall be forwarded to the State committee by means of MQ–79—Peanuts (1951), Buyers Weekly Report and Transmittal to State PMA office, not later than the end of two calendar weeks following the week in which the peanuts were marketed.

(c) Additional records and reports by buyers. Each buyer shall keep such records and furnish such reports to the State committee, in addition to the foregoing, as the State committee may find necessary to insure the proper identification of the marketings of peanuts and the collection of penalties due thereon as provided in §§ 729.240 to 729.269.

§ 729.263 Record and report of peanuts shelled for producers. Any person who shells peanuts for a producer, including any producer who shells peanuts produced by himself, shall make a record of the shelling of each lot of such peanuts by executing Form MQ–91—Peanuts (1951), Peanuts Shelled for Producers, and shall forward such report to the State committee not later than two calendar weeks following the week in which the peanuts are shelled.

§ 729.264 Separate records and reports from persons engaged in more than one business. Any person who is required to keep any record or make any report as a buyer, processor, or other person engaged in the business of shelling or crushing peanuts, and who is engaged in more than one such business, shall keep such records as will enable him to make separate reports for each such business in which he is engaged to the same extent for each such business as if he were engaged in no other business.

§ 729.265 Failure to keep records or make reports. Any buyer, warehouseman, processor, or common carrier of peanuts, any broker or dealer in peanuts, any agent marketing peanuts for a producer or acquiring peanuts for a buyer or dealer, any peanut growers cooperative association, any person engaged in the business of cleaning, shelling, crushing, or salting peanuts, or manufacturing peanut products, or any person owning or operating a peanut picking or peanut threshing machine, who fails to make any report or keep any record as required in accordance with §§ 729.240 to 729.269, or who makes any false report or record, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not more than $500.

§ 729.266 Examination of records and reports. Any buyer, warehouseman, processor or common carrier of peanuts, any broker or dealer in peanuts, any agent marketing peanuts for a producer or acquiring peanuts for a buyer or dealer, any peanut growers cooperative association, any person engaged in the business of cleaning, shelling, crushing, or salting peanuts, or manufacturing peanut products, or any person owning or operating a peanut picking threshing machine shall make available for examination upon request by a duly authorized representative of the State committee or the Director, such books, papers, records, accounts, correspondence, contracts, documents, and memoranda as the State committee or the Director has reason to believe are relevant and are within the control of such person.

§ 729.267 Length of time records and reports to be kept. Records required to be kept and copies of reports required to be made by any person in accordance with §§ 729.240 to 729.269 for the 1951–52 marketing year shall be kept by him until July 31, 1954. Records shall be kept for such longer period of time as may be requested in writing by the Director.

MISCELLANEOUS

§ 729.268 Information confidential. All data reported to or as acquired by the Secretary pursuant to the provisions of §§ 729.240 to 729.269 shall be kept confidential by all officers and employees of the United States Department of Agriculture and by all members and employees of State or county committees, and only such data so reported or acquired as the Assistant Administrator deems relevant shall be disclosed by them and then only in a suit or administrative hearing under Title III of the act.

§ 729.269 Redelegation of authority. Any authority delegated to the State committee by the regulations in §§ 729.240 to 729.269 may be redelegated by the State committee.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of these regulations have been approved by and subsequent reporting requirements will be subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 12th day of June 1951. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Distribution Regulation 2, Amendment 3]

DR 2—ALLOCATION RECORDS

CHANGE IN RECORD KEEPING REQUIREMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), Delegation of Authority by Secretary of Agriculture to Economic Stabilization Agency with respect to Allocation of Meat (16 F. R. 1272) and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 5 (16 F. R. 1273), this Amendment 3 to Distribution Regulation 2 (16 F. R. 3772) is hereby issued.

Preamble. As set forth in the statement accompanying its issuance, Distribution Regulation 2 is a preliminary step in a program for the allocation of meat. In a period of short supply the most equitable method of allocation would be to provide each purchaser with the same proportion of his seller's total supply that he received in a base period. In general, Distribution Regulation 2 is based on the premise that the current period may be used as a base period for purposes of allocation and that suppliers should be required now to start building up records which will enable them to determine the fraction of their total supply received by each individual customer to whom an allocation would be made.

Section 3 (b) of Distribution Regulation 2 contains several record keeping requirements designed to facilitate the operation of any allocation program which the Office of Price Stabilization may find it necessary to adopt in the future. It requires among other things that sellers of meat at wholesale keep records of:

1. Deliveries to individual civilian buyers by dollar volume;

2. The weight of total deliveries to all civilian buyers of beef, veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton and mutton, by grade; and

3. The weight of total deliveries to all civilian buyers of pork by specified cut classifications.

The provisions relating to dollar volume figures by individual customers were designed to build up data on the basis of which allocation could be made to some customers by dollar volume if that were found desirable. For the reasons set forth in the statement accompanying the original regulation it may be necessary to allocate to many buyers by type and grade. Therefore, section 3 (b) required that records be kept of total civilian deliveries of beef, veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton and mutton, by grade. Records of deliveries of pork were required to be kept by cut since pork is ordinarily sold by cut and since a figure for supplies of pork in total might give a distorted picture of the available supply of any particular cut.

Since the issuance of Distribution Regulation 2 several conferences have been held with representatives of the meat industry with reference to these record keeping rquirements. In the light of the information presented and of the representations made at these conferences, it appears that section 3 (b) can be revised to minimize the burden on the industry while at the same time accomplishing the purposes for which it was designed.

This Amendment 3, therefore, makes the following revisions of section 3 (b).

First, it eliminates entirely the provision that records be kept of the dollar volume of meat sales to individual customers. It appears that this requirement would involve a great amount of work as well as a change in present invoicing practices of many suppliers. It seems unnecessary to impose this requirement. Purchasers are required to keep invoices. An allocation order could reasonably require that purchasers seeking an allocation furnish the dates and numbers of the invoices covering deliveries on the basis of which allocation would be made to them.

Second, section 3 (b) in its original form did not require that records be kept of the total dollar volume of deliveries of meat because it was assumed that those records were kept in normal course. Some question has been raised about this and a provision has been inserted to make it clear that if records are not now kept segregating total dollar sales of meat and meat products from sales of other products they must be kept in the future.

Third, the requirement that records be kept of the weight of total deliveries to all civilian buyers of beef, veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton and mutton, by grade, and of pork, by cut, has been modified so as to provide an alternative which has been represented to be more feasible.

For all grades of beef, veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton and mutton the supplier may keep, in lieu of delivery records, records showing his total production and his total purchases of meat of each of those types and grades.

Suppliers who choose to keep production and purchase records must in addition keep records of their opening and closing inventories for specified grades of beef which are ordinarily used in processing. Inventories of these grades frequently constitute a significant fraction of a supplier's total supply. For the same reason, where production and purchase records in lieu of delivery records are kept for pork, inventory records must also be kept for pork. Inventory records need not be kept for beef which has already been processed nor for fresh beef of any grade other than those specified.

Since the supply on the basis of which allocation would be made would not be the total supply but only that proportion of it available for civilian distribution, records are also required to be kept for deliveries to the Federal government agencies.

In addition, the classification of pork cuts has been modified in conformity with industry suggestions.

Section 3 (b) as amended does not require that all the foregoing information be prepared in summary form for each accounting period but only that records be kept in such form that the specified information can be readily derived. For example, records may be kept so that the required information can be derived by the use of conversion factors. With respect to pork, conversion may be made from the dressed hog to the specified cuts or from smaller cuts to the specified cuts. Again, if total slaughter by type and grade can be derived readily from the meat grade certificates furnished by official graders it will not be necessary to keep slaughter records other than those certificates.

The effective date of the record keeping requirements has been postponed in order to give suppliers an opportunity to make preparation for compliance. This amendment also includes a minor correction designed to make it clear that non-official graders need not stamp the word "STAG" on carcasses or wholesale cuts of that class.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

1. Section 3 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) Records of production and deliveries. (1) If you are a seller of meat and meat products at wholesale you must keep records from which you can readily derive for each accounting period the total dollar volume of your deliveries to all civilian buyers, of all meat and meat products (including variety meats, semi-sterile canned meat and sausage but not including sterile canned meat).

(2) If you are a seller of meat at wholesale you must keep delivery records from which you can readily derive for each accounting period the weight of your total deliveries to all civilian buyers of beef, veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton and mutton, respectively, by grade, and of pork by the following cut classifications: loins, shoulders (including picnics, boneless butts, and Boston butts), hams, bellies, trimmings, and all other pork (except offal).

(3) If you are a seller of meat at wholesale you may keep, in lieu of the records required by section 3 (b) (2), records from which you can readily derive for each accounting period, by the use of conversion factors or otherwise, the following information:

(i) The dressed weight of your total slaughter of beef, veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton and mutton, respectively, by grade, and of your total slaughter of pork;

(ii) The weight of your total purchases of beef, veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton and mutton, respectively, by grade, and of pork by the following cut classifications: Loins, shoulders (including picnics, boneless butts, and Boston butts), hams, bellies, trimmings, and all other pork (except offal);

(iii) The weight of your opening and closing inventories of each of the following: Unprocessed utility beef, unprocessed cutter and canner beef, and unprocessed bull beef, and of pork by the following cut classifications: Loins, shoulders (including picnics, boneless butts, and Boston butts), hams, bellies, trimmings, and all other pork (except offal);

(iv) The weight of your total deliveries to the United States or any agency thereof of beef, veal, calf, lamb, yearling mutton and mutton, respectively, by grade, and of pork, by the following cut classifications: Loins, shoulders (including picnics, boneless butts, and Boston butts), hams, bellies, trimmings, and all other pork (except offal).

(4) The provisions of this section 3 (b) shall be effective for each accounting period commencing on or after June 24, 1951.

2. Appendix A, section 3 (b) is amended by deleting from the parenthetical phrase in the last sentence the words "or STAG".

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment shall be effective June 13, 1951.

NOTE: The record keeping and reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Director of Price Stabilization.

COVERAGE

SECTION 1. Sellers and sales covered by this regulation. This regulation covers you if you are a manufacturer located in the United States (not including territories or possessions) or the District of Columbia. It applies to any sale of any commodity as to which you are the manufacturer, except sales of commodities listed in Appendix A and sales at retail. With these exceptions, the General Ceiling Price Regulation is superseded by this regulation as to manufacturers in the United States or the District of Columbia. If, however, your gross sales for your last complete fiscal year were less than $250,000 you may elect not to use this regulation, but if you so elect, you may not use this regulation for any of your commodities.

CEILING PRICES ESTABLISHED

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices established by this regulation. This regulation establishes ceiling prices for commodities dealt in between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, and for new commodities introduced subsequent to June 24, 1950. There are also special provisions relating to (a) rounding ceiling prices, (b) retention of ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation where the change in price is less than 1 percent, (c) reduction of ceiling prices to reflect any increase in the value of scrap or waste material, (d) adjustment of ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for increases in transportation costs, and (e) adjustment of ceiling prices for commodities manufactured in more than one of your plants.

CEILING PRICES FOR COMMODITIES DEALT IN BETWEEN JULY 1, 1949 AND JUNE 24, 1950

SEC. 3. How to determine your ceiling price for a commodity you sold or offered for sale between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950. (a) Your ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser for sale of a commodity which you sold or offered for sale at any time between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, is your base period price for the commodity, plus "the labor cost adjustment" and "the materials cost adjustment". Section 47 (Definitions) explains the meaning of "your largest buying class of purchaser". Sections 4 through 6 tell how to obtain your base period price. Sections 7 through 9 tell how to calculate "the labor cost adjustment". Sections 10 through 16 tell how to calculate "the materials cost adjustment". If you do not wish to make either of these calculations you may use your base period price as your ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser. If you wish to calculate only one of the adjustments you may do so, in which case you will add only the amount of that one adjustment to your base period price.

(b) Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to your largest buying class of purchaser must be consistent in every respect with your base period price, e. g., it must carry all customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale.

(c) Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to your other classes of purchasers to whom you made sales during your base period is determined by applying your price differentials last used during your base period. In the event you made no base period sales to a particular class of purchaser, you apply your customary differentials in effect during your base period, or if none, then those last in effect before your base period. If you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser you determine your ceiling price under section 33 for that class of purchaser. For each class of purchasers you must maintain all customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale which you had in effect during your base period. An explanation of what is meant by "class of purchaser" is found in section 47 (Definitions).

BASE PERIOD PRICE

SEC. 4. Base period. "Base period" refers to the period April 1 through June 24, 1950 or any previous calendar quarter ended not earlier than September 30, 1949, which you may elect to use. Whatever base period you elect must be used for all commodities in the same category. There is an exception in case of a commodity which you did not deliver during that base period, and which you did not make the subject of a written offer for delivery during that base period, and for which you did not have a price list in effect during that base period. In that case you may use for that commodity any other base period permitted under this section.

SEC. 5. Category. "Category" refers to a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production, accounting or sales. This is the same definition as used in section 4 (c) of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. You may, however, exclude from any category any commodity or group of related commodities for which the base period you have elected to use for the category is unrepresentative because of special seasonal characteristics of that commodity or group of related commodities. In that case, treat the commodity or related group of commodities as constituting a separate category.

SEC. 6. How to obtain your base period price. Your base period price for a commodity is obtained as follows:

(a) If, during your base period, you delivered the commodity or contracted in writing to sell the commodity at a firm price, you find the highest price to your largest buying class of purchaser at which such a delivery or such a contract of sale was made.

(b) If you did not make such a delivery or contract, you find the highest price at which you made a written offer for base period delivery to your largest buying class of purchaser.

(c) Instead of the price under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section you may use your price, to your largest buying class of purchaser, which you announced in writing in a price list, catalogue, or similar statement showing your prices for one or more commodities. To use this paragraph (c) you must either have announced the prices during your base period, or have announced them previously and had them in effect during your base period. Also you must have communicated the prices to the trade or a substantial number of customers in your customary way. Further, you must have made substantial deliveries at these prices after your written announcement of the prices. If you use this paragraph (c) for any commodity you must also use it for all other commodities covered by the same announcement.

(d) If your base period price includes any excise, sales or other similar tax which is not separately stated, you must follow the instructions contained in section 36.

(e) If your base period price is expressed as a list price less discounts, you may make the adjustments of the base period price under section 3 (a) upon the basis of the net price to your largest buying class of purchaser.

Example: Your base period "list" price for commodity A is $12 less a 20 percent discount to your largest buying class of purchaser. "The labor cost adjustment" and "the materials cost adjustment" which you are permitted to add to your base period price total $3.84. You first take 80 percent of $12, thus applying the 20 percent discount. The resulting amount, $9.60, plus $3.84 equals $13.44, your "net" ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser. You can figure your "list" ceiling price by dividing your "net" ceiling price ($13.44) by the same percentage (80 percent), giving $16.80. Applying the 20 percent discount to your largest buying class of purchaser gives you $13.44, or your "net" ceiling price to that class of purchaser.

(f) If, during your base period you customarily produced the same commodity at two or more manufacturing establishments of your business and sold it at different prices depending upon the place of production, you must obtain a separate base period price and determine a separate ceiling price for each such establishment.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE LABOR COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 7. General description of how to calculate "the labor cost adjustment". Sections 8 and 9 tell how to calculate "the labor cost adjustment". The calculations under both sections are designed to yield an average percentage increase in your factory labor cost based upon net sales and factory payroll data for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950. This percentage is referred to as your "labor cost adjustment factor". Under section 8, the net sales and factory payroll data are for your entire business and the labor cost adjustment factor will be applied uniformly to the base period prices of all of your commodities. Under section 9, the net sales and factory payroll data are for a unit of your business and the labor cost adjustment factor will be applied uniformly to the base period prices of all commodities produced in that unit. If the commodities produced in the several units of your business have experienced significantly different labor cost increases, it will probably be to your advantage to use section 9 so as to reflect these differences more appropriately.

SEC. 8. How to calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business. To calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amounts of your net sales and of your factory payroll for your entire business for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950. You may not include in factory payroll, labor used in general administration, sales and advertising, or research, or in making major repairs or replacement of plant or equipment or in expansion of plant or equipment. Labor used in factory supervision, packaging and handling, ordinary maintenance and repair of plant or equipment, or in materials control, testing or inspection may, however, be included.

(b) Divide the dollar amount of your factory payroll found under paragraph (a) of this section by the dollar amount of your net sales found under (a). This will show what percentage your factory payroll is of your net sales. This percentage is referred to as your "labor cost ratio".

(c) Find the dollar amount of your factory payroll, as limited in paragraph (a) of this section, for your last payroll period ended not later than the end of your base period (If your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, you should use your last payroll period ended not later than June 30, 1950). The term "end of your base period" is explained in section 47 (Definitions). This payroll is referred to as "your base period payroll". Compute what the dollar amount of your base period payroll would have been upon the basis of your wage rates in effect on March 15, 1951. This is referred to as "your recomputed payroll". You may add to your recomputed payroll a dollar amount to reflect, for the labor covered by that payroll, any increase between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in the cost to you of insurance plans, pension contributions for current work, paid vacations and similar "fringe benefits". You may make the calculations called for by this paragraph in whatever appropriate way is best adapted to your accounting records and your basis of wage payments, e. g., hourly rates, piece-work, or any other system of wage payments used by you.

(d) Divide the dollar amount of the difference between your recomputed payroll and your base period payroll by your base period payroll. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "wage increase factor."

(e) Multiply your labor cost ratio derived under paragraph (b) of this section by your wage increase factor derived under paragraph (d) of this section. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "labor cost adjustment factor."

(f) Multiply the base period price of the commodity being priced by your labor cost adjustment factor. The resulting amount is "the labor cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(g) If you use this section, it must be used for all of your commodities.

Example: (a) Your fiscal year is the calendar year. Your net sales for the twelve months ended December 31, 1950, were $1,000,000. Your factory payroll for the year was $300,000 (the required exclusions having been made in arriving at this figure).

(b) $300,000 divided by $1,000,000 is 30 percent. This is your labor cost ratio.

(c) Your factory payroll for the week ended June 24, 1950, was $6,000 (the required exclusions having been made in arriving at this figure). At wage rates in effect March 15, 1951, the payroll would have been $6,500. In addition you have also granted longer paid vacations and a more liberal insurance plan which amounts to the equivalent of two and one-half cents per hour. The number of hours covered by your base period payroll was 4,000. Consequently the increased "fringe benefits" add an extra $100 per week to your factory labor cost for the March 15 period. This makes your recomputed payroll at March 15 wage rates $6,600, or a total increase of $600.

(d) $600 divided by $6,000 is 10 percent. This is your wage increase factor.

(e) 30 percent multiplied by 10 percent is 3 percent. This is your labor cost adjustment factor.

(f) If your base period price was $100, you multiply $100 by 3 percent, giving $3, "the labor cost adjustment".

SEC. 9. How to calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business. To calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amounts of your net sales and of your factory payroll for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950, relating to a unit of your business for which you regularly maintain separate accounts and in which the commodity being priced is produced. You must include in net sales the value, as shown on your records, of any transfer of a commodity or material from that unit to another unit of your business. If your records do not show a value you may not use this section. The provisions of section 8 (a) as to what may be included in factory payroll apply.

(b) Using the data found under paragraph (a) of this section you make the calculations prescribed in paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of section 8, for the unit of your business to which the data relate. This will give you "the labor cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(c) This section may be used only for commodities produced in the particular unit of your business to which the net sales and factory payroll data relate, and must be used for all commodities produced in that unit.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 10. Manufacturing material. You will need to become familiar with the term "manufacturing material" in the following sections. It refers to a material entering directly into the commodity being priced or used directly in the manufacturing processes from which the commodity results, together with packaging materials, containers (other than returnable containers), purchased fuel, steam or electric energy, and subcontracted industrial services which are directly related to the manufacture of the commodity. The term does not include materials or sub-contracted industrial services used in replacing, maintaining or expanding your plant and equipment, nor other materials or supplies the use of which is not directly dependent upon the rate at which you manufacture the commodity being priced.

SEC. 11. General description of the methods available. (a) There are four alternative methods available to you for calculating "the materials cost adjustment." You should use the one best suited to your particular situation. Only manufacturing materials may be taken into account in your calculations and you will measure their change in cost to you between prescribed dates. You are permitted, however, to omit any manufacturing material which is not significant or whose cost has not decreased between the prescribed dates. This section contains ony general descriptions, as an aid in understanding. The exact provisions which are in the following sections are controlling.

(b) (1) Method 1. Method 1 allows you to measure the increase in your manufacturing materials costs upon the basis of a unit of your business not larger than a plant, or, if you have only one plant, upon the basis of your entire business. Under this method, which is set forth in section 13, you calculate a percentage increase in your manufacturing materials costs upon the basis of net sales and materials put into production during a yearly accounting period. If you make the calculations upon the basis of your entire business, you apply the percentage increase uniformly to all of your commodities. If the calculations are upon the basis of separate units of your business, you apply the percentage increase for each unit uniformly to all of the commodities produced in that unit. There are specific limitations upon the use of this method where you have had significant substitution of materials.

(2) Method 2. Method 2 is for an individual commodity and is based upon the increase in your unit manufacturing materials cost for that commodity. Under this method "the materials cost adjustment" will ordinarily differ for each commodity. You should probably use this method, therefore, if the various commodities you produce have had substantially different material cost increases since the end of your base period, or vary widely from each other in the ratio between unit manufacturing materials cost and sales price. This method, however, is more burdensome because it requires a separate calculation for each commodity.

(3) Method 3. Method 3 is for a product line and is based upon the increase in your unit manufacturing materials cost for the best selling commodity in the product line. A percentage figure for this increase is derived which is applied to the base period price of each commodity in the product line. This method may be more appropriate than Method 2 if you have a number of closely related commodities whose material cost increases have been about the same.

(4) Method 4. Method 4 may also be used for a product line or it may be used for a category. It is based upon the increase in the cost of the bill of materials used in producing the goods sold during an accounting period of three months or less. Like Methods 1 and 3 it yields a uniform materials cost adjustment factor for all commodities in the product line or category. If your records are in a form which permits you to use this method, you may find it simpler to apply than Method 1.

(c) You may select whichever one of the four methods you consider best suited to the nature of your business and most adaptable to the records you maintain. If you select the first, third, or fourth method, you must use it for each commodity in the particular unit of business involved (or for all of your commodities if your calculations are based upon your entire business), product line or category.

SEC. 12. Omission of certain manufacturing materials from your calculations. Under any of the four alternative methods which you use for calculating "the materials cost adjustment" you may omit from your calculations any manufacturing material which is not significant or whose cost to you has not decreased between the prescribed dates. Consequently, a reference to "each manufacturing material" under any of the four methods means each such material you are including in your calculations.

SEC. 13. Method 1 (Aggregate method). To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amount of your net sales for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950, for your entire business, or for a unit of your business for which you regularly maintain accounts and in which the commodity being priced is produced. You may not, however, use your entire business for this calculation if you operate more than one plant. Nor may you use a unit of your business which includes the output of more than one plant, although you may use a unit less inclusive than a plant. If you use a unit of your business, you must include in net sales the value of any commodity or material transferred from that unit to another unit of your business. The value shall be that shown in your records. If your records do not show a value, you may not use that unit of your business for making your calculations.

(b) Multiply the physical amount of each manufacturing material which you used during the same fiscal year either in your entire business or in a unit of your business, whichever you are calculating on, by the dollars-and-cents amount of the change in net cost per unit of the material to you between the end of your base period and December 31, 1950. The term "end of your base period" is explained in section 47 (Definitions). For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951, and for any material listed in Appendix C you may include the increase to any current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Before starting to figure the change in net cost per unit of the material, you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(c) Add together the resuting figures derived under paragraph (b) of this section which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. Subtract the total of the decreases from the total of the increases.

(d) Divide the final figure derived under paragraph (c) of this section by the amount of your net sales found under paragraph (a) of this section. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor".

(e) Multiply the base period price of the commodity being priced by your materials cost adjustment factor. This will give "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(f) If you use this section and your calculations are based upon your entire business, the materials cost adjustment factor which you derive must be used for all of your commodities. If your calculations are based upon a particular unit of your business, the materials cost adjustment factor which you derive must be used for all commodities produced in that unit and may not be used for commodities produced in any other unit of your business.

(g) You may not use this section if you have replaced, in any significant degree, the materials used by you during your base period with lower-priced substitute materials. (For example, if you are a manufacturer of rubber automobile tires, and you are now using a significantly larger percentage of synthetic rubber than you did in your base period, you may not use Method 1.)

SEC. 14. Method 2 (Individual commodity method). To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the physical amount of each manufacturing material which you normally used in your base period per unit of the commodity being priced.

(b) Multiply this physical amount of each of these manufacturing materials by the change in its net cost per unit to you between (1) the last day of the base period you elected for the commodity being priced and (2) December 31, 1950. For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951, and for any material listed in Appendix C you may figure the change to a current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Before starting to figure the change in net cost, you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(c) Add together the resulting figures derived under paragraph (b) of this section which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. The difference between these totals is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

Example: The commodity you are pricing use three different manufacturing materials. For each unit of the commodity, you require 5 pounds of material A, 10 pounds of material B, and 1 gallon of material C. Before Korea, material A cost you $1.00 per pound, material B $2.00 per pound and material C $0.50 per gallon. Your net cost per unit of material A on your last invoice before December 31, 1950 was $1.50 and for material B it was still $2.00. Material C is listed in Appendix B: your last invoice prior to March 15, 1951 was $1.00 per gallon. Your increase for material A was, therefore, 5 multiplied by 50 cents (the difference between $1.50 and $1.00) or $2.50. Material B has not changed in price and may, therefore, be omitted. For material C, 1 gallon multiplied by 50 cents equals 50 cents. In addition, the commodity was enameled for you by an outside contractor at a cost of $1.00 per unit before Korea, and the price for the service as of March 15, 1951 was $1.25, a difference of 25 cents. Your materials cost increase for the commodity is, therefore, $2.50 for material A, 50 cents for material C, and 25 cents for the enameling service, or a total of $3.25. This is "the materials cost adjustment".

SEC. 15. Method 3 (Product line method using best selling commodity). This method is essentially the same as Method 2 except that the calculations are made for the best selling commodity in a product line. To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Select the best selling commodity in the product line of which the commodity being priced is a part.

(1) "Product line" refers to a group of closely related commodities which differ in such respects as style, model or size and which are normally classed together as a product line in your industry. Generally speaking, each commodity in the same product line must serve the same purpose and must be made by the same manufacturing process from substantially the same materials. A product line may never be broader than a category and usually will be narrower. The relationship between the commodities will normally be substantially closer in a product line than in a category. For example, stripped, standard and deluxe models of refrigerators are separate product lines, but a single category.

(2) "The best selling commodity" refers to the commodity in a product line which accounted for the greatest dollar volume of sales in the product line in your base period.

(b) Using the best selling commodity, make the calculations prescribed in section 14. This will give "the materials cost adjustment" for the best selling commodity, i. e., the amount to be added to its base period price.

(c) Divide "the materials cost adjustment" by the base period price of the best selling commodity. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor."

(d) Apply your materials cost adjustment factor to the base period price of each commodity in the product line. The resulting figure for each commodity is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price of that commodity in accordance with section 3 (a).

(e) If you use this section it must be used for each commodity in the product line for which you have made your calculations.

Example: You have three commodities in a product line, whose base period prices were $8, $10 and $12, respectively. The best selling item was the $10 commodity. "The materials cost adjustment" for that commodity calculated under section 14 was $2, or 20 percent. "The materials cost adjustment" for the $8 commodity is, therefore, 20 percent of $8, or $1.60, and for the $12 commodity, 20 percent of $12, or $2.40.

SEC. 16. Method 4 (Composite bill of materials method). Under this method you make your calculations for the increase in your manufacturing materials cost for a product line or a category. To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the total net sales of all commodities in the product line or category for your last complete accounting period of three months or less ended not later than the last day of your base period (or if your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, ended not later than June 30, 1950). You must include in net sales the value, as shown in your records, of any transfer of a commodity in that product line or category to another unit of your business. If your records do not show a value, you may not use this section for that product line or category.

(b) Find the total physical amount of each manufacturing material used in producing the commodities in that product line or category sold in that accounting period. (Note that, in contrast to Method 1, you find here the physical bill of materials used in producing the goods sold in a short accounting period; while, under Method 1, you find the aggregate quantities of materials used, i. e., put into the production process, in an annual accounting period).

(c) Multiply this total physical amount by the dollars-and-cents change, between (1) the end of your base period and (2) December 31, 1950, in net cost to you per unit of the material used. For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951 and for any material listed in Appendix C you may figure the change to a current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Add together the resulting figures which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. The difference between these totals is your increase in manufacturing materials cost. Before starting to figure the change in net cost you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(d) Divide your increase in manufacturing materials cost derived under paragraph (c) of this section by the amount of your net sales found under paragraph (a) of this section. This percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor."

(e) Apply your materials cost adjustment factor derived under paragraph (d) of this section to the base period price of the commodity being priced. The resulting figure is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(f) You may use this section only if you use it for each commodity included in the product line or category.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED IN CALCULATING THE MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 17. General nature of these instructions. Section 18 will apply to your calculations irrespective of which of the four alternative methods you use. Sections 19 through 23 may be applicable to you depending upon whether you are covered by certain described situations which are briefly indicated by the section heading and opening sentence of the section.

SEC. 18. How to compute the net cost to you of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date. Under any of the four alternative methods you may use for calculating "the materials cost adjustment," you must figure the change, between prescribed dates, in the net cost to you per unit of each manufacturing material included in your calculations. (The earlier "prescribed date" is June 24, 1950, or another date depending on the base period you elected. The later "prescribed date" is December 31, 1950, March 15, 1951 or a current date as permitted by section 21). To determine the net cost to you per unit of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date, you use the first of the following prices available to you. In no event may the price you use be in excess of the ceiling price under a ceiling price regulation in effect on the date of issuance of this regulation. If you use paragraphs (c), (d) or (e) of this section, you must disregard any price based upon a departure from your normal buying practices. Such a departure would include quantities smaller than those you usually purchase or contract for, or use of a more distant or different class of supplier (other than the United States), or use of subcontracted industrial services in an amount in excess of that used in your base period. For example, you must disregard any price based upon a change in your source of supply from a manufacturer to a reseller or warehouseman or from a domestic to a foreign source of supply. Likewise, you must disregard any price which is based upon a purchase of conversion steel, except as permitted in section 44.

(a) The exchange quotation for the nearest monthly contract as of the close of business on the prescribed date (or the nearest preceding date for which such a quotation is available) for any commodity traded regularly upon a commodity exchange operating under the jurisdiction of the Commodity Exchange Authority or the Sugar Exchanges and you must use the quotation for both of the prescribed dates. Also you must use the same commodity exchange for both of the prescribed dates. If the commodity is one which is not itself quoted on such an exchange, but another grade of that commodity is so quoted, you may use the exchange quotation for such other grade provided you do so for both of the prescribed dates.

(b) The selling price for rubber as of the prescribed date established by an agency of the United States Government.

(c) The net price per unit of the material shown on the invoice for the last delivery of the material to you prior to the prescribed date. If, however, the delivery was received more than 30 days prior to the prescribed date or was pursuant to a contract bearing a firm price entered into more than 60 days prior to the prescribed date, you may not use this paragraph (c). If within 30 days prior to each of the applicable prescribed dates, you received more than one delivery of the same manufacturing material, you must use an average price for each such date. You obtain this average price by dividing the net amount you paid for all deliveries of the material during each of the 30-day periods by the total number of units of the material delivered to you during each period. In obtaining this average price you should not include any delivery made pursuant to a contract bearing a firm price entered into more than sixty days prior to the prescribed date. The average price for each period is the price you use for each of the respective prescribed dates. The term "30 days" as used in this paragraph means either a period of 30 consecutive days or an accounting month customarily used by you, provided that it is the last accounting month terminating not later than the applicable prescribed date. Where the applicable prescribed date is June 24, 1950 you may use an accounting month terminating not later than June 30, 1950.

[Paragraph (c) amended by Amdt. 3]

(d) The net price per unit of the material stipulated in the written contract for the material which you entered into last prior to the prescribed date, provided that it was entered into not more than 60 days prior thereto.

(e) The net price per unit of the material stipulated in the written offer for sale of the material to you made last prior to the prescribed date provided that the offer was made within 60 days prior to the prescribed date and that you still have the written offer or obtain a copy of it from the offeror.

(f) If none of the foregoing is available to you for one or both of the applicable prescribed dates, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for an appropriate increase in the cost of the manufacturing materials for use in your calculations. If you make such an application, you must refer specifically to this paragraph; you must describe the commodity being priced and the manufacturing material; you must propose the amount of increase per unit of the manufacturing material you consider appropriate based upon what you would have paid for the material if you had purchased it on each of the applicable prescribed dates; you must set forth in detail supporting reasons and why this paragraph is applicable. You must file this application before using the increase you propose. Although you need not await a reply from the Director of Price Stabilization, he may at any time disapprove the increase you propose, stipulate the amount of increase which he will approve or request additional information.

SEC. 19. How to compute net cost as of the applicable prescribed dates where you are using a substitute material not used during the base period or used in lesser quantities. In the case of a substitute material not used by you during the base period (or used in lesser quantities or proportions) in the manufacture of the commodity being priced, you must, if you are using Methods 2, 3, or 4 for calculating "the materials cost adjustment", compute the net cost to you as of the end of your base period of the physical amounts of the materials normally used by you in your base period and the net cost to you as of December 31, 1950, March 15, 1951, or a current date, whichever date is applicable, of the physical amounts of the materials normally used by you now. The physical amounts of those materials normally used by you in your base period and now must relate to the same quantity of production of the commodities being priced in the case of Method 4, to a unit of the commodity being priced in the case of Method 2, and to a unit of the best selling commodity in the case of Method 3. Since this calculation cannot be made accurately under Method 1 (section 13), you may not use that method for any unit of your business in which you are now using significant quantities of a substitute material whose current unit cost is lower than the current unit cost of the material used by you during the base period. However, if the current unit cost of the substitute material is the same or higher than the current unit cost of the material used by you during the base period, you may use Method 1, but without making any allowance for the higher cost of the substitute material.

[Sec. 19 amended by Amdt. 3]

SEC. 20. Inclusion of transportation costs in the computation of net cost of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date. If a quotation, invoice, contract, or written offer which you use under section 18 did not include transportation costs for delivery of the material to you, you may add the actual amount of the transportation costs which you paid or would have paid for delivery of the material to you, provided that you include them in your determination of the net price of the material as of both dates.

SEC. 21. Calculation of the increase in net cost per unit of materials covered by Appendix C—(a) General description of this section. You will be concerned with this section only if a manufacturing material you propose to include in your calculations of "the materials cost adjustment" is one of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C or a product processed therefrom. Appendix C lists certain agricultural commodities selling below the minimum prices required to be reflected to producers by section 402 (d) (3) of the Defense Production Act of 1950. The following paragraphs of this section contain, among other things, special instructions relating to the particular dates to be used in your calculations of cost increases of these commodities.

(b) Calculation by manufacturers of food products. If the commodity you are pricing is a food product you may, subject to the limitations in paragraph (d) of this section, use a current date in figuring the change in net cost per unit of any of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C, or of any food products processed from these listed agricultural commodities.

(c) Calculation by manufacturers of non-food products. (1) If the commodity you are pricing is a non-food product you may, subject to the limitations in paragraph (d) of this section, use a current date in figuring the change in net cost per unit of any of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C, but you must use March 15, 1951, as the date for figuring the change in net cost per unit of any products processed from those listed agricultural commodities.

(2) If the commodity you are pricing is made in whole or in substantial part from a product processed from a listed agricultural commodity, and you believe that the increase in cost to you, since March 15, 1951, of that processed product is due to an increase in the price of the listed agricultural commodity, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization for permission to adjust your ceiling price to reflect that increase in price. Your application must describe the commodity being priced and specify its ceiling price; and must contain a statement based upon a report from your supplier as to what portion of the increase in his price to you of that processed product is directly attributable to the increase in price of the listed agricultural commodity. If the Director of Price Stabilization is satisfied that the information submitted by you shows that only the amount of the increase in price of the listed agricultural commodity is reflected in the adjustment you seek, he will approve your application. If, however, he is not satisfied that you have made such a showing, he may withhold approval of your application and require that you furnish additional information. If thirty days after mailing your application you have not received a reply from the Director of Price Stabilization, you may sell at the adjusted ceiling price you propose until such time as you are notified otherwise by the Director.

(d) Limitations on calculations by all manufacturers—(1) Old inventory. After you have made your first calculation under this section, you may become entitled to increase the ceiling price of the commodity being priced, if the cost to you of a listed agricultural commodity (or product processed therefrom) has increased. But you may not put the ceiling price increase into effect unless and until you have first sold an amount of the commodity you are pricing which is at least equal to the quantity you owned at the close of business on the day you otherwise would have been entitled to put that ceiling-price increase into effect under this section.

(2) Removal from listing. You may not, in figuring the change in net cost of a listed agricultural commodity or product processed therefrom use any date subsequent to the date of deletion of the listed agricultural commodity from Appendix C by the Director of Price Stabilization or any date more than five days subsequent to the date upon which the Secretary of Agriculture announces for the agricultural commodity, by publication in "Agricultural Prices," a price which equals or exceeds both (i) the parity price as set forth in the same publication and (ii) the highest price received by producers of the agricultural commodity during the period May 24 to June 24, 1950, inclusive, both as determined and adjusted by him.

(e) Definition of "food product". The term "food product" refers to a commodity used for, or as an ingredient in, food, drink, confectionery, or condiment by man or other animals, whether simple, mixed, or compound; and fats and oils used for cooking purposes or in the preparation of food for immediate consumption.

(f) Special provisions for Cooperatives, Producer-Processors, etc. (1) If (i) you are a producer-processor, and (ii) you cannot otherwise determine your "materials cost adjustment" for a listed agricultural commodity under paragraphs (b) or (c) of this section because you do not customarily purchase any amount of that commodity from independent producers wholly unaffiliated with you, calculate your "materials cost adjustment" as follows: For purposes of paragraphs (b) or (c) of this section, use as your net costs per unit the same prices (with adjustment for differences in delivery costs) paid by your nearest competitor. Such competitor must be one who buys the same quality of the commodity as do you, buys it in quantities comparable to the quantities in which you buy, and buys it at firm prices for processing. Action under this subparagraph is limited by the provisions of paragraph (d) (2) of this section.

(2) If (i) you are a processor who purchases the listed agricultural commodity under "open" price or deferred payment contracts which relate the price you pay the producer to facts unknown both at the time the raw agricultural commodity is delivered to you and at the time of sale of the processed product, and (ii) you cannot otherwise determine your "materials cost adjustment" for a listed agricultural commodity under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section because you do not customarily purchase any amount of that commodity at prices finally determined at the time of sale, calculate your "materials cost adjustment" as follows: For purposes of paragraph (b) or (c), use as your net costs per unit the same prices (with adjustment for differences in delivery costs) paid by your nearest competitor. Such competitor must be one who buys the same quality of the commodity as do you, buys it in quantities comparable to the quantities in which you buy, and buys it at firm prices for processing. Action under this subparagraph is limited by the provisions of paragraph (d) (2).

(3) If (i) you are a producer-owned cooperative processor, and (ii) you cannot otherwise determine your "materials cost adjustment" for a listed agricultural commodity under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section because you do not customarily purchase any amount of that commodity from independent producers wholly unaffiliated with you, you may increase your ceiling price (as determined under the other sections of this regulation) for products processed from such commodities if the entire dollar-and-cent increase in total gross sales revenue derived from that increase in your ceiling price is passed back to producers within 30 days after the end of each normal accounting period. The amount so passed back must be in addition to the full amount you would normally have passed back to producers had you sold the processed product at the ceiling price determined under the other sections of this regulation. You may not, however, increase your ceiling price after either of the dates set out in paragraph (d) (2) of this section as the final dates that may be used by other processors for figuring changes in net cost.

[Paragraph (f) added by Amdt. 2]

SEC. 22. How to calculate "the materials cost adjustment" for joint products or by-products. This section will concern you only if you manufacture joint products or by-products. If two or more commodities result from the same manufacturing operation or from common materials and you are unable to compute the unit manufacturing materials costs for each under section 14, you calculate "the materials cost adjustment" for each as follows:

(a) Establish an appropriate combined unit of production in which are represented the several commodities in the proportions in which they result from the same manufacturing operation or from common materials. (For example, if a manufacturing operation yields, for each ton of commodity A produced, 3 gallons of commodity B and 520 pounds of commodity C, your combined unit of production could be: one ton of A, three gallons of B and 520 pounds of C; or one gallon of B, 1/3 ton of A and 173.3 pounds of C; or any other combination in which the proportions among the three commodities are maintained.)

(b) Find the dollar value of the combined unit of production using base period prices for each commodity, determined in accordance with section 3. (If the base period price for commodity A was $10 per ton, for commodity B was $1 per gallon and for commodity C was $0.10 per pound, the dollar value of the combined unit of production would be $65 under the first example in (a) above and $21.67 under the second example in (a) above.)

(c) Using the same calculations as in section 14 (substituting, of course, the combined unit of production for the unit referred to therein), compute the increase in manufacturing materials cost per combined unit of production.

(d) Divide the increase in manufacturing materials cost per combined unit of production by the dollar value of that unit as determined under paragraph (b) of this section.

(e) Apply this percentage to the base period price of each of the commodities being priced. The resulting figure for each commodity is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

Example: The total increase in manufacturing materials cost for the combined unit of production illustrated in paragraph (b) above, calculated in accordance with section 14, is $13. $13 divided by $65 is 20 percent. Consequently, "the materials cost adjustment" for commodity A is 20 percent of $10, or $2 per ton; for commodity B is 20 percent of $1, or 20 cents per gallon; and for commodity C is 20 percent of $0.10, or 2 cents per lb.

SEC. 23. How to calculate the change in net cost of a manufacturing material which is produced in one unit of your business and transferred to another unit of your business. (a) You will be concerned with this section if you are a multi-unit organization and in your operations you transfer products for further processing or assembly between units of your business for which you regularly maintain separate records. By way of illustration, such transfers may be between departments, plants, branches or divisions. This section deals specifically with a manufacturing material which you produce in one unit of your business and transfer to another unit of your business where it is used in producing the commodity being priced. Such a manufacturing material (which is referred to as a "transferred material") may also be sold to other persons. This section provides three methods for figuring the change in cost of a transferred material in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced. The method you use depends first on how you calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced and second, on whether you also sell the transferred material to other persons.

(b) If you calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced upon the basis of your entire business or of a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced, you may not in calculating the change in cost of that material include any increase in factory labor cost. Your calculation of the change in cost of the transferred material will therefore only take into account changes in the costs of the manufacturing materials directly related to the transferred material. Such change in cost of the transferred material will be included in your calculation of "the material cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

(c) If your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced was not based upon your entire business or upon a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced and if the transferred material is one you sell to other persons, you calculate its change in cost as follows:

(1) Find its base period price (i. e., to your largest buying class of purchaser).

(2) Find its ceiling price under this regulation to your largest buying class of purchaser, or if it is listed in Appendix A, its ceiling price under the applicable ceiling price regulation.

(3) The difference between the figure found under (2) and that found under (1) is the increase or decrease in the cost of the transferred material which you use in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

(d) If your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced was not based upon your entire business or upon a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced and if that material is not one you sell to other persons you calculate its change in cost as follows:

(1) Find the value as shown in your records at which the transferred material was transferred, last prior to the end of your base period (i. e., the base period for the commodity being priced), to the unit of your business in which the commodity being priced is produced.

(2) Using that transfer price as your base period price, determine what the ceiling price would be under this regulation, or such other regulation as would be applicable.

(3) The difference between the figure found under (2) and that found under (1) is the increase or decrease in cost of the material to be used in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

Example: You are pricing a camera the lens for which you produce. The following paragraphs illustrate the application of the three methods prescribed in section 23.

(a) You have treated the department in which the camera is assembled and the department in which the lens is produced as a single unit in computing "the labor cost adjustment" for the camera. You purchase on the outside the optical glass used in the lens. "The materials cost adjustment" for the camera may include, as far as the lens is concerned, only the change in cost of the purchased optical glass.

(b) In calculating "the labor cost adjustment" for the camera you used only the assembly department. You also sell the lens to others and calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the lens upon the basis of the lens department. Therefore, in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the camera, the change in cost of the lens will be the difference between your ceiling price for the lens under this regulation to your largest buying class of purchaser, and your base period price for the lens to that class of purchaser.

(c) Assume the same facts as in (b) except that you produce the lens exclusively for your own use. You must compute what the ceiling price for the lens would be under this regulation, using the value at which the transfer between departments was made on your books last prior to the end of the base period. The difference between your computed ceiling price and your base period transfer value is the amount you use in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the camera.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO CEILING PRICES

SEC. 24. General nature of these provisions. Sections 25 through 29 relate to adjustments of your ceiling prices under certain circumstances. Section 25 relates to rounding ceiling prices. Section 26 relates to retention of ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation where the change in price is less than 1 percent. Section 27 requires that you reduce your ceiling prices to reflect any increase in the value of scrap or waste material generated in your manufacturing processes. Section 28 permits you to adjust your ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for certain increases in transportation costs. Section 29 provides an optional method for adjusting your ceiling prices for commodities manufactured in more than one of your plants.

SEC. 25. Rounding ceiling prices. You may round your ceiling prices determined under this regulation so that they will be expressed in the nearest cents or fraction of cent you normally employ. If you elect to do so you must similarly round the ceiling prices for all your commodities normally priced by you upon the same basis, to reflect decreases as well as increases. In no event may the increase be greater than 1 percent of your ceiling price prior to rounding. For example, if you normally quote to the nearest quarter of a cent and your ceiling price for commodity A is 21.20 cents, you may round that ceiling price to 21¼ cents. However, if your ceiling price for commodity B is 27.30 cents you must round its ceiling price to 27¼ cents.

SEC. 26. Retention of GCPR ceiling price where the change in price is less than 1 percent. If your ceiling price for a commodity as determined under section 3 differs by less than 1 percent from that under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price. However, you may use this section only if you apply it to all your ceiling prices determined under section 3 differing by less than 1 percent from the GCPR ceiling prices, regardless of whether decreases or increases result. For example, your GCPR ceiling price for commodity A is $10 and your ceiling price under section 3 is $9.95. Your GCPR ceiling price for commodity B is $8 and your ceiling price under section 3 is $8.05. You may continue to use $10 as your ceiling price for commodity A, but if you do so you must continue to use $8 as your ceiling price for commodity B.

SEC. 27. Requirement for reduction of your ceiling prices as otherwise determined for any increase in value of scrap or waste material. (a) You will be concerned with this section if in the manufacturing process relating to the commodity being priced you generate any scrap or waste material which you sell to other persons or which is transferred from one unit of your business to another, and if, between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, there has been an increase in the value of such scrap or waste material. However, you need not make the adjustment called for in this section unless your sales of scrap or waste material are significant. They will be considered significant if, for the plant or other unit of your business in which the commodity being priced is produced, the value of your sales or transfers of scrap or waste material exceeded 3 percent of the total value of your sales or transfers of all commodities from that plant or unit during your most recent fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950.

(b) In the circumstances described in paragraph (a) of this section where your sales of scrap or waste material are significant you must make an appropriate reduction in the ceiling prices for each of the commodities resulting from your manufacturing process to reflect the dollars-and-cents amount by which the value of the scrap or waste material generated in the manufacturing process has increased between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951. In calculating this increase in value you should use a method comparable to the one you employed for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced. For instance, if you used Method 2 (section 14) you should calculate the increase in value of your scrap or waste material per unit of the commodity being priced; if you used Method 1 (section 13) you should calculate the increase in value of your scrap or waste material by an aggregate method. The resulting dollars-and-cents amount reflecting the increase in value of your scrap or waste material per unit must be subtracted from your ceiling price as otherwise determined under this regulation.

SEC. 28. Adjustment of ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for increases in transportation costs. If your base period price was, and therefore your ceiling price is, a delivered price, you may adjust your ceiling price to reflect any increase, between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in transportation costs incurred by you (not including warehousing charges). You may include in this adjustment only increases resulting from transportation charges paid by you to other persons (excluding any person who is an employee, subsidiary or affiliate of yours or of whom you are a subsidiary or affiliate). This adjustment is made in the following manner:

(a) Where your base period price for the commodity being priced included full transportation costs from point of shipment to point of delivery, you may adjust your ceiling price by the exact amount of the increase in transportation rates to you between such points, charged by the same carrier or class of carrier for the same class of transportation. You may not include any increase due to changing the class of carrier (e. g., from water or highway to rail) or to changing your customary method or quantity of shipment.

(b) Where your base period price was uniform within defined geographical zones but you maintained an established differential between each zone, you may calculate a transportation cost increase adjustment to be applied to the ceiling price for sales to each zone. This calculation is made in the following manner:

(1) Find the average transportation charge paid by you for deliveries of the commodity being priced to each zone during your last accounting period of not less than three months, ended not later than the end of your base period. If your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, you should use your last accounting period of not less than three months, ended not later than June 30, 1950.

(2) Find what the average transportation charge paid by you for deliveries of that commodity to each zone would be, using the transportation rates actually in effect on March 15, 1951.

(3) The dollars-and-cents amount of the difference between the average transportation charge found under (2) and that found under (1) for each zone may be added to your ceiling price for sales to that zone.

(c) Where your base period price was uniform for all sales of the commodity being priced to any destination within the United States, you may calculate a single transportation cost increase adjustment to be applied to the ceiling price for all sales within the United States in the same manner as under paragraph (b) of this section, treating the United States as a single zone.

SEC. 29. Optional method for determining a uniform ceiling price for a commodity manufactured in more than one plant. If the commodity being priced is manufactured in more than one of your plants and is customarily sold by you at a uniform price, but in adjusting the base period price for each plant different ceiling prices result, you may compute a uniform ceiling price. To do this, you first determine the ceiling price for each plant and multiply it by the number of units of the commodity sold from that plant during the last quarter of 1950. You then divide the total dollar amount of such sales from all plants by the total number of units sold from all plants. The resulting figure is your uniform ceiling price for the commodity. If sales from any of your plants in the last quarter of 1950 were not substantial, you may use the last three consecutive months of substantial sales in 1950, provided that you use the same period for all your plants.

Example: You are producing the same commodity in two plants, and customarily charge the same price from each. However, due to a difference in your wage rate changes, your ceiling price for plant A is $2.00, and for plant B is $2.10. Sales during the last quarter of 1950 were 1500 units from plant A, and 1000 units from plant B. 1500 multiplied by $2.00 is $3,000; 1000 multiplied by $2.10 is $2,100; 1500 plus 1000 is 2500; $3,000 plus $2,100 is $5,100; $5,100 divided by 2500 is $2.04. You may therefore use the uniform ceiling price of $2.04 for sales from both plants.

CEILING PRICES FOR NEW COMMODITIES, NEW SELLERS AND SALES TO NEW CLASSES OF PURCHASERS

SEC. 30. Ceiling prices for new commodities differing only by reason of minor changes from commodities whose ceiling prices are established under this regulation—(a) Ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale between June 25, 1950, and the day prior to the effective date of this regulation. The ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale by you between June 25, 1950 and the day prior to the effective date of this regulation, differing from a commodity you dealt in during the period July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950, only by reason of a minor change in design or construction which does not reduce unit manufacturing materials cost or prevent its offering fairly equivalent service, shall be the ceiling price for the previous commodity established under this regulation. If you are no longer manufacturing the previous commodity, you must establish a ceiling price for it in accordance with this regulation and use that ceiling price as the ceiling price for the commodity being priced. If the new commodity differs from the previous commodity only by reason of the use of a substitute material the new commodity must be priced under section 3.

[Paragraph (a) amended by Amdt. 6]

(b) Ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale on or subsequent to the effective date of this regulation. The ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale by you on or subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, differing from a commodity for which your ceiling price is established under this regulation only by reason of minor changes in material, design or construction which do not reduce unit manufacturing materials cost or prevent its offering fairly equivalent service, shall be the ceiling price for the previous commodity as established under this regulation. If you are no longer manufacturing the previous commodity, you must establish a ceiling price for it in accordance with this regulation and use that ceiling price as the ceiling price for the commodity being priced.

[Paragraph (b) amended by Amdt. 6]

SEC. 31. Optional method for determining ceiling prices for packaged commodities to reflect cost increases since your base period by changing size or quantity. This pricing method may be used in place of section 32 under the circumstances indicated herein. If you wish to use your base period price for a packaged commodity as your ceiling price and to reduce the size or quantity of that commodity to reflect any permissible cost increases since the end of your base period, you may do so in the following manner:

(a) Determine your ceiling price for the commodity in its base period size or quantity.

(b) Calculate the ratio between your base period price for the commodity and your ceiling price.

(c) Apply this ratio to the base period size or quantity of the commodity. The resulting size or quantity is the minimum for which you may use your base period price as your ceiling price.

Example: Your base period price for a 10-ounce package of commodity A was 25 cents and you wish to retain that price as your ceiling price. Your ceiling price for a 10-ounce package of commodity A as determined under this regulation is 30 cents. 25 cents divided by 30 cents is 83.3 percent. 10 ounces multiplied by 83.3 percent is 8 and one-third ounces. Your ceiling price for a package of commodity A containing not less than 8 and one-third ounces is therefore 25 cents.

SEC. 32. Ceiling prices for new commodities falling within categories dealt in during your base period—(a) Description of the pricing method. This section deals with a commodity which cannot be priced under sections 3 or 30, but which falls within a "category" in which you dealt during your base period. You determine your ceiling price by applying to the current unit direct cost of that commodity the percentage markup over the current unit direct cost of a "comparison commodity" (using your ceiling price for the comparison commodity under this regulation), in accordance with the following instructions.

(b) Current unit direct cost. "Current unit direct cost" as used in this section means the sum of the amounts (not higher than permitted by law) which it costs you, or if you are not currently producing it, would cost you for direct labor and materials to produce the commodity at the time you use the pricing method provided by this section. Current unit direct materials cost shall be computed upon the basis of current replacement prices for materials and current unit direct labor cost shall be computed upon the basis of current wage rates for direct labor. The method used in computing current unit direct materials cost and current unit direct labor cost for the new commodity and for the comparison commodity shall be the same in every respect.

(c) Selection of a comparison commodity. The comparison commodity to be used must be in the same category as the commodity being priced and shall be the first of the following which is available to you:

(1) A commodity dealt in during your base period differing from the commodity being priced only by reason of a minor change in size or quantity or of packaging.

(2) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are now manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and which has current unit direct cost the same or lower than that of the commodity being priced.

(3) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are no longer manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost would be the same or lower than that of the commodity being priced.

(4) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are now manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost is next higher to that of the commodity being priced.

(5) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are no longer manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost would be next higher to that of the commodity being priced.

(d) Calculations to determine your ceiling price. Having selected the appropriate comparison commodity, you determine your ceiling price as follows:

(1) Determine your ceiling price for sale of the comparison commodity to your largest buying class of purchaser if you are now manufacturing it, or what it would be if you are no longer manufacturing it, using either sections 3 or 30 of this regulation, whichever is applicable.

(2) Determine the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity, if you are now manufacturing it, or what it would be, if you are no longer manufacturing it.

(3) Subtract the current unit direct cost derived under (2) from the ceiling price derived under (1). This will give the gross dollar margin over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity.

(4) Divide this gross dollar margin over current unit direct cost by the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity. This will give the percentage markup over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity.

(5) Apply this percentage markup to the current unit direct cost of the commodity being priced. This is your ceiling price for sale of that commodity to your largest buying class of purchazer. It must be consistent in every respect with the ceiling price for the comparison commodity, i. e., it must carry your customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale. Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to each of your other classes of purchasers shall be determined in the same manner as under section 3 (c).

Example: (i) Your comparison commodity is one you are no longer manufacturing. You find that its ceiling price under this regulation would be $10. (ii) The current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity would be $6. (iii) $6 subtracted from $10 is $4. This is the current gross dollar margin over direct cost for the comparison commodity. (iv) $4 divided by $6 is 66.7%. This is the percentage margin over direct costs for the comparison commodity. (v) The current unit direct cost for the commodity being priced is $7.50. 66.7% of $7.50 is $5.00. $7.50 plus $5.00 is $12.50. This is your ceiling price for the commodity being priced.

(e) Category. Category means a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production, accounting or sales. Section 46 of this regulation continues in effect certain provisions of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation which among other things prescribes that you must prepare and preserve a list of your categories. If the list you have prepared is not representative of your categories during your base period for this regulation, you should prepare such a list by the effective date of this regulation and thereafter preserve it. In applying the pricing provisions of this section, you should refer to it. You might, for example, have a category such as one of the following: desks, office, steel; desks, office, wood; dishwashers, domestic; ranges, domestic, electric; ranges, domestic, gas; refrigerators, household; room air conditioner to 1 h/p; vacuum cleaners, domestic; washing machines, domestic.

[Paragraph (e) amended by Amdt. 6]

(f) Required report. (1) Before selling any commodity for which you have determined a ceiling price under this section, except as permitted under subparagraph (2) below, you must file the report required by paragraph (g) of this section with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., and in addition you may not sell the commodity until 15 days after mailing your report; thereafter you may sell the commodity at your proposed ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved or that more information is required. In the event that more information is required you may not sell until 15 days after mailing the additional information.

(2) You need not prepare or file the report required by paragraph (g) of this section with the Director of Price Stabilization, if total net sales of the commodity required to be priced under this section are not expected to exceed ten thousand dollars in value; but no sales of the commodity which would result in its total net sales equaling or exceeding ten thousand dollars in value may be made until after a report has been filed. Appropriate records and work sheets relating to the computation of your ceiling prices must be preserved as prescribed in section 46.

[Subparagraph (2) added by Amdt. 3]

(3) In case, however, the commodity is one required to be priced under this section, and which, prior to the effective date of this regulation, you sold or offered for sale upon the basis of a ceiling price determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price until 15 days after the effective date of this regulation.

[Paragraph (f) amended by Amdt. 3]

(g) Information required in report. Your report should state the name and address of your company; a description of the commodity being priced; the comparison commodity and an explanation why you have selected the comparison commodity as such; a description of the category in which the commodity being priced and the comparison commodity fall; your ceiling price to the largest buying class of purchaser of your comparison commodity, or if you are not now manufacturing it what this ceiling price would be; a detailed breakdown of the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity, or what it would be; the gross margin, and the percentage markup over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity; a detailed breakdown of the current unit direct cost of the commodity being priced; the ceiling price of the commodity being priced; delivery, discount, guaranty and servicing terms and conditions and differentials in effect for sales to purchasers of various classes with respect to the comparison commodity.

SEC. 33. Ceiling prices for commodities in new categories, for new sellers and for sales to an entirely new class of purchaser. (a) (1) If you are pricing a commodity which is in a different category from any dealt in by you between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, or which you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser as referred to in section 3 (c), your ceiling price is the same as the ceiling price of your most closely competitive seller of the same class selling the same commodity to the same class of purchaser. A ceiling price so determined must be in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

(2) Before selling any commodity for which you have determined a ceiling price under this section, you must file the report required by paragraph (b) of this section with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., and in addition, you may not sell the commodity until 15 days after mailing your report; thereafter, you may sell the commodity at your proposed ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved or that more information is required. In the event that more information is required you may not sell until 15 days after mailing the additional information.

(3) In case, however, the commodity is one required to be priced under this section, and which, prior to the effective date of this regulation, you sold or offered for sale upon the basis of a ceiling price determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price until 30 days from the date this regulation becomes effective for your most closely competitive seller of the same class selling the same commodity to the same class of purchaser or 30 days from the date this regulation becomes effective as to you, whichever is later.

[Paragraph (3) amended by Amdt. 6]

[Paragraph (f) amended by Amdt. 3]

(g) Information required in report. Your report should state the name and address of your company; the new categories in which the commodities fall and the most comparable categories dealt in by you during the base period; the name, address and type of business of your most closely competitive seller of the same class; a statement of his ceiling price and his differentials to each of his classes of purchasers; your reasons for selecting him as your most closely competitive seller; a statement of your customary price differentials; and, if you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser, a description of such class of purchaser. If you are starting a new business, you should include a statement whether you or the principal owner of your business are now or during the past 12 months have been engaged in any capacity in the same or a similar business at any other establishment, and, if so, the trade name and address of each such establishment. Your report should include the following: Your proposed ceiling price and the specifications of the commodity you are pricing; the manufacturing process involved; a detailed breakdown of your unit direct costs; the reason you believe the proposed ceiling price is in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation; and the types of customers to whom you will be selling.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 34. Sellers who cannot price under other sections. (a) If you claim that you are unable to determine your ceiling price for a commodity under any of the foregoing provisions of this regulation, you may apply in writing to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for the establishment of a ceiling price. This application shall contain an explanation of why you are unable to determine your ceiling price under any other provision of this regulation; all of the information called for under section 33 to the extent you are able to furnish it; and the method used by you to determine your proposed ceiling price. You may not sell the commodity until the Director of Price Stabilization notifies you, in writing, of your ceiling price, except as permitted in paragraphs (b) or (d).

[Paragraph (a) amended by Amdts. 3 and 6]

(b) If your ceiling price was determined under section 7 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may, after making the application prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, continue to use that ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved, or that more information is required.

[Paragraph (b) added by Amdt. 3]

(c) If your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation was established under section 7 of that regulation by letter order of the Director of Price Stabilization, you need not repeat in your application for a price under this section any information which you have already submitted to the Director of Price Stabilization and which, in the light of the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, is still accurate.

[Paragraph (c) added by Amdt. 3]

(d) If your ceiling price was determined under section 3 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may, after making the application prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, continue to use your ceiling price as so determined until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization of your ceiling price under this section.

[Paragraph (d) added by Amdt. 6]

SEC. 35. Export sales. Your sales for export are subject to the provisions of this regulation.

SEC. 36. Excise, sales, and other similar taxes—(a) Where the tax is included in your base period price. If your base period price for a commodity you are using to determine your ceiling price either for that commodity or another commodity includes any excise, sales or other similar tax which is not separately stated, you must first ascertain the amount of any such tax and exclude it from your base period price. Your base period price, with any such tax so excluded, may then be used in making any appropriate computations for determining your ceiling price. After completing the computations, you may then add on the appropriate amount of any such tax for inclusion as part of your ceiling price. In the case of any increase in such a tax subsequent to the end of your base period, you may include the appropriate amount of any such increase as part of your ceiling price. Likewise, in the case of any similar tax first imposed subsequent to the end of your base period and included in your selling price thereafter, you may include the appropriate amount of such tax as part of your ceiling price.

(b) Where the tax is separately stated and collected. In addition to your ceiling price determined under this regulation, you may collect the amount of any excise, sales or other similar tax paid by you as such only if it has been your practice to state and collect such taxes separately from your selling price for the same or similar commodities. In the case of such a tax imposed by law which is not effective until after the effective date of this regulation, or of any increase in such a tax subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, you may collect the amount of the tax actually paid as such by you, if not prohibited by the tax law. You must in all such cases state separately the amount of the tax.

SEC. 37. Prohibition against redetermination of ceiling prices. Once you have reported your ceiling price or a proposed ceiling price for a commodity as required by this regulation, you may not thereafter redetermine it except for redeterminations due to the increase in cost of agricultural commodities or products processed therefrom in accordance with section 21. A purely arithmetical error may, however, be corrected, but the correction must be reported to the Director of Price Stabilization.

SEC. 38. Modification of ceiling prices by the Director of Price Stabilization.

The Director of Price Stabilization may at any time disapprove or revise downward ceiling prices proposed to be used or being used under this regulation so as to bring them into line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation. Such downward revisions may, of course, be accompanied by upward revisions—as in a case where the Director of Price Stabilization requires an apportionment of the "materials cost increase" for a unit of your business to avoid any inequities resulting from the application of sections 13 or 16.

SEC. 39. Recalculation of ceiling prices and announcement of "materials cost increase factors". The Director of Price Stabilization expects in due course to issue an amendment to this regulation providing for a recalculation of your ceiling prices hereunder. The primary purpose of this recalculation would be to reflect more accurately the materials prices established by this and other ceiling price regulations. The Director of Price Stabilization may also from time to time announce "materials cost increase factors" for certain materials in order to provide greater uniformity in the calculation of their change in price since the end of your base period. These factors will be percentage figures based on studies of some categories of important basic materials and parts. If such a factor is announced, it must be used in place of any change you have had in the price of the material covered by the factor, regardless of whether the factor is higher or lower. These "materials cost increase factors" may be announced by amendments or by supplementary regulations to this regulation.

SEC. 40. Adjustable pricing. Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prohibit your making a contract or offer to sell a commodity at (a) the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery or (b) the lower of a fixed price or the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery. You may not, however, deliver or agree to deliver a commodity at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in a ceiling price after delivery.

SEC. 41. Petitions for amendment. If you wish to have this regulation amended, you may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Price Procedural Regulation 1 (15 F. R. 9055).

SEC. 42. Supplementary regulations. The Director of Price Stabilization may issue supplementary regulations modifying or implementing this regulation as he deems appropriate.

SEC. 43. Adjustment of ceiling prices where over-all loss in operations results. (a) This section permits you to apply for an upward adjustment of your ceiling prices established by this regulation, if as a result of these ceiling prices, you would operate at a loss.

(b) You may apply under this section if:

(1) Your total manufacturing operations have been conducted at a net loss for a period of operation under this regulation of at least one month, or would have been conducted at a loss if you had manufactured the commodities covered by this regulation in your customary quantities and proportions:

(2) The loss was attributable to the level of prices established by this regulation, and not to any of the following:

(i) Seasonal, non-recurring or temporary factors affecting your operations; or

(ii) A reduction in volume of production below the normal economical capacity of your plant; or

(iii) The payment of unlawful wages or excessive salaries or of unlawful or excessive prices for materials; or

(iv) The incurring of factory overhead costs or of selling, administrative and general costs which are abnormally high relative to sales or other costs unless such excess is demonstrated by clear and convincing evidence to have been unavoidable in the exercise of sound business judgment and management; or

(v) Any transactions with affiliated corporations or businesses which either are of a kind which would not result from arm's-length bargaining or differ from the transactions which you have customarily had with such affiliated corporations or businesses; or

(vi) Reserves for contingencies.

(3) The adjusted prices for which you apply will not be substantially out-of-line with the ceiling prices for similar commodities established for other sellers under this regulation.

(c) If you make application under this section, you must supply:

(1) Your name, address, a description of your manufacturing facilities and of the commodities you manufacture, a statement of the principal types of customers to whom you sell;

(2) A detailed annual profit and loss statement for your firm for the years 1946 through 1949, and both an annual profit and loss statement, and if you regularly prepare them, quarterly profit and loss statements covering the year 1950 and each quarter since then;

(3) A detailed profit and loss statement covering a period of operations of one month or more under this regulation, together with a careful explanation of how it was prepared, including particularly a justification of any estimating procedures used in its preparation;

(4) For commodities covered by this regulation, either (i) a statement of your base period and ceiling prices to your largest buying class of purchaser (including delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale) and a schedule of your price differentials to your other classes of purchasers; or (ii) a copy of the report required and submitted to the Office of Price Stabilization; together with (iii) a statement of the section or sections under which you established your ceiling prices.

(5) A showing that the loss in your current operations was not due to any of the six factors in paragraph (b) (2) of this section.

(6) A list of your principal competitors, and a statement of their ceiling prices under this regulation for commodities similar to yours, together with data showing the past relationship of your prices to those they have charged for the same or similar commodities;

(7) A proposed schedule of adjusted ceiling prices for commodities covered by this regulation, and a demonstration that, if these prices were charged, your operations would be at a break-even position.

(8) The application must refer specifically to this section of the regulation, must be signed by a responsible officer of your company, and should be sent to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C.

(d) Within thirty days of the receipt of your application, the Director will grant or deny your application in full or in part, or request further information. The Director may, as a condition of granting your application in full or in part, require you to submit reports of subsequent operations and may revoke or modify the adjustment at any time. If, thirty days after the acknowledgment of receipt of your application, none of the actions listed above has been taken, you may sell at your proposed ceiling prices until such time as the Director shall notify you that these prices have been disapproved.

SEC. 44. Use of "conversion steel" in calculating "the materials cost adjustment".—(a) Purpose of this section. In calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for a commodity under this regulation, you are not permitted to reflect in your calculations any increase in materials cost occasioned by use of so-called "conversion steel". However, if you believe that this requirement imposes upon you a serious inequity because you are required by NPA Order M-47 (16 F. R. 3130) of the National Production Authority to use more conversion steel than you used in your base period, you may apply for permission to reflect such increase in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment".

(b) How to apply. Under the circumstances described in paragraph (a) of this section, you may make application, signed by a responsible officer of your company, and sent by registered mail, to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., referring specifically to this section and supplying the following information:

(1) A statement describing the nature of your manufacturing operations, and, particularly, the commodities in which conversion steel is used.

(2) A detailed statement showing all of your purchases of steel (whether conversion steel or not) in your base period, and in the three months ended March 31, 1951, listing, for each such purchase, the date, the name and address of the supplier, the exact specifications of the steel purchased, the price paid (including all discounts, extras, terms, delivery charges, etc.), and the amount purchased. If you sold any steel in either of these periods, you must give full details as to such sales.

(3) A detailed statement establishing the amount of "conversion steel" you are required to use under NPA Order M-47 of the National Production Authority.

(4) A detailed statement showing how you propose to reflect in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" the increase, since the end of your base period, in the cost of steel (including conversion steel), in the amount and to the extent that you are required to use such steel under NPA Order M-47 of the National Production Authority.

(c) Action on your application. Within thirty days after the receipt of the application described above, the Director will grant or deny, in whole or in part, your application, or notify you that further information is required. If, at the end of thirty days, the Director has done none of the above, you may begin to sell at ceiling prices calculated in accordance with "the materials cost adjustment" you propose. (In the meantime you may, after the effective date of this regulation, sell at a ceiling price calculated without reference to your use of conversion steel.) At any time thereafter, the Director may notify you that further information is required or may deny your application, in whole or in part, but such denial shall not be retroactive as to deliveries previously made.

SEC. 45. Temporary adjustments to carry out existing contracts.—(a) Who may apply for adjustment. If at any time prior to the issuance date of this regulation, you entered into a bona fide contract for delivery of a commodity at a firm price subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, and if your ceiling price as determined under this regulation is lower than the contract price, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization for an adjustment of your ceiling price, Provided:

(1) The contract for future delivery was required by seasonal demands or normal business practices.

(2) The contract, if entered into subsequent to January 26, 1951, called for deliveries at a price which was lawful under ceiling price regulations in effect at that time.

(3) You acquired needed raw materials or component parts after the date of the contract at lawful prices in reliance upon and in order to fulfill the terms of the contract.

(b) Calculation of the amount of the adjustment. The adjusted ceiling price will be fixed in the following way:

(1) Take the total price of the quantity of raw materials or component parts acquired in reliance upon, and necessary in order to fulfill, the contract.

(2) Compute what the total price of the same quantity of raw materials or component parts would be as of the later of the two applicable prescribed dates used for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment". In computing what that total price would be, you will, of course, apply the provisions of section 18.

(3) Subtract the figure arrived at in subparagraph (2) from the figure in subparagraph (1). The result is the total amount of the adjustment. If the figure arrived at in subparagraph (1) is no higher than that arrived at in subparagraph (2), you cannot apply for adjustment under this section.

(4) Divide the total amount of the adjustment by the number of units of the commodity called for by the contract. This gives you the adjustment per unit of the commodity. If the contract calls for the delivery of more than one commodity, the total amount of the adjustment may be distributed in any appropriate way among the several commodities.

(5) Add the adjustment per unit of the commodity under (4) to your ceiling price for that commodity. The result is your adjusted ceiling price. In no event, however, may you obtain an adjusted ceiling price higher than the contract price.

Example: You contracted in January 1951 to supply a mail order house 1,000 units of a commodity at $10.00 per unit, delivery to be made during the months of June, July, and August of 1951. Your ceiling price under this regulation is $9.00. In order to comply with the terms of your contract, you purchased raw material sufficient to produce 600 units at a total cost of $4,200. The cost of acquiring the same raw material as of December 31, 1950 (the later of the two applicables dates used in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment") would be $3,500. The total adjustment is $700 ($4,200 minus $3,500 equals $700). The total number of units called for in the contract was 1,000. Divide $700 by 1,000. This gives you 70¢. The adjustment per commodity becomes 70¢ and your adjusted ceiling price for the contract $9.70. Subsequent sales to the contract purchaser and all sales to other purchasers must be at the regular ceiling price of $9.00.

(c) What your application must contain. Applications for adjustment under this section must be filed on or before August 1, 1951, with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Attached to the application should be the following:

1. A copy of the contract;

2. Copies of invoices covering the raw materials or component parts acquired in reliance upon and in order to fulfill the contract;

3. Copies of invoices or other supporting data which indicate your net cost as of the later of the two applicable dates you used in computing "the materials cost adjustment".

4. A copy of the worksheets used in the calculation of your ceiling price.

SEC. 46. Records and reports.—(a) Action on your application. You may not receive payment of any amount in excess of your ceiling price until 30 days after receipt by the Director of Price Stabilization of any application filed under this section. If the Director of Price Stabilization does not revise or modify the adjusted ceiling price reported by you or notify you that further information is required, you may after these 30 days have elapsed receive payment at the adjusted ceiling price for all deliveries made since the date of filing. The Director may, however, at any time revise or modify the adjusted ceiling price, but such revision or modification will not apply to deliveries already made.

5. A report of your adjusted ceiling Record-keeping requirements. (1) With respect to any commodity covered by this regulation the provisions of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation are hereby continued in effect insofar as they apply to the preparation and preservation of "base period records" and such "current records" as have been made as a result of sales between January 26, 1951, and the effective date of this regulation.[1]

(2) (i) You shall prepare and preserve for the life of the Defense Production Act of 1950 and for two years thereafter all records necessary to determine whether you have computed your ceiling prices correctly, including (but not limited to) records showing base period prices and material and labor costs, and records showing costs, prices, and sales for the other applicable periods and dates referred to in the regulation.

(ii) The records to be preserved under this paragraph must include appropriate work sheets. Appendix E contains suggested work sheets for the more important calculations required under this regulation. The work sheets to be preserved may be in the form shown in the appendix; they may be in any other convenient form so long as they include all data and calculations required to determine your ceiling prices.

(3) You shall preserve for a period of two years all records showing the prices at which sales of commodities subject to the regulation have been made.

[1] The portions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation here referred to applicable to manufacturers, are as follows:

SEC. 16. (a) Base period records. You must preserve and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization those records in your possession showing the prices charged by you for the commodities or services which you delivered or offered to deliver during the base period. • • •

(2) In addition, on or before March 22, 1951, you must prepare and preserve a statement showing the categories of commodities in which you made deliveries and offers for delivery during the base period. • • •

(3) On or before March 22, 1951, you must also prepare and preserve a ceiling price list, showing the commodities in each category (listing each model, type, style, and kind), or the services, delivered or offered for delivery by you during the base period together with a description or identification of each such commodity or service and a statement of the ceiling price. Your ceiling price list may refer to an attached price list or catalog. • • •

(4) You must also prepare and preserve a statement of your customary price differentials for terms and conditions of sale and classes of purchasers, which you had in effect during the base period.

• • • • •

(b) Current records. If you sell commodities or services covered by this regulation you must prepare and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization for a period of two years, records of the kind which you customarily keep showing the prices which you charge for the commodities or services. In addition, you must prepare and preserve records indicating clearly the basis upon which you have determined the ceiling price for any commodities or services not delivered by you or offered for delivery during the base period. • • •

"Base period" as used in section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation means December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951.

(b) Reports. (1) You must file with the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., on or before the effective date of this regulation one or more reports on Public Form No. 8 in accordance with the instructions which are a part of that form. Copies of the form may be obtained from any Regional or District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization. This Public Form No. 8 is shown in Appendix D. If you report a ceiling price for any commodity higher than your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you must file your report by registered mail, and you must wait 15 days before selling as provided in section 48.

(2) The Director of Price Stabilization may from time to time require additional information or reports subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget under the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

SEC. 47. Definitions and explanations. Unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions and explanations in this section shall be controlling.

Category. This term is defined in section 5.

Class of purchaser or purchaser of the same class. Class of purchaser is determined in the first instance by reference to your own practice of setting different prices for sales to different purchasers or groups of purchasers. The practice may (but need not) be based on the characteristics or distributive level of the buyer (for instance, manufacturer, wholesaler, individual retail store, retail chain, mail order house, government agency, public institution). It may (but need not) be based on the location of the purchaser or the quantity purchased by him. If you have followed the practice of giving an individual customer a price differing from that charged others, that customer is a separate class of purchaser.

If in your industry a practice prevails of charging different prices for sales to groups of buyers based on their characteristics or distributive level, any such group to whom you did not make sales during your base period and for whom you did not have a customary differential in effect during or before your base period, is a separate class of purchaser as to you.

Commodity. This term includes any item, object, material, article, product or supply.

Delivered. A commodity shall be deemed to have been delivered if it was received by the purchaser or by any carrier, including a carrier owned or controlled by the seller, for shipment to the purchaser.

Director of Price Stabilization. This term also applies to any official (including officials of Regional or District offices) to whom the Director of Price Stabilization by order delegates a function, power or authority referred to in this regulation.

End of your base period. This term means June 24, 1950, if your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, or if you elected a previous calendar quarter as your base period in accordance with section 4, it means the last day of that quarter. If, however, you have elected different base periods for different commodities or categories in accordance with sections 4 or 5, the date you will use as the end of your base period is determined as follows:

(a) If you are calculating "the labor cost adjustment" or "the materials cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business, and your base period is the same for all commodities produced in that unit, the last day of that base period is the end of your base period.

(b) If you are calculating "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business or of a unit of your business and your base period for all of the commodities being priced is not the same, the last day of the particular base period you have elected which covers the group of commodities having the largest aggregate dollar volume of sales in calendar or fiscal year 1950 is the end of your base period for your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment."

(c) If you are calculating the "materials cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business or a unit of your business and your base period for all of the commodities being priced is not the same, the last day of the particular base period you have elected for the group of commodities having the largest aggregate dollar volume of sales in calendar or fiscal year 1950 is the end of your base period for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment."

(d) If you are calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for a commodity under method 2 (section 14) or method 3 (section 15) the end of your base period is the last day of the particular base period you are using.

Largest buying class of purchaser. This term refers to the "class of purchaser" of a commodity which bought from you the largest dollar amount of that commodity during your base period. It does not, however, include the United States or any agency thereof, any foreign purchaser, or any person to whom the only sales made during your base period were made under a written contract of at least 6 months' duration entered into prior to the base period, unless the United States or any agency thereof, any foreign purchaser or such contract purchaser was your only class of purchaser.

Manufacturer. This term includes a producer, processor, assembler, finisher, printer or fabricator. You are not a manufacturer unless you substantially change the form of some commodity or commodities, combine two or more commodities into a different one, or create a new commodity from existing ones. If you merely package, label, market, promote, or sell a commodity or combine commodities without substantially changing their form, you are not a manufacturer. If you merely perform an industrial service for the account of others on a commodity you are not a manufacturer with respect to such a commodity.

Manufacturing material. This term is explained in section 10.

Most closely competitive seller of the same class. Your most closely competitive seller of the same class is the seller with whom you are in most direct competition. You are in direct competition with another seller who sells the same type of commodity to the same classes of purchaser in similar quantities on similar terms and with approximately the same amount of service.

Net cost or net price. Each of these terms refers to the cost or price to you of a manufacturing material less any discount (other than a customary cash discount) or allowance you took or could have taken. It does not include separately stated charges such as freight, taxes, etc.

Net sales. This term refers to gross sales after trade discounts, less returns and allowances. In the case of sales where the selling price is a delivered price, transportation charges should not be deducted. This term does not include sales of commodities of which you are not the manufacturer.

[Last sentence above added by Amdt. 3]

Person. This term includes any individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or legal successors or representatives of the foregoing, and the United States or any other Government or their political subdivisions or agencies.

Plant. This term refers to a single physical location where business is conducted or industrial operations are performed, for example, a factory or a mill. If such a single physical location comprises two or more units, with separate payroll and inventory records, engaged in distinct industrial activities, each unit shall be treated as a plant.

This definition of "plant" is based on the definition of "a manufacturing establishment" in the Standard Industrial Classification which is consistent with that used by the Bureau of Census in the 1947 Census of Manufactures and subsequent surveys.

Product line. This term is explained in section 15.

Records. This term means books or accounts, sales lists, sales slips, orders, vouchers, contracts, receipts, invoices, bills of lading, and other papers and documents.

Sale at retail. Sale at retail means any sale to an ultimate consumer other than a commercial, industrial, governmental or institutional user.

Sell. This term includes sell, supply (with respect to either commodities or services), dispose, barter, exchange, transfer and deliver, and contracts and offers to do any of the foregoing. The terms "buy" and "purchase" shall be construed accordingly.

Service. This term includes any service rendered or supplied, otherwise than by an employee.

Written offer or written offer for sale. Each of these terms refers to an offer for sale made by means of the seller's price list or, if he had no price list, a written offer otherwise made in the seller's customary manner. The term does not include an offer at a price intended to withhold a commodity from the market or used as a bargaining price by a seller who usually sells at a price lower than his asking price.

You. "You" means the person subject to this regulation. "Your" and "yours" are construed accordingly.

SEC. 48. Prohibitions. (a) On and after the effective date of this regulation, regardless of any contract or other obligation, (1) you shall not sell any commodity subject to this regulation at a price exceeding your ceiling price as determined under this regulation, and (2) no person shall buy from you in the regular course of business or trade any commodity subject to this regulation at a price exceeding your ceiling price as determined under this regulation.

(b) On and after the effective date of this regulation you shall not sell any commodity subject to this regulation unless you have complied with the report requirements of sections 32, 33, or 46, whichever is applicable.

(c) In the event your ceiling price for a commodity under this regulation is higher than your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation you shall not sell that commodity at a price exceeding your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, except under the following conditions:

(1) You must send by registered mail a report, relating to that commodity, on Public Form No. 8 (shown in Appendix D) to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Copies of this form can be obtained from any Regional or District office of the Office of Price Stabilization.

(2) You must wait 15 days after the date of receipt by the Director of Price Stabilization of the report, as shown on your return receipt.

(3) At the end of that 15-day period, or on or after the effective date of this regulation, whichever is later, you may deliver that commodity at your ceiling price as determined under this regulation, unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization to continue using your GCPR ceiling price, or such higher ceiling price as he may permit, either because your ceiling price proposed under this regulation has been disapproved in whole or in part, or because more information is required.

SEC. 48a. Transfers of business or stock in trade. If the business, assets or stock in trade are sold, or otherwise transferred, after the issue date of this regulation, and the transferee carries on the business, or continues to deal in the same type of commodity, in an establishment separate from any other establishment previously owned or operated by him, the ceiling prices of the transferee shall be the same as those to which his transferor would have been subject if no such transfer had taken place, and his obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such prices shall be the same. The transferor shall either preserve and make available, or turn over, to the transferee all records of transactions prior to the transfer which are necessary to enable the transferee to comply with the provisions of this regulation.

SEC. 49. Charges lower than ceiling prices. Lower prices than those established under this regulation may be charged, demanded, paid or offered.

SEC. 50. Evasion. Any practice which results in obtaining indirectly a higher price than is permitted by this regulation is a violation of this regulation. Such practices include, but are not limited to, devices making use of commissions, services, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, tie in agreements and trade understandings.

SEC. 51. Violation—(a) Civil and criminal action. Persons violating any provision of this regulation are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, and suits for treble damages provided for by the Defense Production Act of 1950.

[Title amended by Amdt. 3]

(b) Violations of record-keeping and reporting requirements. If any person subject to this regulation fails to keep the records or file the reports required by this regulation, or if any person subject to this regulation fails to establish a ceiling price or apply to the Office of Price Stabilization for the establishment of a ceiling price, if he is required to do so, the Director of Price Stabilization may issue an order fixing ceiling prices for the commodities such person sells. Any ceiling price fixed in this manner will be in line with ceiling prices established by this regulation. The order fixing the ceiling price may apply to all deliveries or transfers for which a ceiling price was not established in accordance with the provisions of this regulation, including deliveries or transfers completed prior to the date of issuance of the order. The issuance of such an order will not relieve the seller of his obligation to comply with the requirements of this regulation or of the various penalties for failure to do so.

[Paragraph (b) added by Amdt. 3]

Effective date. The effective date of this regulation is July 2, 1951, or such earlier date between May 28, 1951, and July 2, 1951, as you may select. If you select such an earlier date, the regulation becomes effective as to you upon that date for all of your commodities covered by the regulation.

[Effective date amended by Amdt. 6]

NOTE.—The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

BY DAVID C. EBERHART, Recording Secretary.

APPENDIX D

This appendix contains a facsimile of OPS Public Form 8, "Manufacturer's Price Adjustment Report," required to be filed under sections 46 and 48 of this regulation. Printed copies of this form are available at OPS District and Regional Offices.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING OPS PUBLIC FORM NO. 8

Who Must File

Every manufacturer subject to CPR 22 must file this report by July 2, 1951, or such earlier effective date between May 28, 1951, and July 2, 1951, as he may select, as required by sections 46 and 48 of the regulation.

[Above sentence amended by Amdt. 6]

Where Shall the Report Be Filed

Mail to Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Use registered mail if Item 8 is completed.

Why Must the Report Be Filed

This report is designed to inform OPS of adjustments of pre-Korean prices and of proposed ceiling price increases.

How Many Copies Shall Be Filed

A single copy of this report is to be filed for each category or product line, even though the actual price computations have been arrived at by a method applying to a larger unit of your business. Reporting by categories or product lines is needed to facilitate classification and analysis. Many companies will report only one product line. (See instruction for Item 1 below.)

How To Complete the Form

(Make sure to read the regulation and refer to Appendix E for worksheets.)

ITEM 1. DESCRIBE THE CATEGORY OR PRODUCT LINE COVERED BY THIS REPORT. A "category" is defined in the regulation (Section 5) as "a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production accounting or sales." Examples of categories would be: wood office desks; domestic vacuum cleaners; domestic washing machines.

A "product line" is defined in the regulation (Section 15 (a) (1)) as "a group of closely related commodities which differ in such respects as style, model, or size and which are normally classed together as a product line in your industry. Generally speaking, each commodity in the same product line must serve the same purpose and must be made by the same manufacturing process from substantially the same materials." Examples of product lines would be: wringer type washing machines; felt mattresses; ball-point pens.

If the same product line or category was produced by more than one plant and sold at different base period prices, a separate report must be made for each plant and the plant indicated in completing this item.

ITEM 2. GIVE THE DATES OF THE BASE PERIOD USED. "Base period" refers to the period April 1 through June 24, 1950 or any previous calendar quarter ended not earlier than September 30, 1949 which you may elect to use. (See Section 4.)

ITEM 3. ESTIMATED 1950 DOLLAR SALES. Enter in this item the estimated 1950 dollar sales for all the commodities which are included in the category or product line for which the report form is being prepared.

ITEM 4. LABOR COST ADJUSTMENT FACTOR. Enter here the labor cost adjustment factor used pursuant to section 8 (e) or 9 (b) of the regulation. Note that it is the adjustment factor rather than the adjustment which is desired here. The adjustment factor is always a percentage which is applied to the sales or price figure to yield the dollars and cents labor cost adjustment. If you calculated a separate "labor cost adjustment" for each unit of your business enter the labor cost adjustment factor for the unit which produces the category or product line covered by the report.

ITEM 5. MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT FACTOR. If either of methods 1, 3, or 4 has been used for the commodities in this category or product line, you will have arrived at a materials cost adjustment factor under section 13 (d), 15 (c), or 16 (d). This adjustment factor is a percentage to be applied to the sales figure to arrive at the materials cost adjustment.

If you have used method 2, which provides for a separate analysis of material cost for each individual commodity, you will have no "materials cost adjustment factor" but only a dollars and cents "materials cost adjustment" (Section 14 (c)) to be added to the base period price. Give the adjustment figure for a selected commodity, which should be the best selling commodity of the category or product line. Show the actual base period price and identify the commodity.

ITEM 6. PRICE ADJUSTMENT RATIO. You may choose to preserve the price relationships established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation. In this case, you will have arrived at a "price adjustment ratio" under Supplementary Regulation 2 to this regulation. Enter here the ratio which will be applied uniformly to GCPR prices.

ITEM 7. CERTIFICATION REGARDING PROPOSED CEILING PRICE INCREASES OVER GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION. All manufacturers filing this report must complete items 1–6 of the report and sign the certification even though they are not reporting any proposed ceiling price increases in item 8.

ITEM 8. PROPOSED CEILING PRICE INCREASES. (a) Identify the commodity in sufficient detail comparable to that which a fully completed invoice would show. Identify also the physical unit to which the proposed ceiling price refers (for example, pound, dozen, piece).

(b) Give here sufficient information to show the nature of the price computed: largest buying class of customer, delivery terms, cash and other discounts and other important terms and conditions of sale.

(c) Estimated sales in 1950 should be only for the specific commodity for which there is a proposed ceiling price increase, but should include sales to all customers.

(d) Insert the base period price to the largest buying class of purchaser which you determined to the commodity in accordance with Section 6 of the regulation.

(e) Indicate your GCPR price for the commodity.

(f) Indicate the proposed ceiling price as calculated under the provisions of this regulation.

(g) Divide the proposed ceiling price (column (f)) by the GCPR price (column (e)). This will indicate the percentage price increase over the GCPR price which is being proposed.

(h) If you used method 2 for calculating the materials cost adjustment separately for each commodity included in the category or product line covered by this report, then you must show here the materials cost adjustment obtained for the commodity for which a proposed ceiling price increase is shown. If you used method 1, 3 or 4 no entry is required in this column since the adjustment factor shown in Item 5 of the report will apply.

ITEM 9. CODE NUMBER. (a) When you complete this form, insert in the box in the upper right-hand corner the appropriate 6-digit code for the category or product line covered by the report. Determine the code applicable to your report from the list of codes given below.

(b) The first two digits represent the OPS price branch concerned with your category or product line and the next four digits represent the industry class in the Standard Industrial Classification now widely used by private as well as Government agencies.

(c) Your careful selection of the appropriate 6-digit code from the list will expedite the sorting, classification, and analysis of the forms upon receipt in this office.

(d) Although a number of commodity classifications not subject to CPR–22 are included in the codes, Appendix A is nevertheless controlling as to commodities and transactions exempt from CPR–22.

NOTE: If prior to May 4, 1951, the date of issuance of this amendment, you mailed to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., Public Form No. 8, you need not mail another form relating to the same category or product line solely for the purpose of inserting the code.

APPENDIX E

This appendix contains three "worksheets" for certain of the calculations required in determining ceiling prices under this regulation. No actual copies of such worksheets will be printed for distribution by OPS. They are shown only to indicate the content and arrangement of data appropriate for certain important calculations, for a record of these calculations for your own use, for examination by OPS representatives, and for submittal on request to OPS. Any other arrangement which presents the same data and calculations is acceptable.

The worksheets comprise: Worksheet 1, "Labor Cost Adjustment Worksheet," for use in connection with Sections 8 and 9; Worksheet 2, "Materials Cost Adjustment Worksheet for Methods 1 and 4," for use in connection with Sections 13 and 16; and Worksheet 8, "Materials Cost Adjustment Worksheet for Methods 2 and 3," for use in connection with Sections 14 and 15.

Note that the worksheets do not cover all necessary calculations under the regulation for which systematic working papers are necessary. For example, the final determination of a ceiling price will require also computation of actual adjustments (based on the adjustment factors), the addition of these to base period prices, and the application of customary differentials to determine prices to different classes of customers. Moreover, the worksheets are designed for the more usual situation and will not necessarily fit all special computations provided for by the regulations.

CPR 34—SERVICES

SR 1—WHOLESALE DRY CLEANING, FINISHING AND DYEING IN THE NEW YORK CITY AREA

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.) Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738) this Supplementary Regulation 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This Supplementary Regulation 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 34 establishes dollars and cents prices for wholesale dry cleaning, finishing and dyeing services in the New York City area. The services supplied by the wholesalers of dry cleaning, finishing and dyeing services in the New York City area and covering the following counties in New York State: Bronx, Kings, Nassau, New York, Queens, Richmond, Suffolk and Westchester have been provided at substantially uniform prices for many years antedating the issuance of Ceiling Price Regulation 34. No increase has been made in the price structure since 1947 except for minor readjustments, mainly in the price of service on children's garments. A wage increase in 1950 and sharply increased costs in the latter part of 1950 have brought the average earnings of the industry in this area close to the breakeven point. On April 1, 1951 a wage increase was granted by the industry, which was approved by the Wage Stabilization Board. The effect of the latter increase will result in the reduction of such industry's average earnings to a loss position and jeopardize the continued supply of the service.

The existence of uniform prices, standardized service and similar earnings experience facilitate the establishment of dollars and cents prices. In the judgment of the Director, the prices established in this Supplementary Regulation are at the minimum levels which will permit the continued supply of service. The industry, including representatives of trade associations, has been consulted in the preparation of this Regulation. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the prices established by this Supplementary Regulation 1 are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

PART 141—TESTS AND METHODS OF ASSAY FOR ANTIBIOTIC AND ANTIBIOTIC-CONTAINING DRUGS

PART 146—CERTIFICATION OF BATCHES OF ANTIBIOTIC AND ANTIBIOTIC-CONTAINING DRUGS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

By virtue of the authority vested in the Federal Security Administrator by the provisions of section 507 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (52 Stat. 1040, 1055, as amended by 59 Stat. 463, 61 Stat. 11, 63 Stat. 409; 21 U. S. C. 357), the regulations for tests and methods of assay for antibiotic and antibiotic-containing drugs (21 CFR 141.1 et seq., and 1949 Supp.; 15 F. R. 9446) and certification of batches of antibiotic and antibiotic-containing drugs (21 CFR 146.1 et seq., and 1949 Supp.; 15 F. R. 9464) are amended as indicated below:

1. Part 141 is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 141.114 Streptomycin - bacitracin-polymyxin gauze pads—(a) Potency. Using 12 pads, place in an appropriate volume of sterile distilled water and allow to soak with frequent agitation for not less than 1 hour. Use this solution and proceed as directed in § 141.112 (a) (1).

(b) Sterility. Using individual pads proceed as directed in § 141.102. This method will demonstrate only those organisms which are not susceptible to these concentrations of bacitracin and polymyxin.

(c) Moisture. Proceed as directed in § 141.5 (a).

2. Section 146.36 (c) (1) (iii) is changed to read as follows:

§ 146.36 Penicillin vaginal suppositories. • • •

(c) Labeling. • • •

(1) • • •

(iii) This statement "Expiration date _____," the blank being filled in with the date which is 12 months after the month during which the batch was certified, except that the blank may be filled in with the date which is 18 months after the month during which the batch was certified if the person who requests certification has submitted to the Commissioner results of tests and assays showing that after having been stored for such period of time such drug as prepared by him complies with the standards prescribed by paragraph (a) of this section.

3. Section 146.40 (c) (1) (iii) is changed to read as follows:

§ 146.40 Penicillin bougies. • • •

4. In § 146.108 Streptomycin syrup, paragraph (b) Packaging is amended by deleting the words "of colorless, transparent".

5. Part 146 is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 146.109 Streptomycin - bacitracin - polymyxin gauze pads—(a) Standards of identity, strength, quality, and purity. Streptomycin-bacitracin-polymyxin gauze pads are absorbent gauze that is impregnated with streptomycin, bacitracin, and polymyxin B. Each square inch of such pad shall contain not less than 1 milligram of streptomycin, 50 units of bacitracin, and 1,000 units of polymyxin B. It is sterile. Its moisture content is not more than 5 percent. The streptomycin used conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by § 146.101 (a), except subparagraphs (2), (4), and (5) of that paragraph. The bacitracin used conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by § 146.401 (a), except subparagraphs (1), (2), and (4) of that paragraph, but its potency is not less than 30 units per milligram. The polymyxin used conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by § 146.107 (a). The absorbent gauze used conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by the U. S. P.

(b) Packaging. Unless it is intended solely for hospital use, and is conspicuously so labeled, each streptomycin-bacitracin-polymyxin gauze pad shall be packaged individually. In all cases the immediate container shall be of such composition as will not cause any change in the strength, quality, or purity of the contents beyond any limit therefor in applicable standards, except that minor changes so caused which are normal and unavoidable in good packaging, storage, and distribution practice shall be disregarded.

(c) Labeling. Each package shall bear on its label or labeling, as hereinafter indicated, the following:

(i) The batch mark;

(ii) The number of milligrams of streptomycin in each pad of the batch;

(iii) The number of units of bacitracin in each pad of the batch;

(iv) The number of units of polymyxin B in each pad of the batch;

(v) The length, width, and type of gauze contained in the pad; and

(vi) The statement "Expiration date ----------," the blank being filled in with the date which is 12 months after the month during which the batch was certified, except that the blank may be filled in with the date which is 18 months after the month during which the batch was certified if the person who requests certification has submitted to the Commissioner results of tests and assays showing that after having been stored for such period of time such drug as prepared by him complies with the standards prescribed by paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) On the immediate container, the statement "Sterility of the pad cannot be guaranteed if the package bears evidence of damage or has been previously opened."

(3) On the circular or other labeling within or attached to the package, directions and precautions adequate for the use of such pads.

(d) Request for certification; samples. (1) In addition to complying with requirements of § 146.2, a person who requests certification of a batch of streptomycin - bacitracin - polymyxin gauze pads shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark, the number of packages of each size in such batch, the batch marks and (unless they were previously submitted) the dates on which the latest assays of the streptomycin, bacitracin, and polymyxin used in making such batch was completed, the potency of each pad in the batch, the quantity of each ingredient used in making the batch, the date on which the latest assay of the drug comprising such batch was completed, and a statement that the absorbent gauze used in making the batch conforms to the requirements prescribed therefor by this section.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, such person shall submit in connection with his request results of the tests and assays listed after each of the following, made by him on an accurately representative sample of:

(i) The batch: average potency of streptomycin, bacitracin, and polymyxin per pad, sterility, and average moisture.

(ii) The streptomycin used in making the batch; potency, toxicity, moisture, and pH.

(iii) The bacitracin used in making the batch; potency, toxicity, moisture, and pH.

(3) Except as otherwise provided by subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, such person shall submit in connection with his request, in the quantities hereinafter indicated, accurately representative samples of the following:

(i) The batch; one pad for each 5,000 pads in the batch, but in no case less than 30 pads or more than 100 pads, collected by taking single pads throughout the entire time of packaging the batch that the quantities packaged during the intervals are approximately equal.

(ii) The streptomycin used in making the batch; five packages, each containing approximately equal portions of not less than 0.5 gram, packaged in accordance with the requirements of § 146.101 (b).

(iii) The bacitracin used in making the batch; six packages, each containing approximately equal portions of not less than 0.5 gram, packaged in accordance with the requirements of § 146.401 (b).

(iv) The polymyxin used in making the batch; five packages, each containing approximately equal portions of not less than 0.5 gram.

(v) In case of an initial request for certification, one package consisting of approximately 5 linear yards, or the equivalent, of the absorbent gauze used.

(4) No result referred to in subparagraph (2) (ii), (iii), and (iv) of this paragraph, and no sample referred to in subparagraph (3) (ii), (iii), and (iv) of this paragraph, is required if such result or sample has been previously submitted.

(1) $1.00 for each pad in the sample submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (3) (i) of this section; $4.00 for each package in the samples submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (3) (ii), (iii), (iv), and (v) of this section; and

(2) If the Commissioner considers that investigations, other than examination of such pads and packages are necessary to determine whether or not such batch complies with the requirements of § 146.3 for the issuance of a certificate, the cost of such investigations.

The fee prescribed by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall accompany the request for certification unless such fee is covered by an advance deposit maintained in accordance with § 146.8 (d).

(Sec. 701, 52 Stat. 1055; 21 U. S. C. 371. Interpret or apply sec. 507, 59 Stat. 463, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 357)

This order, which provides for changes in the expiration dates of penicillin vaginal suppositories and crystalline penicillin bougies or procaine penicillin bougies containing polyethylene glycol; for deletion of the requirement that the immediate container for streptomycin syrup shall be of glass that is colorless and transparent; and for tests and methods of assay and certification of a new antibiotic preparation, streptomycin-bacitracin-polymyxin gauze pads, shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, since both the public and the affected industries will benefit by the earliest effective date, and I so find.

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with interested members of the affected industries and since it would be against public interest to delay providing for changes in the expiration dates of penicillin vaginal suppositories and crystalline penicillin bougies or procaine penicillin bougies containing polyethylene glycol; for deletion of the requirement that the immediate container for streptomycin sirup shall be of glass that is colorless and transparent; and for tests and methods of assay and certification of a new antibiotic preparation, streptomycin-bacitracin-polymyxin gauze pads.

Dated: June 12, 1951.

Acting Administrator.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 17—MEDICAL

AUTOPSIES

1. Immediately following § 17.148, a new centerhead is added as follows: "Autopsies"

2. A new § 17.155 is added as follows:

§ 17.155 Autopsies. (a) Except as provided in this section no autopsy will be performed by the Veterans' Administration without the consent of the surviving spouse, or, in a proper case the next of kin, unless the patient or domiciled person was abandoned by the spouse, if any, or, if no spouse, by the next of kin for a period of not less than 6 months next preceding his death. Where no inquiry has been made for or in regard to the decedent for a period of 6 months next preceding his death he shall be deemed to have been abandoned.

(b) If the decedent shall have been abandoned or if the request is sent and the spouse, or in proper cases the next of kin fails to reply within the reasonable time stated in such request of the Veterans' Administration for permission to perform the autopsy, the manager or his medical designate is hereby authorized to cause an autopsy to be performed if in his discretion he concludes that such autopsy is reasonably required for any necessary purpose of the Veterans' Administration, including the completion of official records and advancement of medical knowledge.

(c) If it is suspected that death resulted from crime, or the cause of death is unknown and if the United States has exclusive jurisdiction over the area where the body is found, the manager of the hospital or center, will inform the appropriate chief attorney of the known facts concerning the death. Thereupon the chief attorney will transmit all such information to the United States Attorney for such action as he deems appropriate, and will inquire whether the United States Attorney objects to an autopsy if otherwise it be appropriate. If the United States Attorney has no objection the procedure as to autopsy will be the same as if the death had not been reported to him.

(d) If the United States does not have exclusive jurisdiction over the area where the body is found the local coroner will be informed. If the local coroner declines to assume jurisdiction the procedure will be the same as is provided in paragraph (c) of this section. If a Federal crime is indicated by the evidence, the procedure of paragraph (c) of this section will also be followed.

(e) The laws of the decedent's domicile are determinative as to whether the spouse, or the next of kin is the proper person to grant permission to perform an autopsy, and of the question as to the order of preference among such persons. Usually the spouse is first entitled, except in some situations of separation; followed by children, parents, brothers, and sisters, etc.

(iii) Under the provisions of subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph, the Administrator, in his discretion, may concur in the State approving agency's certification that a new course in a new or existing institution is essential to meet the requirements of veterans in a particular State. This authority is not delegated to the managers of field stations. Upon receipt of a certification of essentiality, in duplicate, with supporting information as stipulated in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph from the State approving agency, the regional office will review the material submitted and will forward the original copy of same to the director, training facilities service for vocational rehabilitation and education, central office, through the special assistant to the director, training facilities service, for the area, together with the recommendation of the regional office for favorable or unfavorable action by the Administrator and the reasons therefor. (iv) Upon action by the Administrator, the regional office will be promptly notified of such action and, if favorable, the effective date thereof, and the chief, training facilities section, regional office, will promptly advise the appropriate State approving agency of such action.

It will be the responsibility of that State approving agency to notify the school of such action.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Wage and Hour Division

[29 CFR, Part 684]

PUERTO RICO; MINIMUM WAGE RATES IN THE HOOKED RUG INDUSTRY

NOTICE OF PROPOSED DECISION

On June 15, 1950, pursuant to section 5 (a) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended (hereinafter called the "act"), the Administrator appointed, by Administrative Order No. 399, Special Industry Committee No. 8 for Puerto Rico (hereinafter called the "Committee"), and directed the Committee to investigate conditions in a number of industries in Puerto Rico specified and defined in the order, including the Hooked Rug Industry in Puerto Rico (hereinafter called the "Industry"), and to recommend minimum wage rates for employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce in such industries.

For purposes of investigating conditions in and recommending minimum wage rates for the Industry, the Committee included three disinterested persons representing the public, a like number representing employers, and a like number representing employees in the Industry, and was composed of residents of Puerto Rico and of the United States outside of Puerto Rico. After investigating economic and competitive conditions in the Industry, the Committee filed with the Administrator a report containing (a) its recommendation that the Industry be divided into separable divisions for the purpose of fixing minimum wage rates; (b) the titles and definitions recommended by the Committee for such separable divisions of the Industry; and (c) its recommendations for minimum wage rates to be paid employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce in such divisions of the Industry.

Pursuant to notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 20, 1950, and circulated to all interested persons, a public hearing upon the Committee's recommendations was held before Hearing Examiner Clifford P. Grant, as presiding officer, in Washington, D. C., on November 13, 1950, at which all interested parties were given an opportunity to be heard. After the hearing was closed the record of the hearing was certified to the Administrator by the presiding officer.

Upon reviewing all the evidence adduced in this proceeding and giving consideration to the provisions of the act, particularly sections 5 and 8 thereof, I have concluded that the recommendations of the Committee for minimum wage rates in the Hooked Rug Industry in Puerto Rico and its Divisions, as defined, were made in accordance with law, are supported by the evidence adduced at the hearing, and, taking into consideration the same factors as are required to be considered by the Committee, will carry out the purposes of sections 5 and 8 of the act.

I have set forth my decision in a document entitled "Findings and opinion of the Administrator in the matter of the Recommendations of Special Industry Committee No. 8 of Minimum Wage Rates for the Hooked Rug Industry in Puerto Rico", a copy of which may be had upon request addressed to the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

Accordingly, notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001) and the rules of practice governing this proceeding (15 F. UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF REFINERS' SIRUP

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the issuance, pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.), of United States Standards for Grades of Refiners' Sirup. On the basis of information now available to the Department, it appears that the promulgation of United States standards for refiners' sirup may tend to improve the marketability of this product.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed standards may do so by filing them in duplicate with the Director of the Sugar Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 30 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed standards are as follows:

DETERMINATION OF FACTORS

§ 44.44 Quantitative determination of factors. Quantitative determination of the respective fatcors other than color is made by the methods set forth in this section for the respective factors: [1]

(a) Brix solids. By Brix hydrometer, correcting to 20° C. (68° F.).

(b) Total sugars—(1) Sucrose. By the chemical method, using invertase as the inverting agent; the Lane-Eynon volumetric method for reducing sugars before and after inversion; or by Jackson-Gillis double polarization method number IV.

(2) Reducing sugar. By the Lane-Eynon volumetric method.

(c) Sulfated ash. By the sulfation method, with no deduction.

§ 44.45 Preparation of basic solutions and RS color standards. Chemicals of reagent grade, at room temperature, are used in the preparation of the solutions described in this section.

(a) Preparation of basic solutions—(1) Solution A. Dissolve 10 grams of $CuCl_2 \cdot 2H_2O$ in a sufficient quantity of 10 percent hydrochloric acid solution to make 100 milliliters.[2]

(2) Solution B. Dissolve 50 grams of $CoCl_2 \cdot 6H_2O$ in a sufficient quantity of 10 percent hydrochloric acid solution to make 500 milliliters.

(3) Solution C. Dissolve 50 grams of $FeCl_3 \cdot 6H_2O$ in a sufficient quantity of 10 percent hydrochloric acid solution to make 500 milliliters.

(4) RS stock solution. Mix 50 milliliters of Solution A and 485 milliliters of Solution B with 465 milliliters of Solution C.

(b) Preparation of RS color standards—(1) RS Color Standard No. 1. Dilute 10 milliliters of the RS stock solution to 100 milliliters with 10 percent hydrochloric acid solution.

(2) RS Color Standard No. 2. Dilute 18 milliliters of the RS stock solution to 100 milliliters with 10 percent hydrochloric acid solution.

(3) RS Color Standard No. 3. Dilute 50 milliliters of RS stock solution to 100 milliliters with 10 percent hydrochloric acid solution.

§ 44.46 Use of RS color standards in determining color factor—(a) Containers required. The containers needed to perform the visual color comparison test set forth in paragraph (c) of this section are:

(1) A container for a sample of refiners' sirup for which the color factor is to be determined (such container hereinafter called "sample container"); and

(2) Containers for the respective RS color standards.

[1] These methods are described in Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists, Seventh Edition, 1950, except the Jackson-Gillis double polarization method number IV is described in Circular C440, Nat. Bur. Standards, May 1942, or in the Sugar Analysis, by Browne and Zerban, 3d Edition, 1948, John Wiley & Sons, Inc.

[2] Ten percent hydrochloric acid solution is prepared by diluting 242.6 milliliters of reagent grade hydrochloric acid to one liter.

(b) Description of containers. The sample container is made of colorless and transparent glass or plastic material and is of such shape and construction as to provide a flat $\frac{1}{8}$-inch thickness of the sample to be viewed. The container for each RS color standard is a colorless and transparent 2-ounce French square water sample bottle having outside base dimensions of $1\frac{7}{16}$ inches by $1\frac{7}{16}$ inches.

(c) Visual comparison test. A sample of refiners' sirup is compared in the following manner with the RS color standards to determine whether the sample is darker than one or more of such color standards:

(1) Place each of the RS Color Standards Nos. 1, 2, and 3 in separate 2-ounce French square water sample bottles;

(2) Place a sample of the refiners' sirup in a sample container; and

(3) In order to determine whether the sample is darker than one or more of the RS color standards, visually compare the sample with each of the color standards by looking through them at a light-colored background in diffuse light. The sample is viewed through its $\frac{1}{8}$-inch thickness; and each RS color standard is viewed at right angles to one of the sides of its container.

Issued this 11th day of June 1951.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR, Part 302]

RULES OF PRACTICE IN ECONOMIC PROCEEDINGS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE-MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the Civil Aeronautics Board has under consideration a complete revision of Part 302 of the Procedural Regulations (14 CFR Part 302). This revision restates and in many cases adds to the procedural rules governing the conduct of economic proceedings.

The principal features of the proposed regulation are explained in the Explanatory Statement set forth below.

The proposed rules themselves are set forth below.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rules by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate and addressed to the Secretary, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, 25, D. C. All communications received by July 27, 1951, will be considered by the Board before taking further action upon the proposed rules. Copies of such communications will be available after July 30, 1951, for examination by interested persons in the Docket Section of the Board, Room 5412 Commerce Building, Washington, D. C.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of sections 205 (a) and 1001 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended. The proposed amendments may be changed in the light of comments received in response to this notice of rule-making.

Issued by the Civil Aeronautics Board at Washington, D. C., on June 12, 1951.

[SEAL] M. C. MULLIGAN,
Secretary.

Explanatory statement. During the past year the Board's staff has been engaged in the study and preparation of a revision of the Board's Rules of Practice in Economic Proceedings with a view to increasing their usefulness to the Board and the persons appearing before it. In particular, it is hoped that such a revision will serve to expedite proceedings before the Board, insure a more uniform application of the rules to all persons, and save time and effort on the part of the Board and its staff and persons appearing before the Board by eliminating the necessity for case by case determinations of many procedural issues.

The current Rules of Practice in Economic Proceedings have been amended from time to time in the past to meet more or less critical needs as they arose, but up until now they have never been revised as a whole. Such a revision appears to be overdue. Many new types of proceedings or situations have developed which were not specifically contemplated by the rules, and the adaptation of the rules to such proceedings and situations is cumbersome, sometimes misleading, and not infrequently provocative of argument and delay. Many other procedural matters not covered by the rules are now handled in accordance with fairly uniform administrative practices which work well enough with those familiar with such practices. However, difficulties arise in this area for persons appearing before the Board infrequently, and it therefore seems desirable to codify many existing practices in a revision of the rules. Apart from the elimination of difficulties arising from lack of complete and detailed coverage, a revision of the rules affords an appropriate occasion for the introduction of new procedures which will permit more expeditious disposition of Board proceedings and saving of time and effort to all concerned.

The proposed revision of the Rules of Practice in Economic Proceedings which is set forth below was prepared by the Board's staff with the foregoing general principles in view. Although the rule-making procedures of the Administrative Procedure Act are not required to be applied to the promulgation of rules of practice, it is believed to be highly desirable to receive the comments and suggestions of interested persons, particularly those practicing before the Board, before arriving at any final conclusions as to the form the rules should take. Recently the Board established a representative committee of industry counsel as the Civil Aeronautics Board Advisory Committee on Practices and Procedures to assist and advise it in formulating procedures and practices with respect to proceedings before the Board. Because of limitations of time and priority of attention being given to certain other matters, the Advisory Committee has not been able to participate in the preparation of the attached proposal, or to make its views thereon known to the Board. However, we anticipate receiving its full cooperation in this undertaking and view it as a primary source of assistance in the contemplated revision of the rules.

The extensive nature of the changes in the rules proposed by the attached revision renders impracticable any detailed analysis and explanation of all such changes. As an aid to the public, however, certain of the more important changes are briefly described below.

1. Rule 4 (b). Eliminates the requirement for verification of documents and makes the signature a certification.

2. Rule 8. Establishes detailed rules with respect to service of documents which are designed to insure uniformity in the application of the rules and to prevent the necessity for ad hoc determinations.

3. Rule 9. Defines parties to include public counsel and an enforcement attorney so as to make both the restrictions and privileges of these rules applicable to them.

4. Rule 15. Establishes who may intervene, the basis for such intervention, and the procedure to be followed, spelling out more clearly the relevant standards for determining intervention and specifying the procedures to be followed.

5. Rule 18. Establishes a motions procedure designed to give certainty to the manner in which motions are to be filed and processed, and a procedure for appeals to the Board from rulings of Examiners on motions.

6. Rules 19, 20, and 21. Establish rules with respect to the issuance of subpenas, the taking of depositions, and the fees and mileage to be paid in connection therewith, which, in general, codify the Board's existing but unexpressed practice.

7. Rules 22, 23, and 24. Indicate the powers of the Examiner, the purpose of the prehearing conference and the manner in which it will be conducted, and the basis for dealing with certain questions relating to hearings which have proved troublesome in the past. For the most part, these rules codify and do not change existing rules and practice.

8. Rule 27. Provides that, unless the Board directs otherwise, the examiner shall prepare an initial decision in rate cases if any party requests that he do so, a recommended decision in cases requiring presidential approval, and initial decisions in all other cases. This rule changes existing practice by providing for initial decisions by examiners instead of tentative decisions by the Board in rate cases and by providing for initial decisions instead of recommended decisions by examiners in all other cases except those requiring presidential approval under section 801 of the act. It requires initial decisions to the greatest extent possible and is designed to expedite proceedings wherever possible. The expedition arises from the effect given to such a decision as provided in Rule 28.

9. Rules 29, 30, 31, 32, 33 and 36. Set forth the procedure in cases where the record is certified to the Board or a recommended decision is issued by the examiner. In general, the rules with respect to the issuance of a tentative decision by the Board, the filing of exceptions to such a tentative decision or a recommended decision, the filing of briefs with the Board, the hearing of oral argument by the Board, and the issuance of final decision do not make major changes in the existing rules, certainly not existing practices, except in the following particulars: (1) These rules contemplate a single oral argument after initial decision by the examiner rather than before tentative decision by the Board, as is presently the case, in mail rate proceedings; (2) provision is made for filing answering and reply briefs in certain situations.

10. Subpart B. Establishes separate rules applicable to economic enforcement proceedings which will meet the special needs of such proceedings.

11. Rules 205 and 206. These rules provide for the institution of economic enforcement proceedings and for the determination of complaints seeking to institute such proceedings. They change the present rules and practices of the Board by providing for a delegation of authority to the Chief of the Office of Enforcement to either institute a proceeding or to dismiss a complaint seeking to institute a proceeding. In the case of the dismissal of a complaint, it is immediately appealable, by letter, to the Board. In the case of the institution of a proceeding, no sanction can be invoked except by order of the Board.

It is believed that such a procedure will expedite proceedings and eliminate unnecessary paper work and will divorce the prosecuting and judicial functions of the Board to a much greater extent. At the same time it will not result in the rights of any party being finally determined except by the Board.

12. Rule 210. Defines the parties to an economic enforcement proceeding to include a person whose formal complaint alleged violations which were later covered by the petition for enforcement and thus eliminates the necessity of filing a petition for intervention.

13. Rule 217. Establishes a procedure with respect to motions for the suspension of economic operating authority during the pendency of proceedings to revoke such authority which for the first time affords a party an opportunity for oral argument before the Board before its operating authority is suspended.

14. Subpart C. This subpart establishes special rules applicable to mail rate proceedings. (1) With respect to final mail rate proceedings (Rules 302–309), the rules are not changed in substance but are merely restated for purposes of clarity. (2) With respect to temporary rate proceedings (Rule 310), the rules recognize existing Board practice. (3) With respect to informal mail rate conference procedure (Rules 311–21), the revision incorporates the revision recently promulgated by the Board.

15. Subpart D. Establishes new, special rules applicable to exemption proceedings.

The rules provide a definite procedure designed to give certainty to the exemption process, to insure uniformity in the handling of exemptions, and to protect the rights of carriers in the presentation of facts to be considered by the Board in connection with the ruling on an application for exemption or the necessity for a hearing on such application.

16. Subpart E. Establishes special rules applicable to proceedings with respect to rates, fares and charges which do not materially change the Board's existing rules and practices with respect to such matters.

17. Rule 506. Fixes the burden of proof on the proponent of a rate, fare, charge, etc., thus clarifying a trouble spot which has given rise to the expenditure of much time and effort in case-by-case determinations.

18. Subpart F. Incorporates the rules recently promulgated by the Board to govern the handling of petitions to conduct charter trips or special services into areas protected by § 207.8 of the Economic Regulations.

It should be emphasized that the Board recognizes that there are in the proposed rules a number of procedures which are proposed for the first time and others which have been the subject of previous comment in one connection or another and concerning which there may well be differing views. It is, of course, for the very purpose of receiving and considering the views of all interested persons before any decision is reached that this circulation is being undertaken.

302.600 Applicability of this subpart.

AUTHORITY: §§ 302.1 to 302.601 issued under sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply sec. 1001, 52 Stat. 1017; 49 U. S. C. 641.

§ 302.1 Application and description of part—(a) Application. The rules of practice in this part govern the conduct of all economic proceedings before the Board whether instituted by order of the Board or by the filing with the Board of an application, complaint or petition. However, there are exceptions to this section with respect to two classes of proceedings: (a) Proceedings involving "Alaskan air carriers" and "Alaskan pilot-owners" are governed by this part, but only as modified by Part 292 of the Board's Economic Regulations;[1] (b) proceedings governed by Part 301 and Part 303 of the Board's Procedural Regulations (Rules of Practice in Air Safety Proceedings and Rules of Practice In Aircraft Accident Inquiries) are not governed by the regulations in this part.

[1] The Board's Economic and Procedural Regulations are codified in Title 14 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(b) Description. Subpart A sets forth general rules applicable to all types of proceedings. Each of Subparts B through F sets forth special rules applicable to the type of proceedings described in the title of the subpart. Therefore, for information as to applicable rules, reference should be made to Subpart A and to the rules in the subpart relating to the particular type of proceeding, if any. In addition, reference should be made to the Civil Aeronautics Act, the Board's Principles of Practice (Procedural Regulations, Part 300), and to the substantive rules, regulations and orders of the Board relating to the proceeding.[2] Wherever there is any conflict between one of the general rules in Subpart A and a special rule in another subpart applicable to a particular type of proceeding, the special rule will govern.

§ 302.2 Reference to part and method of citing rules. This part shall be referred to as the "Rules of Practice". Each section, and any paragraph or subparagraph thereof, shall be referred to as a "Rule". The number of each rule shall include only the numbers and letters at the right of the decimal point. For example, "302.8 Service of documents", shall be referred to as "Rule 8". Subparagraph (2) of paragraph (a) of that rule, relating to service of documents by the parties, shall be referred to as "Rule 8 (a) (2)".

SUBPART A—RULES OF GENERAL APPLICABILITY

§ 302.3 Filing of documents—(a) Filing address, date of filing, hours. Documents required by any section of this part to be filed with the Board shall be filed with the Docket Section of the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington 25, D. C. Such documents shall be deemed to be filed on the date on which they are actually received by the Board. The hours of the Board are from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m., eastern standard or daylight saving time, whichever is in effect in the District of Columbia at the time, Monday to Friday, inclusive, except on legal holidays for the Board.

(b) Formal specifications of documents. (1) All documents filed under the regulations in this part shall be on strong, durable paper not larger than 8½ by 14 inches in size except that tables, charts and other documents may be larger, folded to the size of the document to which they are attached. The left margin shall be at least 1½ inches wide and, if the document is bound, it shall be bound on the left side.

(2) Papers may be reproduced by printing or by any other process, provided the copies are clear and legible. Appropriate notes or other indications shall be used, so that the existence of any matters shown in color will be accurately indicated on photostatic copies.

(c) Number of copies. Unless otherwise specified, an executed original and nineteen (19) true copies of each document required or permitted to be filed under the regulations in this part, shall be filed with the Docket Section. The copies need not be signed but the name of the person signing the original shall be reproduced.

§ 302.4 General requirements as to documents—(a) Contents. In case there is no rule, regulation or order of the Board which prescribes the contents of the formal application, complaint or petition, such document shall contain a proper identification of the parties concerned, a reference to the provision of the statute and regulation under which the document is filed, and a concise but complete statement of the facts relied upon and the relief sought.

(b) Subscription. Every application, petition, complaint, motion or other document filed in a proceeding shall be signed by the party filing the same, or by a duly authorized officer or the attorney-at-law of record of such party, or by any other person: Provided, That, if signed by some other person, the reason therefor must be stated and the power of attorney or other authority authorizing such other person to subscribe the document must be filed with the document. The signature of the person signing the document constitutes a certification that he has read the document; that to the best of his knowledge, information and belief every statement contained in the instrument is true and no such statements are misleading; and that it is not interposed for delay.

(c) Designation of person to receive service. The initial document filed by any person in any proceeding shall state on the first page thereof the name and post office address of one person who may be served with any documents filed in the proceeding.

§ 302.5 Amendment of documents and dismissal. If any document initiating, or filed in, a proceeding, such as a formal application, complaint or petition, or motion, is not in substantial conformity with the applicable rules or regulations of the Board as to the contents thereof, or is otherwise insufficient, the Board, on its own motion, or on motion of any party, may strike or dismiss such document, or require its amendment. If amended, the document may be made effective as of the date of original filing.

§ 302.6 Answers. Answers to formal complaints, petitions or other documents or orders instituting proceedings may be filed but will not usually be required. In case an answer is necessary, the parties will be notified. The issues in the proceeding will ordinarily be formulated at the prehearing conference. However, answers are required in economic enforcement proceedings and reference should be made to Subpart B of this part for such requirements.

§ 302.7 Retention of documents by the Board. All documents filed with or presented to the Board, shall be retained in the files of the Board. However, the Board may permit the withdrawal of original documents upon the submission of properly authenticated copies to replace such documents.

§ 302.8 Service of documents—(a) Who makes service—(1) The Board. Formal complaints, notices, orders to show cause, other orders, and similar documents issued by the Board will be served by the Board upon all parties to the proceeding.

(2) The parties. Answers, petitions, motions, briefs, exceptions, notices, or any other documents filed by any party or other person with the Board or an Examiner shall be served by the person filing such document upon all parties to the proceeding in which it is filed, and proof of service shall accompany the document when it is tendered for filing.

(b) How service may be made. Service may be made by regular mail, by registered mail, or by personal delivery. The means of service selected must be such as to permit compliance with section 1005 (c) of the act, which provides for service of notices, processes, orders, rules, and regulations by personal service or registered mail.

(c) Who may be served. Service upon a party or person may be made upon an individual, or upon a member of a partnership, or firm to be served, or upon the president or other officer of the corporation, company, firm, or association to be served, or upon the assignee or legal successor of any of the foregoing, or upon any attorney of record for the party, or upon the agent designated by an air carrier under section 1005 (b) of the act, but it shall be served upon the person designated by a party to receive service of documents in a particular proceeding in accordance with § 302.4 (c) once a proceeding has been commenced.

(d) Where service may be made. Personal service may be made on any of the persons described in paragraph (c) of this section wherever they may be found, except that an agent designated by an air carrier under section 1005 (b) of the act may be served only at his office or usual place of residence. Service by regular or registered mail shall be made at the principal place of business of the party to be served, or at his usual residence if he is an individual, or at the office of the party's attorney of record, or at the office or usual residence of the agent designated by an air carrier under section 1005 (b) of the act, or at the post office address stated for a person designated to receive service pursuant to § 302.4 (c).

(e) Proof of service. Proof of service of any document shall consist of one of the following: (1) A certificate of mailing, accompanied by the post office receipt for a document served by registered mail, executed by the person mailing the document. (2) An acknowledgment of service signed by a person receiving service personally, or a certificate of the person making personal service.

(f) Date of service. Whenever proof of service by mail is made, the date of mailing shall be the date of service.

[2] The Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 may be found at 52 Stat. 973, and, as amended, at 49 U. S. C. 401 et seq. The Board's substantive rules may be found in its Economic Regulations and Civil Air Regulations, codified in Title 14 of the Code of Federal Regulations, and in Civil Aeronautics Board Reports, published by the Government Printing Office.

Whenever proof of service by personal delivery is made, the date of such delivery shall be the date of service.

§ 302.9 Parties. The term party wherever used in this part shall include any individual, firm, co-partnership, corporation, company, association, joint stock association, or body politic, and any trustee, receiver, assignee or legal successor thereof, and shall include Public Counsel and the Enforcement Attorney in any proceeding.

§ 302.10 Substitution of parties. Upon motion and for good cause shown, the Board may order a substitution of parties, except that in case of death of a party, substitution may be ordered without the filing of a motion.

§ 302.11 Limitations on practice—(a) Registration. Any person may appear before the Board and be heard in person or by attorney. No register of attorneys who may practice before the Board is maintained and no application for admission to practice is required. However, any person practicing before the Board or desiring so to practice may, for good cause shown, be barred or suspended from so practicing, but only after he has been afforded an opportunity to be heard in the matter.

(b) Representation by persons formerly associated with the Board—(1) Appearance and representation. (i) No person who has been associated with the Board as a member, officer, or employee shall be permitted at any time to appear before the Board in behalf of, or to represent in any manner, any party in connection with any proceeding or matter which such person has handled or passed upon while associated in any capacity with the Board. No person appearing before the Board in any matter or proceeding shall in relation thereto knowingly accept assistance from or share fees with any person who would himself be precluded by this section from appearing before the Board in such matter or proceeding.

(ii) No person who has been associated with the Civil Aeronautics Board as a member, officer, or employee thereof shall be permitted within six months from the date of the termination of such association, to appear before the Board in behalf of, or to represent in any manner, any party in connection with any proceeding which was pending before the Board at the time of his association with the Board, unless he shall first have obtained the written consent of the Board upon a verified showing that he did not give personal consideration to the matter or proceeding as to which consent is sought or gain particular knowledge of the facts thereof during his association with the Board.

(2) Use of confidential information. No person who has been associated with the Board as a member, officer or employee, or any person associated with him, shall ever use or undertake to use in any proceeding or matter before the Board any confidential facts or information which came into the possession or to the attention of any former member, officer, or employee during his official association with the Board without first applying for and obtaining the consent of the Board for the use of such facts or information.

(3) Pending proceeding defined. For the purpose of this section a proceeding shall be considered as pending from the date of receipt by the Docket Section of the Board of any formal application, complaint, or petition for the institution of a proceeding by the Board or from the date of adoption of any order to show cause or other procedures of the Board evidencing the initiation of a proceeding. A consolidated proceeding shall be considered as pending for the purpose of this section from the date of the first individual proceeding therein.

§ 302.12 Consolidation. The Board, upon its own initiative or upon petition, may consolidate for hearing or for other purposes two or more proceedings which involve substantially the same parties, or issues which are the same or closely related, if it finds that such consolidation will be conducive to the proper dispatch of its business and to the ends of justice. If a petition to consolidate two or more proceedings is filed with the Board, any party to any of such proceedings, or any person who has a petition for intervention pending, may file an answer to such petition within such period as the Board may permit. Ordinarily, requests for consolidation should be made at the prehearing conference, and be made orally. The Examiner may require that answers to such requests be stated orally at the prehearing conference.

§ 302.13 Joinder of complaints or complainants. Two or more grounds of complaints involving substantially the same purposes, subject or state of facts may be included in one complaint even though they involve more than one respondent. Two or more complainants may join in one complaint if their respective causes of complaint are against the same party or parties and involves substantially the same purposes, subject or state of facts. The Board may separate or split complaints if it finds that the joinder of complaints, complainants, or respondents will not be conducive to the proper dispatch of its business or the ends of justice.

§ 302.14 Participation in hearings by persons not parties. Any person, including any state, political division thereof, state aviation commission, or other public body, may appear at any hearing, other than in an enforcement proceeding, and present any evidence which is relevant to the issues. With the consent of the Examiner, or the Board, if the hearing is held by the Board, such person may also cross-examine witnesses directly.

§ 302.15 Formal intervention—(a) Who may intervene. (1) Any person who has a statutory right to be made a party to a proceeding shall be permitted to intervene therein. (2) Any person whose intervention will be conducive to the ends of justice and will not unduly impede the conduct of the Board's business may be permitted to intervene in such proceeding.

(b) Considerations relevant to determination of petition to intervene. In passing upon a petition to intervene, the Board shall consider, among other things, the following factors: (1) The nature of the petitioner's right under the statute to be made a party to the proceeding; (2) the nature and extent of the property, financial or other interest of the petitioner; (3) the effect of the order which may be entered in the proceeding on petitioner's interest; (4) the availability of other means whereby the petitioner's interest may be protected; (5) the extent to which petitioner's interest will be represented by existing parties; (6) the extent to which petitioner's participation may reasonably be expected to assist in the development of a sound record; and (7) the extent to which participation of the petitioner will broaden the issue or delay the proceeding.

(c) Petition to intervene—(1) Contents. Any person desiring to intervene in a proceeding shall file a petition in conformity with the regulations in this part setting forth the facts and reasons why he thinks he should be permitted to intervene. The petition should make specific reference to the factors set forth in paragraph (b) of this section.

(2) Time for filing. Unless otherwise ordered by the Board, any petition for leave to intervene shall be filed within the following time limits:

(i) In a proceeding where the Board issues a show cause order proposing fair and reasonable mail rates, such petition shall be filed within the time specified for filing notice of objection.

(ii) In all other proceedings, including mail rate proceedings where no show cause order is issued, the petition shall be filed with the Board prior to the first prehearing conference, or, in the event that no such conference is to be held, not later than fifteen (15) days prior to the hearing.

A petition for leave to intervene which is not timely filed shall be dismissed unless the petitioner shall clearly show good cause for his failure to file such petition on time.

(3) Answer. Any party to a proceeding may file an answer to a petition to intervene, making specific reference to the factors set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, within seven (7) days after the petition is filed, except that, in the event a petition to intervene is filed after the close of the taking of evidence, no separate answer shall be permitted, and the position of any party with respect thereto shall be stated to the Board either in brief or oral argument.

(4) Disposition. The Board will issue an order granting, denying or otherwise ruling on any petition to intervene. It may do so without receiving testimony or oral argument either from the petitioner or other parties to the proceeding.

(d) Effect of granting intervention. A person permitted to intervene in a proceeding thereby becomes a party and shall be permitted to introduce evidence and examine witnesses at any formal hearing that may be held and to participate in all other procedural steps to the same extent as any other party. However, interventions herein provided are for administrative purposes only, and no decision granting leave to intervene shall be deemed to constitute an expression by the Board that the intervening party has such a substantial interest in the order that is to be entered in the proceeding as will entitle it to judicial review of such order.

§ 302.16 Computation of time. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by the regulations in this part, by notice, order or regulation of the Board, the Chief Examiner, or an Examiner, or by any applicable statute, the day of the act, event, or default after which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday for the Board, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday nor holiday. When the period of time prescribed is less than seven (7) days, intermediate Saturdays, Sundays and holidays shall be excluded in the computation.

§ 302.17 Continuances and extensions of time. Whenever a party has the right or is required to take action within a period prescribed by the regulations in this part, by a notice given thereunder, or by an order or regulation, the Board or the Examiner assigned to the proceeding may (a) before the expiration of the prescribed period, with or without notice, extend such period; or (b) upon motion, permit the act to be done after the expiration of the specified period, where the failure to act is clearly shown to have been the result of excusable neglect.

§ 302.18 Motions—(a) Generally. An application to the Board or an Examiner for an order or ruling not otherwise specifically provided for in this part shall be by motion. After the assignment of an Examiner to a proceeding, and prior to his recommended decision, or the expiration of the period within which exceptions to his initial decision may be filed, or the certification of the record to the Board, all motions shall be addressed to the Examiner. At all other times motions shall be addressed to the Board. All motions shall be made at an appropriate time depending upon the nature thereof and the relief requested therein.

(b) Form and contents. Unless made during a hearing, motions shall be made in writing in conformity with §§ 302.3 and 302.4 shall state with particularity the grounds therefor and the relief or order sought, and shall be accompanied by any affidavits or other evidence desired to be relied upon. Motions made during hearings, answers thereto, and rulings thereon, may be made orally on the record unless the Examiner directs otherwise.

(c) Answers to motions. Within five (5) days after a motion is filed, or such other period as the Board or Examiner may fix, any party to the proceeding may file an answer in support of or in opposition to the motion, accompanied by such affidavits or other evidence as it desires to rely upon.

(d) Oral arguments; briefs. No oral argument will be heard on motions unless the Board or the Examiner otherwise directs. Written memoranda or briefs may be filed with motions or answers to motions, stating the points and authorities relied upon in support of the position taken.

(e) Disposition of motions. The Examiner shall pass upon all motions properly addressed to him, except that, if he finds that a prompt decision by the Board on a motion is essential to the proper conduct of the proceeding, he may refer such motion to the Board for decision. The Board shall pass upon all motions properly submitted to it for decision.

(f) Appeals to the Board from rulings of examiners. Rulings of Examiners on motions may not be appealed to the Board prior to its consideration of the entire proceeding except in extraordinary circumstances and with the consent of the Examiner. An appeal shall be disallowed unless the Examiner finds, either on the record or in writing, that the allowance of such an appeal is necessary to prevent substantial detriment to the public interest or undue prejudice to any party. If an appeal is allowed, any party may file a brief with the Board within such period as the Examiner directs. No oral argument will be heard unless the Board directs otherwise. The rulings of the Examiner on motion may be reviewed by the Board in connection with its final action in the proceeding irrespective of the filing of an appeal or any action taken on it.

(g) Effect of pendency of motions. The filing or pendency of a motion shall not automatically alter or extend the time fixed by the regulations in this part (or any extension granted thereunder) to take action.

§ 302.19 Subpenas. (a) An application for a subpena requiring the attendance of a witness or the production of documentary evidence at a hearing may be made without notice by any party to the Examiner designated to preside at the reception of evidence or, in the event that an Examiner has not been assigned to a proceeding or the Examiner is not available, to the Chief Examiner, for action by himself or by a member of the Board.

(b) A subpena for the attendance of a witness shall be issued on oral application at any time.

(c) An application for a subpena for documentary or tangible evidence shall be in duplicate except that if it is made during the course of a hearing, it may be made orally on the record with the consent of the Examiner. All such applications, whether written or oral, shall contain a statement or showing of general relevance and reasonable scope of the evidence sought, and shall be accompanied by two copies of a draft of the subpena sought which shall describe the documentary or tangible evidence to be subpenaed with as much particularity as is feasible.

(d) The Examiner or member of the Board considering any application for a subpena shall issue the subpena requested if the application complies with this section. No attempt shall be made to determine the admissibility of evidence in passing upon an application for a subpena, and no detailed or burdensome showing shall be required as a condition to the issuance of a subpena. It is the purpose of this section, on the one hand, to make subpenas readily available to parties, and, on the other hand, to prevent the improvident issuance of subpenas to secure evidence which is unrelated to the issues of the proceeding or wholly unreasonable in its scope.

(e) Where it appears at a hearing that the testimony of a witness or documentary evidence is relevant to the issues in a proceeding, the Examiner may issue on his own motion a subpena requiring such witness to attend and testify or requiring the production of such documentary evidence.

(f) Any person upon whom a subpena is served may within five (5) days after service or at any time prior to the return date thereof, whichever is earlier, file a motion to modify or quash the subpena.

§ 302.20 Depositions. (a) For good cause shown, a member of the Board or the Examiner assigned to a proceeding may order that the testimony of a witness be taken by deposition and that the witness produce documentary evidence in connection with such testimony. Ordinarily an order to take the deposition of a witness will be entered only if (1) the person whose deposition is to be taken would be unavailable at the hearing, or (2) the deposition is deemed necessary to perpetuate the testimony of the witness, or (3) the taking of the deposition is necessary to prevent undue and excessive expense to a party and will not result in an undue burden to other parties or in undue delay.

(b) Any party desiring to take the deposition of a witness shall make application therefor in duplicate to the Examiner designated to preside at the reception of evidence or, in the event that an Examiner has not been assigned to a proceeding or the Examiner is not available, to the Chief Examiner for action by himself or by a member of the Board, setting forth the reasons why such deposition should be taken, the name and residence of the witness, the time and place proposed for the taking of the deposition, and a general description of the matters concerning which the witness will be asked to testify. If good cause be shown, the Examiner, the Chief Examiner or a member of the Board may, in his discretion, issue an order authorizing such deposition and specifying the witness whose deposition is to be taken, the general scope of the testimony to be taken, the time when, the place where, and the designated officer (authorized to take oaths) before whom the witness is to testify, and the number of copies of the deposition to be supplied. Such order shall be served upon all parties by the person proposing to take the deposition a reasonable period in advance of the time fixed for taking testimony.

(c) Witnesses whose testimony is taken by deposition shall be sworn or shall affirm before any questions are put to them. Each question propounded shall be recorded and the answers shall be taken down in the words of the witness.

(d) Objections to questions or evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objection relied upon, but no transcript filed by the officer shall include argument or debate. Objections to questions or evidence shall be noted by the officer upon the deposition, but he shall not have power to decide on the competency or materiality or relevance of evidence, and he shall record the evidence subject to objection. Objections to questions or evidence not made before the officer shall not be deemed waived unless the ground of the objection is one which might have been obviated or removed if presented at that time.

(e) The testimony shall be reduced to writing by the officer, or under his direction, after which the deposition shall be subscribed by the witness and certified in usual form by the officer. The original deposition and exhibits shall be forwarded to the Docket Section of the Board and shall be filed in the proceedings.

(f) Depositions may also be taken and submitted on written interrogatories in substantially the same manner as depositions taken by oral examination. Ordinarily such procedure will only be authorized if necessary to achieve the purposes of an oral deposition and to serve the balance of convenience of the parties. The interrogatories shall be filed in quadruplicate with two copies of the application and a copy of each shall be served on each party. Within five (5) days after service any party may file with the person to whom application was made two copies of his objections, if any, to such interrogatories and may file such cross-interrogatories as he desires to submit. Cross-interrogatories shall be filed in quadruplicate, and a copy thereof together with a copy of any objections to interrogatories, shall be served on each party, who shall have three (3) days thereafter to file and serve his objections, if any, to such cross-interrogatories. Objections to interrogatories or cross-interrogatories shall be settled by the Examiner, the Chief Examiner or a member of the Board considering the application. Objections to interrogatories shall be made before the order for taking the deposition issues and if not so made shall be deemed waived. When a deposition is taken upon written interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, no party shall be present or represented, and no person other than the witness, a stenographic reporter, and the officer shall be present at the examination of the witness, which fact shall be certified by the officer, who shall propound the interrogatories and cross-interrogatories to the witness in their order and reduce the testimony to writing in the witness' own words. The provisions of paragraph (e) of this section shall be applicable to depositions taken in accordance with this paragraph.

(g) All depositions shall conform to the specifications of § 302.3. Any fees of a witness, the stenographer, or the officer designated to take the deposition shall be paid by the person at whose instance the deposition is taken.

(h) The fact that a deposition is taken and filed in a proceeding as provided in this section does not constitute a determination that it is admissible in evidence or that it may be used in the proceeding. Only such part or the whole of a deposition as is received in evidence at a hearing shall constitute a part of the record in such proceeding upon which a decision may be based.

§ 302.21 Attendance fees and mileage—(a) Where tender of attendance fees and mileage is a condition of compliance with subpena. No person whose attendance at a hearing or whose deposition is to be taken shall be obliged to respond to a subpena unless upon service of the subpena he is tendered attendance fees and mileage by the party at whose instance he is called in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section: Provided, That a witness summoned at the instance of the Board or one of its employees, or a salaried employee of the United States summoned to testify as to matters related to his public employment, need not be tendered such fees or mileage at that time.

(b) Amount of mileage and attendance fees to be paid. (1) Witnesses who are not salaried employees of the United States, or such employees summoned to testify on matters not related to their public employment, shall be paid the same fees and mileage paid to witnesses for like services in the courts of the United States, as provided in subdivisions (i) through (iii) of this subparagraph: Provided, That no employee, officer or attorney of an air carrier who may travel under the free or reduced rate provisions of section 403 (b) of the act shall be entitled to any fees or mileage which could have been avoided had he exercised the privileges granted under section 403 (b) of the act.

(i) Per diem for attendance. There shall be tendered $4.00 for each day of expected attendance at a hearing or place where deposition is to be taken, and for the time necessarily occupied in going to and return from the place of attendance.

(ii) Allowance for subsistence. In addition to per diem for attendance, when attendance is required at a point so far removed from the witness' residence as to prohibit daily return thereto, there shall be tendered an additional sum of $5.00 per day for expenses of subsistence for each day of expected attendance and for the time necessarily occupied in going to and returning from the place of attendance.

(iii) Mileage. There shall be tendered an amount equal to 7¢ per mile for the distance between the witness' place of residence and the place where attendance is required: Provided, That in lieu of this mileage allowance witnesses who are required to travel between the Territories, possessions or to and from the continental United States shall be tendered a ticket for such transportation at the lowest first-class rate available at the time of reservation plus the required per diem attendance fees: And provided further, That in Alaska where permitted by section 403 (b) of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, the witness may, at his option, accept a pass for travel by air.

(2) Witnesses who are not salaried employees of the United States, or such employees summoned to testify on matters not related to their public employment, who are summoned to testify at the instance of the Board or one of its employees or the United States or one of its agencies shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Such witnesses shall be furnished appropriate forms and instructions for the submission of claims for attendance fees, subsistence and mileage from the Government before the close of the proceedings which they are required to attend. Only persons summoned by subpena shall be entitled to claim attendance fees, subsistence or mileage from the Government.

(3) Witnesses who are salaried employees of the United States and who are summoned to testify on matters relating to their public employment, irrespective of or at whose instance they are summoned, shall be paid in accordance with applicable Government regulations.

(4) Whenever the sums tendered to a witness are inadequate for reimbursement under the above requirements, and such witness has complied with the summons, he shall upon request within a reasonable period of time be entitled to such additional sums as may be due him under the provisions of this section. Whenever the sums tendered and paid to a witness are excessive under the above requirements, either because the witness was privileged to travel under the free or reduced rate provisions of section 403 (b) of the act, or for any other reason, the witness shall upon request within a reasonable period of time refund such sums as may be excessive under the provisions of this section.

§ 302.22 Examiners—(a) Defined. The term "Examiner" as used herein includes presiding officers, hearing examiners, individual members of the Board or any other representative of the Board assigned to hold a hearing in a proceeding.

(b) Disqualification. An Examiner shall withdraw from the case if at any time he deems himself disqualified. If, prior to the initial or recommended decision in the case, there is filed with the Examiner, in good faith, an affidavit of personal bias or disqualification with substantiating facts and the Examiner does not withdraw, the Board shall determine the matter, if properly presented by exception or brief, as a part of the record and decision in the case. The Board shall not otherwise consider any claim of bias or disqualification. The Board, in its discretion, may order a hearing on a charge of bias or disqualification.

(c) Powers. An Examiner shall have the following powers, in addition to any others specified in this part:

(1) To give notice concerning and to hold hearings;

(2) To administer oaths and affirmations;

(3) To examine witnesses;

(4) To issue subpenas and to take or cause depositions to be taken;

(5) To rule upon offers of proof and to receive relevant evidence;

(6) To regulate the course and conduct of the hearing;

(7) To hold conferences, before or during the hearing, for the settlement or simplification of issues;

(8) To rule on motions and to dispose of procedural requests or similar matters;

(9) Within his discretion, or upon the direction of the Board, to certify any question to the Board for its consideration and disposition;

(10) To make initial or recommended decisions as provided in § 302.27;

(11) To take any other action authorized by the regulations in this part, by the Administrative Procedure Act, or by the Civil Aeronautics Act.

The Examiner's authority in each case will terminate either upon the service of a recommended decision, or upon the certification of the record in the proceeding to the Board, or upon the expiration of the period within which exceptions to his initial decision may be filed, or when he shall have withdrawn from the case upon considering himself disqualified.

§ 302.23 Prehearing conference—(a) In general. Prior to any hearings there will ordinarily be a prehearing conference before an Examiner, although in economic enforcement proceedings where the issues are drawn by the pleadings such conference will usually be omitted. Written notice of the prehearing conference shall be sent by the Chief Examiner to all parties to a proceeding and to other persons who appear to have an interest in such proceeding. The purpose of such a conference is to define and simplify the issues and the scope of the proceeding, to secure statements of the positions of the parties with respect thereto and amendments to the pleadings in conformity therewith, to schedule the exchange of exhibits before the date set for hearing, and to arrive at such agreements as will aid in the conduct and disposition of the proceeding. For example: consideration will be given to: (1) Matters which the Board can consider without the necessity of proof; (2) admissions of fact and the genuineness of documents; (3) admissibility of evidence; (4) limitation of the number of witnesses; (5) reducing of oral testimony to exhibit form; (6) procedure at the hearing, etc. If necessary, the Examiner may require further conference, or responsive pleadings, or both. The Examiner may also on his own motion or on motion of any party direct any air carrier or any party to a proceeding to prepare and submit exhibits setting forth studies, forecasts, or estimates on matters relevant to the issues in the proceeding.

(b) Report of prehearing conference. The Examiner shall issue a report of prehearing conference, defining the issues, giving an account of the results of the conference, specifying a schedule for the exchange of exhibits and rebuttal exhibits, the date of hearing, and specifying a time for the filing of objections to such report. The report shall be served upon all parties to the proceeding and any person who appeared at the conference. Objections to the report may be filed by any interested person within the time specified therein. The Examiner may revise his report in the light of the objections presented. The revised report, if any, shall be served upon the same persons as was the original report. Exceptions may be taken on the basis of any timely written objection which has not been met by a revision of the report if they are filed within the time specified in the revised report. Such report shall constitute the official account of the conference and shall control the subsequent course of the proceeding, but it may be reconsidered and modified at any time to protect the public interest or to prevent injustice.

§ 302.24 Hearings—(a) Notice. The Examiner to whom the case is assigned or the Board shall give the parties reasonable notice of a hearing or of the change in the date and place of a hearing and the nature of such hearing.

(b) Evidence. Evidence presented at the hearing shall be limited to competent and material evidence relevant to the issues as drawn by the pleadings or as defined in the report of prehearing conference, subject to such later modifications of the issues as may be necessary to protect the public interest or to prevent injustice. Evidence shall be presented in written form by all parties wherever feasible, as the Examiner may direct.

(c) Objections to evidence. Objections to the admission or exclusion of evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objections relied upon, and the transcript shall not include argument or debate thereon except as ordered by the Examiner. Rulings on such objections shall be a part of the transcript.

(d) Exceptions. Formal exceptions to the rulings of the Examiner made during the course of the hearing are unnecessary. For all purposes for which an exception otherwise would be taken, it is sufficient that a party, at the time of the ruling of the Examiner is made or sought, makes known the action he desires the Examiner to take or his objection to an action taken, and his grounds therefor.

(e) Offers of proof. Any offer of proof made in connection with an objection taken to any ruling of the Examiner rejecting or excluding preferred oral testimony shall consist of a statement of the substance of the evidence which counsel contends would be adduced by such testimony, and if the excluded evidence consists of evidence in documentary or written form or of reference to documents or records, a copy of such evidence shall be marked for identification and shall constitute the offer of proof.

(f) Exhibits. When written exhibits are offered in evidence, one copy must be furnished to each of the parties at the hearing, and two copies to the Examiner, unless the parties previously have been furnished with copies or the Examiner directs otherwise. If the Examiner has not fixed a time for the exchange of exhibits, the parties shall exchange copies of exhibits at the earliest practicable time, preferably before the hearing or, at the latest, at the commencement of the hearing.

(g) Substitution of copies for original exhibits. In his discretion, the Examiner may permit a party to withdraw original documents offered in evidence and substitute true copies in lieu thereof.

(h) Designation of parts of documents. When relevant and material matter offered in evidence by any party is embraced in a book, paper, or document containing other matter not material or relevant, the party offering the same shall plainly designate the matter so offered. The immaterial and irrelevant parts shall be excluded and shall be segregated insofar as practicable. If the volume of immaterial or irrelevant matter would unduly encumber the record, such book, paper, or document will not be received in evidence, but may be marked for identification, and, if properly authenticated, the relevant or material matter may be read into the record, or, if the Examiner so directs, a true copy of such matter, in proper form, shall be received as an exhibit, and like copies delivered by the party offering the same to opposing parties or their attorneys appearing at the hearing, who shall be afforded an opportunity to examine the book, paper, or document, and to offer in evidence in like manner other portions thereof.

(i) Records in other proceedings. In case any portion of the record in any other proceeding or civil or criminal action is offered in evidence, a true copy of such portion shall be presented for the record in the form of an exhibit unless:

(1) The portion is specified with particularity in such manner as to be readily identified; and

(2) The party offering the same agrees unconditionally to supply such copies later, or when required by the Board; and

(3) The parties represented at the hearing stipulate upon the record that such portion may be incorporated by reference, and that any portion offered by any other party may be incorporated by like reference upon compliance with subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph; and

(4) The Examiner directs such incorporation.

(j) Receipt of documents after hearing. No document or other writings shall be accepted for the record after the close of the hearing except in accordance with an arrangement made with the consent of the Examiner during the hearing and appearing on the record.

(k) Transcript of hearings. Hearings shall be recorded and transcribed by a contract reporter of the Board under supervision of the Examiner. Copies of the transcript shall be supplied to the parties to the proceeding by the reporter at rates not to exceed the maximum rates fixed by contract between the Board and the reporter.

(l) Corrections to transcript. Changes in the official transcript may be made only when they involve errors affecting substance. A motion to correct a transcript shall be filed with the Docket Section of the Board within ten (10) days after receipt of the completed transcript by the Board. If no objections to the motion are filed within ten

(10) days thereafter, the transcript may, upon the approval of the Examiner, be changed to reflect such corrections. If objections are received, the motion and objections shall be submitted to the official reporter, together with a request for a comparison of the transcript with the stenographic record of the hearing. After receipt of the report of the official reporter an order shall be entered by the Examiner settling the record and ruling on the motion.

§ 302.25 Argument before the Examiner. (a) The Examiner shall give the parties to the proceeding adequate opportunity during the course of the hearing for the presentation of arguments in support of or in opposition to motions, and objections and exceptions to rulings of the Examiner.

(b) When, in the opinion of the Examiner, the volume of the evidence or the importance or complexity of the issues involved warrants, he may, either of his own motion, or at the request of a party, permit the presentation of oral argument. He may impose such time limits on the argument as he may determine, having regard for other assignments for hearing before him. Such argument shall be transcribed and bound with the transcript of testimony and will be available to the Board for consideration in deciding the case.

§ 302.26 Proposed findings and conclusions before the Examiner or the Board. Within such reasonable time after the close of the reception of evidence fixed by the Examiner, any party may, upon request and under such conditions as the Examiner may prescribe, file for his consideration proposed findings and conclusions, together with reasons in support thereof. Such proposals shall be in writing, in briefs, or other appropriate form, and shall contain exact references to the record and authorities relied upon. The provisions of this section shall be applicable to proceedings in which the record is certified to the Board without the preparation of an initial or recommended decision by the Examiner, and in such cases the proposed findings and conclusions shall be considered by the Board before it issues any tentative decision.

§ 302.27 Action by Examiner after hearing. (a) Except where the Board directs otherwise, after the taking of evidence and the receipt of proposed findings and conclusions, if any, the examiner shall take the following action:

(1) Rates, fares, charges, etc., mail compensation. In cases relating to rates, fares, or charges, classification, rules or regulations or practices affecting such matters or value of service, or mail compensation, the examiner shall render an initial decision orally on the record or in writing if, before the close of the hearing, any party so requests, or, if no such request is made, he shall certify the record to the Board for decision.

(2) Cases subject to section 801 of the act. In cases where the action of the Board is subject to the approval of the President pursuant to section 801 of the act, the examiner shall render a recommended decision orally on the record or in writing.

(3) Other matters. If the proceeding relates to any matter not provided for in subparagraph (1) or (2) of this paragraph, the examiner shall render an initial decision orally on the record or in writing.

(b) Every initial or recommended decision issued other than orally on the record shall state the names of the persons who are to be served with copies of it, the time within which exceptions to such decision may be filed, and the time within which briefs in support of the exceptions may be filed.

§ 302.28 Effect of initial decision of Examiner. An initial decision of an Examiner shall become final and constitute the Board's ultimate disposition of the case unless timely exceptions to it are filed by one of the parties (including Public Counsel or an Enforcement Attorney) or within the period for filing exceptions the Board orders that the initial decision be certified to it for review. The initial decision shall become effective within the time established therein by the Examiner but in no case less than fifteen (15) days from its issuance. In the event that exceptions are filed to an initial decision or it is certified to the Board for review, its effectiveness shall be stayed until the Board disposes of the exceptions, completes its review or orders otherwise.

§ 302.29 Tentative decision of the Board. (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, whenever the Examiner certifies the record in a proceeding directly to the Board without issuing an initial or recommended decision in the matter, the Board shall, after consideration of any proposed findings and conclusions submitted by the parties, prepare a tentative decision and serve it upon the parties. Every tentative decision of the Board shall state the names of the persons who are to receive copies of it, the time within which exceptions to such decision may be filed, and the time within which briefs in support of the exceptions may be filed. If no exceptions are filed to the tentative decision of the Board within the period fixed, it shall become final at the expiration of such period unless the Board orders otherwise.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, in rule-making proceedings or proceedings determining applications for initial licenses, the Board may omit a tentative decision in any case in which it finds upon the record that due and timely execution of its functions imperatively and unavoidably so requires.

§ 302.30 Exceptions to initial or recommended decisions of Examiners or tentative decisions of the Board. Within ten (10) days after service of any initial or recommended decision of an Examiner or tentative decision of the Board, or such longer period as may be fixed therein, any party to a proceeding (including Public Counsel or an Enforcement Attorney) may file exceptions to such decision with the Board. Each separately numbered exception shall identify the part of the initial, recommended or tentative decision excepted to, shall designate, by exact and specific reference, the portions of the record relied upon in support of such exception, and shall state the grounds for such exception, including the citation of the statutory provisions or principal authorities in support thereof. Any objection to a ruling, finding or conclusion which is not excepted to shall be deemed to have been waived, and the Board need not consider such objections if raised at a later time.

§ 302.31 Briefs before the Board. Within such period after service of any initial or recommended decision of an Examiner or tentative decision of the Board, as may be fixed therein, any party to a proceeding may file a brief before the Board in support of his exceptions to such decision, or in opposition to the exceptions filed by any other party. In cases where the Board or the Examiner is of the opinion that, because of the limited number of parties and the nature of the issues, the filing of opening, answering and reply briefs will not unduly delay the proceeding and will assist in its proper disposition, the Board or the Examiner may direct that the parties file briefs at different times rather than at the same time. Except by special permission of the Board, briefs shall not exceed fifty (50) pages in length and reply briefs shall not be received.

§ 302.32 Oral argument before the Board. (a) If any party desires to argue a case orally before the Board he must request leave to make such argument in his exceptions or brief. Such request shall be filed no later than the date when briefs before the Board are due in the proceeding. The Board will rule on such request, and if oral argument is to be allowed, all parties to the proceeding will be advised of the date and hour set for such argument and the amount of time allowed to each such party.

(b) Pamphlets, charts, and other written data may only be presented to the Board at oral argument in accordance with the following rules. All such material presented at the oral argument shall be limited to facts in the record of the case being argued. Except for maps and enlargements of exhibits or charts included in briefs, all such material shall be served on all parties to the proceeding and three copies transmitted to the Docket Section of the Board at least five (5) days in advance of the argument.

§ 302.33 Waiver of procedural steps after hearing. The parties to any proceeding may agree to waive any one or more of the following procedural steps provided in §§ 302.25 through 302.32: Oral argument before the Examiner, the filing of proposed findings and conclusions for the Examiner or for the Board, a recommended decision of the Examiner, a tentative decision of the Board, exceptions to an initial or recommended decision of the Examiner or to a tentative decision of the Board, the filing of briefs with the Board, or oral argument before the Board.

§ 302.34 Petition for consideration of exceptions to initial decision which has become final. Where a party has, within the time allowed therefor, failed to file exceptions to an initial decision, and such decision has become final, he may petition the Board for leave to file exceptions, but no such petition shall be granted except on a showing of unusual and exceptional circumstances, constituting good cause for failure to make timely filing. The petition shall be accompanied by the exceptions for which late filing is sought. Such exceptions shall comply with the requirements of § 302.30. No such petition shall be granted unless the exceptions raise a substantial doubt as to the correctness of the initial decision. A petition under this section does not affect the finality of the initial decision or suspend its operation. However, the Board may in its discretion suspend the effectiveness of such decision pending its decision on the petition and exceptions.

§ 302.35 Shortened procedure. In cases where a hearing is not required by law, §§ 302.23 through 302.34, relating to prehearing, hearing, and post-hearing procedures, shall not be applicable except to the extent that the Board shall determine that the application of some or all of such rules in the particular case will be conducive to the proper dispatch of its business and to the ends of justice.

§ 302.36 Final decision of the Board. Upon submittal of a case to the Board for final decision on the merits the Board will consider the whole record, including the initial or recommended decision of the Examiner or its tentative decision, and the exceptions thereto, will resolve all questions of fact by what it deems to be the greater weight of the evidence thereon, will make its decision, stating the reasons or basis therefor, and enter an appropriate order.

§ 302.37 Petition for reconsideration. A petition for reconsideration may be filed by any party to a proceeding within thirty (30) days after the date of service of a final order by the Board in such proceeding unless the time is shortened or enlarged by the Board. However, neither the filing nor the granting of such a petition shall operate as a stay of such final order unless specifically so ordered by the Board. After the expiration of the period for filing a petition, a motion for leave to file such petition may be filed; but no such motion shall be granted except on a showing of unusual and exceptional circumstances, constituting good cause for failure to make timely filing. A petition for reconsideration shall state, briefly and specifically, the matters of record alleged to have been erroneously decided, the grounds relied upon, and the relief sought. If the petition is based, in whole or in part, on allegations as to the consequences which would result from the Board's order, the basis of such allegations shall be set forth. If the petition is based, in whole or in part, on new matter, such new matter shall be set forth, accompanied by a statement to the effect that petitioner, with due diligence, could not have known or discovered such new matter prior to the time the case was submitted to the Board for decision. Within ten (10) days after a petition for reconsideration is filed any party to the proceeding may file an answer in support of or in opposition to the petition.

§ 302.38 Petitions for rule-making—(a) Scope. Any interested person may petition the Board for the issuance, amendment, modification, or repeal of any Economic Regulation. For purposes of this section, such proposed action will be termed rule-making. However, the procedures set forth in this section shall not apply to recommendations for rule-making submitted by other agencies of the Government.

(b) Form and contents. Petition for rule-making shall conform to the requirements of §§ 302.2 and 302.3; and no request for the issuance, amendment, modification, or repeal of a rule which does not conform to such requirements will be considered by the Board.

(c) Procedure. Petitions for rule-making will be given a docket number, and will become matters of public record upon filing. No public hearing, oral argument, or other form of proceedings will be held directly on any such proceeding, but if the Board determines that the petition discloses sufficient reasons in support of the relief requested to justify the institution of public rule-making procedures, an appropriate notice of proposed rule-making will be issued. Thereafter, the procedures to be followed will be as set forth in section 4 (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act. Where the Board determines that the petition does not disclose sufficient reasons to justify the institution of public rule-making procedures, petitioner will be so notified together with the grounds for such denial. The provisions of this section shall not operate to prevent the Board, on its own motion, from acting on any matter disclosed in any petition.

§ 302.39 Objections to public disclosure of information—(a) Information contained in paper to be filed. Any person who objects to the public disclosure of any information contained in any paper filed in any proceeding, or in any application, report, or other document filed pursuant to the provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, or any rule, regulation, or order of the Board thereunder, shall segregate, or request the segregation of, such information into a separate paper and shall file it, or request that it be filed, with the Examiner or the person conducting the hearing or proceeding, as the case may be, or with the person with whom said application, report, or document is required to be filed, separately in a sealed envelope, bearing the caption of the enclosed paper and the notation "Classified or Confidential Treatment Requested Under Rule 39". At the time of filing such paper, or when the objection is made by a person not himself filing the paper, application, report or other document, within five (5) days after the filing of such paper, the objecting party shall file a motion to withhold the information from public disclosure, in accordance with the procedure outlined in paragraph (d) of this section, or in accordance with the procedure outlined in paragraph (c) of this section if objection is made by a Government department or a representative thereof. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, copies of the filed paper and of the motion need not be served upon any other party unless so ordered by the Board.

(b) Information contained in oral testimony. Any person who objects to the public disclosure of any information sought to be elicited from a witness or dependent on oral examination shall, before such information is disclosed, make his objection known. Upon such objection duly made, the witness or dependent shall be compelled to disclose such information only in the presence of the Examiner or the person before whom the deposition is being taken, as the case may be, the official stenographer and such attorneys for and lay representative of each party as the Examiner or the person before whom the deposition is being taken, as the case may be, shall designate, and after all present have been sworn to secrecy. The transcript of testimony containing such information shall be segregated and filed in a sealed envelope, bearing the title and docket number of the proceeding, and the notation "Classified or Confidential Treatment Requested Under Rule 39—Testimony Given by (name of witness or dependent)". Within five (5) days after such testimony is given, the objecting person shall file a motion, except as hereinafter provided in paragraph (c) of this section, in accordance with the procedure outlined in paragraph (d) of this section, to withhold the information from public disclosure. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, copies of the segregated portion of the transcript and of the motion need not be served upon any other party unless so ordered by the Board.

(c) Objection by Government departments or representative thereof. In the case of objection to the public disclosure of any information filed by or elicited from any Government department, or representative thereof, under paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section, the department, making such objection shall be exempted from the provisions of paragraphs (a), (b), and (d) of this section insofar as said paragraphs require the filing of a written objection to such disclosure. However, any department, or person representing said department, if it so desires, may file a memorandum setting forth the reasons on the basis of which it is claimed that a public disclosure of the information should not be made. If such a memorandum is submitted, it shall be filed and handled as is provided by this section in the case of a motion to withhold information from public disclosure.

(d) Form of motion to withhold information from public disclosure. Subject to the exception of paragraph (c), no information covered by paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section need be withheld from public disclosure unless written objection to such disclosure is filed with the Board in accordance with the following procedure:

(1) The motion shall be headed with the title and docket number of the proceeding and shall be signed by the objecting person, any duly authorized officer or agent thereof, or by counsel representing such person in the proceeding.

(2) The motion shall include (i) a description of the information sought to be withheld, sufficient for identification of the same, and (ii) a full statement of the reasons on the basis of which it is claimed that a public disclosure of the information would adversely affect the interests of the objecting person and is not required in the interest of the public, or that the information is of a secret nature affecting the national defense.

(3) Such motion shall be filed with the Examiner or the person conducting the hearing or proceeding, as the case may be, or with the person with whom said application, report, or document is required to be filed.

If such motion relates to contracts, agreements, understandings, or arrangements filed pursuant to section 412 (a) of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, and Part 261 of this chapter, or pursuant to Part 262 of this chapter, an executed original copy and two copies of such motion shall be filed.

(e) Motions referred to the Board. The order of the Board containing its ruling upon each such motion will specify the extent to which, and the conditions upon which, the information may be disclosed to the parties and to the public, which order shall become effective upon the date stated therein, unless, within five (5) days after the date of the entry of the Board's order with respect thereto, a petition is filed by the objecting person requesting reconsideration by the Board, or a written statement is filed indicating that the objecting person in good faith intends to seek judicial review of the Board's order.

(f) Objections in proceeding before the Board. Notwithstanding any of the provisions of this section, whenever the objection to disclosure of information shall have been made, in the first instance, before the Board itself, the written motion of objection contemplated by paragraphs (a), (b), and (d) of this section shall not be necessary but may be submitted if the parties so desire or if the Board, in a particular case, shall so direct.

§ 302.40 Saving clause. Repeal, revision or amendment of any Economic Regulation of the Board shall not affect any pending enforcement proceeding or any enforcement proceeding initiated thereafter with respect to causes arising or acts committed prior to said repeal, revision or amendment, unless the act of repeal, revision or amendment specifically so provides.

§ 302.41 Applicability of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. In any situation not provided for or controlled by this part, the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, or the Administrative Procedure Act, the Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts of the United States, where applicable, shall govern.

SUBPART B—RULES APPLICABLE TO ECONOMIC ENFORCEMENT PROCEEDINGS

§ 302.200 Applicability of this subpart—(a) In general. This subpart sets forth the special rules applicable to proceedings for enforcement of the economic regulatory provisions of the act, and rules, regulations, orders, limitations, conditions and requirements issued thereunder. For information as to other applicable rules, reference should also be made to Subpart A of this part, to the act and to the substantive rules, regulations and orders of the Board.

(b) Informal complaints. Informal complaints may be made in writing with respect to anything done or omitted to be done by any person in contravention of any provision of the act or any requirement established pursuant thereto without compliance with the regulations in this part. Matters so presented may, if their nature warrants, be handled by the Board by correspondence or conference with the appropriate persons. Any matter not disposed of informally may be made the subject of a formal proceeding pursuant to this subpart. The filing of an informal complaint shall not bar the subsequent filing of a formal complaint.

§ 302.201 Formal complaints. Any person may make a formal complaint to the Board with respect to anything done or omitted to be done by any person in contravention of any economic regulatory provisions of the act, or any rule, regulation, order, limitation, condition, or other requirement established pursuant thereto. Every formal complaint shall conform to the requirements of § 302.3, concerning the form and filing of documents. The submission of a formal complaint shall not in itself result in the institution of a formal economic enforcement proceeding and a hearing with respect to the complaint unless and until the Chief of the Office of Enforcement dockets a petition for enforcement with respect to such complaint in accordance with § 302.205.

§ 302.202 Subscription and verification. Every formal complaint, supplemental complaint, answer or other pleading filed in an economic enforcement proceeding shall be signed by the party filing the same, or by a duly authorized officer, agent or attorney of such party. In addition, such documents shall be verified under oath by the person so signing. Such verification shall set forth that the person verifying the document has read the same and knows the contents thereof and the attached exhibits, if any, and that the matters and things therein stated are true of his own knowledge, except such matters therein stated on information and belief, and as to such matters he believes them to be true. If the subscription and verification, or either of them, be by anyone other than the party filing the same or an officer or attorney of such party, the reason therefor must be stated and the power of attorney or other authority authorizing such affiant to subscribe the document and make the verification must be filed with the document.

§ 302.203 Insufficiency of formal complaint. In any case where the Chief of the Office of Enforcement is of the opinion that a complaint does not sufficiently set forth the material required by any applicable rule, regulation or order of the Board, or is otherwise insufficient, he may advise the party filing the same of the deficiency and require that any additional information be supplied by amendment.

§ 302.204 Satisfaction of formal complaint. Prior to the institution of an enforcement proceeding pursuant to § 302.205, the person complained against in a complaint submitted pursuant to § 302.201 shall be afforded an opportunity for the submission of facts, offer of settlement or proposal of adjustment, unless time, the nature of the grounds of the complaint, or the public interest will not permit. This opportunity shall be extended in writing and shall be accompanied by a copy of the complaint. Responses to such opportunities shall also be in writing and shall be submitted to the Board within fifteen (15) days after notice of the complaint.

§ 302.205 Institution of enforcement proceedings. Whenever in the opinion of the Chief of the Office of Enforcement there are reasonable grounds to believe that any provision of the act or any rule, regulation, order, limitation, condition or other requirement established pursuant thereto, has been or is being violated, that efforts to arrive at an adjustment or settlement insofar as required by § 302.204 have failed, and that investigation of the alleged violation is in the public interest, the Chief of the Office of Enforcement may institute an economic enforcement proceeding by docketing a petition for enforcement. The petition for enforcement shall be accompanied by a formal complaint submitted pursuant to the provisions of § 302.201 or a complaint complying with § 302.3 which is verified by an Enforcement Attorney of the Board. However, if a complaint submitted pursuant to § 302.201 has already been served on the respondent, it may be incorporated by reference in the petition for enforcement. The petition for enforcement, and accompanying complaint, if any, shall be formally served upon the respondent and the complainant. The proceedings thus instituted shall be processed in regular course in accordance with the regulations in this part. However, nothing in the regulations of this part shall be construed to limit the authority of the Board to institute or conduct any investigation or inquiry within its jurisdiction in any other manner or according to any other procedures which it may deem necessary or proper.

§ 302.206 Procedure when no enforcement proceeding is instituted. (a) Within a reasonable time after a formal complaint has been processed, the Chief of the Office of Enforcement shall either institute an enforcement proceeding in accordance with § 302.205 or shall advise the complainant in writing that no enforcement proceeding will be instituted with respect to his complaint and the reasons therefor.

(b) The letter of the Chief of the Office of Enforcement shall be deemed an order of the Board dismissing the complaint unless the complainant requests the Board to review such ruling in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section.

(c) Within ten days after receipt of a letter from the Chief of the Office of Enforcement refusing to institute an enforcement proceeding with respect to a complaint, the complainant may file a motion with the Board to review such action. The proceedings on such motion shall be in accordance with § 302.18. Upon conclusion of such proceedings, the Board shall enter an order either dismissing the complaint or directing such other action as it deems appropriate.

§ 302.207 Answer. Within fifteen (15) days after the date of service of a petition for enforcement docketed pursuant to § 302.205, the respondent shall file an answer to the complaint attached thereto or referred to therein. All answers shall fully and completely advise the parties and the Board as to the nature of the defense and shall admit or deny specifically and in detail each allegation of the complaint unless the respondent is without knowledge, in which case, the respondent shall so state and his statement shall operate as a denial. Allegations of fact not denied or controverted shall be deemed admitted. Matters alleged as affirmative defenses shall be separately stated and numbered and shall, in the absence of a reply, be deemed to be controverted.

§ 302.208 Default. Failure of a respondent to file and serve an answer within the time and in the manner prescribed by the regulations in this part shall be deemed to authorize the Board, in its discretion, to find the facts alleged in the petition to be true and to enter such order as may be appropriate, without notice or hearing, or, in its discretion, to proceed to take proof, without notice, of the allegations or charges set forth in the complaint or order.

§ 302.209 Reply. The Board (or the Examiner) may, in its discretion, require or permit the filing of a reply in appropriate cases, otherwise no reply shall be filed.

§ 302.210 Parties. The parties to an economic enforcement proceeding shall be the Board (represented by an Enforcement Attorney), the respondent, any person whose formal complaint alleged violations which were later covered by the petition for enforcement, and any other person permitted to intervene pursuant to § 302.15.

§ 302.211 Prehearing conference. Ordinarily the issues in an economic enforcement proceeding will be drawn by the pleadings and no prehearing conference shall be held. However, such a conference may be held where the Board or the Examiner believes that the fair and expeditious disposition of the proceeding so requires. In the event a prehearing conference is to be held it shall be conducted in accordance with § 302.23.

§ 302.212 Admissions as to facts and documents. At any time after answer has been filed, any party may file with the Board and serve upon the opposing side a written request for the admission of the genuineness and authenticity of any relevant documents described in and exhibited with the request or for the admission of the truth of any relevant matters of fact stated in the request with respect to such documents. Each of the matters of which an admission is requested shall be deemed admitted unless within a period designated in the request, not less than ten (10) days after service thereof, or within such further time as the Board or the Examiner may allow upon motion and notice, the party to whom the request is directed serves upon the requesting party a sworn statement either denying specifically the matters of which an admission is requested or setting forth in detail the reasons why he cannot truthfully either admit or deny such matters. Service of such request and answering statement shall be made as provided in § 302.9. Any admission made by a party pursuant to such request is only for the purposes of the pending proceeding, or any proceeding or action instituted for the enforcement of any order entered therein, and shall not constitute an admission by him for any other purpose or be used against him in any other proceeding or action.

§ 302.213 Hearing. After the issues have been formulated, whether by the pleadings or otherwise, the Examiner or the Board shall give the parties reasonable written notice of the time and place of the hearing.

§ 302.214 Appearances by persons not parties. With consent of the Examiner or the Board, appearances may be entered without request for or grant of permission to intervene by interested persons who are not parties to a proceeding. Such persons may, with consent of the Examiner or the Board, cross-examine a particular witness or suggest to any party or counsel therefor questions or interrogations to be propounded to witnesses called by any party, but may not otherwise examine witnesses and may not introduce evidence or otherwise participate in the proceeding.

§ 302.215 Offers of settlement. Any party to an economic enforcement proceeding at any time prior to final decision thereof may submit offers of settlement or proposals of adjustment. Each such offer or proposal shall be submitted in writing and addressed to the Board. The submission of such offer or proposal shall not alter or delay the course of the proceeding unless so ordered by the Board.

§ 302.216 Evidence of previous violations. Evidence of previous violations by any person of any provision of the act or any requirement thereunder found by the Board or a court in any other proceeding or criminal or civil action may, if relevant and material, be admitted in any enforcement proceeding involving such person.

§ 302.217 Motions for immediate suspension of operating authority pendente lite. All motions for the suspension of the economic operating authority of an air carrier during the pendency of proceedings to revoke such authority shall be filed with, and decided by the Board. Proceedings on the motion shall be in accordance with § 302.18. In addition, the Board shall afford the parties an opportunity for oral argument on such motion.

SUBPART C—RULES APPLICABLE TO MAIL RATE PROCEEDINGS

§ 302.300 Applicability of this subpart. This subpart sets forth the special rules applicable to proceedings for the establishment of mail rates by the Board. For information as to other applicable rules, reference should be made to Subpart A of this part, to the Civil Aeronautics Act, and to the substantive rules, regulations and orders of the Board.

§ 302.301 Parties to the proceeding. The parties to the proceeding shall be the air carrier or carriers for whom rates are to be fixed, the Postmaster General, Public Counsel, and any other person whom the Board permits to intervene. (See § 302.15.)

FINAL MAIL RATE PROCEEDINGS

§ 302.302 Participation by persons other than parties. In addition to participation in hearings in accordance with § 302.14, persons other than parties may, within the time fixed for filing notice of objections to an order to show cause in a mail rate proceeding as provided in § 302.305, submit a memorandum of opposition to, or in support of, the position taken in the petition or order. Such memorandum shall not be received as evidence in the proceeding.

§ 302.303 Institution of proceedings. Proceedings for the determination of rates of compensation for the transportation of mail may be commenced by the filing of a petition by an air carrier whose rate is to be fixed, or the Postmaster General, or upon the issuance of an order by the Board. The petition shall set forth the rate or rates sought to be established, the reasons supporting the request for a change in rate, and a detailed economic justification sufficient to establish the reasonableness of the rate or rates proposed.

PROCEDURE WHEN AN ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE IS ISSUED

§ 302.304 Order to show cause. Whether the proceeding is commenced by the filing of a petition or upon the Board's own initiative, the Board may issue an order directing the respondent to show cause why the Board should not adopt such provisional findings and conclusions, and such rates, as may be specified in the order to show cause.

§ 302.305 Objections and answer to order to show cause. (a) Any person having objections to the provisional rates specified in such order shall file with the Board a notice of objection within ten (10) days after the date of service of such order.

(b) If such notice is filed as aforesaid, written answer and any supporting documents shall be filed within thirty (30) days after the service of the order to show cause. The Board may specify different times for filing a notice of objection or an answer. An answer to an order to show cause shall contain specific objections, and exhibits in support thereof, and shall set forth the findings and conclusions, the rates, and the supporting exhibits which would be substituted for the corresponding items in the Statement of Provisional Findings and Conclusions, if such objections were found valid.

(c) A notice or answer filed by a person who is neither a party nor a person ultimately permitted to intervene shall be treated as a memorandum filed under § 302.302.

§ 302.306 Effect of failure to file notice or answer. If no notice, or if after notice, no answer is filed within the designated time, all parties shall be deemed to have waived the right to a hearing and all other procedural steps short of a final decision of the Board fixing rates, and the Board may thereupon, upon the basis of all of the documents filed in the proceeding, enter a final order fixing the fair and reasonable rate or rates.

§ 302.307 Procedure after answer. If an answer is filed within the time designated in the Board's order, a prehearing conference and hearing shall be held unless waived by all parties. The issues shall be limited to those specifically raised by the answer, except that at the prehearing conference, the Examiner may permit the parties to raise such additional issues as he deems necessary to a full and fair determination of a fair and reasonable rate. (Reference should be made to Subpart A of this part for rules applicable to hearings.)

§ 302.308 Evidence. All direct evidence shall be in writing and shall be filed in exhibit form in advance of the hearing unless, for good cause shown, the Examiner otherwise directs.

PROCEDURE WHEN NO ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE IS ISSUED

§ 302.309 Hearing to be ordered. When no order to show cause is to be issued by the Board, the Board will order a hearing before an Examiner similar to that provided for in §§ 302.307 and 302.308, except that the issues at such hearing shall be formulated initially at a prehearing conference.

TEMPORARY RATE PROCEEDINGS

§ 302.310 Temporary rate petitions and orders—(a) Petitions. Upon its own initiative or upon petition of an air carrier, or the Postmaster General, the Board may, in appropriate cases, fix temporary rates of compensation for the transportation of mail by aircraft for any period after the commencement of a final mail rate proceeding.

(b) Orders. Where the Board deems it appropriate to fix a temporary rate, it shall issue an order fixing such rate, which shall become effective without further order of the Board ten (10) days after service thereof unless notice of objection is filed thereto within such period, since in the absence of such notice all persons shall be deemed to have waived all objections to the rate and all rights to any procedural steps which might otherwise be required.

(c) Effect of objection by petitioner for intervention. Where the only timely notice of objection to a temporary rate order is filed by a petitioner for intervention, such notice shall postpone the effectiveness of the temporary rate order until the Board rules on the petition for intervention. If the Board denies the petition for intervention, its ruling thereon shall also provide for the temporary rate order to become effective as of the date of such denial and for the dismissal of the notice of objection of the petitioner for intervention.

(d) Applicability of final mail rate procedure. Proceedings with respect to an order fixing a temporary rate shall in all other respects be the same as those provided for final mail rate proceedings, except that an answer to a temporary rate order shall be filed within twenty (20) days after service of such order in view of the need for expedition in fixing temporary rates.

INFORMAL MAIL RATE CONFERENCE PROCEDURE

§ 302.311 Invocation of procedure. Conferences between members of the Board's staff, representatives of air carriers, the Post Office Department and other interested persons may be called by the Board's staff for the purpose of considering and clarifying issues and factual material in pending proceedings for the establishment of rates for the transportation of mail.

§ 302.312 Scope of conferences. The mail rate conferences shall be limited to the discussion of, and possible agreement on, particular issues and related factual material in accordance with sound rate-making principles. The duties and powers of the Board's staff in rate conferences essentially will not be different, therefore, from the duties and powers it has in the processing of rate cases not involving a rate conference. The staff function in both instances is to present clearly to the Board the issues and the related material facts, together with recommendations. The Board will make an independent determination of the soundness of the staff's analyses and recommendations.

§ 302.313 Participants in conferences. The persons entitled to be present in mail rate conferences will be the representatives of the carrier whose rates are in issue, the staff of the Postmaster General, and the Board's staff. No other person will attend unless the Board's staff deems his presence necessary in the interest of one or more purposes to be accomplished, and in such case his participation will be limited to such specific purposes. No person, however, shall have the duty to attend merely by reason of invitation by the Board's staff.

§ 302.314 Conditions upon participation—(a) Nondisclosure of information. As a condition to participation, every participant, during the period of the conferences and for 90 days after its termination, or until the Board takes public action with respect to the facts and issues covered in the conferences, whichever is earlier: (1) Shall, except for necessary disclosures in the course of employment in connection with conference business, hold the information obtained in conference in absolute confidence and trust; (2) shall not deal, directly or indirectly, for the account of himself, his immediate family, members of his firm or company, or as a trustee, in securities of the carrier involved in the rate conference except that under exceptional circumstances special permission may be obtained in advance from the Board; and (3) shall adopt effective controls for the confidential handling of such information and shall instruct personnel under his supervision, who by reason of their employment come into possession of information obtained at the conference, that such information is confidential and must not be disclosed to anyone except to the extent absolutely necessary in the course of employment, and must not be misused. The word "information", as used in paragraph (d) of this section, shall refer only to information obtained at the conference regarding the future course of action or position of the Board or the Board's staff with respect to the facts or issues discussed at the conference.

(b) Signed statement required. Every representative of a carrier actually present at any conference shall sign a statement that he has read this entire instruction and promises to abide by it and advise any other participant to whom he discloses any confidential information of the restrictions imposed above. Every representative of the Postmaster General actually present at any conference shall, on his own behalf, sign a statement to the same effect.

(c) Presumption of having conference information. A director of any carrier, which has had a representative at the conference, who deals either directly or indirectly for himself, his immediate family, members of his firm or company, or as a trustee, in securities of the air carrier involved in the conference, during the restrictive period set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, shall be presumed to have come into possession of information obtained at the conference knowing that such information was subject to the restrictions imposed above; but such presumption shall be rebuttal.

(d) Compliance report required. Within ten (10) days after the expiration of the time specified for keeping conference matters confidential every participant, as defined in this section, shall file a verified compliance report with the Secretary of the Board stating that he has complied in every respect with the conditions of this section, or if he has not so complied, stating in detail in what respects he has failed to comply.

(e) Persons subject to the provisions of this section. For the purposes of this section, participants shall include (1) any representative of any carrier and any representative of the Postmaster General actually present at the conference; (2) the carrier and the officers of any carrier which has had a representative at the conference; (3) the directors of any carrier, which has had a representative at the conference, the members of any firm of attorneys or consultants, which has had a representative at the conference, and the members of the Postmaster General's staff, who come into possession of information obtained at the conference, knowing that such information is subject to the restrictions imposed above.[2]

§ 302.315 Information to be requested from carrier. With respect to the rate for the future period, the carrier will be requested to submit detailed estimates as to traffic, revenues and expenses by appropriate periods and the investment which will be required to perform the operations for a full future year. Full and adequate support shall be presented for all estimates, particularly where such estimates deviate materially from the carrier's past experience. With respect to the rate for a past period, essentially the same procedure shall be followed. Other information or data likewise may be requested by the Board's staff. All data submitted by the carrier shall be certified by a responsible officer.

§ 302.316 Staff analysis of data for submission of answers thereto. After a careful analysis of these data, the Board's staff will, in most cases, send the carrier what might be termed a statement of exceptions showing areas of differences. Where practicable, the carrier may submit its answer to these exceptions. Conferences will then be scheduled to work out a clear understanding and resolution of the issues and facts from the standpoint of sound rate-making principles.

§ 302.317 Availability of data to Post Office Department. The representatives of the Postmaster General shall have access to all conference data and, insofar as practicable, shall be furnished copies of all pertinent data prepared by the Board's staff and the carrier, and a reasonable time shall be allowed to get acquainted with the facts and issues and to make any presentation deemed necessary.

§ 302.318 Post-conference procedure. The rate conferences not being in the nature of proceedings, no briefs, or argument, or any formal steps, will be entertained by the Board. The form, content and time of the staff's presentation to the Board are entirely matters of internal procedure. Any participant is at liberty, however, further to urge his contentions by way of memoranda addressed to the Board's staff and may request that such memoranda be presented to the Board as a more effective way of stating his position.

§ 302.319 Effect of conference agreements. No agreements or understanding reached in rate conferences as to facts or issues shall in any respect be binding on the Board or any participant. Any party to the mail rate proceedings will have the same rights to file an answer and take other procedural steps as though no rate conference had been held. The fact, however, that rate conferences were held and certain agreements or understandings may have been reached on certain facts and issues renders it proper to provide that upon the filing of an answer by any party to the rate proceeding all issues going to the establishment of a rate shall be open, except insofar as limited in prehearing conference in accordance with § 302.23.

§ 302.320 Waiver of §§ 302.313 and 302.314. After the termination of a mail rate conference hereunder, the carrier, whose rates were in issue, may petition the Board for a release from the obligations imposed upon it and all other persons by §§ 302.313 and 302.314. The Board will grant such petition only after a detailed and convincing showing is made in the petition and supporting exhibits and documents that there is no reasonable possibility that any of the abuses sought to be prevented will occur or that the Board's processes will in any way be prejudiced. There will be no hearing or oral argument on the petition and the Board will grant or deny the request without assigning reasons therefor.

§302.321 Time of commencing and terminating conference. At the commencement of an informal mail rate conference pursuant to this section, the members of the Board's staff conducting such conferences shall issue to each person present at such conference a written statement to the effect that such conference is being conducted pursuant to this section and stating the time of commencement of such conference; and at the termination of such conference the members of the Board's staff conducting such conference shall note in writing on such statement the time of termination of such conference.

SUBPART D—RULES APPLICABLE TO EXEMPTION PROCEEDINGS

§ 302.400 Applicability of this subpart. This subpart sets forth the special rules applicable to a proceeding on an application filed by an air carrier with the Board for an exemption, pursuant to section 1 (2) or 416 (b) (1) of the act, from any of the requirements of the act, or any rule, regulation, term, condition, or limitation prescribed thereunder. For information as to other applicable rules, reference should be made to Subpart A of this part, to the Civil Aeronautics Act, and to the substantive rules, regulations and orders of the Board.

§ 302.401 Filing of application—(a) Filing. An application for exemption shall conform to the formal requirements of §§ 302.3 and 302.4. Such application shall be assigned a docket number and any additional documents filed in connection with such exemption shall be identified by the assigned docket number.

§ 302.402 Contents of application—(a) Title. An application filed pursuant to this subpart shall be entitled "Application for Exemption".

(b) Factual detail. The application shall set forth the section or sections of the act, or the rule, regulation, term, condition, or limitation prescribed thereunder from which exemption is desired and shall state in detail the facts relied upon to establish that the enforcement of the provisions from which exemption is sought, is or would be an undue burden upon the applicant by reason of the limited extent of, or unusual circumstances affecting, the operations of such applicant and that enforcement of such provision is not in the public interest.

(c) Supporting evidence. The application shall be accompanied by a statement of economic data or other matters which the applicant desires the Board to officially notice, and by affidavits establishing such other facts as the applicant desires the Board to rely upon.

(d) Record of service. An application shall indicate the names of the parties served as required by § 302.403.

§ 302.403 Service of application—(a) Manner of service. An application for exemption shall be served as provided by § 302.8.

(b) Persons to be served. Except in the case of an application for an exemption from sections 403 and 404 of the act or an application for exemption which will permit the applicant to render irregular services only, a copy of an application shall be served on the following parties who shall be presumed to have an interest in the subject matter of the application: (1) Any air carrier which is authorized to render regular service to any point involved in the application; (2) any person whose application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, or for an exemption, authorizing regular service to or from any such point has been filed with, and has not finally been disposed of by, the Board; (3) the chief executive of any State, territory, or possession of the United States in which any such point is located; and (4) the chief executive of the city, town, or other unit of local government at any such point located in the United States or any territory or possession thereof.

(c) Additional service of notice. The Board may, in its discretion, order additional service made on such person or persons as the facts of the situation warrant.

§ 302.404 Posting of application. The Board shall cause a copy of every application for exemption filed with it to be posted promptly on a public bulletin board at its principal offices in Washington, D. C.

§ 302.405 Dismissal of incomplete application—(a) Dismissal. The Board may, on its own motion or the motion of any party in interest, dismiss an application for exemption which fails in any material respect to comply with the requirements of the regulations in this part.

(b) Additional data. The Board may request the filing of additional data with respect to any application for exemption or any answer or reply filed by a party in interest in connection therewith.

§ 302.406 Answers to applications for exemptions. Within ten (10) days after filing of an application for exemption, any party in interest may file an answer in support of or in opposition to the grant of a requested exemption. Such answer shall set forth in detail the reasons why the party believes the exemption should be granted or denied. The answer shall be accompanied by a statement of economic data or other matters which it is desired that the Board officially notice, and by affidavits establishing such other facts as are relied upon.

[2] Restrictions upon the Board's staff on disclosure of confidential information and dealing in air carrier securities have existed for some time under limitations established pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, page C2-27 of the Federal Personnel Manual of the Civil Service Commission, and section 93 of the Criminal Code.

§ 302.407 Reply. Within seven (7) days after service of an answer, an applicant for exemption may file a reply thereto in conformity with the provisions of § 302.402.

§ 302.408 Request for hearing. Although in the usual course of disposition of an application for exemption no formal hearing will be granted to the applicant or to a party in interest opposing such exemption, the Board may, in its discretion, order such proceeding set down for hearing. Any applicant, or any party in interest opposing an application, who desires to request a hearing on an application for exemption shall set forth in detail in his request the reasons why the filing of affidavits or other written evidence will not permit the fair and expeditious disposition of the application, and, to the extent that such request is dependent upon factual assertions, shall accompany such request by affidavits establishing such facts. In the event a hearing is ordered by the Board, Subpart A of this part shall govern the proceedings.

§ 302.409 Exemptions on the Board's initiative. Notwithstanding the other provisions of this subpart, the Board may, upon request but without notice or hearing, enter orders exempting air carriers from the requirements of any provision of the act, or any rule, regulation, term, condition, or limitation prescribed thereunder, in conformity with sections 1 (2) or 416 (b) (1) of the act.

SUBPART F—RULES APPLICABLE TO PROCEEDINGS WITH RESPECT TO RATES, FARES AND CHARGES

§ 302.500 Applicability of this subpart. This subpart sets forth the special rules applicable to proceedings with respect to rates, fares and charges. For information as to other applicable rules, reference should be made to Subpart A of this part, to the Civil Aeronautics Act, and to the substantive rules, regulations and orders of the Board.

§ 302.501 Institution of proceedings. A proceeding to determine rates, fares, or charges for the transportation of persons or property by aircraft, or the lawful clasification, rule, regulation, or practice affecting such rates, fares or charges, may be instituted by the filing of a petition or complaint by any person, or by the issuance of an order by the Board.

§ 302.502 Contents of petition or complaint. If a petition or complaint is filed it shall state the reasons why the rates, fares, or charges, or the classification, rule, regulation, or practice complained of are unlawful and shall support such reasons with a full factual analysis.

§ 302.503 Dismissal of petition or complaint. If the Board is of the opinion that a petition or complaint does not state facts which warrant an investigation or action on its part, it may dismiss such petition or complaint without hearing.

§ 302.504 Order of investigation. The Board on its own initiative, or if it is of the opinion that the facts stated in a petition or complaint warrant it, may issue an order instituting an investigation of present or proposed rates, fares, o charges for the transportation of persons or property by aircraft of the lawful classification, rule, regulation, or practice effecting such rates, fares, or charges, and assigning the proceeding for hearing before an examiner. (Reference should be made to Subpart A of this part for rules applicable to hearings.)

§ 302.505 Complaints requesting suspension of tariffs. (a) Formal complaints seeking suspensions of tariffs pursuant to section 1002 (g) of the act shall fully identify the tariff and include reference to the name of the publishing carrier or agent, to the CAB number, and to specific items or particular provisions protested or complained against. The complaint should indicate in what respect the tariff is considered to be unlawful, and state what complainant suggests by way of substitution.

(b) A complaint requesting suspension of any tariff filed under the act ordinarily will not be considered unless made in conformity with this section and filed with the Board at least fifteen (15) days before the effective date of the tariff. In an emergency satisfactorily shown by complainant, and within the time limits herein provided, a telegraphic complaint may be sent to the Board and to the publishing carrier or agent stating the grounds relied upon, but such telegraphic complaint must immediately be confirmed by complaint filed and served in accordance with this section.

§ 302.506 Burden of going forward with the evidence. At any hearing involving a change in a rate, fare, or charge for the transportation of persons or property by aircraft, or the lawful classification, rule, regulation, or practice affecting such rate, fare, or charge, the burden of going forward with the evidence shall be upon the person proposing such change to show that the proposed changed rate, fare, charge, classification, rule, regulation or practice is just and reasonable, and not otherwise unlawful.

SUBPART F—RULES APPLICABLE TO PROCEEDINGS FOR LEAVE TO CONDUCT CHARTER TRIPS OR SPECIAL SERVICES

§ 302.600 Applicability of this subpart. This subpart sets forth the special rules applicable to proceedings brought by air carriers holding certificates of public convenience and necessity who seek to obtain Board approval to perform charter trips or special services in overseas or foreign air transportation to points or areas where such service would otherwise be contrary to the provisions of § 207.8 of the Economic Regulations.

§ 302.601 Petitions to conduct charter trips or special services into areas protected by § 207.8 of the Economic Regulations. (a) Petitions filed pursuant to this section need not conform to the requirements of §§ 302.2 and 302.3 but must be submitted in triplicate, signed by a managing officer of the company. Such petition shall set forth the proposed date(s), number of trips, and area(s) or point(s) between which the service is desired to be performed, together with the equipment to be utilized, the approximate number of passengers or amount and kind of cargo to be carried, and the compensation to be received. In the case of charter trips, a copy of the proposed charter agreement(s) shall be annexed to the petition. A copy of the petition, together with all supporting documents, shall be served upon the air carrier certificated to serve the points or areas concerned at its principal office, and proof of such service shall accompany the petition when filed with the Board.

(b) The air carrier certificated to serve the points or areas concerned shall have five days (not including Saturday or Sunday or legal holidays) after the filing of such a petition in which to file notice of objections thereto, if any, with the Board and if such notice is filed, an additional ten days (not including Saturday or Sunday or legal holidays) in which to file supporting reasons or arguments as to why the petition should not be granted in the public interest. Such objections shall include a statement as to the objecting carrier's ability to handle the traffic and may, if desired, include the terms upon which the service requested would be performed by it.

(c) Thereafter the Board will grant the petition to such extent and subject to such terms and conditions as it finds to be in the public interest. Petitions for the approval of service which it finds not in the public interest will be denied.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 70-2644]

ARKANSAS NATURAL GAS CORP. AND ARKANSAS LOUISIANA GAS CO.

NOTICE OF FILING OF PROPOSED BANK BORROWING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 11th day of June A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that a joint declaration has been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, ("act") by Arkansas Natural Gas Corporation ("Arkansas Natural"), a registered holding company, and its subsidiary, Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company ("Arkansas Louisiana"). Declarants have designated sections 6 (a), 7, and 12 (b) of the act and Rule U-45 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said declaration which is on file in the office of the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which may be summarized as follows:

Arkansas Louisiana, pursuant to orders of the Commission dated August 6, 1947 (Holding Company Act Release No. 7624), and September 6, 1949 (Holding Company Act Release No. 9315) entered into a Loan Agreement dated as of October 15, 1947, with Guaranty Trust Company of New York ("Bank") and a Supplemental Loan Agreement dated September 15, 1949 under which it made certain loans from time to time. At present, the amounts owed the Bank under such agreements aggregate $23,000,000, evidenced by the company's outstanding 2¼ percent installment promissory note in the principal amount of $7,500,000 (payable in installments of $625,000 each, beginning October 15, 1951 and ending April 15, 1957), 2¾ percent promissory notes in the principal amount of $13,000,000 due September 15, 1952, and 2½ percent promissory notes in the principal amount of $2,500,000 due October 15, 1947.

Arkansas Louisiana now proposes to enter into a Second Supplemental Agreement dated as of April 1, 1951 supplementing and amending the aforesaid Supplemented Loan Agreement, pursuant to which it proposes to borrow from the Bank additional sums not to exceed $4,000,000 on or prior to September 15, 1951. Borrowings under the Second Supplemental Loan Agreement are to be evidenced by promissory notes to be issued by Arkansas Louisiana bearing interest at the rate of 2¾ percent per annum and maturing on September 15, 1952. In consideration of the commitment of the Bank to extend such additional credit, Arkansas Louisiana will pay the Bank on June 15 and September 15, 1951, a commitment fee computed at the rate of ½ of 1 percent per annum from April 1, 1951, the date of the Second Supplemental Agreement, on the daily average unused amount which the Bank is obligated to lend. The other terms and conditions of the Second Supplemental Agreement are substantially the same as those contained in the Loan Agreement dated October 15, 1947, as amended by the Supplemental Agreement dated September 15, 1949.

Arkansas Louisiana proposes to apply the proceeds of such additional borrowings to construction expenditures made, and to be made, during the calendar year 1951, estimated in the amount of $8,562,000.

Arkansas Natural is a holder of a 4½ percent Sinking Fund Debenture due 1955 of Arkansas Louisiana in the principal amount of $6,500,000. In connection with the execution of the original Loan Agreement and the Supplemental Agreement, Arkansas Natural entered into a Subordination Agreement with Arkansas Louisiana and the Bank providing for the subordination of the said Debenture, with respect to payment of principal and interest thereon, to the payment of notes heretofore issued under the Loan Agreement as supplemented. In accordance with those agreements, the Debenture was stamped with an appropriate legend. Similarly, in connection with the proposed Second Supplemental Loan Agreement, Arkansas Natural, Arkansas Louisiana and the Bank propose to enter into a Second Supplemental Subordination Agreement supplementing and amending the Subordination Agreement dated as of October 15, 1947, as amended by the Supplemental Subordination Agreement dated September 15, 1949, providing for the subordination of the said 4¼ percent Debenture to the additional notes to be issued under the Second Supplemental Loan Agreement and to appropriately note the subordination by legend to be placed on the Debenture.

Fees and expenses, exclusive of commitment fees, have been estimated at $7,000, of which $5,000 is for legal fees.

Declarants request that the Commission's order herein issue at the earliest date possible and in any event prior to June 30, 1951, and that it become effective upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than June 25, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reason for such request, the nature of his interest, and the issues of fact or law raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission orders a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after June 25, 1951, said declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under said act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and 100 thereof.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] ORVAL L. DUBOIS,
Secretary.

Part 95	5768

GENERAL

§ 571.125 General statement. In order to encourage the sale and exportation by commercial exporters of wheat produced in the United States and flour processed in the United States from such wheat and in order to exercise the rights, obtain the benefits and fulfill the obligations of the United States under the International Wheat Agreement, the Commodity Credit Corporation (referred to in this subpart as CCC) pursuant to the authority conferred by Public Law 421, 81st Congress, offers to make payments to exporters under the terms and conditions stated in this subpart. Information pertaining to the operation of this program and forms prescribed for use thereunder can be obtained from the Vice President of Commodity Credit Corporation, who is the Assistant Administrator for Commodity Operations, Production and Marketing Administration (referred to in this subpart as Vice President), Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., or from the Director, PMA Commodity Office; U. S. Department of Agriculture, located in the cities listed in § 571.163.

ELIGIBILITY FOR PAYMENT BY THE COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

§ 571.130 General conditions of eligibility. Payments under this program will be made to an exporter in connection with the net quantity of wheat or flour exported to an eligible country from the United States and the net quantity of wheat or flour in customs bond in Canada exported from Canadian ports, excluding West Coast Canadian ports, to an eligible country pursuant to a sale for which he has received a confirmation by the Vice President, CCC, in accordance with § 571.148, subject to the additional conditions set forth in this subpart. Payment also will be made to an exporter for wheat or flour exported prior to sale and for which the exporter has received a confirmation by the Vice President subject to the conditions contained in § 571.138.

§ 571.131 Time of sale. Sales entered into after the date of this offer and not later than June 30, 1952, for recording against the 1950–51 or 1951–52 Wheat Agreement year quotas, are eligible for payment under this offer. Sales must be entered into during periods in which an announced rate is in effect, and in reliance thereon, in order to be eligible for payment. Under no circumstances shall a sale be considered as entered into until the purchase price has been established. The time of sale shall be the earliest date on which a firm contract exists between buyer and seller and on which a firm price has been established. In order to receive payment at the announced rate in effect at the time of sale, it is important that the exporter give timely Notice of Sale as required by § 571.155 (a) and present documentary evidence that the sale was consummated at such time.

§ 571.132 Date of exportation. (a) Wheat and flour sold for recording against the 1950–51 Wheat Agreement guaranteed quantities must be exported by July 31, 1951, unless approval is obtained from the Vice President to export subsequent to July 31, 1951. Wheat or flour sold for recording against the 1951–52 Wheat Agreement guaranteed quantities must be exported during the period August 1, 1951, and July 31, 1952, inclusive, unless approval is obtained from the Vice President to export either prior to or subsequent to that period. However, wheat or flour sold for export in a specified export rate period must be exported before the end of that period in order for the exporter to obtain the export payment rate applicable to that sale, unless approval is obtained from the Vice President to change the export date to a later period.

(b) In the event that export takes place after the specified rate period and the exporter has not obtained approval from the Vice President to change the export date to a later period, the export payment rate will be that which was in effect at time of sale, or time of giving Notice of Sale, whichever is lower, for the period in which actual export takes place.

(c) If no rate was in effect at the time of sale or the time of giving Notice of Sale for the period in which actual export takes place and exportation is not made within an extension of time approved by the Vice President (it will be the policy to grant extensions where exportation will be made during a period for which no payment rate applicable to the sale is in effect, only if it can be shown that exportation under the contract has been delayed by circumstances beyond the control of both the exporter and importer) the export payment rate will be reduced as indicated below if exportation is made within the stated number of days after the expiration of the specified rate period or any approved extension of time:

Within the first 10 days—reduced 5 percent.
Within 11 to 30 days—Reduced 20 percent.
If exported after 30 days—no export payment.

If exportation is not made at all, the provisions of § 571.166 will apply.

§ 571.133 Exports to eligible countries. Exports of wheat or flour under this program shall be made only to the eligible country named in the Notice of Sale and the Declaration of Sale, and to a buyer identified with the Declaration of Sale and supporting evidence of sale unless:

(a) The buyer identified with the Declaration of Sale directs that shipment be made to another Wheat Agreement country,

(b) The Government of the eligible country named in the Notice of Sale and Declaration of Sale or the Government of the eligible country to which shipment is directed consents to the recording of the sale against its guaranteed quantity, and

(c) The exporter obtains, prior to export, authority from the Vice President to export to an eligible country other than the purchasing country named in the Notice of Sale and Declaration of Sale.

§ 571.134 Excess quantities exported. Payment will not be made on quantities loaded on vessels or exported by rail or truck which exceed by more than one (1) percent the quantity shown on the Declaration of Sale, or, in the case of bulk wheat, a loading tolerance as specified in the contract but which shall not exceed five (5) percent of the contract quantity, unless clearance is obtained from the

Vice President, in which case a new Declaration of Sale and a new confirmation of sale for the additional quantity is required. Payment will be made without additional clearance where the loaded quantities do not exceed by more than one (1) percent the quantity shown on the Declaration of Sale in the case of flour and bagged wheat, and quantity does not exceed with respect to bulk wheat, the contract quantity plus a loading tolerance as specified in the contract but not to exceed five (5) percent.

§ 571.136 Proof of export. Proof of export and submission of specified supporting documents must have been made in accordance with § 571.162.

§ 571.137 Reentry or diversion. If any quantity of wheat or flour exported under this subpart is unloaded in the United States or Canada prior to being imported into some country other than the United States or Canada, or is lost or destroyed, or because of the exporter's action or with his consent is at any time unloaded in the United States or Canada or diverted to another country while en route, payment may be withheld, or if payment has already been made, the exporter may be required to make such refund or other adjustment as deemed appropriate by the Vice President: Provided, That if the wheat or flour with respect to which payment may be withheld or refund required under this section is lost, destroyed or damaged, the amount of the payment withheld or refund required shall not exceed the amount realized or which might reasonably be realized by the exporter over the price at which it was sold to the eligible country. The exporter shall notify the Vice President immediately upon becoming cognizant of any unloading or diversion of wheat or flour with respect to which payment may be withheld or refund required under this section and furnish information as to the condition of such wheat or flour and any claim he may have in connection with any damage or loss thereto or destruction thereof.

§ 571.138 Wheat and flour exported prior to sale. (a) In connection with the quantity of wheat and flour exported prior to sale, payments will be made only on that portion thereof which has been reported in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section and only on sales made by the actual exporter of such wheat or flour, and not to any other party who buys such wheat or flour and re-sells it to an eligible country.

(b) In order to receive export payment the exporter must have reported the exportation of such wheat or flour to the Vice President within one week after the date of such exportation as defined in § 571.185 unless additional time for reporting is granted by the Vice President. This report, which will be considered as a certification by the exporter, must include the following information:

(1) Date of exportation.

(2) Port of exportation.

(3) Country and port of original destination of wheat and flour.

(4) Name of ocean vessel upon which loaded.

(5) Quantity:

(i) Wheat in bushels.

(ii) Flour in net hundredweight.

(6) Class and grade of wheat; or type and extraction of flour.

(7) The report shall also contain a statement that the vessel contains wheat or flour sold to an eligible country under the terms of the Wheat Agreement by the exporter filing the report, as provided in (c) below:

(c) Only wheat or flour which is loaded on a vessel which also carries wheat or flour which has been sold by the same exporter to an eligible country as provided in this subpart shall be reported in paragraph (b) of this section, and shall be eligible for export payment when sold. In the case of full cargo shipments the unsold portion shall not exceed one-third of the total cargo. In the case of part cargo lots the unsold portion shall not exceed 2,000 metric tons.

(d) At such time as the wheat or flour is sold to an eligible country, the exporter shall report the sale to the Vice President as provided in § 571.155, and shall submit all other reports and documents as required by this subpart. In reporting the sale the exporter must state that the wheat or flour sold was reported to the Vice President as provided in paragraph (b) of this section. This may be done by the use of the code word "Abroad."

(e) The export rate applicable to such sale shall be that rate in effect at time of sale, or time of giving Notice of Sale, whichever is the lower for the current export rate period, which applies (1) to the port from which the wheat or flour was exported, and (2) to the eligible country shown in the Notice of Sale and the Declaration of Sale, or the country of final destination, whichever is lower.

(f) In addition to the documents required under § 571.162, the exporter will be required in the case of flour to submit with Public Voucher Form FDA–564 a document which carries a description of such flour. The exporter should obtain separate bill or bills of lading for both the unsold and sold quantities of wheat or flour exported.

(g) All other conditions of this subpart, except as modified by paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) of this section are applicable to sales described by this section.

EXPORT PAYMENT RATES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

§ 571.140 Announcement of rates. Export payment rates will be announced from Washington, D. C., daily or at intervals of up to 7 days. Announcement of rates will be released at approximately 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., and will remain in effect until 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., on the expiration date stated in the announcement at which time a new announcement will be made. No rates will be announced on Saturday, and rates effective after 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., on Friday will be considered as in effect until 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., of the market day succeeding Saturday unless the announcement specifically provides otherwise. Announcement will be available through a press release, ticker service, and through eight PMA Commodity Offices at Portland (Oregon), San Francisco, Minneapolis, Kansas City (Missouri), Dallas, Chicago, Atlanta, and New York City. Different rates of payment based upon export ports or areas, destinations, period of exportation, or other factors, may be announced for the same period.

§ 571.141 Determination of rates. The rate in effect at the time of sale or the time of giving Notice of Sale, as required by § 571.155 (a), whichever rate is the lower, shall be the rate applicable to the sale. In the case of resales of wheat or flour, the export rate for such sales will be that applicable to the original purchasing country or the country of final destination, whichever is lower. The supporting evidence as proof of sale submitted by the exporter, in form prescribed in § 571.156 (d), will be the basis for determining the time of sale. The following are factors which may be determinative of the time of sale:

(a) Time of filing by the exporter of a cablegram or other written acceptance of a definite offer to purchase received from the foreign buyer.

(b) Time of receipt by the exporter of a cablegram or other written acceptance by the foreign buyer of a definite offer by the exporter to sell.

(c) Time of filing by the exporter of a cablegram or other written confirmation of the booking of a shipment or shipments to be made pursuant to an open offer of the exporter to sell or a standing order of the buyer to purchase. It must be clear from the evidence, however, that the exporter is empowered by the terms of the open offer or standing order to firm the contract by issuing a confirmation. For example, if he is authorized to confirm the sale at a price which may be established at his option, the evidence must show that such is the understanding between buyer and seller—otherwise it will be necessary for the buyer also to confirm the price, and receipt of the buyer's confirmation will establish the time of sale.

(d) If export is wholly by truck or rail and the time of sale cannot be determined on the basis of the factors set forth in paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of this section, the sale will be deemed to have been made at the time of issuance of inland bill of lading, or if none is issued, at the time of clearance through United States customs. If export is by ocean carrier and time of sale cannot be determined as outlined above, the sale will be deemed to have been made at the time of issuance of ocean carrier bill of lading, or if none is issued, at the time the wheat or flour is loaded on board ocean carrier.

(e) If the time of day at which the sale was consummated is not established and two payment rates are in effect on the day established in accordance with paragraphs (a), (b), (c), or (d) of this section, the time of consummation of sale will be deemed to be at the time the lower of the two rates was in effect.

§ 571.142 Conversion factors. (a) If a single per bushel payment rate applicable to both wheat and flour is in effect, the following conversion factors shall be used to determine the wheat equivalent (in bushels) of flour:

	Bushels per 100-lb. flour
Whole wheat flour	1.67
Patents and straight grade flour (up to 72 percent extraction)	2.33
Flour clears	2.33
80 percent extraction flour	2.17
Semolina and Farina	2.33

(b) If a separate per hundredweight payment rate for flour is in effect, the following conversion factors shall be applied to the announced rate to determine the rate applicable to a particular type of flour:

	Factor
Patents and straight grade flour (up to 72 percent extraction)	1.000
Flour clears	1.000
Semolina and Farina	1.000
80 percent extraction flour	0.931
Whole wheat flour	0.717

If sales are made at any other extraction rates between 72 and 100 percent, a conversion factor will be furnished by the Vice President upon request.

§ 571.143 Statement of status of purchases and sales. The Vice President will issue, not less often than weekly, a statement as to the progress of purchases and sales by individual importing and exporting countries against their guaranteed quantities. The Vice President will furnish to any exporter upon request such information as he has available as to the status of the fulfillment of guaranteed quantities under the Wheat Agreement.

§ 571.144 Maximum and minimum prices. Maximum prices at which wheat may be sold under the Wheat Agreement will be announced from time to time by the Vice President. The Wheat Agreement provides that to such maximum prices may be added such carrying charges and marketing costs as may be agreed between buyer and seller. The Wheat Agreement also provides that premiums and discounts for quality factors may be as agreed between exporting country and importing country. The Vice President also will announce minimum prices when appropriate.

CONFIRMATION OF SALE

§ 571.148 Confirmation of sale. Upon receipt of the Notice of Sale required by § 571.155 the Vice President will confirm the sale by telegram and specify that the transaction, or any part thereof, is eligible for payment upon proof that the conditions set forth in this program have been met, unless he determines that the transaction is ineligible for entry in the records of the Wheat Council under the provisions of the Wheat Agreement or unless he determines that the transaction would not obtain for the U. S. the maximum benefits under the Wheat Agreement.

§ 571.149 Eligibility for entry in the Wheat Council's records. The Wheat Agreement provides that:

(a) Wheat. A transaction or part of a transaction in wheat-grain between a participating exporting and importing country is eligible for entry in the Wheat Council's records against guaranteed quantities of those countries for a crop year:

(1) Provided, That (i) it is at a price (determined to be the equivalent price at port of export to No. 1 Manitoba Northern bulk wheat in store Fort William-Port Arthur, Canada) not higher than the maximum nor lower than the minimum in effect during the crop year in which the loading period specified in the transaction falls and (ii) the exporting and importing countries have not agreed that it shall not be entered against their guaranteed quantities, and

(2) To the extent that (i) both the exporting and importing countries concerned have unfulfilled guaranteed quantities for the crop year, and (ii) that the loading period specified in the transaction falls within that crop year.

(b) Flour. If a commercial contract or governmental agreement on the sale and purchase of flour contains a statement, or if the exporting country and the importing country concerned inform the Wheat Council that they are agreed that the price of such flour is consistent with the maximum or minimum price in effect during the crop year in which the loading period specified in the transaction falls, the wheat-grain equivalent of such flour shall, subject to the conditions prescribed in paragraph (a) (1) and (2) of this section, be entered in the Wheat Council's records against the guaranteed quantities of those countries. If there is not such statment or agreement as specified above, either country involved in the transaction may request the Wheat Council to decide whether the quantity sold should be entered in its records and the Wheat Council shall decide whether the price at which the flour was sold justifies the entry of the transaction in the records.

§ 571.150 Responsibility of exporter. During certain periods it may be to the exporter's advantage to ascertain from the Vice President prior to making a sale whether there is a sufficient guaranteed quantity balance to permit recording in the Wheat Council's records or whether, as indicated in § 571.148, the sale may not otherwise be confirmed. It shall be the responsibility of the exporter to protect himself (for example, by inserting an appropriate provision into his sales contract) against the possibility that the transaction will not be confirmed. It shall not be the duty or responsibility of the Vice President to guarantee that a transaction which appears to the exporter prior to sale to be eligible for recording in the Wheat Council's records, will be confirmed.

ELIGIBLE COUNTRIES

§ 571.153 Eligible countries. An eligible country shall be any one of the following countries, including all territories for the foreign relations of which the Government of that country is responsible, unless announcement has been made by the Vice President excepting certain territories:

Austria.
Belgium.
Bolivia.
Brazil.
Ceylon
Costa Rica.

The foregoing list may be amended from time to time. Nothing in this subpart shall be deemed to authorize the exportation of wheat or flour in violation of any statute, order or regulation now in existence or hereafter established.

REPORTS

§ 571.155 Notice of sale—(a) Time. (1) Notice of the consummation of a sale of wheat or flour for export shall be given to the Vice President within the time stated in the rate announcement as the final time for filing such notices, unless such time is extended by the Vice President.

(2) The order in which transactions are reported (time of filing telegraphic notice or time of giving telephonic notice) assumes importance when guaranteed quantities are near to being filled. Notices of Sale should normally be filed by telegraph or by telephone. Telephone notices should be confirmed immediately by telegraph. For reporting of multiple sales, see § 571.156 (a) (3).

(3) If notice is not given by telephone, and the exporter desires to take advantage of the current rate of payment, the telegram reporting sale must be filed before 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., on the expiration date shown in the announcement.

(b) Information required. In giving Notice of Sale the exporter must report the following information:

(1) Date and time of sale.

(2) Contract quantity:

(i) Wheat in bushels.

(ii) For bulk wheat the contract loading tolerance, if any, in percentage, but not in excess of five (5) percent.

(iii) Flour in net hundredweight.

(3) Sale price:

(i) The sale price must be shown on an f. o. b. vessel basis in the case of wheat, except that on exports from West Coast ports price may be given on an in-store basis. If, because of marketing costs, carrying charges, and premiums, as provided for in § 571.144, the sales price exceeds the maximum price, the Notice of Sale must show the total price and the amount thereof included as charges for marketing costs, carrying charges and premiums, each shown separately. If a carrying charge has been determined and announced by the CCC in connection with the maximum price, no additional carrying charge shall be included in the sales price. The f. o. b. or the in-store price shown shall include all charges and commissions necessary to the sale and moving of the wheat to the f. o. b. or the in-store position. For example, a selling agent's commission shall be included, whereas guaranteed out-turn insurance shall not be included.

(ii) In case of flour, the sales price need not be shown but the notice must contain a certification that buyer and seller agree that the price of the flour is consistent with the terms of the Wheat Agreement. This may be reported by the code word "AKORD."

(4) Purchasing country.

(5) Name of purchaser. (In cases in which the sale involves more than one purchaser, the Notice of Sale should contain the name of one purchaser and the word "others.")

(6) Delivery period specified in contract.

(7) Class and grade of wheat.

(8) The word "Abroad" for wheat or flour exported prior to sale. (See § 571.138 (d).)

(9) Such additional information in individual cases as may be requested by the Vice President.

(c) Assigning of numbers. Each confirmation by the Vice President will be assigned a number which shall be called the PMA Sales Number. This number will be entered on the copy of the Declaration of Sale (see § 571.156) which is returned to the exporter, and shall thereafter be used on all documents, including Notice of Export and Voucher Form FDA–564, and in all correspondence with reference to the transaction.

§ 571.156 Declaration of sale and evidence of sale—(a) Time of submission and required copies. (1) The exporter shall prepare a Declaration of Sale (Wheat Agreement Form No. 1) and mail it to the Vice President normally within 24 hours after receipt of the Vice President's confirmation.

(2) The Declaration of Sale must be submitted in triplicate, the original and two copies of which shall be signed in an original signature by the exporter or his authorized representative and forwarded to the Vice President. One copy of the Declaration of Sale will be acknowledged and returned to the exporter.

(3) All sales made to any one eligible country during any 24-hour period ending at 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., may be reported on one Declaration of Sale. It shall be normal practice when such multiple sales are submitted on one telegraphic Notice of Sale to assign one PMA Sales Number to apply to all sales to a particular country shown on that telegram. One Declaration of Sale should be submitted, in such instances, by the exporter, though this is not mandatory. If more than one Declaration of Sale is submitted, the letters A, B, C, etc., shall be added to the PMA Sales Number. Sales made to any one eligible country during any 24-hour period which are reported on separate telegrams will be assigned individual PMA Sales Numbers. It is requested that such sales be reported on separate Declarations of Sale.

(b) Information required. All information requested on the face of Wheat Agreement Form No. 1, Declaration of Sale, shall be entered. The information required is as follows:

(1) Date and time of sale.

(2) Name of purchaser, or purchasers.

(3) Quantity sold:

(i) Wheat in bushels. If, in the case of bulk wheat, the sales contract provides for a loading tolerance, the amount of such tolerance, but not to exceed five (5) percent, given in percentage figures shall be entered directly following the quantity sold.

(ii) Flour in net hundredweight and in the equivalent bushels of wheat.

(4) Purchasing country. (If the country of final destination is other than the purchasing country the country of final destination shall be shown on a parenthetical entry following the name of the purchasing country.)

(5) Delivery period specified in the contract.

(6) Class and grade of wheat or type and extraction of flour. In the case of flour, the class of wheat from which the flour was milled must be shown where possible. For example, "Hard Spring."

(7) Price and basis upon which price determined.

(i) The sales price in the case of wheat must be given on an f. o. b. ocean vessel basis on exports from Gulf and East Coast ports and on an in-store or f. o. b. vessel basis on exports from the West Coast ports. If, because of marketing costs, carrying charges, and premiums, as provided for in § 571.144, the sales price of wheat exceeds the maximum price, the Declaration shall show the total price and the amount thereof included as charges for marketing costs, carrying charges and premiums, each shown separately. If a carrying charge has been determined and announced by the CCC in connection with the maximum price, no additional carrying charge shall be included in the sales price. The f. o. b. or the in-store price shown shall include all charges and commissions necessary to the sale and the moving of the wheat to the f. o. b. or the in-store position. For example, a selling agent's commission shall be included, whereas guaranteed out-turn insurance shall not be included.

(ii) The price for flour must be given as stated in the sales contract.

(8) Export rate per bushel of wheat or per hundredweight of flour in effect as determined by § 571.141.

(9) Coastal area from which exportation will be made.

(10) The PMA Sales Number as assigned in the Vice President's confirmation of sale.

(c) Name in which filed. The Declaration of Sale must be filed in the name of the exporter who has sold the wheat or flour to a foreign buyer. Persons or firms selling wheat or flour to others who resell such wheat or flour to foreign buyers are not exporters. If a sale is made under a trade name, the Declaration of Sale may be filed under such name provided the name of the actual exporter and the relationship between the two is clearly established by an appropriate signature on the Declaration and all other documents to it, such as:

American Milling Company
(Trade name)
U. S. Milling Company
(s) John Smith, Secretary

(d) Proof of sale. Supporting evidence as proof of sale, in one copy only, must be filed with each Declaration of Sale. Such evidence may be in the form of certified true copies of offer and acceptance or other documentary evidence of sale including contracts exchanged between exporter and buyer. In the case of flour the exporter must also furnish a signed statement or other acceptable evidence, such as an exchange of cables, to the effect that buyer and seller agree that the price of the flour is consistent with prices specified in the Wheat Agreement.

§ 571.157 Notice of export—(a) Time of submission and required copies. Only one Notice of Export, Wheat Agreement Form No. 2, is required in connection with any one Declaration of Sale. Such Notice of Export must be filed by the exporter normally within 24 hours after date of export of the last shipment against the quantity shown as sold on the applicable Declaration of Sale, unless such time of filing is extended by the Vice President.

(b) Information required. The Notice of Export shall contain the following information:

(1) PMA sales number.

(2) Date of export of final shipment.

(3) Country of destination.

(4) Total quantity actually loaded on all shipments made in connection with applicable Declaration of Sale.

(5) The U. S. coastal area or areas from which the wheat or flour was exported. If more than one coastal area is involved, the quantity exported from each should be shown. This information should be entered on Wheat Agreement Form No. 2 even though not specifically called for on the form.

(6) Such additional information on individual cases as may be requested by the Vice President.

§ 571.158 Additional reports. The exporter shall file such additional reports as may be required from time to time by the Vice President, subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget.

APPLICATION FOR PAYMENT

§ 571.160 Application for payment. The exporter shall file application for payment under this program in the manner set forth in §§ 571.161 and 571.163.

§ 571.161 Public Voucher Form FDA–564. An original and two (2) copies of Form FDA–564 must be prepared and submitted together with the evidence of exportation set forth in § 571.162. Supplies of Form FDA–564 and detailed instructions regarding the preparation and submission of Forms FDA–564 and supporting documents may be obtained from the PMA Commodity Offices listed in § 571.163 or from the Vice President.

§ 571.162 Documents required to evidence exportation by exporters—(a) Bills of lading or "Shipper's Export Declaration." Each voucher must be supported by one copy of the applicable on-board ocean carrier bill of lading signed by an agent of the ocean carrier (except that where loss, destruction or damage occurs subsequent to loading on board ocean carrier but prior to issuance of on-board bill of lading, one copy of a Loading Tally Sheet or similar document may be submitted in lieu of such bill of lading); or if exported wholly by rail or truck, one authenticated copy of the "Shipper's Export Declaration" which identifies the shipment(s) and shows date of clearance into the foreign country. In the case of wheat, the voucher must also be supported by one copy of an export grain inspection certificate signed by an inspector holding a license under the United States Grain Standards Act. Where shipment is exported from a Canadian port, the voucher also must be supported by one copy each of the following documents:

(1) For Wheat:

(i) A signed or certified true copy of the bill of lading or other document covering the movement of the wheat from the United States to Canada, and

(ii) A signed or certified true copy of document evidencing the holding of the wheat in customs bond in Canada.

(2) For Flour:

(i) A signed or certified true copy of the bill of lading or other document covering the movement of the flour from the United States to Canada, and

(ii) A statement by the exporter, certified as being a true and correct statement, that the flour for which export payment is claimed is the same flour covered by the bill of lading or other document as required by subdivision (i) of this subparagraph. If the final destination of the shipment is an eligible country not shown on the ocean bill of lading, the exporter also shall furnish an authenticated copy of "Shipper's Export Declaration" showing country of final destination.

(b) Shipper or consignor other than exporter. If the shipper or consignor named in the on-board ocean bill(s) of lading or the "Shipper's Export Declaration(s)," covering wheat or flour exported, is other than the exporter named in the Notice of Sale and Declaration of Sale, waiver by such shipper or consignor of any interest in the claim in favor of such exporter is required. Such waiver must clearly identify the on-board ocean bill(s) of lading or "Shipper's Export Declaration(s)" submitted to evidence exportation. If the shipper or consignor is neither the exporter named in the Notice of Sale and Declaration of Sale, nor the consignee identified with the Declaration of Sale and supporting evidence of sale, the exporter must submit, in addition to the waiver, a certification by such shipper or consignor that he acted only as a freight forwarder, agent of exporter, or agent of consignee, and not as buyer and seller of the wheat or flour shown on the documents submitted to evidence exportation.

(c) Statements evidencing resale. In connection with the sale of wheat or flour under the Wheat Agreement to an eligible country which is resold for export to another eligible country, the following additional documents must be included with the voucher:

(1) A statement by appropriate government authority of the original purchasing country, or the government of the eligible country to which shipment is directed, to CCC to the effect that the sale may be recorded against the Wheat Agreement guaranteed quantity of that country. A copy also should be submitted to the Vice President. (In some cases this statement may be furnished directly to the Vice President at the discretion of the appropriate authority of the purchasing country instead of being submitted with the voucher, in which event appropriate notation should be made on the voucher.)

(2) A statement from the buyer directing shipment to the second Wheat Agreement country if the contract or supporting evidence of sale does not provide for such shipment.

(d) In the event of export prior to sale such additional documents as required by § 571.138 (f) must also accompany the voucher.

§ 571.172 Good faith. If the Vice President determines that any exporter has not acted in good faith in connection with any transaction under this subpart or has failed to discharge fully any obligation assumed by him under this subpart, such exporter may be denied the right to continue participating in this program or the right to receive payment under this subpart in connection with any sales previously made under this program, or both.

§ 571.173 Amendment and termination. This offer may be amended or terminated by the Vice President at any time by public announcement of such amendment or termination. PART 962—FRESH PEACHES GROWN IN GEORGIA

REGULATION BY SIZE

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 62, as amended (7 CFR Part 962; 15 F. R. 4105), regulating the handling of fresh peaches grown in the State of Georgia, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendations of the Industry Committee, established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of peaches hereinafter set forth, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient; and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of peaches grown in the State of Georgia. It is therefore ordered, As follows:

The provisions in paragraphs (b) and (c) of § 962.306 (Peach Order 1) (16 F. R. 5314) shall, during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., June 18, 1951, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., September 1, 1951, read as follows:

(b) Order. During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., June 18, 1951 and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., September 1, 1951, no handler shall ship to destinations other than in the adjacent markets:

(1) Any peaches of any variety (except Dixired peaches) of a size smaller than 1⅝ inches in diameter, except that not more than ten (10) percent, by count, of such peaches contained in any bulk lot or any lot of packages may be of a size smaller than 1⅝ inches in diameter, but not more than fifteen (15) percent, by count, of such peaches in any individual package in any lot may be of a size smaller than 1⅝ inches in diameter; and

(2) Any peaches of the Brackett, Early Elberta, Elberta, Early Hale, Hale Haven, Halberta, Hardin's Pride, J. H. Hale, Krummel, Murray Hale, Rio Oso Gem, Southland, Sullivan Elberta, White Hale, or Woodland Cling varieties of a size smaller than 1¾ inches in diameter, except that not more than ten (10) percent, by count, of such peaches contained in any bulk lot or any lot of packages may be of a size smaller than 1¾ inches in diameter, but not more than fifteen (15) percent, by count, of such peaches in any individual package in any lot may be of a size smaller than 1¾ inches in diameter.

(c) Definitions. When used in this section, the terms "handler," "ship," "peaches," and "adjacent markets" shall have the same meaning as when used in the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order; and the term "diameter" shall have the same meaning as when used in the United States Standards for Peaches (7 CFR 51.312).

R. 4105), regulating the handling of fresh peaches grown in the State of Georgia, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation of the Industry Committee, established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of peaches, as hereinafter set forth, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective not later than June 18, 1951. A reasonable determination as to the supply of, and the demand for, such peaches must await the development of the crop thereof; shipments of such peaches are currently being made and are subject to regulation by size pursuant to the said amended marketing agreement and order; recommendation as to the need for, and the extent of, regulation of shipments of such peaches by grade was made at the meeting of said committee on June 12, 1951, after consideration of all available information relative to the supply and demand conditions for such peaches, at which time the recommendation and supporting information was submitted to the Department and information concerning such recommendation was disseminated among growers and handlers of such peaches; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee; in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, this section should be made effective not later than June 18, 1951; and compliance with the provisions of this section will not require of handlers any preparation therefor which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(b) Order (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., June 18, 1951, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., September 1, 1951, no handler shall, except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, ship to destinations other than in the adjacent markets any peaches which do not meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 1 grade: Provided, That a tolerance of 20 percent (including the tolerances provided in such grade) shall be allowed for peaches not meeting the requirements of such grade but (i) not more than 10 percent, by count, of the peaches contained in any bulk lot or any lot of packages, nor more than 15 percent, by count, of the peaches contained in any individual package in any lot, may consist of peaches which are not free from worms or worm holes, and (ii) not more than 2 percent, by count, of the peaches in any bulk lot or any lot of packages, nor more than 4 percent, by count, of the peaches in any individual package in any lot, may consist of peaches which are not free from decay: Provided, further, That peaches with split pits or well healed hail marks not causing serious damage may be shipped if such peaches otherwise meet the requirements prescribed in this paragraph.

(2) The maturity regulations contained in § 962.400 of this part are hereby suspended with respect to shipments of peaches to destinations other than in the adjacent markets during the period specified in subparagraph (1) of this section.

(3) When used in this section, the terms "handler," "ship," "adjacent markets," and "peaches" shall have the same meaning as when used in the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order; and the terms "U. S. No. 1 grade," "serious damage," "split pits," "worms," "worm holes," and "decay" shall have the same meaning as when used in the United States Standards for Peaches (7 CFR 51.312).

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 992.306 Limitation of shipments—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 113 and Order No. 92 (7 CFR Part 992) regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of Washington, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the State of Washington Potato Committee, established under said marketing agreement and order, and other available information, it is hereby found that such limitation of shipments as hereinafter provided will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until thirty days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that (i) shipments of the 1951 crop of Irish potatoes grown in the production area will have begun, (ii) more orderly marketing in the public interest than would otherwise prevail will be promoted by limiting shipments of potatoes to U. S. No. 2, or better grades, in the manner set forth below, on and after the effective date hereinafter provided, (iii) compliance with this regulation will not require any preparation on the part of handlers which cannot be completed by such effective date, and (iv) a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for such preparation, and (v) information regarding the committee's recommendation has been made available to producers and handlers in the production area.

(b) Order. (1) During the period from June 25, 1951, to May 31, 1952, both dates inclusive, no handler shall ship potatoes of the round varieties grown in the State of Washington which do not meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 2, or better grade, and which are of sizes smaller than 1 7/8 inches minimum diameter as such terms, grades, and sizes are defined in the U. S. Standards for Potatoes (7 CFR 51.366), including the tolerances set forth therein; and no handler shall ship potatoes of the long white and Netted Gem varieties grown in the State of Washington which do not meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 2, or better grade, and which are of sizes smaller than 2 inches minimum diameter or 4 ounces minimum weight as such terms, grades, and sizes are defined in the aforesaid U. S. Standards for Potatoes, including the tolerances set forth therein: Provided, That, pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 992.5, the aforesaid limitations shall not be applicable to (i) shipments of potatoes for export, (ii) shipments of potatoes for distribution by the Federal Government, for distribution by relief agencies, or for consumption by charitable institutions; (iii) shipments of potatoes for manufacturing or conversion into starch, flour, alcohol, and dehydrated products; (iv) shipments of potatoes for livestock feed; and (v) shipments of officially certified seed potatoes: Provided further, That pursuant to § 992.5 (c), each handler making shipments for the aforesaid purposes shall (i) except as to shipments for distribution by the Federal Government, file an application with the committee for permission to make such shipments, (ii) pay assessments on such shipment (except shipment of cull potatoes for livestock feed, and (iii) shall have such shipments (except shipments of officially certified seed potatoes) inspected: Provided further, That pursuant to § 992.4 (d) each handler may make one shipment of not in excess of five hundredweight of potatoes per week without regard to the aforesaid limitations.

(2) During the period from June 25, 1951, to October 1, 1951, both dates inclusive, (i) no handler shall ship a lot of potatoes of the round varieties grown in the State of Washington, if more than 35 percent of the potatoes in such lot have more than ½ of the skin missing or feathered, as such terms are defined in the U. S. Standards for Potatoes; (ii) no handler shall ship a lot of potatoes of long white or Netted Gem varieties if more than 25 percent of the potatoes in such lot have more than ½ of the skin missing or feathered, as such terms are defined in the U. S. Standards for Potatoes: Provided, That one lot of not to exceed 100 hundredweight of each variety of potatoes of each producer may be handled every four days without regard to the aforesaid maturity requirements: Provided further, That the provisos set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph will be equally applicable to potatoes shipped under the maturity requirements set forth in this subparagraph.

(3) The terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 113 and Order No. 92 (7 CFR 992.1 et seq.).

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended, 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 608c)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 13th day of June 1951, to be effective on June 25, 1951.

§ 215.513 Luminance and chromaticity standards for television tubes. Two-inch square, six-component glass filter with 500-watt mogul-base projection lamp. The glass filter components are prepared by the Bureau so that when illuminated by light from the projection lamp an approximate duplication is produced of the spectral and angular distribution of radiant flux from the P-4 cathode-ray tube having an all-sulfide blend of phosphors used in many television receivers. The lamp-filter combination is calibrated for four voltages applied to the lamp in terms of chromaticity coordinates (x, y) on the standard ICI system. The chromaticities are close to those of the Planckian radiator at temperatures ranging between 5,000 and 9,000° K. For each of the four voltages the distances between the difusing layer of the filter and the lamp bulb required to produce luminances of 20 and 50 millilamberts are given.

Item	Description	Fee
215.513a	Six-component glass filter and projection lamp together with values of chromaticity coordinates (x, y) for four voltages applied to the lamp and distances between filter and lamp bulb for each voltage required to produce 20 and 50 millilamberts	$120.00

3. Section 215.508, Reflectometry, is revised to read as follows:

§ 215.508 Reflectometry. Standards issued: Standards have been prepared for use in the measurement of 45°0° luminous directional reflectance (45° illumination, normal viewing) of paints, papers, textiles, ceramic products and other opaque materials. The standards may be used with any reflectometer designed to measure 45°0° directional reflectance, such as the multipurpose reflectometer developed at this Bureau. (Refer to Journal of Research NBS 25, 581 (1940) RP 1345.)

These standards may also be used for the tristimulus colorimetry of reflecting specimens of nearly the same spectral character. A detailed discussion of the method of photoelectric tristimulus colorimetry, its capabilities and limitations, is contained in NBS Circular 429 (1942).

Item	Description	Fee

DERIVATION: AFR 35-50; AFR 35-50A.

§ 878.41 Purpose. Sections 878.41 to 878.70 describe service medals, ribbons, and devices awarded by the Air Force with the requirements therefor. Other service awards with which the Air Force is concerned are also included.

§ 878.42 Policy. Service awards recognize active, honorable Federal military service usually during war or periods of national emergency. No service medal will be subsequently awarded to any person whose discharge or release from the service for the period covered by the award is under conditions other than honorable. If a person was awarded and presented any medal, ribbon, or device for service prior to any dishonorable behavior, such award will not be revoked.

§ 878.43 Eligibility. A person is considered eligible for award of appropriate service medals if assigned, or attached to and present for duty, with a unit serving within the prescribed geographical limits established for the award during the designated time limitations or a unit designated in General Orders as receiving the award.

§ 878.44 Authority to award. The provisions of §§ 878.41 to 878.70, in conjunction with official records, constitute authority for award by the commanding officer of a person on active duty or a member of the Reserve forces.

§ 878.45 Application. Members of the Air Force on active duty and members of Air Force Reserve components may obtain Air Force service medals and devices from their immediate commanding officers. Persons not on active duty or not members of Reserve components may address their applications to the Air Force Liaison Unit, Demobilized Personnel Records Branch, Records Administration Center, 4300 Goodfellow Boulevard, St. Louis 20, Missouri. Military personnel now members of the Air Force who were awarded service medals by the Army for service prior to July 2, 1926 will make application to the Department of the Army for such medals.

§ 878.46 Good Conduct Medal. (a) The Good Conduct Medal is a metal disk 1¼ inches in diameter bearing in front an eagle standing on a book and a sword, encircled with the inscription "Efficiency—Honor—Fidelity."

(b) The Good Conduct Medal is awarded to enlisted personnel for exemplary behavior. Exemplary behavior is determined from the service record by entries for the period under character and efficiency. Entries must read "excellent" or "superior" ("unknown" does not disqualify) for the airman to be eligible for the award, and the service record must bear no record of a conviction by court-martial. Service in commission or warrant ranks is not counted toward award of the Good Conduct Medal. Three different time periods of eligibility for the basic award are:

(1) A period of three continuous years of service completed on or after August 26, 1940.

(2) A period of one continuous year of service between December 7, 1941 and March 2, 1946.

(3) Three years of continuous service required for periods of service beginning on or after March 4, 1945. The provisions of subparagraph (2) of this paragraph would apply to a period of service beginning on March 3, 1945.

(c) The requirement for subsequent awards of the Good Conduct Medal in the form of clasps is, in all cases, three years of continuous service after date of eligibility for original award of the Good Conduct Medal. (See § 878.58 (a)).

(b) The American Defense Service Medal is awarded to any person who entered military service under orders to active duty for a period of twelve months or more between September 8, 1939 and December 7, 1941.

(b) The American Campaign Medal is awarded for service within the American Theater between December 7, 1941, and March 2, 1946, under any of the following conditions:

(1) Permanent assignment outside the continental United States.

(2) Permanently assigned for 30 days as an aircrew member of an airplane making frequent flights over ocean waters.

(3) Passenger status outside the continental United States for 30 consecutive days or 60 non-consecutive days.

(4) Combat for which a combat decoration was awarded or a certificate of participation was furnished by the commanding general of a unit of which the person was a member during participation in combat.

§ 878.49 Asiatic Pacific Campaign Medal. (a) The Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal is a metal disk 1¼ inches in diameter depicting in front a tropical landing beneath the words, "Asiatic-Pacific Campaign." The ribbon is basically yellow, with yellow, red, and white stripes near each end, and with blue, white, and red stripes in the center in the order named.

(b) The Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal is awarded for service within the Asiatic-Pacific Theater between December 7, 1941, and March 2, 1946, under any of the following conditions.

(1) Permanent assignment.

(2) Passenger status or temporary duty for 30 consecutive or 60 non-consecutive days.

(3) Combat for which a combat decoration was awarded or a certificate was furnished as prescribed in § 878.48 (b) (4).

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 22, Amendment 9]

CPR 22—MANUFACTURERS' GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION

SUGAR AND RELATED PRODUCTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 9 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 [16 F. R. 3562] is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Under the existing provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR) 22, manufacturers using sugar processed from sugar beets, which are on the Appendix C list, are permitted to use current sugar prices in calculating the amount of the materials cost increase to which they are entitled. However, those using sugar processed from sugarcane, which is listed in Appendix A, are limited in calculating their materials cost increase for that product to cost increases incurred up to March 15, 1951.

Chemically there is no difference in beet and cane sugar and, in the market, their prices customarily move together. Some manufacturers use one kind of sugar and others use both kinds in their products. Since manufacturers who use beet sugar are entitled to reflect the current cost of this sugar, they are in a more favorable position than those using cane sugar, despite the fact that their end products may be substantially identical. In addition, confusion will result in those cases where one manufacturer uses both beet and cane sugar in his product, since he will be forced to carry the burden of computing the costs of the sugar used on two different bases. Finally, in light of the fact that the prices of beet and cane sugar have increased since March 15, 1951, the present provisions of the regulation may very well distort the normal market relationship of beet and cane sugar as well as the relationship of the end products processed from those commodities.

In view of the above, the Director of Price Stabilization has decided to place sugarcane in Appendix C, so that a current date may be used in calculating the increased costs of that commodity or product processed therefrom. This action makes it unnecessary to leave sugarcane in Appendix A, and it is, therefore, removed from that list.

The exemption, in Appendix A, of "Blackstrap molasses" from CPR 22 fails to include other types of inedible molasses. However, all inedible molasses are more or less competitive. Since it is contemplated that a tailored regulation will be issued in the near future covering all inedible molasses, which includes cane blackstrap, beet final molasses, citrus molasses, and hydrol (corn molasses), the Director has found it desirable to place this group of commodities under the General Ceiling Price Regulation until a tailored regulation is issued.

This amendment also exempts sugar beet pulp from the provisions of CPR 22. Beet pulp is a by-product resulting from the manufacture of sugar, and is the only such sugar beet product not exempt from CPR 22. Since it is the customary practice of manufacturers to pay for the sugar beets on the basis of a price determined in relation to their net returns for later sales of the processed sugar products, there is no practical way for such a manufacturer to calculate his material costs under this regulation. Section 21 (f) (2), providing for the borrowing of a price paid by the nearest competitor for a purchase of the commodity, cannot be used since, as mentioned above, all manufacturers of sugar beets operate generally in the same way, and no competitor has a current cash price. In addition, the price pattern of the industry would be distorted by requiring sugar beet pulp to be priced under CPR 22, whereas all other products resulting from the manufacture of sugar are not governed by that regulation.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 22, effective May 28, 1951, is amended in the following respects:

1. Paragraph (16) of Appendix A is amended to read as follows:

(16) Sugar beet pulp and sugar and liquid sugar (as defined in the Sugar Act of 1948).

2. Paragraph (c) (23) of Appendix A is amended to read as follows:

(23) Inedible molasses.

3. Appendix C is amended by inserting under the heading "Sugar Crops", the word "Sugarcane".

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective June 20, 1951.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 45]

CPR 45—APPAREL MANUFACTURERS' GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Public Law 774, 81st Congress), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The need for this regulation. This regulation establishes ceiling prices for sales by manufacturers of apparel, apparel furnishings and apparel accessories.

The general objectives of this regulation are essentially the same as those underlying the Manufacturers' General Ceiling Price Regulation (Ceiling Price Regulation 22): to roll back margins which may have been widened after the Korean outbreak; to restore more normal cost-price relationships by ironing out distortions created by the General Ceiling Price Regulation; and to grant to manufacturers needed relief from the general freeze order. The Statement of Considerations contained in Ceiling Price Regulation 22 is generally applicable to this regulation.

This regulation is designed to prescribe methods of calculation more closely adapted to the cost structures of the apparel industries than is possible under a regulation applicable to manufacturers generally. The need for a special regulation of this type was announced at the time Ceiling Price Regulation 22 was issued.

In the apparel industries there is a far greater percentage of new articles than in most other industries. If the pricing technique of the Manufacturers' General Ceiling Price Regulation were to be applied to the apparel industries, with their predominance of style articles, there would be a far greater percentage of articles priced by comparison with a single article manufactured in the base period. The selection of the particular article would be left to the choice of the manufacturer without effective control by the Office of Price Stabilization. Such practice would enable a manufacturer to select a particular article affording the highest mark-up and result in a distortion of the traditional cost-price relationship of all the articles which he manufactures.

Price control on the comparison basis is somewhat looser in administration, more difficult to enforce effectively, and less appropriate. Consequently, this regulation has been designed to narrow the field in which an article may be priced by comparison with any single article manufactured in the base period.

General nature of the regulation. This regulation takes account of the seasonal aspects of the apparel trades by providing choices of base periods during which seasonal articles were sold or delivered. Apparel manufacturers will be permitted to take, as a base period for any category, any three consecutive calendar months between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950. The measuring standard of the calendar quarter has not been adopted for this regulation because the selling seasons of the apparel industries differ widely from section to section of the country and from segment to segment of the industry, and cut across calendar quarters. However, a manufacturer is limited to four base periods for all his categories.

To the highest price in effect during the base period, apparel manufacturers may add certain increases in manufacturing materials costs, direct labor costs, indirect material costs and indirect labor costs, from the selected base period up to the cut-off date. This regulation provides for a segregation of indirect from direct material and labor costs because of the greater difficulty in the apparel industries of allocating such indirect costs to particular articles. Consequently, a method is provided whereby manufacturers may determine percentage factors for these indirect costs to be applied to particular articles instead of attempting to compute for the particular article the applicable indirect costs.

Where an apparel manufacturer produces a new article which differs from one which he produced in the base period only by reason of differences in style or by reason of its being manufactured of a different basic material, he is required by this regulation to price such new article by relation to a group of similar articles which he manufactured during the base period.

For the purpose of making this comparison, the apparel manufacturer is required to take all the styles of articles in the same category as the article being priced which were sold in the base period at the same price to the same class of purchaser. From this group of articles the manufacturer selects the fewest number of styles which accounted for fifty per cent of the total dollar volume of sales or production of the group. He then determines the average percentage markup over direct labor and material costs of the selected articles, based upon their costs as of the cut-off date and their new ceiling prices, and applies this percentage markup to the unit direct cost of the new article to determine its ceiling price.

Provision is made for pricing by new sellers on the basis of competitors' prices and for pricing of new categories offered by base period manufacturers.

This regulation gives methods of calculation which are usable by manufacturers who lack extensive records. Because of its narrower coverage it is able to offer more precise definition of terms than is the Manufacturers' General Ceiling Price Regulation. It provides methods of costing by employers of contractors and by manufacturers whose operations are integrated, and gives detailed instructions for calculating allowable base period and terminal costs and prices in such cases.

This regulation provides price rounding techniques to permit sellers to follow customary price line pricing practices and to maintain their established positions in their customary price ranges. These techniques operate by allowing a manufacturer to vary his prices, within narrow limits, from the precisely calculated new prices, provided his total receipts from sales of all articles be no more, at the end of each rounding period, than the receipts would have been had each article been sold at its calculated ceiling price.

Record keeping and reporting requirements. Manufacturers are required under this regulation to prepare and preserve certain records showing the calculation of the various adjustments provided for under this regulation and the calculation of ceiling prices. There are included in Appendix B of the regulation specimen forms showing the information required for most of the important calculations under this regulation. In preparing the records corresponding to the forms designated Exhibits 1, 2, 3 and 4 in Appendix B, manufacturers are required to conform to the general arrangement of data indicated in these Exhibits. Inasmuch as the Director may from time to time require manufacturers to submit some or all of these records it is advisable that these records be prepared in duplicate.

On or before the effective date of this regulation, August 15, 1951, manufacturers are required to prepare and file with the Office of Price Stabilization a statement containing the information required under section 3 of the regulation.

The Director of Price Stabilization expects, in due course, to issue an amendment providing for a recalculation of ceiling prices under this regulation. The purpose of this recalculation will be to reflect more accurately the materials prices established by other ceiling price regulations.

Small business exemption. It is recognized that many small manufacturing concerns may find it more difficult than larger companies to make the calculations prescribed in this regulation. Consequently, any manufacturer whose gross sales during his last annual accounting period were less than $50,000 may elect to continue to price his products under the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation rather than under this regulation.

The cut-off date. The cut-off date for this regulation has been fixed at March 15, 1951 for labor costs (except for increases to Puerto Rican and Virgin Islands labor ordered by the Department of Labor, effective June 4, 1951) and June 4, 1951 for materials costs, thus differing from Ceiling Price Regulation 22, which fixed December 31, 1950 and March 15, 1951 as cut-off dates for different materials costs.

The June 4, 1951 cut-off date for materials costs has been selected for this regulation for two reasons: (1) many of the materials used in the manufacture of apparel were not being quoted and not being delivered on and for some time prior to March 15, 1951; (2) in view of the style and seasonal characteristics of the apparel industries it was felt that the cut-off date should relate to the particular materials which the manufacturer will use in the manufacture of articles during the season following the issuance of this regulation. The cut-off dates of December 31, 1950 or March 15, 1951 prescribed in Ceiling Price Regulation 22 would have no relation to the materials which the manufacturer will be using in the coming season. The materials received on those dates were used generally in the manufacture of articles for the Spring season. Since manufacturers generally use different types of materials in the manufacture of articles for the Fall season it was felt that a more recent cut-off date was required.

Consultation with representatives of industry. The wide diversity of industries in the apparel field covered by this regulation made it a practical impossibility to consult in detail with representatives of all the industries affected. However, consultations were held with a number of business leaders selected from many major branches of the apparel industry, and their advice and suggestions were given the most careful consideration in the formulation of the final regulation. Consultations were also held with a number of accounting specialists with respect to the cost-accounting features of the regulation, and its provisions were informally discussed with numerous representatives of different industries.

Effective date of regulation. The effective date of this regulation is August 15, 1951. Manufacturers are given the option to begin pricing articles under this regulation immediately after the date of issuance. However, on and after August 15, 1951, manufacturers may not deliver any articles covered by this regulation at prices in excess of the ceiling prices established by this regulation. In the judgment of the Director the period between the date of issuance and August 15, 1951 will afford ample opportunity to all manufacturers to complete their calculation of ceiling prices and prepare the records required under this regulation. Therefore, the Director feels that an extension of the effective date will not be necessary and does not contemplate that an extension will be granted.

Findings of the Director. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the issuance of this regulation is imperative to correct the distortions in the structure of apparel prices which were frozen by the General Ceiling Price Regulation. The adjustment of these distortions cannot await the necessarily lengthy process of issuing tailored regulations for all branches of the apparel industry. To permit such delay would be to court disastrous effects upon production and distribution. By easing the immediate pressures, this regulation will provide the time needed to work out a more precise and fully integrated system of continuing controls. Work on such a system, which has been under way at a constantly increasing pace ever since the issuance of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, will now be further accelerated.

The provisions of this regulation and their effect upon business practices, cost practices or methods, or means or aids of distribution in the industry have been carefully considered. Generally only such changes in normal practices have been made as are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the regulation or to effectuate the policies of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

In the judgment of the Director, the ceiling prices established by this regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

COVERAGE

SECTION 1. Sellers and sales covered by this regulation. This regulation covers you if you are a manufacturer located in the United States or in the District of Columbia (not including territories or possessions) of (a) apparel, apparel furnishings or apparel accessories, made of textile materials, leather, fur, or a combination of any of them, or made of plastic or other materials which are normally sewed as part of the assembly operation, or (b) component parts manufactured exclusively for further processing into or for use as a part of apparel, apparel furnishings or apparel accessories, or (c) footwear made of felted, knitted or woven fabrics, or combinations of such fabrics, and which is not normally made by shoe or rubber manufacturers. This regulation applies to the sale, including sales at retail, of any such articles of which you are the manufacturer even though all or any part of the manufacturing operations are performed outside the continental United States. Examples of articles which are covered by this regulation and of articles which are not covered by this regulation are contained in Appendix A.

This regulation supersedes the General Ceiling Price Regulation for sales by manufacturers of the articles covered by this regulation.

SEC. 2. Small business exemption. If your gross sales of articles covered by this regulation for your last complete fiscal year preceding the effective date of this regulation were less than fifty thousand dollars, you may elect not to use this regulation. If you so elect, however, you may not use this regulation for determining the ceiling price of any article which would otherwise have been covered by this regulation. In that event, you shall determine the ceiling price of your articles in accordance with the General Ceiling Price Regulation. If your gross sales of articles covered by this regulation reach fifty thousand dollars in any fiscal year, you are required to use this regulation and must continue thereafter to price under it.

SEC. 3. When to begin pricing under this regulation. (a) You may begin to price and sell articles in accordance with this regulation immediately after issuance of this regulation, but you must price and sell under this regulation no later than August 15, 1951.

(b) On or before August 15, 1951, you must file a report with the Office of Price Stabilization, Apparel Branch, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, return receipt requested, stating the following:

(1) Your name and address.

(2) The address of the office where your records are kept.

(3) A list of the categories which you have elected to use, with a description of the basic component manufacturing material of the articles in each category.

(4) The base period selected for each category.

(5) A list of the classes of purchasers to which you sold during the period July 1, 1949 through June 24, 1950.

(6) If you elect to round ceiling prices of articles under either section 35 or 36, indicate for each category the number of the section which you elect to use.

This report must be signed by an officer or authorized agent of your company and dated.

After August 15, 1951 you may not sell or deliver any articles covered by this regulation unless and until the report required under this subsection has been filed.

CEILING PRICES FOR ARTICLES DEALT IN BETWEEN JULY 1, 1949 AND JUNE 24, 1950

SEC. 4. General description of pricing method.. (a) Your ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser for sale of an article which you sold or offered for sale in your base period between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950 is your base period price for that article to that class of purchaser plus

(1) the direct labor cost adjustment,

(2) the manufacturing materials cost adjustment,

(3) the indirect labor cost adjustment, and

(4) the indirect material cost adjustment.

Section 53 explains the meaning of your "largest buying class of purchaser" (generally, it refers to the class of purchaser which bought from you the largest dollar volume of the article during the period July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950). Section 7 tells how to obtain your "base period price." Sections 8 to 10 tell how to calculate "the direct labor cost adjustment." Sections 11 to 17 tell how to calculate "the manufacturing materials cost adjustment." Sections 18 and 19 tell how to calculate "the indirect labor cost adjustment." Sections 20 and 21 tell how to calculate "the indirect material cost adjustment."

(b) Your ceiling price for sale of the article to your largest buying class of purchaser must be consistent in every respect with the base period price used, i. e., the ceiling price must carry the same delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms, and other terms and conditions of sale.

(c) Your ceiling price for sale of the article to any other classes of purchasers to whom you made sales during your base period is determined by applying your price differentials last used during your base period. In the event you made no base period sales to a particular class of purchaser, you apply your customary differentials in effect during the period July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950. If you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser, you determine your ceiling price for that class of purchaser under Section 31. For each class of purchaser you must maintain all customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms, and other terms and conditions of sale which you had in effect during your base period. An explanation of what is meant by "class of purchaser" is found in section 53.

(d) Required record. Before you deliver an article for which your ceiling price is established under this section, you must prepare and preserve work sheets showing your calculation of the ceiling price of that article and the information required in Exhibit 1 (Appendix B). On or before August 15, 1951, you must prepare a separate record for each category in the form prescribed in Exhibit 1 covering all the articles in that category which you are pricing under this section. After August 15, 1951, you may not deliver any article for which your ceiling price is established under this section unless and until a record in the form prescribed in Exhibit 1 covering that article has been prepared. In the case of an article whose ceiling price is determined under this section and which you do not offer for sale until after August 15, 1951, you must prepare a separate record for such article in the form prescribed in Exhibit 1 within fifteen days after the article is first offered for sale, or before delivery, whichever date is earlier.

BASE PERIOD PRICE

SEC. 5. Base period. You may select as your base period for a category any three consecutive calendar months between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950. The period from June 1, 1950 to June 24, 1950 shall be considered, for purposes of this section, to constitute a calendar month. Whatever base period you select for a category must be used for all articles in the same category. You many select different base periods for different categories. However, you may not establish more than four base periods for all the categories of articles which you manufacture. The calender months within any of these four base periods may overlap—for example, you may select as your base period for category A the months of January, February and March 1950; for category B you may select the months of February, March and April 1950.

SEC. 6. Category. "Category" means a group of related "articles" (as defined in Section 53) which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production, accounting, sales, or seasonal adaptability. You may not include in the same category articles manufactured from different basic materials, such as cotton, wool, silk, or different synthetic materials. In classifying a material which is a blend of different fibers, the material shall be classified according to that fiber having the greatest content by weight, or if they are equal by weight, then by that fiber having the greatest dollar value, except that a material containing 25% or more of wool by weight shall be classified as a wool material. In the event an article has separate component parts made of different materials (such as component parts of leather, rayon and wool), the article shall be classified according to that material having the greatest total dollar value. Once you have selected a category for an article, you may not thereafter include the article in a different category, except with the authorization of the Director of Price Stabilization, upon your written request.

SEC. 7. How to obtain your base period price. Your base period price for an article is obtained as follows:

(a) If, during your base period, you delivered the article or contracted in writing to sell the article at a firm price, you find the highest price to your largest buying class of purchaser at which such a delivery or such a contract of sale was made.

(b) If you did not make such a delivery or contract, you find the highest price at which you made a written offer during the base period to your largest buying class of purchaser, provided that a written contract was made at such offering price within 90 days after the end of the base period or substantial deliveries were made at such price within the period of time customarily allowed in your trade for processing and shipment.

(c) Instead of the price under (a) or (b), you may use your price to your largest buying class of purchaser which you announced in writing in a price list, catalogue, or similar statement which you customarily used showing your prices for one or more articles. To use this paragraph (c), you must either have announced the prices during your base period, or have announced them previously and had them in effect during your base period; these prices must have been communicated to the trade or a substantial number of customers in your customary way. Further, you must either have contracted in writing within 90 days after the end of the base period to make substantial deliveries of any of the listed items at the prices in the list or have made substantial deliveries at these prices within the period of time customarily allowed in your trade for processing and shipment. If you use this paragraph (c) for any article you must use it for all articles in the same category which are covered by the same announcement.

(d) If your base period price includes any excise, sales or other similar tax which is not separately stated, you must follow the instructions contained in section 41.

(e) If your base period price is expressed as a gross or list price less discounts, you may make the adjustments of the base period price under section 4 (a) upon the basis of the net price to your largest buying class of purchaser.

Example: Your base period gross or list price for article A is $10.00 less an 8% discount to your largest buying class of purchaser. The direct labor cost adjustment, the manufacturing materials cost adjustment and the indirect labor and material cost adjustments which you are permitted to add to your base period price total $1.61. You first take 92% of $10.00, thus applying the 8% discount. The resulting amount, $9.20, plus $1.61, equals $10.81. This is your net ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser. You can figure your gross or list ceiling price by dividing your net ceiling price ($10.81) by the same percentage (92%), giving $11.75. Applying the 8% discount to your largest buying class of purchaser gives you $10.81, or your net ceiling price to that class of purchaser.

(f) If, during the base period, you customarily produced the same article at two or more manufacturing establishments of your business and sold it at different prices depending upon the place of production, you must obtain a separate base period price and determine a separate ceiling price for that article for each such establishment.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE DIRECT LABOR COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 8. Direct labor cost. This term means the cost of labor that enters directly into the production and packaging (other than shipping) of the article, including the cost of so-called "fringe benefits" (as defined in section 53). Direct labor includes such items as marking, cutting, sewing, pressing, finishing, and factory examination. It does not include labor used in packing for shipment, general administration, sales and advertising, research, or in making repairs to or maintenance of plant or equipment. Labor cost must be calculated on a straight time basis. You may not include overtime or holiday premiums. In making your calculations under section 9, you may adjust your direct cost, whether piece work or time work, to reflect the cost of "fringe benefits."

SEC 9. Direct labor cost adjustment. Your direct labor cost adjustment is determined separately for each article. The direct labor cost adjustment is the difference in the direct labor cost of an article, based upon the increase in wage rates between the first day of the base period for the category including that article and March 15, 1951. You may not include in your wage rates in effect on March 15, 1951, any adjustment of wage rates made thereafter, even though the adjustment may be made retroactive to March 15, 1951, or some prior day. Such retroactive adjustment may not be included, whether made pursuant to an express provision in a contract in effect on March 15, 1951, or otherwise.

(a) To compute the direct labor cost for an article, you shall allocate the permitted labor costs for each operation according to your customary accounting method on the basis of the method of wage payments which you use—e. g., piece work, time work or hourly rate of pay, or any other method of wage payments used by you.

(b) To calculate the direct labor cost adjustment you do the following:

(1) Find your base period direct labor cost for the article. To do this, you must use the wage rates for each operation in effect on the first day of the base period selected for the category including that article.

(2) Find your terminal direct labor cost for that article. To do this, you must use the wage rates for each operation in effect on March 15, 1951. (In the event you use labor in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands of the United States, you may adjust your wage rates in effect on March 15, 1951, for such labor to reflect increases resulting from minimum wage orders issued by the Administrator, Wage and Hour Division of the U. S. Department of Labor, prior to June 5, 1951.) You may include the cost of "fringe benefits" in the calculations under paragraph (b) (1) and under this paragraph, or you may omit it from both calculations. If you omit it from both calculations, then you may adjust your terminal direct labor cost, as found under this paragraph, to reflect any increase between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in the cost to you of "fringe benefits."

(3) Find the difference between the base period direct labor cost found in paragraph (b) (1) and the terminal direct labor cost found in paragraph (b) (2). The resulting figure is your direct labor cost adjustment which may be added to the base period selling price of that article in accordance with section 4 (a).

(c) If the article being priced is one which you manufactured at more than one plant (whether owned by you or a contractor) in which the direct labor costs are different, but you sold such article at a uniform price, you determine your direct labor cost adjustment for that article as follows:

(1) Find the amount of the direct labor cost adjustment applicable to the article for each plant in accordance with the method described in paragraph (b) of this section 9.

(2) Multiply each such amount by the total number of articles produced in the applicable plant during the last fiscal year of which your base period was a part. This gives you the aggregate plant adjustment.

(3) Add together all of the aggregate plant adjustments arrived at in (2). This gives you the aggregate adjustment for all of your plants.

(4) Divide the aggregate adjustment for all of your plants arrived at in (3) by the total number of articles produced in all your plants during the last fiscal year of which your base period was a part. The resulting figure is your direct labor cost adjustment for the article.

(d) You must preserve all payroll records and work sheets supporting your calculation of the direct labor cost of each article for the base period and the terminal date.

SEC. 10. How to compute direct labor cost where manufacturer uses contract labor. If you use contract labor in the manufacture of the article sold, you must compute your labor cost in accordance with the following instructions:

(a) If the contractor separates his labor cost in his invoice, you use that cost as your labor cost.

(b) If the contractor does not separate his labor cost from other charges on his invoice, you use as your labor cost 80% of his invoiced manufacturing charge, excluding the cost of materials.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE MANUFACTURING MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 11. Manufacturing material. You will need to become familiar with the term "manufacturing material" (sometimes referred to as "material") in the following sections. "Manufacturing material" refers to a material entering directly into the article being priced or used directly in the manufacturing processes from which the article results, together with tags, labels, and packaging (other than shipping) materials. You may include in the cost of manufacturing materials, rentals on machinery and royalties on machinery and manufacturing processes. You may not include royalties paid for the use of brand or trade names or other promotional features in connection with the sale of articles; such royalties are considered a selling expense.

For all calculations in determining the cost of materials in each article manufactured in a size range, use the amount of material which most nearly reflects the average consumption of that material per article within the size range.

SEC. 12. General instructions. There are two alternative methods available to you for calculating the "manufacturing materials cost adjustment". You should use the one better suited to the nature of your business and more adaptable to the records you maintain. You may select either method for each category, but whichever method you use for a particular category must be used for all articles in that category. The purpose of this adjustment is to establish the change between prescribed dates in the net cost of the manufacturing materials of the article being priced.

SEC. 13. Prescribed dates. Under either of the two alternative methods you select for calculating the "manufacturing materials cost adjustment", you will be figuring the change, between prescribed dates, in the net cost per unit of each manufacturing material included in your calculations of the cost of the article being priced. The first prescribed date is referred to as the "base period prescribed date." The recent prescribed date is referred to as the "terminal prescribed date." The base period prescribed date for each category will be the first day of the base period selected for that category. This date will vary, therefore, depending upon the base period selected for the category. The terminal prescribed date is June 4, 1951.

SEC. 14. Method 1 (Individual article method). To calculate the materials cost adjustment under this method you do the following:

(a) Find the physical amount of each manufacturing material which you used in the base period per unit of the article being priced.

(b) Multiply this physical amount of each of these manufacturing materials by the change in net cost per unit of such materials between the base period prescribed date for the category in which the article falls and the terminal prescribed date. In calculating the change in net cost, you must observe carefully the instructions contained in section 16.

(c) Add together the resulting figures derived under paragraph (b) which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. The difference between these totals is the manufacturing materials cost adjustment. This figure is to be added to the base period price of the article in accordance with section 4 (a).

SEC. 15. Method 2 (Category method). To calculate the materials cost adjustment under this method you do the following:

(a) Select the fewest number of articles in a category which accounted for 50 percent of the total dollar volume of sales or production of all articles in that category during the base period. If you had differentials in effect during your base period for sales to different classes of purchasers and therefore sold articles at different prices to different classes of purchasers, you may calculate the dollar volume of sales or production for each article by multiplying the number of units sold or produced by the base period selling price of that article to your largest buying class of purchaser. These articles are to be selected in order of descending volume.

EXAMPLE

In your category of dresses you sold or produced twelve styles during your base period for that category in the following amounts and percentages:

Styles	Sales or production volume	Percent of sales or production volume of this category	Cumulative (percent)
A	$25,000	25	25
B	20,000	20	45
C	10,000	10	55
D	9,000	9	64
E	8,000	8	72
F	7,000	7	79
G	6,000	6	85
H	5,000	5	90
I	4,000	4	94
J	3,000	3	97
K	2,000	2	99
L	1,000	1	100
Total	$100,000	100	100

As you will note, the styles are listed in order of descending volume and percentages. In selecting the styles which accounted for 50 percent of your total dollar volume of sales or production for the category you must start with the style which accounted for the largest volume and then successively include the one having the next lower volume. The total of Styles A and B represents 45 percent of your total volume. In order to reach 50 percent, you must include Style C which represents the next lower percentage of volume. You will therefore use Styles A, B, and C in making your calculation under this section.

(b) Find the physical amount of each manufacturing material which you used in the base period per unit of each of the articles selected under paragraph (a).

(c) For each article multiply the physical amount of each of the manufacturing materials found in paragraph (b) by the change in net cost per unit of such manufacturing materials between the base period prescribed date for the category in which the selected articles fall and the terminal prescribed date. In calculating the change in net cost, you must observe carefully the instructions contained in section 16.

(d) Add together the resulting figures derived under paragraph (c) for all the manufacturing materials which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. Divide the net difference between these totals by the number of articles selected in paragraph (a). This will give the average dollar increase in materials cost for the articles selected in paragraph (a).

(e) Total the unit base period selling prices of all the articles selected under paragraph (a) and divide the resulting total by the number of articles selected. This will give the average base period selling price of the articles selected.

(f) Divide the result found in paragraph (d) by the result found in paragraph (e). The resulting percentage is the materials cost adjustment percentage for all articles in that category.

(g) Multiply the base period selling price of each article in that category by this adjustment percentage. The resulting figure for each article is the manufacturing materials cost adjustment to be added to the base period selling price of that article in accordance with section 4 (a).

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED IN CALCULATING THE MANUFACTURING MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 16. How to compute the net cost of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date. (a) To calculate the net cost to you per unit of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date, use the costs or prices determined under the first of the following subparagraphs which is available to you:

(1) The weighted average net invoice cost of the material received within 30 days prior to the prescribed date. You must include all deliveries received within such 30-day period except that you may exclude any delivery in that period made pursuant to a contract at a fixed price entered into more than 60 days prior to such date. You may consider this subparagraph unavailable to you for purposes of figuring the cost as of the terminal prescribed date if your total inventory of the manufacturing material as of the close of business on June 4, 1951, was less than 33⅓ percent of your requirements for articles manufactured or scheduled to be manufactured from such material during the period ending September 30, 1951. For this purpose you must use your actual inventory of the manufacturing material regardless when delivery was received or the contract for purchase was made.

(2) The net price specified in a contract for purchase of the material at a fixed price, provided that such contract was entered into within 60 days prior to the prescribed date and that it provided for delivery beginning within 60 days after the prescribed date; if there was more than one such contract, use the net price specified in the contract for purchase of the largest quantity of such material.

(3) The net price at which such material was offered for sale to you in writing, provided that such offer was made within 60 days prior to the prescribed date and that it provided for delivery beginning within 60 days after the prescribed date, and that you still have the written offer or obtain a copy of it from the offeror; if there was more than one such offer for sale, use the net price specified in the offer for sale made last prior to the prescribed date by the supplier from whom you customarily buy the largest quantity of such material.

(4) The net price at which the material was offered for sale by one of your usual sources of supply within 60 days prior to the prescribed date, provided that such quotation is confirmed to you in writing by the offeror; if there was more than one such offer for sale, use the net price at which the material was offered for sale, last prior to the prescribed date, by the supplier from whom you customarily buy the largest quantity of such material.

(5) If none of the foregoing is available to you, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization for an appropriate increase in the cost of the manufacturing material for use in your calculations. If you make such an application, you must refer specifically to this paragraph; you must describe the article being priced and the manufacturing material used in the article; you must propose the amount of increase per unit of the manufacturing material you consider appropriate based upon what you would have paid for the material if you had purchased it on each of the applicable prescribed dates; you must set forth in detail supporting reasons why this paragraph is applicable; and you must state the base period price of the article and the ceiling price you propose.

Your application must be filed with the Office of Price Stabilization, Apparel Branch, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, return receipt requested. Furthermore, you may not sell or deliver an article manufactured of material covered by your application at a price which reflects an increase in the cost of such manufacturing material since the base period prescribed date until fifteen days after mailing your application. Thereafter, you may sell the article at the ceiling price proposed in your application, unless and until you are notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price or increase in material cost has been disapproved or that more information is required. If more information is requested, you may not sell the article until fifteen days after such information has been furnished to the Director of Price Stabilization by registered mail, return receipt requested. The Director may also stipulate the amount of increase in material cost which you may apply in determining your ceiling price.

(b) In making the calculations under (a), you must disregard any price based upon a departure from your normal buying practices; this includes purchases in quantities smaller than those you usually purchase or contract for, or a purchase from a more distant or different class of supplier. In no event may the price you use as of the terminal prescribed date be in excess of the ceiling price established under a ceiling price regulation in effect on such date.

(c) If in the manufacture of an article being priced you use a manufacturing material produced in a unit of your business other than the unit in which the article being priced is produced, you must follow the special instructions contained in section 17.

SEC. 17. How to calculate the change in net cost of a manufacturing material which is produced in one unit of your business and transferred to another unit of your business. This section deals with a manufacturing material which you produce in one unit of your business and transfer to another unit of your business where it is used in producing the article being priced. Such a manufacturing material (which is referred to as a "transferred material") may also be one which you sell to other persons. This section sets forth two methods by which you calculate the change in cost of a transferred material in connection with your calculation of "the manufacturing materials cost adjustment" for the article being priced. The method you use depends on whether you also sell the transferred material to other persons.

(a) If the transferred manufacturing material is one you also sell to other persons, you calculate its change in cost as follows:

(1) Find the highest price at which you delivered the material to other persons in your largest buying class of purchasers during the base period selected under this regulation for the category which includes the articles manufactured from this material. If you use the material for articles in more than one category for which you have selected different base periods use the base period ended closest to June 24, 1950.

(2) Find, under the regulation then applicable, its ceiling price as of the terminal prescribed date to your largest buying class of purchaser.

(3) The difference between the figure found under (2) and that found under (1) is the increase or decrease in cost of the transferred manufacturing material. You use this difference in calculating the "manufacturing materials cost adjustment" for the article being priced.

(b) If the manufacturing material is not one you sell to other persons you calculate its change in cost as follows:

(1) Find the weighted average value as shown in your records at which the transferred material was transferred, during the base period selected under this regulation for the category which includes the articles manufactured from this material, to the unit of your business in which the article being priced is produced. If you use the material for articles in more than one category for which you have selected different base periods use the base period ended closest to June 24, 1950.

(2) Using the weighted average value found in (1) as your base period price, determine what the ceiling price for the transferred material would be under the applicable regulation as of the terminal prescribed date.

(3) The difference between the figure found under (2) and that found under (1) is the increase or decrease in cost of the transferred manufacturing material. You use this amount in calculating the "materials cost adjustment" for the article being priced.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE INDIRECT LABOR COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 18. Indirect labor cost. This term refers to all labor other than direct labor (as defined in section 8) and other than labor used in general administration, sales and advertising, research, or in making major repairs, replacement or expansion of plant and equipment. It includes such labor as foremen, floor help, supervisors, designers, porters, watchmen, shipping and receiving room employees and labor used in materials control, testing and inspection and in making ordinary repairs and maintenance.

SEC. 19. Indirect labor cost adjustment. In determining your indirect labor cost adjustment for the article being priced your calculations should be limited to your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950. Using your profit and loss statement for that fiscal year and such other records as may be required,

(a) Find the total dollar amount of all items of indirect labor costs as defined in section 18.

(b) Find the total dollar amount of all items of direct labor cost as defined in section 8.

(c) Divide the total found in (a) by the total found in (b). The result is your "indirect labor cost percentage."

(d) Multiply the direct labor cost adjustment found under section 9 (c) for each article by the "indirect labor cost percentage" found in paragraph (c) of this section. The result is your "indirect labor cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 4 (a).

HOW TO CALCULATE THE INDIRECT MATERIAL COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 20. Indirect material costs. This term refers to the cost of all materials used in the operation of your business other than manufacturing materials as defined in section 11, and other than materials the use of which is not directly dependent upon the rate at which you manufacture the article being priced. It includes such items as shipping materials (other than returnable containers), purchased fuel, steam or electric energy, ordinary repair and maintenance materials and materials expended directly in manufacturing operations. Materials directly expended in manufacturing operations include such materials as needles, cutting tools, marking chalk, paper for patterns, and jigs and dies (if consumed within a year). It does not include the cost of materials used in connection with general administration, sales and advertising, research, or in making major repairs or replacement of plant or equipment or in expansion of plant or equipment; nor does it include royalties paid for the use of brand or trade names or other promotional features in connection with the sale of articles.

SEC. 21. Indirect material cost adjustment. (a) The indirect material cost adjustment is the change in the net cost of indirect materials between June 24, 1950 and the terminal prescribed date as specified in section 13. You may make this adjustment in the manner best suited to your customary accounting method.

(b) If your customary accounting method cannot be adapted to compute the change in the cost of indirect materials between such dates, you must use the following procedure:

(1) From your profit and loss statement for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950, and such other records as may be required, find (i) the total dollar amount of indirect material costs and (ii) the total dollar amount of your net sales.

(2) Divide the dollar amount of your indirect material costs found under (a) (1) (i) by the dollar amount of your net sales found under (1) (ii). The resulting figure is your "indirect material cost ratio."

(3) You must then find the weighted average percentage change in the cost of such indirect materials between June 24, 1950 and the terminal prescribed date. You may determine the percentage change in cost by using the fewest number of materials (but at least two materials) which represented not less than 25% of the total indirect material cost as found in (1) (i). To calculate the percentage change you must first find the dollar-and-cents change between the above-mentioned dates in the unit cost of the materials selected under this subsection. To determine the change in cost apply the instructions in section 16. For each material which you have selected, multiply the physical amount which you used during the fiscal year by the change in its unit cost. Add together the resulting figures and divide the total by the total base period cost of the materials which you selected for your calculations. The resulting figure is the percentage change in the indirect material cost.

(4) Multiply the indirect material cost ratio found in (2) by the percentage figure found in (3). The resulting figure is your "indirect material cost adjustment percentage."

(5) Multiply the base period selling price of the article being priced by the "indirect material cost adjustment percentage". The resulting amount is the indirect material cost adjustment which may be added to the base period selling price of that article in accordance with section 4 (a). This percentage may be applied uniformly to the base period selling price of each article which you are pricing.

CEILING PRICES FOR NEW ARTICLES FALLING WITHIN CATEGORIES DEALT IN DURING THE BASE PERIOD

SEC. 22. Coverage. For an article in which you did not deal in the base period, but which falls within a category in which you dealt during the base period, you determine your ceiling price under sections 23 to 28. For example, you sold rayon dresses in the base period and have established a category for rayon dresses. You now manufacture a rayon dress which is of a different style from any style of rayon dress made in the base period. Under the definition of "article" in section 53 such new style of rayon dress is a new article. You price your new style of rayon dress in accordance with sections 23 to 28.

SEC. 23. General description of pricing method. You determine your ceiling price for the new article by applying to the "terminal unit direct cost" of that article a percentage markup arrived at under section 26. This percentage markup reflects the difference between the average ceiling price of a comparison group of articles and the average terminal direct cost of that same group of articles. You will select the comparison group of articles in the manner provided in section 25.

SEC. 24. Terminal unit direct cost. (a) "Terminal unit direct cost" as used in this section means the sum of the amounts which it costs you for direct labor and manufacturing materials to manufacture the article, computing the cost of direct labor as of March 15, 1951 and the cost of manufacturing materials as of the terminal prescribed date, in accordance with the instructions in sections 8 through 17.

(b) If you are pricing a new article which you will manufacture at more than one plant (either plants owned by you or a contractor) in which the direct labor costs are different, and you wish to sell the article at a uniform price, you must calculate the terminal direct labor cost of that article in accordance with the method described in section 9 (c). You may determine the weighted average direct labor cost of that article on the basis of your estimate of the proportion in which the article will be produced at different plants for a period of 90 days following the date on which you determine your price for that article.

SEC. 25. How to select the comparison group of articles. (a) The first step in establishing a comparison group of articles is to find every article which you sold in the base period which is in the same category as the article you are pricing. For this purpose you must use all the articles in that category which you sold in the base period without regard to whether they are presently being manufactured.

(b) You then determine, in accordance with section 7, the base period selling price to your largest buying class of purchaser for each article found in (a).

(c) Group all the articles found in (a) so that each group will include all the articles which were sold at the same base period selling price. If you customarily deal in selling price lines, you will be including in each group all the styles of articles which were sold in the same price line during the base period. If you do not deal in price lines, but price each article individually, you may have only a single article which was sold at a particular base period price. In such case, the single article sold at a particular price will constitute a group of articles as that term is used in this section.

(d) From each group of articles sold at the same base period selling price, as found in (c), you must select the fewest number of articles which accounted for 50 percent of the total dollar volume of sales or production during the base period of all the articles included in that group. The group of articles so selected constitutes a "comparison group of articles." For the purpose of selecting the articles constituting 50 percent of the dollar volume of sales or production at each base period selling price, you shall apply the method described in section 15.

(e) For pricing a new article which you now manufacture, you select as the comparison group of articles, that comparison group of articles, as found in paragraph (d), whose average terminal direct cost is the same as or next lower than the terminal unit direct cost of the article being priced. If you had no comparison group of articles whose average terminal direct cost is the same as or lower than the terminal unit direct cost of the new article, use as the comparison group of articles the comparison group of articles whose average terminal direct cost is next higher than the terminal unit direct cost of the new article.

SEC. 26. How to find the average percentage markup of the comparison group of articles. As described in section 23, the ceiling price of a new article is determined by applying to the terminal unit direct cost of that article the percentage markup which the average ceiling price of the comparison group of articles, selected in accordance with section 25 (e), yields over the average terminal direct cost of that comparison group. The following instructions explain how to determine that percentage markup:

(a) (1) Find the average ceiling price for the articles in the comparison group of articles selected. To do this you determine the ceiling price of each such article, in the manner provided under section 4. You then total these ceiling prices and divide the sum by the number of articles in the comparison group selected. The resulting figure is your average ceiling price for the comparison group of articles.

(2) Find the average terminal direct cost of all the articles included in the comparison group of articles. To do this you must first find the terminal unit direct cost of each article included in the comparison group of articles. (You will have determined the terminal unit direct cost of each article in arriving at your ceiling price under subparagraph (1)). You then total the terminal unit direct cost of each of the articles of the comparison group and divide the sum by the number of articles in that group. The resulting figure is the average terminal direct cost of the comparison group of articles.

(b) Whether or not you are presently manufacturing the articles in your comparison group, you must use the full terminal unit direct cost permitted under this regulation, which will include the full amount of the adjustments of direct labor and manufacturing materials permitted under section 4.

SEC. 27. Ceiling price. To find your ceiling price, apply the percentage markup found in paragraph (a) (3) of section 26 to the terminal unit direct cost of the article you are pricing. This is your ceiling price for sale of that article to your largest buying class of purchaser. It must be consistent in every respect with the ceiling price of the articles in the comparison group of articles, i. e., it must carry your customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale. Your ceiling price for sale of the article to your other classes of purchasers shall be determined in the same manner as provided under section 4 (c).

SEC. 28. Record of ceiling price. (a) Before you offer for sale or deliver an article for which you have determined the ceiling price in accordance with section 27, you must prepare and preserve work sheets showing your calculation of the ceiling price of that article. On or before August 15, 1951, you must prepare a separate record for each category in the form prescribed in Exhibit 3 (Appendix B) showing the required information for each article in that category for which you have established a ceiling price under section 27. After August 15, 1951, you may not continue to offer for sale or continue to deliver any article whose ceiling price is determined in accordance with section 27 unless and until a record in the form prescribed in Exhibit 3 covering that article has been prepared. In the case of an article whose ceiling price is determined under section 27 and which is first offered for sale after August 15, 1951, you shall prepare, in the same manner, a separate record in the form prescribed in Exhibit 3 for such article within fifteen days after the article is first offered for sale, or before delivery, whichever date is earlier.

(b) Record of comparison groups of articles. In order to enable you to make a proper selection of a comparison group of articles as provided in section 25 (e), you must first calculate the average terminal direct cost, the average ceiling price, and the average percentage mark-up of each comparison group of articles. You may initially make these calculations on work sheets. However, on or before August 15, 1951, you must prepare a separate record for each category in the form prescribed in Exhibit 2 (Appendix B) including the required information for all the base period selling prices in each such category as found in accordance with section 25 (b). In completing this record, the groups of articles which you have established must be listed in ascending order of their average terminal direct cost starting with the lowest average terminal cost at the top of the list. It may be noted that after this chart has been completed for a category, you may then price each new article in that category by reference to the average terminal direct costs appearing on the chart.

SEC. 29. Ceiling price for a new article which, except for the basic component material of which it is manufactured, would fall within a category dealt in during the base period. (a) This section explains how to determine the ceiling price of an article which you are now manufacturing of a basic material which is different from any material used for the manufacture of similar articles during the year July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950, but which article, except for the difference in basic component material, would fall within a category in which you dealt during that year.

Example: The only basic material you used for the manufacture of children's fall dresses in the year July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950, was rayon. You have therefore established a category for children's fall rayon dresses under this regulation. You now propose to manufacture children's fall dresses made of wool fabric, and may or may not continue to manufacture rayon dresses. Your ceiling price for the wool dresses must be determined under this section.

(b) Determination of ceiling price. You will determine your ceiling price for the article manufactured of the new basic component material by reference to a comparison group of articles in the category in which you dealt in the base period and in which the new article would fall, except for the difference in the basic component material. If you have established more than one category in which the new article might be included, except for its basic material component, you must use that category in which you had the greater dollar volume of sales during the base period for the respective category. The category so selected is your comparison category. You determine your ceiling price for the new article in the following manner:

(1) Find what the total cost of direct labor and manufacturing material of the new article would have been in the base period of the comparison category. This will give you your "computed" base period direct cost of the new article. In making your calculation of the base period cost of manufacturing materials you must conform to the instructions in sections 13 and 16. Your labor cost shall be computed in accordance with the instructions in section 9 (a).

(2) Find the comparison group of articles in the comparison category whose average base period cost of direct labor and manufacturing materials was the same or next lower than the computed base period direct cost of the new article as found in subparagraph (1). If you had no comparison group of articles whose base period direct cost was the same or lower than the computed base period direct cost of the new article, then select the comparison group of articles whose average base period direct cost was next higher.

(3) You must then determine what the base period selling price of the new article would have been, in the following manner: For the comparison group of articles selected under (2), find the percentage markup which the base period selling price of the group yielded over its average base period direct cost. You then apply that percentage markup to the computed base period direct cost of the new article, which will give you its base period dollar margin. Add this figure to the computed base period direct cost of the new article. The result is your computed base period selling price for the new article.

(4) To the computed base period selling price, add the adjustments permitted under section 4, in the same manner as if the new article had been manufactured in the base period. The resulting amount is your ceiling price for the new article.

(c) Before selling an article for which you have determined the ceiling price in accordance with this section, you must prepare a record in the general form prescribed in Exhibit 1 covering that article. The form prescribed in Exhibit 1 may be adapted to show the calculations required to be made under this section.

NEW CATEGORIES, NEW CLASSES OF PURCHASERS, AND NEW SELLERS

SEC. 30. Ceiling prices for articles in new categories, and for new sellers. (a) Except as provided in section 29, if you are pricing an article which is in a different category from any dealt in by you between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, or if you are a new seller, i. e., if you made no sales of any article covered by this regulation prior to June 24, 1950, your ceiling price for such article is the same as the ceiling price of your most closely competitive seller of the same class selling the same article to the same class of purchaser. A ceiling price so determined must be in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

An article shall be considered the same as an article manufactured by the competitive seller if both articles satisfy all of the following conditions:

(1) Both articles would be included by you in the same category;

(2) The direct labor cost and manufacturing materials cost of both articles are substantially the same;

(3) The quality and quantity of the principal material of which both articles are made are substantially the same;

(4) If you were to sell both articles they would be sold at the same price under the same conditions.

(b) Before selling any article for which you have determined a ceiling price under this section, you must file the report required by paragraph (c) with the Office of Price Stabilization, Apparel Branch, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, return receipt requested, and, in addition, you may not sell the article until fifteen days after mailing your report; thereafter you may sell the article at your proposed ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved or that more information is required. If more information is required, you may not sell the article at the proposed ceiling price until fifteen days after such information has been furnished to the Director of Price Stabilization, by registered mail, return receipt requested.

(c) Required report. Your report shall state: the name and address of your company; the new category in which the article falls and the most comparable categories dealt in by you during the base period; the name, address and type of business of your most closely competitive seller of the same class and of at least two other closely competitive sellers of the same class; a statement of the ceiling price, or if that is not available, then the selling price for that article and differentials of your most closely competitive seller to each of his classes of purchasers; your reasons for selecting him as your most closely competitive seller; a statement of your customary price differentials; your proposed ceiling price; the specifications of the article you are pricing; the manufacturing process involved; a detailed breakdown of your unit direct costs; the types of customers to whom you will be selling; your proposed differentials; and, if you are starting a new business, a statement whether you or the principal owner of your business are now or during the past twelve months have been engaged in any capacity in any branch of the apparel business at any other establishment, and, if so, the name and address of each such establishment.

SEC. 31. New classes of purchasers. (a) If you are pricing an article which you propose to sell to an entirely new class of purchaser (a class of purchaser to which you did not sell between July 1, 1949, and June 24, 1950), you apply to your ceiling price for your largest buying class of purchaser the differential applied by your most closely competitive seller of the same class selling articles in the same category to your new class of purchaser. A ceiling price so determined by applying such differential must be in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

(b) Before selling any article to a new class of purchaser at a price determined in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section, you must file the report required by paragraph (c) of this section with the Office of Price Stabilization, Apparel Branch, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, return receipt requested. In addition, you may not sell the article to the new class of purchaser at a price in excess of the ceiling price to a class of purchaser to whom you sold prior to the effective date of this regulation until thirty days after mailing your report; thereafter you may sell the article at your proposed ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved or that more information is required. If more information is required, you may not sell the article at the proposed ceiling price until thirty days after such information has been furnished to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, return receipt requested.

(c) Required report. Your report of a differential determined in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section shall state the name and address of your company; the name, address and type of business of your most closely competitive seller of the same class and of at least two other closely competitive sellers; a statement of the differentials of your most closely competitive seller to each of his classes of purchasers for the same categories of articles which you are pricing; your reasons for selecting him as your most closely competitive seller of the same class; a statement of your customary price differentials to the classes of purchasers to whom you sold in the base period; a description of the new class of purchaser to whom you propose to sell; and a description of the categories of articles which you propose to sell to such new class of purchaser.

SEC. 32. Sellers who cannot price under other sections. If you claim that you are unable to determine your ceiling price for an article under any of the foregoing provisions of this regulation, you may apply in writing to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for the establishment of a ceiling price. This application shall contain an explanation of why you are unable to determine your ceiling price under any other provision of this regulation; all pertinent information describing the article, and the nature of your business; your proposed ceiling price and the method used by you to determine it, with detailed breakdown of your unit direct costs; and the reason you believe the proposed price is in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation. You may not sell the article until the Director of Price Stabilization notifies you, in writing, of your ceiling price.

SEC. 33. Option to propose an alternative method for obtaining your ceiling price. (a) If you believe that your situation makes desirable the use of a pricing method different from any prescribed in this regulation you may propose such alternative method in the manner specified in paragraph (b) of this section. Your proposed method must take account of the same factors as the methods prescribed in this regulation and must achieve the same basic results.

(b) You should submit a statement of your proposed method in writing to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., stating the reasons why you believe it to be appropriate and why you consider the use of any of the methods prescribed in this regulation to be impracticable, and setting forth in detail each of the steps to be taken under the method you propose. Unless and until the Director of Price Stabilization approves in writing your proposed method, you may not use it.

ROUNDING CEILING PRICES

SEC. 34. General instructions. You may use one of the following methods for rounding ceiling prices for each category. Whichever method you use for a category must be used consistently for each of your articles within that category. If you elect to round your prices under section 35 or 36, you must indicate that fact on the report which you are required to file under section 3 of this regulation.

SEC. 35. Rounding ceiling prices to nearest cent or fraction of cent at which you normally sell. You may round your ceiling prices determined under this regulation so that they will be expressed to the nearest cent or fraction of a cent which you normally employ. If you elect to round the ceiling price of an article in accordance with this section, you must similarly round the ceiling prices for all of your articles in the same category normally priced by you upon the same basis, to reflect decreases as well as increases. In no event may the increase be greater than one percent of your ceiling price prior to rounding. For example, if you normally quote a price to the nearest quarter of a dollar and your calculated ceiling price for Article A is $8.68 per unit, you may round that ceiling price to $8.75 per unit. However, if your calculated ceiling price for Article B in the same category is $8.82, you must round its ceiling price to $8.75.

SEC. 36. Rounding price to customary industry price line. If you sell articles customarily merchandised in price lines you may round your ceiling prices for such articles up to the nearest customary industry selling price line but not by more than 10 percent in excess of your ceiling price prior to rounding, subject to the following conditions:

(a) If you round your ceiling price for an article to a higher selling price you must round the ceiling prices of other articles to prices below their ceiling prices, so that at the end of the rounding period the total dollar amount of your upward adjustments shall not exceed the total dollar amount of your downward adjustments based upon the total sales of all articles whose prices have been rounded under this section. The rounding periods are defined in section 53.

(b) Within fifteen days after the end of each rounding period you must prepare a record, in the form prescribed in Exhibit 4 (Appendix B), showing for each category the following information for that rounding period:

(1) Description of category.

(2) Description of each article delivered.

(3) Number of units of each article delivered.

(4) The total calculated net ceiling sales value of each article. (To be obtained by multiplying the total number of units delivered by the calculated net ceiling price prior to rounding.)

(5) The actual dollar total of sales of each article.

(6) Net upward or downward adjustment for the category.

(c) If you rounded ceiling prices in only one category, state that fact on the record prepared in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section. If you rounded prices in more than one category, you must prepare a summary record listing separately the net upward or downward adjustment in each category in which you have rounded prices. This summary record shall reflect the net upward or downward adjustment for all the categories so listed. This record must also be prepared within fifteen days after the end of the rounding period.

(d) If at the end of a rounding period the total of your upward adjustments is in excess of the total of the downward adjustments as calculated under paragraph (c) of this section, you must offset the excess of upward adjustments before the fifteenth day of the second month of the following rounding period. In order to satisfy this requirement, you should maintain a current record of your deliveries and adjustments resulting from rounding ceiling prices from the beginning of the current rounding period, so that you can check your progress in offsetting your excess adjustment.

(e) On or before the last day of the second month of the current rounding period, you must prepare a record in the form prescribed in Exhibit 4 (Appendix B) for each category, showing the information required under paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, for deliveries between the first day of the current rounding period and the fifteenth day of the second month of such rounding period. From these records you must prepare a summary showing the net upward or downward adjustment for that period.

If the net total upward adjustment for the preceding rounding period is not fully offset by the net total of downward adjustments for the period described in this paragraph, you may not deliver an article at a price in excess of its calculated ceiling price after the end of the second month of the current rounding period.

(f) On or before the fifteenth day following the end of the current rounding period, you must prepare the record required under paragraphs (b) and (c), covering your deliveries during that period, together with a statement showing your reconciliation between the result for the current rounding period and the net upward adjustment for the preceding rounding period.

(g) If the net total upward adjustment for a rounding period is fully offset by a net total downward adjustment for the next succeeding period you may resume using the provisions of this section for rounding your ceiling prices. If the net total upward adjustment for a rounding period is not fully offset by a net total downward adjustment for the next succeeding period the amount of such upward adjustment less the net amount of downward adjustment, if any, for the next succeeding period is deemed a charge in excess of your ceiling price and you become liable to the civil and criminal penalties provided in the Defense Production Act of 1950 for that amount. If you cease doing business in all articles covered by this regulation and at that time you have an accumulated net balance of upward adjustments, the amount of such upward adjustments at the time you cease doing business is deemed a charge in excess of your ceiling price, and you similarly become liable to the civil and criminal penalties provided in the Defense Production Act of 1950 for that amount.

(h) A balance of total downward adjustments remaining at the end of a rounding period may not be carried forward to a succeeding rounding period.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 37. Retention of GCPR ceiling price where the change in price is less than 1%. If your calculated ceiling price for an article as determined under section 4 of this regulation differs by less than 1% from that under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price. However, you may use this section only if you apply it to the ceiling prices for all your articles within the same category (as determined under section 4 of this regulation) differing by less than 1% from the GCPR ceiling price, regardless of whether decreases or increases result. For example, your GCPR ceiling price for article A is $10 and your ceiling price as determined under section 4 of this regulation is $9.95. Your GCPR ceiling price for article B (falling within the same category as article A) is $8 and your ceiling price determined under section 4 of this regulation is $8.05. You may continue to use $10 as your ceiling price for article A, but if you do so, you must continue to use $8 as your ceiling price for article B.

SEC. 38. Adjustment of ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for increase in transportation costs. If your base period price was, and therefore your ceiling price is, a delivered price, you may adjust your ceiling price to reflect any increase, between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in transportation costs incurred by you (not including warehousing and insurance charges). You may include in this adjustment only increases resulting from transportation charges paid by you to other persons (excluding any person who is an employee, subsidiary or affiliate of yours or of whom you are a subsidiary or affiliate).

This adjustment is made in the following manner:

(a) Where your base period price for the commodity being priced included full transportation costs from point of shipment to point of receipt by the purchaser, you may adjust your ceiling price by the exact amount of the increase in transportation rates to you between such points, charged by the same carrier or class of carrier for the same class of transportation. You may not include increases due to changing the class of carrier (e. g., from water or highway to rail) or to changing your customary method or quantity of shipment.

(b) If your base period price was uniform within defined geographical zones but you maintained an established differential between zones, you may calculate a transportation cost increase adjustment to be applied to the ceiling price for sales to each zone. This calculation is made in the following manner:

(1) Find the average transportation charge paid by you for deliveries of the article being priced to each zone during your last accounting period of not less than three months, ended not later than the end of your base period for that category. If your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, you should use your last accounting period of not less than three months, ended not later than June 30, 1950.

(2) Find what the average transportation charge paid by you for deliveries of that article to each zone would be, using the transportation rates actually in effect on March 15, 1951.

(3) The dollars-and-cents amount of the difference between the average transportation charge found under (2) and that found under (1) for each zone may be added to your ceiling price for sales to that zone.

(c) Where your base period price was uniform for all sales of the article being priced to any destination within the United States, you may calculate a single transportation cost increase adjustment to be applied to the ceiling price for all sales within the United States in the same maner as under paragraph (b) of this section, treating the United States as a single zone.

SEC. 39. Recalculation of ceiling prices. The Director of Price Stabilization expects, in due course, to issue an amendment to this regulation providing for a recalculation of your ceiling prices under this regulation. The purpose of this recalculation would be to reflect more accurately the materials prices established by other ceiling price regulations.

SEC. 40. Transfers of business and combinations. (a) If you purchased or otherwise acquired by transfer after June 24, 1950, or shall hereafter acquire, the principal part of the business, assets or stock in trade of an established business, and you carry on the business of the transferor or continue to deal in the same categories of articles in an establishment separate from any other establishment previously owned or operated by you, your ceiling prices shall be the same as those to which your transferor would be subject if no such transfer had taken place, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (e) of this section, and your obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such prices shall be the same. You must further prepare and preserve (if your transferor has not already done so) the records, reports and work sheets required under this regulation. Your transferor shall preserve and make available or turn over to you all records necessary to verify your ceiling prices and to enable you to comply with the record-keeping provisions of this regulation.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this section shall not apply to categories of articles whose ceiling prices were determined under section 30 or were established under section 32 of this regulation. In that event you must determine your ceiling prices for such categories of articles in accordance with section 30 or 32 of this regulation.

(c) If the transfer of business occurred between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, your ceiling prices shall be determined on the basis of a consolidation of your records with those of your transferor for the period from July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950.

(d) If two or more manufacturers who were in business during any part of the period July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950, merge or consolidate after July 1, 1949, the ceiling prices of the manufacturer resulting from such merger or consolidation shall be determined on the basis of consolidated records of the manufacturers involved in the merger or consolidation.

(e) You may not avail yourself of ceiling prices under the provisions of this section unless the records required under this regulation to support such prices are either turned over or made available to you by the transferor or the manufacturers involved in the merger or consolidation.

SEC. 41. Excise, sales and other similar taxes. (a) Where the tax is included in your base period price. If the base period price you are using for an article to determine your ceiling price either for that article or another article includes any excise, sales or other similar tax which is not separately stated, you must first ascertain the amount of any such tax and exclude it from your base period price. Your base period price, with any such tax so excluded, may then be used in making any appropriate computations for determining your ceiling price. After completing the computations, you may then add the appropriate amount of any such tax for inclusion as part of your ceiling price. In the case of any increase in such a tax subsequent to the end of your base period, you may include the appropriate amount of any such increase as part of your ceiling price. Likewise, in the case of any similar tax first imposed subsequent to the end of your base period and included in your selling price thereafter, you may include the appropriate amount of such tax as part of your ceiling price.

(b) Where the tax is separately stated and collected. In addition to your ceiling price determined under this regulation, you may collect the amount of any excise, sales or other similar tax paid by you as such only if it has been your practice to state and collect such taxes separately from your selling price for the same or similar articles. In the case of such a tax imposed by law which is not effective until after the effective date of this regulation, or of any increase in such a tax subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, you may collect the amount of the tax actually paid as such by you, if not prohibited by the tax law. You must in all such cases state separately the amount of the tax.

SEC. 42. Modification of ceiling prices by the Director of Price Stabilization. The Director of Price Stabilization may at any time disapprove or revise downward ceiling prices proposed to be used or being used under this regulation so as to bring them into line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

SEC. 43. Adjustable pricing. Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prohibit your making a contract or offer to sell an article at (a) the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery or (b) the lower of a fixed price or the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery. You may not, however, deliver or agree to deliver an article at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in a ceiling price after delivery.

SEC. 44. Petitions for amendment. If you wish to have this regulation amended, you may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Price Procedural Regulation 1 (15 F. R. 9055).

SEC. 45. Supplementary regulations. The Director of Price Stabilization may issue supplementary regulations modifying or implementing this regulation as he deems appropriate.

SEC. 46. Temporary adjustments to carry out existing contracts. (a) Who may apply for adjustment. If at any time prior to the issuance date of this regulation, you entered into a bona fide contract for delivery of an article at a firm price subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, and if your ceiling price as determined under this regulation is lower than the contract price, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization for an adjustment of your ceiling price, provided:

(1) The contract for future delivery was required by seasonal demands or normal business practices.

(2) The contract, if entered into subsequent to January 26, 1951, called for deliveries at a price which was lawful under ceiling price regulations in effect at that time.

(3) You acquired needed raw materials or component parts after the date of the contract at lawful prices in reliance upon and in order to fulfill the terms of the contract.

(b) Calculation of the amount of the adjustment. The adjusted ceiling price will be fixed in the following way:

(1) Take the total price of the quantity of raw materials or component parts acquired in reliance upon, and necessary in order to fulfill, the contract.

(2) Compute what the total price of the same quantity of raw materials or component parts would be as of the terminal prescribed date used for your calculation of "the manufacturing materials cost adjustment." In computing what that total price would be, apply the provisions of section 16.

(3) Subtract the figure arrived at under subparagraph (2) from the figure arrived at under subparagraph (1). The result is the total amount of the adjustment. If the figure arrived at under subparagraph (1) is no higher than that arrived at under subparagraph (2), you cannot apply for adjustment under this section.

(4) Divide the total amount of the adjustment by the number of units of the article called for by the contract. This gives you the adjustment per unit of the article. If the contract calls for the delivery of more than one article, the total amount of the adjustment may be distributed in any appropriate way among the several articles.

(5) Add the adjustment per unit of the article under (4) to your ceiling price for that article. The result is your adjusted ceiling price. In no event, however, may you obtain an adjusted ceiling price higher than the contract price.

Example: You contracted in January 1951 to supply a mail order house 1,000 units of an article at $10.00 per unit, delivery to be made during the months of June, July and August of 1951. Your ceiling price under this regulation is $9.00. In order to comply with the terms of your contract, you purchased raw material sufficient to produce 600 units at a total cost of $4,200. The cost of acquiring the same raw material as of March 15, 1951 would be $3,500. The total adjustment is $700 ($4,200 minus $3,500 equals $700). The total number of units called for in the contract was 1,000. Divide $700 by 1,000. This gives you 70¢. The adjustment per article becomes 70¢ and your adjusted ceiling price for the contract $9.70. Subsequent sales to the contract purchaser and all sales to other purchasers must be at the regular ceiling price of $9.00.

(c) What your application must contain. Applications for adjustment under this section must be filed on or before September 1, 1951, with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Attached to the application should be the following:

1. A copy of the contract;
2. Copies of invoices covering the manufacturing materials acquired in reliance upon and in order to fulfill the contract;
3. Copies of invoices or other supporting data which indicate your net cost, as of the terminal prescribed date, used in computing "the manufacturing materials cost adjustment";
4. A copy of the worksheets used in the calculation of your ceiling price;
5. A report of your adjusted ceiling price and detailed calculation showing how this price was arrived at.

(d) Action on your application. You may not receive payment of any amount in excess of your ceiling price until 30 days after receipt by the Director of Price Stabilization of any application filed under this section. If the Director of Price Stabilization does not revise or modify the adjusted ceiling price reported by your or notify you that further information is required, you may after these 30 days have elapsed, receive payments at the adjusted ceiling price for all deliveries made since the date of filing. The Director may, however, at any time, revise or modify the adjusted ceiling price, but such revision or modification will not apply to deliveries already made.

SEC. 47. Records. (a) With respect to any article covered by this regulation, the provisions of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation are hereby continued in effect insofar as they apply to the preparation and preservation of "base period records" and such "current records" as have been made as a result of sales between January 26, 1951, and the effective date of this regulation.[1]

[1] The portions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation here referred to, applicable to apparel manufacturers, are as follows:

SEC. 16. • • • (a) Base period records. (1) You must preserve and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization those records in your possession showing the prices charged by you for the commodities or services which you delivered or offered to deliver during the base period, • • •

(2) In addition, on or before March 22, 1951, you must prepare and preserve a statement showing the categories of commodities in which you made deliveries and offers for delivery during the base period; • • •

(3) On or before March 22, 1951, you must also prepare and preserve a ceiling price list, showing the commodities in each category (listing each model, type, style, and kind), or the services, delivered or offered for delivery by you during the base period together with a description or identification of each such commodity or service and a statement of the ceiling price. Your ceiling price list may refer to an attached price list or catalogue. • • •

(4) You must also prepare and preserve a statement of your customary price differentials for terms and conditions of sale and classes of purchasers, which you had in effect during the base period. • • •

(b) Current records. If you sell commodities or services covered by this regulation you must prepare and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization for a period of two years, records of the kind which you customarily keep showing the prices which you charge for the commodities or services. In addition, you must prepare and preserve records indicating clearly the basis upon which you have determined the ceiling price for any commodities or services not delivered by you or offered for delivery during the base period. • • •

"Base period" as used in section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation means December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951.

(b) You shall prepare and preserve for the life of the Defense Production Act of 1950 and for two years thereafter all records necessary for calculation of your ceiling prices, including (but not limited to) records showing base period prices and material and labor costs, records showing costs, prices and sales for the other applicable periods and dates referred to in this regulation, and the work sheets and records corresponding to Exhibits 1 through 7 in Appendix B of this regulation. The work sheets and records corresponding to Exhibits 1 through 7 must be dated and signed by you or your authorized representative as of the date of their preparation.

(c) You may not establish a ceiling price or any adjustment permitted under this regulation unless you have written records in your possession supporting such price or adjustment and have prepared work sheets showing your calculations before selling an article.

(d) You shall preserve for a period of two years all records showing the prices at which sales of articles subject to this regulation have been made.

(e) All records required under this section must be made available for inspection by or submitted, on request, to the Office of Price Stabilization.

SEC. 48. Exemptions and exceptions. This regulation shall not apply to the following:

(a) Sales of articles the ceiling prices of which are now or may subsequently be established by numbered price regulations of the Office of Price Stabilization.

(b) Sales of articles the ceiling prices of which may be subsequently established by "supplementary regulations" to this regulation, to the extent that such "supplementary regulations" may alter or modify the terms of this regulation.

(c) Sales of articles the ceiling prices of which are now or may subsequently be exempted from price control under the terms of any General Overriding Regulation of the Office of Price Stabilization.

(d) Sales of articles exempt from the ceiling price provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation under sections 5, 7, 8 and 9 of Supplementary Regulation 1 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (Defense Agency Pricing).

(e) Indian and Eskimo handicraft articles which are produced by the manual skill of American Indians, Alaskan Indians or Eskimos.

(f) Sales or deliveries of articles made or produced by the seller at his home solely for his own account, without the assistance of hired employees.

SEC. 49. Prohibitions. (a) On and after the effective date of this regulation, regardless of any contract or other obligation:

(1) You may not sell or deliver any article covered by this regulation at a price higher than your ceiling price.

(2) No person in the course of trade or business may buy or receive any article covered by this regulation at a price higher than its ceiling price.

(3) No person shall offer, solicit, attempt or agree to do any of the foregoing. Of course, you may charge lower prices than your ceiling prices at any time.

(b) Redetermination of ceiling prices. Once you have recorded or reported your ceiling price or a proposed ceiling price for an article as required by this regulation, you may not thereafter redetermine such price except as provided in section 39. A purely mathematical error may, however, be corrected provided that the correction must be reported to the Office of Price Stabilization, Apparel Branch, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail, return receipt requested.

SEC. 50. Resale of manufacturing materials. (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, this paragraph applies in those instances where you have purchased manufacturing materials of types used by you in the manufacture of articles covered by this regulation and subsequently resell such materials in the same form in which they were acquired, either to another manufacturer or any other person. Notwithstanding the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation or any other price regulation which may be applicable to such sales, you may not sell such manufacturing materials at a price in excess of their net cost to you plus freight, insurance, warehouse and handling charges actually incurred and paid by you.

(b) This section shall not apply in the following cases:

(1) Where such resale is made pursuant to an established trade practice by which you are expected, in connection with the sale of articles manufactured by you, to furnish to the purchasers of such articles an additional quantity of material identical with the material from which such articles are manufactured.

(2) Where, as a separate and substantial part of your business on the issuance date of this regulation, you were regularly engaged in reselling materials purchased exclusively for the purpose of resale and not for use in the manufacture of articles.

SEC. 51. Evasion. Any practice which results in obtaining indirectly a higher price than is permitted by this regulation is a violation of this regulation. Such practices include, but are not limited to, devices making use of commissions, services, finders' fees, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, tie-in agreements and trade understandings.

SEC. 52. Penalties. Persons violating any provision of this regulation are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions and suits for treble damages provided for by the Defense Production Act of 1950.

SEC. 53. Definitions and explanations.

Article. This term means a specific style, type or model of an item. One article is the same as another if both have the same purpose, appearance (difference in color is immaterial), construction, consume approximately the same quantity of material for the same size, and, except for ornamental trimmings, are made from the same basic material component.

Category. This term is defined in section 6.

Class of purchaser or purchaser of the same class. Class of purchaser is determined in the first instance by reference to your own practice of setting different prices for sales to different purchasers or groups of purchasers. The practice may (but need not) be based on the characteristics or distributive level of the purchaser (for instance, wholesaler, individual retail store, retail chain, mail order house, government agency, public institution). It may (but need not) be based on the location of the purchaser of the quantity purchased by him. If you have followed the practice of giving an individual customer a price differing from that charged others, that customer is a separate class of purchaser.

If in your industry a practice prevails of charging different prices for sales to groups of purchasers based on their characteristics or distributive level, any such group to whom you did not make sales during your base period and for whom you did not have a customary differential in effect during or before your base period, is a separate class of purchaser as to you.

Delivered. An article shall be deemed to have been delivered if it was received by the purchaser or by any carrier, including a carrier owned or controlled by the seller, for shipment to the purchaser.

Director of Price Stabilization. This term also applies to any official (including officials of Regional or District Offices) to whom the Director of Price Stabilization by order delegates a function, power or authority referred to in this regulation.

Fringe benefits. Fringe benefits include health, welfare and insurance plans, pension contributions for current work, paid vacations, paid holidays and similar benefits, including payments required under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, the Federal Unemployment Tax Act and any state or local unemployment or compensation laws.

Largest buying class of purchaser. This term refers to the "class of purchaser" of an article which purchased from you the largest dollar amount of that article during the period from July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950. It does not include, however, the United States or any agency thereof, or any person in respect of whom your base period price is a price established under a written contract of at least 6 months' duration entered into prior to the base period, unless the United States or an agency thereof or such contract purchaser was your only class of purchaser.

Manufacturer. A manufacturer is a person, whether producer, assembler, finisher or fabricator, (1) who manufactures the article for his own account; (2) who sells or consigns to the fabricator any of the principal materials from which the article is fabricated for his own account; or (3) whose business is directly or indirectly under the same ownership and control as the person who fabricates the article. You are not a manufacturer unless you substantially change the form of some article or articles, combine two or more articles into a differing one, or create a new article from existing ones. If you merely package, label, market, promote, or sell an article or combine articles without substantially changing their form, you are not a manufacturer. If you merely perform an industrial service (e. g., contract sewing) for the account of others, on an article to which you do not at any stage take title, you are not a manufacturer with respect to such an article.

Manufacturing materials. This term is defined in Section 11.

Most closely competitive seller of the same class. Your most closely competitive seller of the same class is the seller with whom you are in most direct competition. You are in direct competition with another seller who sells the same type of articles to the same classes of purchasers in similar quantities on similar terms and with approximately the same amount of service.

Net cost or net price. Each of these terms refers to the net invoice cost or net price to you of a manufacturing material after deducting any discount (other than a customary cash discount) or allowance you took or could have taken. You may include charges for freight and specific taxes allocable to the material and transportation. You may not include charges for insurance, storage or warehousing.

Person. This term includes any individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or legal successors or representatives of the foregoing, and the United States or any other Government or its political subdivisions or agencies.

Records. This term means books of original entry, books of account, sales lists, sales slips, orders, vouchers, contracts, receipts, invoices, bills of lading, bank statements, cancelled checks and check stub books, and other papers and documents.

Rounding period. As used in this regulation, this term means a calendar quarter of three consecutive months beginning January 1, April 1, July 1 and October 1 of each year, except that the first rounding period shall start when you begin pricing under this regulation and shall end on September 30, 1951.

Sales at retail. This term refers to any sale to an ultimate consumer, other than a commercial, industrial, governmental or institutional user.

Sell. This term includes sell, supply, dispose, barter, exchange, transfer and deliver, and contracts and offers to do any of the foregoing. The terms "buy" and "purchase" shall be construed accordingly.

Written offer or written offer for sale. Each of these terms refers to an offer for sale made by means of the seller's price list or, if he had no price list, a written offer otherwise made in the seller's customary manner. The term does not include an offer at a price intended to withhold a commodity from the market or used as a bargaining price by a seller who usually sells at a price lower than his asking price.

You. "You" means the person subject to this regulation. "Your" and "Yours" are construed accordingly.

Effective date. The effective date for this regulation is August 15, 1951, but you may, if you wish, begin to price under this regulation prior to such date, as provided in section 3.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

JUNE 9, 1951.

This appendix contains sample forms of records and worksheets which you will find it necessary to use in making certain calculations required by this regulation and in recording your ceiling prices.

Exhibits 1, 2, 3 and 4 illustrate the form to be used in preparing certain important records required to be prepared and preserved under this regulation. In preparing your records corresponding to these Exhibits you must conform closely to the general arrangement of data as illustrated in these Exhibits. Inasmuch as the Director may from time to time require manufacturers to submit some or all of these records, it is suggested that these records be prepared in duplicate.

Exhibits 5, 6 and 7 are included to illustrate the content and general arrangement of data appropriate for certain calculations required under this regulation.

The forms corresponding to these Exhibits will not be printed or provided by the Office of Price Stabilization. You will therefore be required to prepare forms for your use in completing the records.

You must preserve a copy of all records required under this regulation for your own use, for examination by representatives of the Office of Price Stabilization, and for submittal on request to OPS.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Amendment 15]

General Ceiling Price Regulation

"Parity" adjustment for sugarcane

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment 15 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation [16 F. R. 808] is issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Under the existing provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation (GCPR), as amended, manufacturers and processors using sugar processed from sugar beets, which are on the section 11 (a) list of agricultural commodities, are permitted to increase the prices of their products to reflect increased costs to them of such sugar. However, those using sugar processed from sugarcane, which was removed from section 11 (a) by Amendment 1 to GCPR, are only permitted to reflect the increased cost of such sugar up to February 12, 1951.

Chemically there is no difference in beet and cane sugar and, in the market, their prices customarily move together. Some manufacturers use one kind of sugar and others use both kinds in their products. Since manufacturers who use beet sugar are entitled to reflect the current cost of this sugar, they are in a more favorable position than those using cane sugar despite the fact that their end products may be substantially identical. In addition, confusion will result in those cases where one manufacturer uses both beet and cane sugar in his product, since he will be forced to carry the burden of computing the costs of the sugar used on two different bases. Finally, in light of the fact that the prices of beet and cane sugar have increased since February 12, 1951, the present provisions of this regulation may very well distort the normal market relationship of beet and cane sugar as well as the relationship of the end products processed from those commodities.

In view of the above, the Director of Price Stabilization has decided to reinstate sugarcane on the section 11 (a) list so that a current date may be used in calculating the increased costs of that commodity or product processed therefrom.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 11 (a) of the General Ceiling Price Regulation is amended by adding "Sugarcane" to the list of agricultural commodities, under the heading "Sugar Crops".

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective June 20, 1951.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

TITLE 33—NAVIGATION AND NAVIGABLE WATERS

Chapter I—Coast Guard, Department of the Treasury

[CGFR 51-26]

Warning Signals for Use by Coast Guard Vessels While Working on Aids to Navigation

A notice regarding proposed regulations covering warning signals for use by Coast Guard vessels while engaged in handling or servicing aids to navigation was published in the Federal Register dated February 27, 1951 (16 F. R. 1831) as Item I on the Agenda to be considered by the Merchant Marine Council, and a public hearing was held by the Merchant Marine Council on March 27, 1951 in Washington, D. C. No comments regarding the proposed regulations were received and at the public hearing no objections were raised to the adoption of these regulations.

The purpose of the regulations in 33 CFR 80.33a, 90.15a and 95.26 is to permit special signals to be used by Coast Guard vessels while handling or servicing aids to navigation and to require operators of other passing vessels when observing this signal to reduce the speed of their vessel sufficiently to insure the safety of both vessels. This regulation is being added in order to reduce the hazards on a Coast Guard vessel which is in a very vulnerable position when attempting to raise an aid to navigation.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Commandant of the United States Coast Guard by Treasury Department Order No. 120 dated July 31, 1950 (15 F. R. 6521), to promulgate regulations in accordance with statutes cited with the regulations below, the following amendments to the regulations are prescribed which shall become effective 90 days after date of publication of this document in the Federal Register:

(b) Vessels, with or without tows, passing Coast Guard vessels displaying this signal, shall reduce their speed sufficiently to insure the safety of both vessels, and when passing within 200 feet of the Coast Guard vessel displaying this signal, their speed shall not exceed 5 miles per hour.

(b) Vessels, with or without tows, passing Coast Guard vessels displaying this signal, shall reduce their speed sufficiently to insure the safety of both vessels, and when passing within 200 feet of the Coast Guard vessel displaying this signal, their speed shall not exceed 5 miles per hour.

§ 126.11 Waiver authority based on local or unusual conditions. Whenever the Commandant, the District Commander, or the Captain of the Port shall find that the application of any provision contained in this part is not necessary to the security of the port and vessels and waterfront facilities therein, or that its application is not practical because of local conditions or because the materials or personnel required for compliance are not available, or because the requirements of the national defense justify a departure from such provision, he may waive compliance with such provision to the extent and under such requirements as he may determine.

§ 126.13 Designation of waterfront facilities. (a) Waterfront facilities which fulfill the conditions required in § 126.15, and only such waterfront facilities, are designated for the handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, and transporting of dangerous cargo, subject to compliance with other applicable requirements and provisions set forth in this part.

(b) Handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, and transporting dangerous cargo at any waterfront facility other than one designated by this section is hereby prohibited, and violation of this prohibition will subject the violator to the penalties of fine and imprisonment provided in section 2, Title II of the act of June 15, 1917, as amended, 50 U. S. C. 192.

§ 126.15 Conditions for designation as designated waterfront facility. The conditions referred to in § 126.13 for designation of a waterfront facility for the purpose of handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, or transporting of dangerous cargo shall be as follows:

(a) Local law. That use of the waterfront facility for such purpose is not prohibited by state or local law, and that applicable provisions thereof are complied with.

(b) Guards. That guards are provided by the owner or operator of the waterfront facility for the protection thereof in such numbers and of such qualifications as to assure adequate surveillance, prevent unlawful entrance, detect fire hazards, and check the readiness of protective equipment.

(c) Smoking. That smoking is prohibited on the waterfront facility except at such portions thereof as may be designated by the owner or operator thereof, provided that smoking in such areas shall only be permitted in accordance with local ordinances and regulations and that signs are conspicuously posted marking such authorized smoking areas and that "No Smoking" signs are conspicuously posted elsewhere on the waterfront facility.

(d) Welding or hot work. That oxyacetylene or similar welding or burning, or other hot work including electric welding or the operation of equipment therefor is prohibited on the waterfront facility during the handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, and transporting of dangerous cargo thereon.

(e) Trucks and other motor vehicles. That trucks and other motor vehicles are not permitted to remain or park upon the waterfront facility except for the purpose of awaiting transportation, for the purpose of discharging or loading cargo or passengers, or for the purpose of performing services in connection with the operation of the waterfront facility, or in connection with a vessel moored thereto; that no truck or other motor vehicle is permitted to be left unattended in such a position as may block the access of fire-fighting apparatus; that refueling of trucks or cars is prohibited on any pier or wharf within the waterfront facility.

(f) Pier automotive equipment. That tractors, stackers, lift trucks, hoisters, and other equipment driven by internal combustion engines used on the waterfront facility are of such construction and condition and free from excess grease, oil, or lint as not to constitute a fire hazard; that each unit of such equipment is provided with an approved type hand extinguisher; that, when not in use, such equipment is stored in a safe manner and location; that gasoline or other fuel used for such equipment is stored and handled in accordance with accepted safe practices, and is not stored on the waterfront facility except in conformity with paragraph (h) of this section; and that refueling of such equipment is prohibited on any pier or wharf within the waterfront facility.

(g) Rubbish and waste materials. That the waterfront facility is free from rubbish, debris, and waste materials.

(h) Maintenance stores and supplies. That supplies classified as dangerous by the provisions of the regulations entitled "Explosives or Other Dangerous Articles on Board Vessels" (46 CFR Part 146), to be used in connection with operation or maintenance of the property or facility, are not stored on any pier or wharf within the waterfront facility and are not stored elsewhere on the waterfront facility except in amounts necessary for normal current operating conditions; that such storage is in a compartment remote from combustible material and so constructed as to be readily accessible and provide safe storage; that storage compartments are kept clean and maintained free of scrap materials, empty containers, soil wiping rags, waste, and other debris; that covered metal containers are provided for storage of used wiping cloths and contents removed at the end of each working day; that clothing lockers are maintained clean and orderly and properly ventilated; and that fire-extinguishing equipment suitable for the type of hazard is readily available.

(i) Electric wiring. That new installations of electric wiring and equipment are made in accordance with accepted safe practices (conformity with the requirements of the National Electric Code (current edition) and the requirements of applicable local regulations shall be deemed evidence of compliance with such accepted safe practices); that materials, fittings, and devices are of type and character approved for the intended use by Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., Associated Factory Mutual Laboratories, or United States Bureau of Standards; that existing electric wiring is maintained in a safe condition, free of defects or modifications which may cause fire or personal injury; that defective or dangerous wiring, equipment, and devices are permanently disconnected from sources of energy.

(j) Heating equipment. That heating equipment is safely installed and maintained in good operating condition; that adequate clearances to prevent undue heating of nearby combustible materials are maintained between heating appliances, chimneys, stove pipes, gas vents, or other heat producing elements, and any combustible materials of the floor, walls, partitions or roofs; that, in general, clearances are such that continuous operation of the heat producing device at full capacity will not increase the temperature of nearby woodwork more than 90° above the ambient temperature; that where necessary to prevent contact with movable combustible materials, heating appliances are enclosed or screened; that spark arrestors are provided on chimneys or appliances burning solid fuel used in locations where sparks constitute a hazard to nearby combustible materials. (As a guide to safe installation of heating equipment, the appropriate chapters of the National Board of Fire Underwriters Building Code (current edition) are recommended.)

(k) Fire extinguishing equipment. That fire extinguishing appliances are made available in adequate quantities, locations, and types; that first aid fire appliances are installed and maintained in accordance with accepted safe practices (conformity with the requirements prescribed in the current "Standards for First Aid Fire Appliances," issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, shall be deemed evidence of compliance with such accepted safe practices); that fire extinguishing equipment, fire alarm systems and devices, and fire doors and other safety equipment are maintained in good operating condition at all times; that provision is made so that, when hazards arise which require such precaution, emergency hose lines will be led out and other emergency fire-fighting equipment will be placed immediately adjacent to such hazards.

(l) Marking of fire appliance locations. That the locations of all fire appliances, including hydrants, standpipe and hose stations, fire extinguishers, and fire alarm boxes, are conspicuously marked; and that ready accessibility to such appliances is maintained.

(m) Lighting. That subject to applicable dimout and blackout regulations, such water front facility is adequately illuminated during the handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, and transporting of dangerous cargo thereon; and that kerosene and gasoline lamps and lanterns are not used on such waterfront facility.

(n) Arrangement of cargo. That cargo is arranged on the waterfront facility according to the individual structure of such facility, in a manner to permit complete access for the purpose of fire extinguishment; that cargo is placed on the water front facility in accordance with the following:

(1) At least two feet of clear and open space shall be maintained free of rubbish, dunnage, and other obstructions between cargo piles and the sides of the pier, fire walls or fire stops in enclosed piers. This distance shall be measured from the most prominent projection of the wall such as studding, bracings, or other obstructions that are a part of the structure.

(2) Inflammable and combustible cargo shall not be tiered higher than 12 feet. All cargo including inflammable and combustible cargo shall be so tiered as to maintain a clearance between the upper level of the top tier and trusses, beams, girders, or other structural member of not less than 36", and between such upper level and sprinkler heads a clearance of at least 12" shall be maintained.

(3) There shall be maintained at least four feet of clear and open operating space around any fire alarm box, standpipe, fire hose, sprinkler valve, fire door, deck hatch, or first-aid fire appliance.

(4) When first-aid fire appliances, alarm boxes, other safety equipment, or deck hatches are located in a space surrounded by cargo, there shall be maintained a straight, free, and open space at least three feet in width running therefrom to the center aisle. This space shall be kept clear of all rubbish, dunnage, and other obstruction.

(5) A center aisle of at least twenty feet in width shall be maintained the entire length of the waterfront facility if control of fire requires trucks to come on the pier. The aisle may be reduced to eight feet in width if such access by fire trucks is not required.

(6) Cross aisles, at least five feet wide, straight and at right angles to the center aisle, shall be maintained at intervals not exceeding seventy-five feet, and extending to the side of the waterfront facility.

§ 126.17 Permits required for handling designated dangerous cargo. Designated dangerous cargo in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds may be handled, stored, stowed, loaded, discharged, and transported at any designated waterfront facility only if a permit therefor has been issued by the Captain of the Port.

§ 126.19 Issuance of permits for handling designated dangerous cargo. (a) Upon application of the owners or operators of a designated waterfront facility or of their authorized representatives, the Captain of the Port is authorized to issue a permit for each transaction of handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, or transporting designated dangerous cargo in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds at such waterfront facility: Provided, however, That no such permit shall be issued unless the Captain of the Port is satisfied that the conditions set forth in § 126.15 are, and will continue to be, fulfilled at such designated waterfront facility during the transaction for which the permit is issued.

(b) Each such permit shall show on its face the largest total amount of designated dangerous cargo which at any time during the transaction may be present on the waterfront facility and vessels moored thereto. In determining this amount, the Captain of the Port will be guided by the American Table of Distances and suitable instructions issued by the Commandant.

§ 126.21 Regulations governing permitted transactions. All permits issued pursuant to § 126.19 are hereby conditioned upon the observance and fulfillment of the following regulations:

(a) The conditions set forth in § 126.15 shall at all times be strictly observed.

(b) No amount of designated dangerous cargo in excess of the total amount shown on the face of the permit shall, at any time during the transaction for which the permit is issued, be present on the waterfront facility and vessels moored thereto.

(c) Designated dangerous cargo in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds shall not be brought onto the waterfront facility from shore except when laden within a railroad car or highway vehicle and shall remain in such railroad car or highway vehicle except when removed as an incident of prompt transshipment. Designated dangerous cargo in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds shall not be brought onto the waterfront facility from a vessel except as an incident of its prompt transshipment by railroad car or highway vehicle.

(d) No other dangerous cargo not covered by the permit shall be on the waterfront facility during the transaction for which the permit has been issued, but this shall not apply to maintenance stores and supplies on the waterfront facility in conformity with § 126.15 (h) or to ammunition for arms of guards or military personnel and carried by them.

(e) Handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, and transporting designated dangerous cargo in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds at any waterfront facility shall be undertaken and continued only under the immediate supervision and control of the Captain of the Port or his duly authorized representative, and all directions, instructions, and orders of the Captain of the Port or his representative, not inconsistent with this part, with respect to such handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, and transporting; with respect to the operation of the waterfront facility; with respect to the ingress and egress of persons, articles, and things and to their presence on the waterfront facility; and with respect to vessels approaching, moored at, and departing from the waterfront facility, shall be promptly obeyed.

§ 126.23 Termination or suspension of permits. Any permit issued pursuant to § 126.19 shall terminate automatically at the conclusion of the transaction for which the permit has been issued and may be terminated, or suspended, prior thereto by the Captain of the Port whenever he deems that the security or safety of the port or vessels or waterfront facilities therein so requires. Confirmation of such termination or suspension by the Captain of the Port shall be given to the permittee in writing.

§ 126.25 Automatic suspension of permits. Failure or omission to comply with or observe, at or with regard to any designated waterfront facility, any condition set forth in § 126.15 or any regulation set forth in § 126.21 shall operate to suspend forthwith and automatically any permit issued under § 126.19, and such suspension shall continue so long as the failure or omission continues.

§ 126.27 Penalties for handling designated dangerous cargo without permit. Handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, or transporting any designated dangerous cargo in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds without a permit, as provided under § 126.17, being in force, will subject persons responsible therefor to the penalties of fine and imprisonment provided in section 2, Title II of the act of June 15, 1917, as amended, 50 U. S. C. 192.

§ 126.29 General permit for handling dangerous cargo. A general permit is hereby issued for the handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, and transporting of dangerous cargo (other than designated dangerous cargo in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds) at designated waterfront facilities other than those waterfront facilities in actual use for the handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, or transporting of designated dangerous cargo in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds. Such general permit is hereby conditioned upon the observance and fulfillment of the following regulations:

(a) The conditions set forth in § 126.15 shall at all times be strictly observed.

(b) The following classes of dangerous cargo as classified in the regulations, entitled "Explosives or Other Dangerous Articles on Board Vessels" (46 CFR Part 146), in the amounts specified, shall not be handled, stored, stowed, loaded, discharged, or transported at any one time except after at least twenty-four (24) hours notification to the Captain of the Port:

Explosives, Class B, in excess of 2,000 pounds.
Explosives, Class C, in excess of 10 tons.
Inflammable liquids, in containers, in excess of 10 tons.
Oxidizing materials, in excess of 100 tons.
Inflammable compressed gases, in excess of 10 tons.
Poison, Class A, any amount.

(c) Inflammable liquids and compressed gases shall be so handled and stored as to provide maximum separation between freight consisting of acids, corrosive liquids, or combustible materials. Storage for inflammable solids or oxidizing materials shall be so arranged as to prevent moisture coming in contact therewith.

(d) Acids and corrosive liquids shall be so handled and stored as to prevent such acids and liquids in event of leakage from contacting any organic materials.

(e) Poisonous gases and poisonous liquids shall be so handled and stored as to prevent their contact with acids, corrosive liquids, or inflammable liquids.

(f) Dangerous cargo covered by this section and which may be stored on the waterfront facility shall be arranged in such manner as to retard the spread of fire. This may be accomplished by interspersing piles of dangerous freight with piles of inert or less combustible materials.

(g) The Captain of the Port is authorized to require that any transaction of handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, or transporting dangerous cargo covered by this section shall be undertaken and continued only under the immediate supervision and control of the Captain of the Port or his duly authorized representative. In case the Captain of the Port exercises such authority, all directions, instructions, and orders of the Captain of the Port or his representative, not inconsistent with this part, with respect to such handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, and transporting; with respect to the operation of the waterfront facility; with respect to the ingress and egress of persons, articles, and things and to their presence on the waterfront facility; and with respect to vessels approaching, moored at, and departing from the waterfront facility, shall be promptly obeyed.

§ 126.31 Termination or suspension of general permit. The Captain of the Port is hereby authorized to terminate or to suspend the general permit granted by § 126.29 in respect of any particular designated waterfront facility whenever he deems that the security or safety of the port or vessels or waterfront facilities therein so requires. Confirmation of such termination or suspension shall be given to the permittee in writing. After such termination, the general permit may be revived by the Commandant with respect to such particular waterfront facility upon a finding by him that the cause of termination no longer exists and is unlikely to recur. After such suspension, the general permit shall be revived by the Captain of the Port with respect to such particular waterfront facility when the cause of suspension no longer exists, and he shall so advise the permittee in writing.

§ 126.33 Automatic suspension of general permit. Failure or omission to comply with or observe, at or with regard to any designated waterfront facility, any condition set forth in § 126.15 or any regulation set forth in § 126.29 shall operate to suspend forthwith and automatically the general permit granted by § 126.29 in respect of such waterfront facility, and such suspension shall continue so long as the failure or omission continues.

§ 126.35 Penalties for handling dangerous cargo without permit. Handling, storing, stowing, loading, discharging, or transporting any dangerous cargo covered by § 126.29 under circumstances not covered by the general permit granted in § 126.29 or when such general permit is not in force will subject persons responsible therefor to the penalties of fine and imprisonment provided in section 2, Title II of the act of June 15, 1917, as amended, 50 U. S. C. 192.

§ 126.37 Primary responsibility. Nothing contained in the rules, regulations, conditions, and designations in this part shall be construed as relieving the masters, owners, operators, and agents of vessels, docks, piers, wharves, or other waterfront facilities from their primary responsibility for the security of such vessels, docks, piers, wharves, or waterfront facilities.

§ 126.39 Separability. If any provision of the rules, regulations, conditions, or designations contained in this part or the application of such provision to any person, waterfront facility, or circumstances shall be held invalid, the validity of the remainder of the rules, regulations, conditions, or designations contained in this part and applicability of such provision to other persons, waterfront facilities, or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

Dated: June 12, 1951.

The purpose of the regulations in §§ 723.311 to 723.328 is to provide the procedure for allocating, on an acreage basis, the State acreage allotment for cigar-filler and binder tobacco for the 1952-53 marketing year among farms and for determining normal yields.

§ 723.312 Definitions. As used in §§ 723.311 to 723.328, and in all instructions, forms, and documents in connection therewith the words and phrases defined in this section shall have the meanings herein assigned to them unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires.

(1) Any other adjacent or nearby farm land which the county committee, in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator for Production, Production and Marketing Administration, determines is operated by the same person as part of the same unit with respect to the rotation of crops and with workstock, farm machinery, and labor substantially separate from that for any other lands; and

(2) Any field-rented tract (whether operated by the same or another person) which, together with any other land included in the farm, constitutes a unit with respect to the rotation of crops.

A farm shall be regarded as located in the county in which the principal dwelling is situated, or if there is no dwelling thereon it shall be regarded as located in the county in which the major portion of the farm is located.

(c) "New farm" means a farm on which tobacco will be produced in 1952 for the first time since 1946.

(d) "Old farm" means a farm on which tobacco was produced in one or more of the five years 1947 through 1951.

(e) "Cropland" means farm land which in 1951 was tilled or was in regular crop rotation, excluding (1) bearing orchards and vineyards (except the acreage of cropland therein), (2) plowable noncrop open pasture, and (3) any land which constitutes or will constitute, if tillage is continued, a wind erosion hazard to the community.

(f) "Operator" means the person who is in charge of the supervision and conduct of the farming operations on the entire farm.

The applicability of §§ 723.311 to 723.328 is contingent upon the proclamation of a national marketing quota for tobacco by the Secretary of Agriculture and the approval thereof by growers voting in a referendum pursuant to Section 312 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended.

ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AND NORMAL YIELDS FOR OLD FARMS

§ 723.316 Determination of 1952 preliminary acreage allotments for old farms. The preliminary acreage allotment for an old farm shall be the 1951 allotment with the following exceptions:

(a) If the acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in each of the three years 1949–51 was less than 75 percent of the 1951 farm acreage allotment, the preliminary allotment shall be the larger of (1) the largest acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in any one of such three years, or (2) the average acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in the five years 1947–51: Provided, That any such preliminary allotment shall not exceed the 1951 allotment for such farm or be less than 0.1 acre: And provided further, That the preliminary allotment may be increased to as much as the 1951 allotment if the county committee determines that failure to harvest as much as 75 percent of the 1951 allotted acreage during any one of the three years 1949–51 was due to service in the armed forces on the part of labor regularly engaged in producing tobacco on the farm prior to entry into the armed forces.

(b) If no 1951 allotment was established for the farm, the preliminary allotment shall be the average acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in the five years 1947–51: Provided, That such preliminary allotment shall not be less than 0.1 acre.

(c) If the acreage of tobacco harvested on the farm in 1951 exceeded the 1951 allotment by more than 10 percent, the preliminary allotment shall be the 1951 allotment plus one-fifth of the excess acreage.

(d) The preliminary allotments determined under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section shall not exceed the acreage capacity of shed space which is in usable condition and available for curing tobacco produced on the farm: Provided, That no preliminary allotment shall be reduced below the 1951 allotment or 0.1 acre because of this factor.

§ 723.317 1952 old farm tobacco acreage allotment. The preliminary allotments calculated for all old farms in the State pursuant to § 723.316 shall be adjusted uniformly so that the total of such allotments plus the acreage available for adjusting acreage allotments for old farms pursuant to § 723.318 shall not exceed the State acreage allotment.

§ 723.318 Adjustment of acreage allotments for old farms. The farm acreage allotment for an old farm may be increased, within the limit in paragraph (d) of § 723.316, such limit to be applied to the sum of the preliminary allotment and the increase under this section, if the community committee, with the approval of the county committee, finds that the preliminary acreage allotment is relatively small on the basis of the land, labor, and equipment available for the production of tobacco; crop-rotation practices; and other cash crops produced on the farm, or that reduction of such allotment under paragraph (a) of § 723.316 was the result of abnormal weather conditions or plant bed diseases: Provided, however, That any allotment may be increased above the limit stated in paragraph (d) of § 723.316 if the community committee and the county committee find that the preliminary allotment is relatively smaller in relation to the land, labor, and equipment available for the production of tobacco on the farm than the preliminary allotments for other old farms in the community which are similar with respect to such factors. The acreage available for increasing allotments under this section shall not exceed two percent of the total acreage allotted to all tobacco farms in the State for the 1951–52 marketing year.

§ 723.319 Reduction of acreage allotment for violation of the marketing quota regulations for a prior marketing year. (a) If tobacco was marketed or was permitted to be marketed in the 1951–52 marketing year as having been produced on the acreage allotment for any farm which in fact was produced on a different farm, the acreage allotments established for both such farms for 1952 shall be reduced, except that such reduction for any such farm shall not be made if the county committee determines that no person connected with such farm caused, aided, or acquiesced in such marketing.

(b) The operator of the farm shall furnish complete and accurate proof of the disposition of all tobacco produced on the farm at such time and in such manner as will insure payment of the penalty due and in the event of refusal or failure for any reason to furnish such proof, the acreage allotment for the farm shall be reduced, except that if the farm operator establishes to the satisfaction of the county and State committees that failure to furnish such proof of disposition was unintentional on his part and that he could not reasonably have been expected to furnish accurate proof of disposition, reduction of the allotment will not be required if the failure to furnish proof of disposition is corrected and payment of all additional penalty is made.

(c) Any reduction shall be made with respect to the 1952 farm acreage allotment, provided it can be made prior to the delivery of the marketing card to the farm operator. If the reduction cannot be so made effective with respect to the 1952 crop, such reduction shall be made with respect to the farm acreage allotment next established for the farm.
